WHATEVER HAPPENDED to 1967? Everyone must find their own answer to that popular question. A review of Courier files for 1967 does, however, tell us what happened in the Charlevoix-East Jordan-Ellsworth area during the past year.

The year started on a sad note for Charlevoix, with the death of Harley Ochs, 73, a druggist here for more than 50 years. During the same week Dow-Corning Co. denied rumors that it has any plans for a plant in the Charlevoix area.

Dr. J. VanDellen of East Jordan left for a two-month trip to Africa to serve as a missionary doctor. Charlevoix City Council was in a squabble with builders over a proposed plumbing code. The second week in January the State Savings Bank announced plans for a drive-in branch at the corner of Clinton and State streets. Versal Seymour, longtime Charlevoix County employee, died.

The Charlevoix school board took options on property on the north side of town for a proposed new elementary school. Ellsworth school board announced it will ask voters to approve renewal of its 17 mill operating levy. A Michigan State University pollution expert revealed Lake Charlevoix is dying a rapid and ugly death due to nutrients being released into the lake from city sewage plants and other sources.

Dr. Robert Martin of Charlevoix was named County Medical Examiner, replacing the former coroner system. The East Jordan Chamber of Commerce adopted a new membership fee schedule. Mrs. Maurice (Dorothy) Dixon was named a director of the Charlevoix State Savings Bank.

FEBRUARY

Charlevoix High School students again came back from band competitions with high honors. Ellsworth voters rejected a proposal to renew the school district's 17 mill tax levy. Washington announced that sewage tanks will be built into the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew, eliminating the tons of raw sewage the ship dumps into Round Lake (The tanks were to be in by September, as of the first of 1968 they have not been installed).

Mrs. George Gladus, 80, former proprietor of the Sugar Bowl restaurant, died. Charlevoix Episcopal Church Vicar Rev. Alexander Wood announced he would move to Bad Axe. Blind Ellsworth civic leader Roy Staudenmeyer announced he had accepted a job at the Louis State Home. Mrs. Marie Webb won nomination as First Ward councilwoman, beating her three opponents—Thomas Hanna, James Richey and Claire Martin.

Ellsworth school district asked Charlevoix to approve annexation of Ellsworth. Dorothy Olmstead was hired as Charlevoix's new librarian. A 17-year-old girl was killed and two other persons were wounded including Frank Smith, in a shooting spree at Smith's motel on May St; a juvenile was held.

MARCH

Charlevoix started taking bids on new 1,000 watt street lights for the downtown area, touching off an angry protest from citizens. Rev. Albert F. Hansen was installed as pastor of Charlevoix's Community Reformed Church. Shook's Brothers grocery store bought out Small-

Only 2 election contests

CHARLEVOIX -- There will be only two contests on the city primary election ballot Feb. 19. The only incumbents being challenged is Third Ward Councilman Jerry Whitley and Second Ward Supervisor Harold Totten.

Mrs. Jean Vogler filed a petition to oppose Whitley before today's deadline for nominating petitions. Ken Staley, a former councilman, filed to oppose Totten.

ley's IGA in Ellsworth.

Linda Boss was named valedictorian and Carol Annis salutatorian of the 1967 Charlevoix High School graduating class. East Jordan's citizens school study committee was pondering the critical shortage of classrooms. Dr. A.F. Litzberger of Boyne City, District Health Dept. director, died. Rev. Hewitt V. Johnston was named Vicar of Charlevoix's Episcopal Church.

APRIL

East Jordan City voters turned down a proposed income tax 365 votes to 99. Charlevoix Mayor Bill Fochtman was re-elected. East Jordan Mayor Betty Robertson was re-elected and Howard Hosler defeated Lyle Peters while Guy Vallance beat Howard Slanek in East Jordan City Council contests. East Jordan and Charlevoix industrial arts students won numerous awards in regional competition. East Jordan's school study committee recommended that the school district merge with Charlevoix or Boyne City.

County Supervisors adopted a sanitary code, hopefully to stave off pollution from septic tanks. Charlevoix's City Council bluntly refused to consider petitions signed by several hundred residents protesting installed new lights on Bridge St.

MAY

Ellsworth school district defeated the proposed annexation to Charlevoix by 13 votes. Nelson Spoelman resigned as Ellsworth School Superintendent. Susan Petter was named valedictorian and Richard Rata salutatorian of the 1967 Ellsworth graduating class. The East Jordan school board asked voters to approve a two mill tax increase.

Robert Prebble and Verne Reid filed petitions for the vacancy on the East Jordan school board. Medusa vice president Worth Loomis announced the company's South Point plant will not be able to comply with air pollution regulations.

JUNE

East Jordan voters overwhelmingly approved a 14-mill school operation levy and elected Robert Prebble to the school board. Ellsworth voters rejected a requested 17-mill levy and elected Maurice Taylor, Walter Chellis and Richard Wiesland to the school board. Charlevoix voters rejected the school board's request for a massive tax hike and elected James Lewis to the school board. The Bridge and Hawley agency and Carey agency Insurance firms merged. Irv Drost sold his downtown cocktail lounge to Edward Corradi and Bill Mack.

JULY

An estimated 5,000 persons were on hand for East Jordan's first Annual Lake Charlevoix Outboard Marathon races. Charlevoix's new public library opened. Glenn Kenney was elected president of the Charlevoix school board. Charlevoix City Council received bids of $65,000 for construction of the new waterfront restroom building—$15,000 over estimates.

Thousands of persons flocked to Charlevoix for the annual Venetian Festival.

MAYOR BILL FOCHTMAN and all other incumbents have no opponents.

Unopposed are First Ward Councilman Jack Moll, Second Ward Councilman Nathan Boss, First Ward Supervisor Kit Carson, Second Ward Supervisor Harold Totten, Third Ward Supervisor Lee Moerland, City Clerk Hugh Mayne and City Treasurer Anne Cunningham.

Ironton bridge request pushed

Proposals to construct a bridge at Ironton are expected to dominate business at the Charlevoix County Farm Bureau's January board meeting.

At last month's meeting, the county Farm Bureau board, representing each of the 12 local Farm Bureau groups in the county, agreed to discuss the bridge plan with members and return this month to act on a resolution asking construction of the bridge.

THE STAR COMMUNITY Farm Bureau initiated the bridge request in resolution to county schools and the Road Commission. The Star Community group is made up of families on the east side of the South Arm from Ironton to Advance.

Mrs. Orval Bennett, secretary of the Star Community group, said its members feel the only major deterrent to construction of a more economical, consolidated, county high school with a much expanded curriculum is the lack of a bridge at Ironton.

The Ironton Ferry, she said, members feel, also creates a handicap for persons who work in Charlevoix and do business there. "The day is going to come," she added, "when the ferry will no longer run."

The ferry quit operating for the winter last Wednesday, Dec. 27.

The Star Community group's resolution to the school board at Charlevoix, East Jordan, Boyne City and Boyne Falls, the Road Commission and County Farm Bureau board proposes construction of both the bridge and a high school on the south shore of Lake Charlevoix between Ironton and Advance to serve the entire county.

THE ROAD COMMISSION meets Monday, Jan. 8. Road Commission Chairman Ivan Phillips has proposed construction of a bridge at Ironton. Road Commission Supt. Jack Fitzgerald has made a "rough guess" that a bridge can be constructed for around $250,000.

Mrs. Bennett said the Star Community group's members do not feel they have the needed answers on the bridge, but hope their resolution will result in facts being developed.

The resolution was prompted by the Feb. 19 vote on consolidation of the Charlevoix and East Jordan schools. Persons living near Ironton on the east side of the South Arm will be forced to transfer from East Jordan to Boyne City school district if the merger is approved.

Bank offers 3.5% auto loans

CHARLEVOIX -- The Charlevoix State Savings Bank is offering the lowest interest rate for auto loans available in Michigan, President Archie Livingston revealed this week.

Interest rates as low as 3.5% on new car loans are now available at the bank, Livingston said. The new rates are far below those offered anywhere else in Michigan. Banks throughout the state are reported watching the State Savings Bank to see how its new policy works out.

THE LOW-INTEREST rate policy has already been termed "a major breakthrough" which may establish a new trend in lower auto rate loans around the state.

The bank's interest rates on auto loans will be determined by the borrower's credit reliability, amount of downpayment and account status, Livingston explained.

According to the new plan customers will pay as little as $3.50 per hundred dollars per year interest for their auto loans. Those not qualifying for the lowest rate may still fall into other brackets which will be considerably lower than the prevailing rates. The rates grade upward from $3.50 to $4, $4.50 and $5. Each case is judged individually and every effort will be made to classify each account at the lowest rate.

The automobile, Livingston said, has become a major factor in today's economy and an absolute necessity for the average family. "To serve effectively, we feel we must make it as easy as possible to own this necessary commodity. People's needs are changing all the time. To meet these needs, so must the services a bank provides," he said.

Council balks on new beer license

CHARLEVOIX--City Council last week reluctantly referred an application for a north side beer store license to committee.

The application is from Don E. Wagner, who reportedly wants to open a store at 549 1/2 Petoskey Ave. (location of the former Gulf gas station and log building near the Woodshed bar).

THE APPLICATION was received from the Michigan Liquor Control Commission, which asked the council to act on it, favorably or unfavorably. Wagner is requesting permission to live on the same premises as the store.

Mayor Bill Fochtman said the city now has five grocery stores and three bars that sell carry-out beer and wine.

"There is some question," Fochtman said, "whether it is reasonable or desirable to have another one."

"I think we have enough of them now," second ward councilman Nate Boss said.

Fochtman said he felt the council should thoroughly investigate the application, as it knows nothing about Wagner or his plans. The application was referred to committee.

THE COUNCIL also renewed Oscar Ward's taxi cab license for another year.

Hilda Gibson and Arlene Davis were appointed to the Board of Election Canvassers. Also on the board are Tom LaBlance and Joan Grubbs.

A letter was received from Hoskins Mfg., complaining about the alleged unavailability of the city's electrical service, due to an electrical outage in October which reportedly cost the firm considerable.

The company warned in its letter that such outages make it reluctant to again enlarge its plant here.

Congressman Phil Ruppe (R-Houghton) opens his 1968 election year campaigning in Charlevoix and East Jordan Monday, Jan. 8.

Ruppe, according to Charlevoix County GOP chairman Oscar Stroud of Charlevoix, will spend the entire day in Charlevoix and East Jordan making as many voter contacts as possible.

THE FIRST-TERM congressman's visit to this area will be his first political activity of the new year, Stroud said. Ruppe will seek re-election this year. Though there is considerable speculation, it is unknown who his opponent will be, with a Democratic primary contest likely.

During his one-day visit here, Ruppe will hold two open-to-the-public sessions, one in East Jordan and one in Charlevoix. Anyone with a federal government problem or interest in federal legislation or issues is invited to visit privately with the congressman during these sessions, Stroud said.

The first public office hours session will be from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. in the Charlevoix County Building. The second will be from 4 to 6 p.m. in the East Jordan City Hall. Coffee will reportedly be served.

Ruppe's campaign day is tentatively scheduled to begin with a visit to a Charlevoix High School government class before his 9:30 session in the county building.

At Noon he is scheduled to join the Charlevoix Lions Club for lunch at the Weatherlane Inn. From 1:30 to 2:30 he will tour Medusa and from 2:30 to 3:30 he will address the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors. At 6:30 p.m. he is expected to join the Kiwanis Club at its regular weekly meeting.

No decision reached on future of Bay Shore Air Force Site

BAY SHORE--Top echelon Air Force brass continues to report no decision has been reached on rebuilding the bomb scoring unit here, which was destroyed by fire last Tuesday.

Speculation from officers at the Bay Shore unit and Wurtsmith AFB is that a decision won't be reached by higher ups for at least two or three weeks, and maybe several months. At the same time, however, airmen and others close to the unit's mission feel the Air Force is extremely satisfied with the unit's location, operation and community relations and will probably decide to rebuild it.

OFFICIAL COMMENT on the unit's future is impossible to pin down.

Maj. John Zuidema, Bay Shore commander, refers newsmen to the information office at Wurtsmith AFB, Oscoda. The Wurtsmith office tells newsmen it must call Barksdale AFB at Shreveport, La. for official information.

Barksdale then reports that the decision will be made at Strategic Air Command (SAC) headquarters in Omaha, Neb. and that nothing has been decided.

Charlevoix business and civic leaders took steps following the fire to let Air Force officials know they would like to see the unit rebuilt. Chamber of Commerce manager Wally Loder fired off a telegram to Barksdale. Mayor Bill Fochtman took similar action.

The bomb scoring unit is manned by 115 men, most of whom live in Charlevoix. The unit reportedly pumps about $500,000 a year into the Charlevoix area economy from payroll and unit support expenditures.

SCHOOL SUPT. REX Milligan reports the school district receives $6,000 in federal aid due to the 47 Air Force children in classes here. He considers the $6,000 a "bonus."

The unit was moved here from Ironwood, Mich. in 1963. Bay Shore was to be its temporary location. However, due to community relations and, evidently, the success of its mission, it was later made semi-permanent.

Nearly all of the unit was made up of portable trucks and a substantial complex of electronic equipment. All of this was destroyed.

There were no living quarters at the base. Walkways had been built to tie the portable vans together. Only one permanent building, a cement block power house, was located on the site. It was not destroyed and is now being used as an office.

An inspection team from SAC headquarters in Omaha reportedly visited the site late last week. Base fire inspection crews from Wurtsmith were also at Bay Shore in an effort to determine the cause of the fire, which, if discovered, was not revealed.

THE BLAZE STARTED in mid-afternoon Tuesday, Dec. 26, and raged for five hours. Fire equipment and 75 men from Charlevoix, Resort-Bear Creek, Petoskey and East Jordan turned out. No one was injured.

A report from firemen of a "trailer full of ammunition" nearly catching fire was later denied by Air Force officials, who said there was only a small, routine, amount of small arms ammo on the site.

Maj. Zuidema said the 115 men assigned to his unit will continue with their normal temporary duty missions to other bases.

County stamps replace federal property stamps

Charlevoix County instead of the federal government started accepting this week stamp taxes required to transfer real estate, Grover Genett, county register of deeds, reports.

According to Genett, persons transferring real estate will now buy County Documentary Stamps from his office, instead of the U.S. Revenue Stamps previously required. All revenue from the new stamps will be placed in the county general fund, instead of the federal treasury.

The new stamps sell for the same price as the old ones: 55-cents for each $500 of the consideration of the transaction. If the property is sold for less than $100 no stamp is needed.

"There are certain exemptions to this act, such as instruments to correct errors and certain instruments creating joint life, Genett said. If no money is changing hands, he explained, an affidavit of exemption or affidavit of valuation must be attached and recorded.

"Therefore," he added, "it is urged that all instruments of transfer show the actual consideration of the transfer in order to eliminate the need for affidavits."

Genett said his office also has information on the new state "Subdivision Control Act" (P.L. Act).

WE MUST SEEK THE TRUTH

"Constantly in search of the TRUTH the scientist takes nothing for granted. Each 'hypothesis', each theory, is tested and tried and accepted or discarded on the condition that it proves true or false. The true scientist never jumps to conclusions, consequently you will never hear him proclaiming the self-sufficiency of man—that man needs no spiritual power.

The Church is also a center for the search and dissemination of truth in things other than the material, the things one cannot discern by the physical senses. If each of us would be free we must know the truth and if each of us is active in the work of the church that fits our needs "We Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make Us Free."

It pleases me to call to your attention that finally snowmobile rentals are available here. Pete J. Wintels, on Burgess Road, slightly south on US-31 about 7 miles from Charlevoix, has what is called Snowmobile-Hills. Day or night riding, speed track, trails or otherwise. New snowmobiles at $5 per hour rental. And if you chose to use your own machine, there is a fee of $2 per day. Something for lodging places to be interested in for their guests as well as you folks with weekend house guests. Yes, persons like you and me can go out for a new trail in our beautiful wide open spaces.

In addition, Pete has another interesting item for winter sports people and that is a new ice skating pond approximately 80 feet wide by 150 feet long, day or night. It is illuminated for night use. I am told that there is a warming shed on the premises. Pete's phone number is 547-3108.

INTERESTING: US Department of Commerce indicates that the latest figures released by the Census Bureau, the state of Michigan, as of July 1, has a total resident population of 6,584,000 which represents an increase of 780,000 since 1960 National Census. Total resident population July 1, 1967 for comparison: Ohio, 10,456,000; Indiana, 5,000,000; Illinois, 10,830,000; Wisconsin, 4,180,000; and Detroit remains fifth.

It's refinery-blended in exact proportions for snowmobiles, chain saws, snow blowers and all other two-cycle engines.

Use PowerMix, the modern two-cycle fuel specially blended for snowmobiles, chain saws, snow blowers, and all two-cycle engines. One simple fill-up does it. No messy hand mixing of gas and oil. No chance for destructive impurities to enter the fuel while you're mixing it. And the proportions are always just right. PowerMix is a combination of the finest non-leaded gasoline and detergent oil. Gives faster starts. Better mileage. Keeps your engine cleaner. And wait 'til you see how long plugs last! of the coho salmon in Michigan.

The purpose of the celebration is to recognize one of the outstanding developments in the history of conservation as well as to publicize the new attraction in Michigan. The tremendous economic impact of this new tourist and sports attraction has been demonstrated in a very short period of time.

You folks should be realizing the potential for the future development is unlimited. A number of the nation's leading conservationists, fishery officials, state legislators, congressmen, and the governors of Alaska, Washington, the Great Lakes States, and Ontario being invited and there is indication of their attendance. One feature of this gathering will be the premiere of a documentary film about the coho salmon now being produced by the Michigan Conservation Department. At this meeting there will be announced the 1968 coho planting schedule. Advance reservations are necessary. The tickets are $7.50 each. Call at your Chamber office for further detail and arrangements.

IT WAS MOST unfortunate for the loss and interruption caused by fire, December 27 at the Air Force Control Center for certain maneuvers at Bay Shore. It is called to your attention that the installation of this important facility has added much to Charlevoix's economy and there would be loss to our community if the Air Force authorities do not rebuild here.

Speaking of fish, the writer understands that per schedule of Conservation Department we will get a plant of rainbow trout in Lake Charlevoix area in the spring of 1968. I am endeavoring to find out exactly. If in 1968 will we actually get, as formerly indicated, a plant of coho little fishes also.

Reviewing 1967's news events in East Jordan, Charlevoix, Ellsworth Janet Pease was Vanellan Queen. East Jordan City Council passed a "tough" building code to control the quality of future home construction.

AUGUST

Charlevoix Federal Fish Hatchery was turned over to the state and designated headquarters for the Conservation Dept's new Great Lakes fisheries management program. Rev. James Larson, succeeded Rev. Warren Salverson as pastor of the East Jordan Lutheran Church.

SEPTEMBER

Schools reopened, with all districts reporting excellent progress. Charlevoix's school board and teachers reached salary settlement. Melissa Portland-Cosmelli Co. promised to eliminate lead in its plant. Fishermen started catching steelhead trout that exceeded the pound limit. Charlevoix's Central Lake volunteer fireman James Davis was killed by a power line while fighting a fire.

Charlevoix Hospital's board of directors revealed it desperately needs two more doctors to meet community needs and make the hospital financially successful.

Gov. George Romney took a break from his Presidential junking trip to help out the state's fishing industry. Conservation Dept. plans to virtually wipe out commercial fishermen's support from the north end of Charlevoix.

A NEW RESIDENTIAL SUBDIVISION for East Jordan became a reality with City Council approval of water and sewer for the area on the north end of town. Plans were announced for publication of a second Charlevoix paper, called the "Charlevoix Beacon."

OCTOBER

Joseph V. Hess Sr., Charlevoix businessman, died. East Jordan's school board approved a $123,000 budget increase. Kip Sanberg was named Third Ward Councilman in Charlevoix, replacing Bob Terrell, who resigned. Charlevoix school board revealed plans for a $2 million building bond issue vote.

Dissident Ellsworth citizens asked

NOVEMBER

Gregg Shadoe retired after 43 years with the State, the last 30 in Charlevoix. The first snow of the 1967-68 winter

DECEMBER

Charlevoix and East Jordan school boards set Feb. 19 for a vote on merging the two school districts. Charlevoix was left without a high school athletic league to the first weekend in November. Charlevoix's Community Chest drove over more than $1,000 over its $4,000 goal. East Jordan reappointed its city wards so that all three have equal numbers of citizens. Circuit Judge Charles Brown ordered Antrim County to levy the 12-mill Ellsworth school operating tax.

Commercial fishermen got a reprieve when the Conservation Dept. agreed not to outlaw gill nets in favor of a new controlled fishing plan. The Charlevoix County State Bank increased its capital stock and surplus by $50,000.

It was a White Christmas in the area, with snow replacing rain only days before Santa made his annual visit. Tony Atkinson was elected president of the new Charlevoix Snowmobile Club. David Juller, Ronald Buckner, Robert Hamilton and Larry Edwards won first places in Charlevoix's annual Yule lighting contest.

All of us must feel indebted to the families who go to this trouble and expense to provide enjoyment for so many of us. The city, too, must be commended for its traditional encouragement of outside Yule lighting through the sponsorship of the contest.

EACH YEAR, THOUGH, rightly or wrongly the judges seem to feel there used to be a little more effort made to give Charlevoix this charming atmosphere. We have noticed that on streets where two or three neighbors are keenly determined to put on a good outdoor lighting display nearly all others follow.

So, the question is, why not do something to make this spirit even more widespread? Wouldn't it be something if nearly every house in town had outside lights? Not, necessarily, an elaborate or unique display. Just a couple strings of outside lights?

We don't aspire to this for any commercial interest. The value of such an objective, it seems to us, is completely in the warmth and happiness it would bring to all of us.

Before Christmas, maybe the Boy Scouts, or some other youth group, would like to make a project of stringing the lights for elderly and handicapped people.

Wouldn't it be wonderful to see Charlevoix's streets during a snowy evening and find virtually every house with outside lights? We can't imagine what the City Council could accomplish that would create more lasting goodwill.

Second, we should realize no one on the school board has experience or training as hard-bolted, fast-thinking labor negotiators. This, certainly, is no condemnation. We did not elect them to act as union experts. Furthermore, it should be remembered teachers are well versed in the tactics of contract negotiation through their parent union (in Charlevoix's case the Michigan Education Association).

ALL OF THIS SEEMS, unfortunately for parents and children. But perhaps when we better understand the new perspective of education we will learn how to adjust our values.

Both positions, it seems to us, are hastily drawn.

First, to understand the teachers, we must realize they have chosen to identify themselves in the same category as union tradesmen, feeling that they prosper more if recognized in this category than they did

The Courier's position has not changed. Like a journeyman carpenter or electrician, we want teachers to give us tangible proof they deserve their union card.

Ideally these new facilities and services will be provided by private business. There is no reason private money cannot provide the facilities better than our city. Through our Chamber of Commerce we should do everything possible to encourage private enterprise to begin preparing now to take advantage of the opportunity we see budding.

Our Chambers should be meeting this winter. Committees should be appointed which include representatives from the marinas, small boaters, boat safety experts, retail businessmen, experienced fishermen and others who have a stake or special knowledge in this new opportunity.

Arca businessmen and sportsmen have a job to do. Boat launching facilities, docks and various services for fishermen and small boaters are going to be needed if the fishermen are going to do their angling here. Other communities are also going to have the fish and many of them are already launching aggressive programs to develop facilities to satisfy the fishermen.

FIRE COMPLETELY destroyed this Road Commission truck and brush cutter, worth $30,000 when purchased in 1962. The truck and cutter were clearing brush to give drivers better vision in the Norwood area when a gas line broke, setting off the fire. Charlevoix sent a fire truck, but the vehicle was a complete loss before firemen could get it out. No one was hurt.

COMMITTEES BEGIN WORK ON SCHOOL MERGER PLAN

Committees studying various aspects of the proposed Charlevoix-East Jordan school merger are expected to get down to serious work this week.

The school board - appointed committees have a tentative deadline of Jan. 15 to complete reports. This deadline is to give the boards time to get the information out to voters well in advance of the Feb. 19 vote on the merger.

FOUR MAJOR COMMITTEES have been appointed, each having members from each school district. Areas the committees will study are transportation, building, curriculum and finance.

Their jobs is to come up with answers to the various questions concerning costs and advantages of merging the two districts.

The curriculum committee reportedly has already been contracting other school districts which have merged in recent years to determine the problems and advantages of consolidation.

Members of the transportation committee are: From East Jordan, Alvin Walton, Bill Porter and Bill Bennett; from Charlevoix, Burr Blanchard and Martin Elzinga.

Finance committee members from East Jordan are Bob Prebble and Greg Bevelly; from Charlevoix, Bill Porter and Bill Bennett.

State agrees will not destroy island 'wilderness'

CHARLEVOIX—The Conservation Dept. has committed itself to preserve High Island, in the Beaver Island group, "in an essentially wild state."

The department's design not to allow logging, road building or other development on High Island was given to Sen. Tom Schweigert, D-Charlevoix, following a plea by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce to preserve the island.

FOLLOWING THE Courier's prodding to obtain some guarantee that High Island will not be manipulated or disturbed to create a groomed recreation area, Roger Carlisle of Beaver Island and the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce joined the campaign.

Sen. Schweigert, a professional forester, took the proposal to the Conservation Dept. Schweigert was the principal sponsor of a bill which designated the islands in the Beaver Island group as experimental game management areas.

The Department outlined its plans for High Island in a three page letter. Though the letter is not binding, Sen. Schweigert said he is satisfied with the department's commitment.

"I am pleased to note," Schweigert wrote, "that the long-range plans of the Department of Conservation for management of High Island emphasized a strong desire to maintain it essentially as it is now. It appears to me that the Department will provide the continuing maintenance of High Island in an essentially wild condition, in a manner not inconsistent with our mutual aims and desires."

HIGH ISLAND is about four miles directly west of the west shore of Beaver Island. It's name accurately points out that land is generally higher above water than that on the other smaller islands in the group.

The three of these islands west from Beaver Island maintained an agricultural community on High Island until the Depression. While efforts have been made since to use it for livestock grazing, the State now owns all of the island, which is approximately 4 miles long and 1/2 mile wide.

"Following is a summary of the conservation plan for High Island, as it is currently being developed for future management."

"It is recommended that it is a priority to maintain the island in a state of wilderness, and that it should be managed as such."

"The island will remain a deer-free environment (no deer and no deer hunting) and as such will be an essential control area to compare with Garden, where deer are encouraged and habitat development techniques are being tested. High Island will remain essentially as it is now: remote, unimproved, undeveloped, wild, and natural. And it was never too soon. The last office business of the new development company on Beaver Island, and the high prices just recently paid in the sale of the last remaining private tracts on Garden and High Island leave little doubt as to what would be happening on High Island right now if we hadn't gotten in there when we did."

"As for our intentions toward the island, they are most honorable. Nothing that we have done there, or that we would conceivably have any plans to do, will alter the existing wild, undeveloped aspect of the place. There will be no logging operation, or road building, or other ground construction. There will be no introduction of deer or other destructive herbivores. (There's an outside chance that deer could get there under their own power; but they haven't made it yet.) We foresee no improvement of access, i.e., construction of permanent dock or breakwater, and we hereby will not be relinquishing ownership of any piece of the land."

"In brief, our plans for present and future research on this island consist of:

CONRAD KLOOSTER of Charlevoix, President of Conrad Klooster, Inc. of Alwood and Charlevoix, has been elected to the Board of Directors of the Michigan Farm & Power Equipment Association. The association is an organization of the farm and industrial equipment dealers of the State who contribute $178 million to the Michigan economy.

According to City Clerk Ben Bustard, Mrs. Robertson told city officials she will not be a candidate for reelection and may be leaving the community sometime in the near future.

THIRD WARD COUNCILMAN Gerald Olson has taken out a nominating petition to run for mayor in the Feb. 19 primary. Olson's petition has not yet been filed. All petitions for the primary election must be filed no later than Jan. 19.

Third Ward Councilman Harry Watson has filed a nominating petition to seek reelection, as has Third Ward Supervisor Barney Miltstein. Andrew Shively has filed to oppose Miltstein in the Feb. 19 primary.

Councilmen whose terms expire this spring but who have not taken out nominating petitions are First Ward Councilman William Morrison and Second Ward Councilman Darwin Morris. First Ward Supervisor Bill Taylor has not taken out a petition.

Any eligible city voter can run for office. Nominating petitions are available at Bustard's office in City Hall. They must be returned to him by Jan. 19.

THE OVERHAUL and installation of the computer should make the plant production equipment and air pollution control mechanism, which has been in operation only five months, more efficient, Krebs said.

Because the 85 employees at the plant have not been on the job long enough to collect full unemployment compensation, Krebs said, he is hoping they will not have to be laid off. Instead, he plans to use them on the overhaul work, which might normally be contracted to outside firms.

The South Point plant, he explained, is not constructed to operate through the winter. He hopes by next year it will be.

Krebs said Medusa Portland Cement Co. is considering doubling the storage silos available for finished cement on South Point and has decided to build outside storage facilities for clinker. The plant's huge silos are now nearly full.

THE COMPANY'S SHIP, the Challenger, is laid up for the winter in Milwaukee. Even if the ship were able to operate or cement were shipped by rail in the winter, Krebs said, it would have to be stored somewhere else because there is no winter market for cement in the Great Lakes area served by Medusa.

The plant's present silos, beside the Challenger's loading dock, will hold up to 250,000 barrels of cement. By doubling this capacity, Krebs expects the plant can operate year-round and be ready for massive shipments when the shipping season opens each spring.

The plant has not yet operated at full capacity due to mechanical problems at getting all equipment working at peak efficiency, Clem Wager, office manager said.

Krebs, 64, came to Charlevoix to replace Jim Daley, who was named manager when the $25 million plant opened in August. Daley returned to Manitowish to supervise the company's plant there.

Krebs has been with Medusa 50 years. Before coming to Charlevoix he was director of purchasing for the company out of its Cleveland headquarters. Before that he was manager of Medusa's plant in York, Pa. He and his wife are looking for a home here, Krebs said. He is still living in Cleveland.

ELLSWORTH -- Eight-man football teams may disappear in northern Lower Michigan, meaning Ellsworth High School will no longer field a gridiron team, school officials here revealed this week.

A tentative decision by Central Lake and Bellevue to go to 11-man football "could be the beginning of the end" for Ellsworth, one school official admitted.

FORMATION of a new 11-man football league made up of inland Lake Superior schools has already taken steps to begin the 80-year-old football field to a full-sized 100-yard field.

The switch by other schools to 11-man football should not put Ellsworth out of basketball competition as all teams play with five players. However, formation of the new league could result in collapsing the Northern Lakes Conference. Ellsworth now plays in the league in basketball, being unbeaten.

Ellsworth has consistently been the power in its football league, winning the loop title this year with no defeats. Ellsworth now leads the league in basketball, being unbeaten.

ELLSWORTH, BLISS said, cannot possibly go to 11-man football because only 16 boys turned out for football last year. To play 11-man, he said, at least 25 potential players are required.

Central Lake Supv. Scott Bothwell said his school is going to 11-man football because it has between 40 and 50 boys coming out for the team. By playing 11-man ball, he explained, more boys will get to play and a junior varsity team may even be organized.

Central Lake Supv. Scott Bothwell said his school is going to 11-man football because it has between 40 and 50 boys coming out for the team. By playing 11-man ball, he explained, more boys will get to play and a junior varsity team may even be organized.

Central Lake has already taken steps to begin the 80-year-old football field to a full-sized 100-yard field.

The switch by other schools to 11-man football should not put Ellsworth out of basketball competition as all teams play with five players. However, formation of the new league could result in collapsing the Northern Lakes Conference. Ellsworth now plays in the league in basketball, being unbeaten.

Ellsworth has consistently been the power in its football league, winning the loop title this year with no defeats. Ellsworth now leads the league in basketball, being unbeaten.

ELLSWORTH, BLISS said, cannot possibly go to 11-man football because only 16 boys turned out for football last year. To play 11-man, he said, at least 25 potential players are required.

WE MUST SEEK THE TRUTH

Constantly in search of the TRUTH the scientist takes nothing for granted. Each "hearsay", each theory, is tested and tried and accepted or discarded on the condition that it proves true or false. The true scientist never jumps to conclusions, consequently you will never hear him proclaiming the self-sufficiency of man—that man needs no spiritual power.

The Church is also a center for the search and dissemination of truth in things other than the material, the things one cannot discern by the physical senses. If each of us would be free we must know the truth and if each of us is active in the work of the church that fits our needs "We Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make Us Free."

The three former Northern Michigan Class C Conference schools agreed to join the six larger schools after they were forced out of the NMCC by its five smaller members.

Coach Don Carey and Principal Ray Carr told the board there are many things they don't like about the new league, but there is no other choice if Charlevoix wants to continue playing varsity sports.

CAREY SAID THE TEAMS will have to travel as many as 250 miles, round trip, to games in Alpena. Tolls on the Mackinac Bridge will be a burden for the school and fans.

Fewer Bayshore supporters will follow the teams, Carey predicted. He also said the enthusiasm of Charlevoix athletes may fall off due to the hard trips.

Charlevoix, Carey explained, may be forced to add other sports because they are played by the bigger schools in the new league.

Varsity athletics have been largely self-supporting at Charlevoix. Carey, however, told the board this may no longer be true in the new league.

On the recommendation of the Athletic Council, the board stipulated that before Charlevoix joins the new league it must write a new constitution that the league agrees with, adopt a new name, provide specifically for discipline of league schools, spell out a definite procedure for allowing schools to withdraw and that if one of the nine schools should withdraw (possibly St. Ignace) no others will be invited to join.

THE NINE-TEAM league, Carey pointed out, is awkward. He said he would prefer if one less school were in the league.

Board member Dale Doss said he is afraid radio play-by-play coverage of the games "is going to kill us." Many people, he said, stay home and listen to the radio rather than make the longer trips to away games.

Supt. Rex Milligan said the school gets good cooperation from the radio stations on public service type announcements, such as school closings.

Milligan also said the new league may have unexpected advantages in that a debate league and other non-athletic activities can be organized.

Turning to other matters, board Secretary Fred Hooper gave a report on the public library. She said 27 more books were borrowed by readers during the last three months of 1967 than during the last three months of 1966.

A public meeting, Mrs. Hooper announced, will be held Feb. 20 to begin organization of a Friends of the Library Committee.

THE BOARD AUTHORIZED using $1,000 allocated for new books to rent about 1,000 books from the Grand Traverse area library federation. Mrs. Hooper said renting may curtail books that rapidly become outdated is more economical than buying them and not having them used in a few months when they are out of demand.

Carr told the board 211 students are enrolled in nine courses that are being offered for the first time this semester. The new courses are world geography, journalism, senior math, earth science, office practices and business machines, personal typing, speech II, home and family living and economics.

Ninth and tenth grade students, he said, are also being offered physical education for the first time in years in the school's continuing effort to expand its curriculum.

Next semester, Carr said, he feels something must be done to reduce the size of eighth grade classes. There are 34 students in each of three eighth grade classes. Carr would like to add another class, but has not found a teacher or room, he told the board.

BARBARA SUGDEN of Charlevoix was hired to teach second grade for the second semester, replacing Mrs. Ida Mae Myan, who moved with her husband to California.

The board also set the tuition rate at $120 for an elementary student and $180 for a high school student.

Planners sit out annexation

CHARLEVOIX -- The Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission has failed to act on a request that it begin an immediate study of the city and Charlevoix Township merging to form a large city.

Commission member Oscar Stord asked twice during the meeting that the merger study be initiated immediately. He received no support.

Bank cuts rate on snowmobiles

CHARLEVOIX -- The Charlevoix State Savings Bank's move last week to the state's lowest auto loan interest rate was followed today by announcement of loans on snowmobiles at the same unprecedented 3.5% rate.

Jerrald Redeker, bank vice president, said the bank will not offer auto and snowmobile loans at interest rates as low as $3.50 per $100 a year, the lowest in Michigan.

PERSONS AS FAR away as Wayne County called to inquire about the bank's new auto loan rate the day last week's Courier was published, Redeker said.

In Charlevoix, Redeker said, the "response was overwhelming." Applications and inquiries about the new rate were immediately received, he said.

The tiny north country bank's unequal interest rate is also reported creating a stir throughout Michigan banking circles, with bankers speculating on whether it will force liberalization of interest rates throughout the industry.

Free ski lessons ready at McSaubia

CHARLEVOIX -- Mt. McSaubia will provide two free ski lessons for youngsters, six years of age and up.

These will be beginning lessons featuring a snow plow turn and stop in the first lesson, and a traverse and stem turn in the second lesson.

LESSONS WILL begin Jan. 13 at 10 a.m. All youngsters are asked to register at the Mt. McSaubia lodge or call LI 7-9758 or LI 7-2491.

Charlevoix will get coho

Lake Charlevoix is going to get in on the salmon business. This Conservation Dept. last week approved planting 50,000 coho in Lake Charlevoix streams this spring.

The fish planted this spring should return in herds, weighing up to 20 pounds, by the fall of 1969, if experience with the original salmon plants further down the Lake Michigan shore holds true.

MYRL KELLER, CHIEF of the state's Great Lakes fisheries management station in Charlevoix, said no final determination has been made as to which Lake Charlevoix streams will receive the baby cohos this spring.

The Conservation Dept. listed the 50,000 fish for the Boyne River. However, Keller said some of them may go in other "suitable streams."

Monday the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce announced creation of a "Project Coho" committee to prepare the community for the expected influx of sports fishermen in 1969, and, perhaps, a beginning of the rush this fall.

Chamber manager Wally Loder will head the committee. Serving with him will be Mayor William Fochtman, City Supt. Jim Taylor, Charlevoix Township Supervisor Clarence Itabach, Hal Forting, Gordon Neff, Oscar Stroud, Dave Julliere, Maurice Foster, Bob Livingston or Jerry Redeker and Cliff Sheppard.

THE COMMITTEE WILL attempt to anticipate what facilities and business services the community will need to handle the expected influx of sports fishermen and recommend a program for developing them.

Major consideration, Loder said, will be given to promoting more facilities for launching and docking small boats and trying to arm businessmen with realistic information on what kind of services and equipment fishermen will seek.

The committee's first meeting will be Jan. 25 at the 4-H Building in Petoskey where Dr. Wayne Toxy, chief of the state's fish division, will speak. Members of a similar committee from Petoskey will also be present.

The 50,000 fish earmarked for Lake Charlevoix is one of the smallest plantings the department expects to make this spring. Keller said it is possible the area will get more salmon if the department finds it has a surplus.

Lake Charlevoix, he said, was picked due to its protected waters, three communities with boating facilities and the high population of food fish (alewife).

Bob Smith, construction foreman, in Charlevoix's new waterfront restaurant - shower - information building, which will help serve the thousands of coho fishermen who are expected to swarm to Lake Charlevoix by the fall of 1969, Smith reports work on the building is progressing well. Windows and roofing should be completed soon so that the plastic cover over the building can be removed.

Bay Shore site's future uncertain, but seems hopeful

BAY "SHORE" No decision has been made on whether the Air Force will replace the $3 million-plus bomb scoring unit here, SAC headquarters at Offutt AFB near Omaha, Neb., told the Courier Tuesday morning.

The complex electronic site was destroyed by fire Dec. 26. Air Force officials estimated the damage at around $3 million.

Capt. Hugh Burns at Offutt said SAC is continuing its super sonic bomber scoring runs up the Lake Michigan "corridor." The accuracy of the planes' mock bomb drops is being checked by photographic equipment aboard each bomber, Burns said.

THE PHOTO SCORING technique, he said, "is not the most effective." However, he added, the Air Force considers the Lake Michigan bomb scoring route important because a minimum number of people are disturbed by sonic booms.

Burns said the high value the Air Force places on the "corridor" does not guarantee the site will be rebuilt at Bay Shore, but he was doubtful the route will be abandoned.

The fact that the Air Force owns the land on which the compact semi-portable unit was located raises the likelihood it will be rebuilt, Burns said.

Proposals to rebuild the site have apparently been made by lower headquarters, but due to the cost no final decision has been made at the top echelon.

Affirm at the Bay Shore site unofficially report they are "rather optimistic" that the unit will be rebuilt.

MAJOR JOHN ZUIDEMA, Bay Shore unit commander, continues to report he has received no word as to the command's future, but he, too, seems to suspect the decision may be to rebuild due to the importance SAC places on the "corridor."

Another indication that the unit is not being phased out is the fact new men are still being assigned to it. Since the fire, Lt. Richard Robbins has reported for duty at Bay Shore as assistant maintenance officer. Several new enlisted men have also arrived.

With only one small concrete building still serviceable at the site, Maj. Zuidema has accepted offers to use the City Hall and Charlevoix school for his men's routine training classes. The Coast Guard is being used for administrative and medical work and the twice-weekly general muster of men is being conducted by the Bay Shore Presbyterian Church.

CHARLEVOIX -- A Flint couple is suing Harry and Florine Foster, owners of the Farmer's Meat Co. on U.S. 31 south, charging the Fosters "fraudulently represented the value of the company."

Circuit Judge Edward Fen-ton of Potosi has issued a temporary order restraining Foster from attempting to col-lect payment of a $12,500 mortgage allegedly owned by Mr. and Mrs. Dewey J. Lebeau.

MR. AND MRS. L.F. BEAU charge Foster sold them 2,000 shares of stock in Farmers Meat Co. for $12,500 in June of 1964 on the claim the busi-ness "had been very profit-able, had tremendous poten-tial, that local markets and restaurants were anxiously waiting to place large orders."

They further contend that Foster named them officers of the corporation and they were to manage the business, but Foster continued to run it and conduct all corporate business without consulting the stock-holders or officers.

In addition to having the mortgage set aside, the Le-beaus are asking Circuit Court to order a complete audit of the corporation's rec-ords.

Garden Club discusses new flowers

CHARLEVOIX -- The Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. Jack Rader, with Mrs. Harley Ochs presiding. At roll call, each member was asked to describe the growing habits of her assigned plant.

The garden tip for the month is a reminder to feed the birds regularly.

A MEMORIAL -- Remembrance Fund has been established with Mrs. Philip Hamilton in charge. Anyone in the area wishing to remember a friend or relative in this manner and at the same time donating to the civic garden projects, may do so by contacting Mrs. Hamilton (547-6471).

The Workshop Committee has scheduled a meeting at which time interested members will make large candlesticks, using jars, cans, cups, etc.

The large planter in the public library has been cared for by Mrs. Russell Mieras.

Mrs. Gordon Freedman presented a most interesting lesson on "Flowers you never planted before" -- new plants for 1968. Eight new All-America Selections annual flowers have been added this year. AAS is a nonprofit educational institution dedicated to testing and rating new flower and vegetable seed varieties before they are introduced to the gardening public.

Selected as new, different and/or superior to their nearest competitors are: "Care-free", a verbena called "Blaze", and a plumed celosia "Golden Triumph." Seeds of all these flowers can be purchased from most seed houses.

Next meeting: Feb. 13, at home of Mrs. John Michael, 1:30 p.m.

WE MUST SEEK THE TRUTH

Constantly in search of the TRUTH the scientist takes nothing for granted. Each "hypothesis," each theory, is tested and tried and accepted or discarded on the condition that it proves true or false. The true scientist never jumps to conclusions, consequently you will never hear him proclaiming the self-sufficiency of man—that man needs no spiritual power.

The Church is also a center for the search and dispensation of truth in things other than the material, the things one can discern by the physical senses. If each of us would be free we must know the truth and if each of us is active in the work of the church that fits our needs "We Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make Us Free."

Brownies need used uniforms

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix's Brownie Scouts are badly in need of uniforms for their investiture ceremony.

Mrs. John Michaels asks that parents with no-larger-used Brownie uniforms call her at 547-9625 or drop them off at her home, 210 Park Ave.

Obituaries

Mrs. Gerald Gibbons

BOYNE CITY — Funeral services for Mrs. Gerald Gibbons were held last Wednesday at the Stuckus Funeral Home for Mrs. Gerald (Mary Ann) Gibbons, 29, of Boyne City.

City who died Sunday, January 7, in Charlevoix Hospital. Rev. Richard Nottke officiated at the services. Burial was in Maple Lawn Cemetery, Boyne City.

Mrs. Gibbons was the former Mary Ann Hayden, daughter of Frank and Emma Hayden, both deceased. She was born June 14, 1938 in Eveline Township and was a 1958 graduate of East Jordan high school.

On January 16, 1958, she was married to Mr. Gibbons and they made their home in Boyne City. She was an employee of Mt. Clemens Metal Products.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by two sons, Gerald Jr., nine years old and Richard, one, a daughter, Teresa, four; two sisters, Mrs. John (Kay) Chew of East Jordan and Mrs. Kenneth (Arlene) Staley of Charlevoix; five brothers: Thomas and Ernest of Elk Rapids, Stephen of Colon; Douglas of Galesburg and Larry who is serving with the U.S. Navy in Japan.

Mr. Walter died Sunday, Jan. 7, at Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey where he had been a patient for a month.

Born in Shawansee county April 23, 1892, Mr. Walter was married to the former Nellie Newman at Owasco where they made their home until moving to Manistee in the early 1940's. Following his retirement from farming they moved to East Jordan in 1964 to make their home with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Walter who lives in Eveline township. He attended the Assembly of God church at Manistee.

Besides his wife, he is survived by nine sons, Andrew of Standish, Dorr of Milton, Alvin of Ann Arbor, Claude Jr. of Lakeland, Robert, Gerald and Ward of Manistee, Richard of Freeport and Lyle of East Jordan; two daughters, Mrs. Clifford (Leona) Wooden of Byron and Mrs. Oren (Arlene) Snyder of Kaleva; 30 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

CHARLEVOIX -- Charlevoix, with a commanding two game lead in the Northern Michigan League, will travel to Boyne City to play the entire night game with a ball control style will most likely be full court pressed the entire night. The Rams are favored by a bit, but an upset is quite likely.
Gaylord will be at Grayling in a game that should be quite close. Gaylord won the first contest between the two 69-54. Gaylord has to have a victory over Grayling to keep in the running.
Mancelona will be favored this week when it takes on the East Jordan Red Devils. East Jordan, still winless, just cannot seem to get anything going. Mancelona has seen playing fair ball coming up on the short end in some hard fought games.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LOOER
CHAMBER MANAGER

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce exists to reasonably serve as the means to unite citizens, population, retail and commercial businesses, industry and various special services, to achieve, together constructive action in community affairs, in the decisions of problems facing the economy, which none of them could afford time and effort and money to work for alone. Furthermore, your Chamber reflects the character, conduct, culture, and etc., of the community. There needs to be much cooperation and support, you need a Chamber of Commerce and the Chamber of Commerce most certainly needs you.

As interested as every business should be in bringing visitors, new residents, help locate and re-locate other business, to improve the economy this making a better place to live, it is doubtful if any individual or group could or would spend necessary time and effort to answer by mail 3,000 to 5,000 inquiries concerning this area or to personally see that over 30,000 maps and brochures of the area were distributed to the best advantage possible. This, in addition to handling hundreds of personal office contacts, and the telephone calls, conferring with business and industrial prospects supplying tourist and recreation, convention and employment, and housing information and etc., is part of the work your Chamber of Commerce does.

THIS CHAMBER, as any other good Chamber, needs to be very well organized, managed accordingly, and gain the fullest community participation possible so as to be able to function to the best of advantage along all avenues of service. You just cannot expect the Secretary-Manager and Board of Directors or "George" to do it all for you.

Your Chamber receives many letters and phone calls as well as personal contacts of the office, from industry, businesses, and individuals, saying, in so many words, "Thanks for the help and we appreciate it very much."

In addition to the above mentioned activities, of course, your Chamber is involved by means of promotion, support, and assistance otherwise in having interesting and attractive events in our fair city for the benefit of local and area population as well as attracting from the outside.

And furthermore, your Chamber is committed, as any other Chamber, to also promote for the concern of health, safety, and welfare of the people of the community.

A very conservative budget to being prepared for presentation to the Chamber's Board of Directors for their study, recommended changes if felt necessary, and eventual approval. The Chamber's program otherwise for 1968 is also in the preparatory stages and looks very promising, not to mention the fact that it is within reasonable over all cost and effort.

Many wonder and also say, "Why should I support the Chamber, how does it help me, what or how much do I get out of it?" Do remind this Chamber or any other throughout the states is not designed to function for any one "Mr. or Mrs." It is not a dollar for dollar proposition. It is designed for the community as a whole, for all of us. You merely invest in the community, which I am sure most of you love.

Your Chamber manager has the cooperation of the Charlevoix Courier, which weekly publishes his column "Chamber Chat." Read it for informative bits and Chamber news.

It is very gratifying indeed to have observed, especially since last August, the change of attitudes, kind remarks, and offers of assistance, all of which are very inspiring and adds to my enjoyment of service to the community. Thank you for your assistance.

New attorney joins Michael in law firm

CHARLEVOIX--Donald J. Berlage, a summer resident here for the past five years, has joined a partnership with John H. Michael in the practice of law.

The law firm, known as Michael and Berlage, has opened its new office in the Pine River Building, 101 Bridge St. The building, in the final stages of complete renovation, was the Turkey Wing Restaurant.

BERLAGE, 39, COMES to Charlevoix from Toledo, Ohio, where he was corporation attorney for Kaiser Jeep Corporation. He previously was in private practice in Toledo. Before that he was a special agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, serving in San Francisco and New York City.

An Army veteran and former First Lieutenant in the Air Force reserve, he has been a special hearing officer for the Department of Justice and past president of the Toledo Young Republican Club.

A native of Cincinnati, he has a degree in business administration.

Library notes

There will be another story-hour for pre-school children at the library on Friday morning, January 26 at 10 a.m. and again at 11 a.m. Mothers are asked to register their children in advance, at the library, stating which hour they prefer to attend. Mrs. Robert Klousner and Mrs. Gerald Staubbli will be story-tellers for this series.

Total circulation at the Charlevoix Public Library for the last six months of 1967, was 13,122 books, periodicals, pamphlets, and records, including both adult and juvenile materials.

Here are some timely titles now available at the library.

Medusa forced to shutdown early up the limestone before it goes into the production system. The crusher has been frozen up.

The problems that start in the quarry keep resurfacing, one on top of the other, right through the plant.

Winter isn't the only complication.

Virtually all of the complex machinery on South Point is the first of its kind. So, for practical purposes, their first 50 months of operation are really a test run. And like all "tests," not all of them at Medusa have come through with the results envisioned by designers and expected by the company.

Also, and perhaps most important, Krebs explained, the plant was designed to work from a computer center. The computer is not yet installed. Which makes it sort of like a car without a driver. A human whose brain hasn't been placed in the lead.

THE COMPUTER WILL keep check on all control points in the production stage. A highly trained operator will be able to stand in front of the exotically sophisticated computer and know instantly if there is any problem anywhere in the plant and, hopefully, obtain almost immediate corrections.

Without the computer it is nearly, if not completely, impossible to ferret out these problems and keep control of the complex and vast operation, Krebs said.

The computer will be installed while the plant is shutdown during the next two months.

Krebs doesn't hesitate to admit the plant's air pollution control machinery isn't working properly. But something is going to be done about it, he promises.

The $1 million air pollution control system, which was specially designed for the plant and reported to be the most advanced in the world, has, also, run into problems with Charlevoix' weather.

THE DESIGNER, WHOM Krebs pointed out died after he finished engineering the system and before it went into operation, didn't expect a moisture problem. However, the sudden and extreme temperature changes at South Point have resulted in so much dampness that the dust control system is shorting out, causing a reduction in effectiveness and, sometimes, complete shutdown of the machinery.

To solve this problem a "vent system"--really a large heating element--has been ordered to keep the moisture dry so they do not pick up moisture, Krebs explained. It is confident this will solve the problem and Charlevoix will have the clean air it was requested.

CHARLEVOIX--The Sno-Drifters are planning their first snowmobile safari Sunday, Jan. 21, along the lake shore south of town. John Michaels, secretary of the new snowmobile club, reports.

All area snowmobile owners and families are invited, Michaels said.

A trail has been made from the softball diamond on Carpenter St. all the way to Atwood. The safari starts at 1:30 p.m. at the softball diamond.

promised when the company revealed its plans for the plant here.

In addition to money being spent to thoroughly overhaul and winterize the plant and install additional equipment in the air pollution control mechanism, nearly $1 million more may be spent to build new stone silos, twice as big as the present ones, so the company will have a place to store cement when it is able to operate the plant year-round, Krebs said.

Not everything, though, is as bleak at South Point as it sounds. With all of the complications due to weather and untried equipment, the plant has still produced a million barrels of cement. The basic design and location of the plant has, Krebs feels, been proven.

And most important, as far as he is concerned, the men who work at South Point have faced the worst and shown they can produce. Krebs, a master carpenter, cement mason, and electrician, beams around his white mustache, when he forgets about his equipment problems and starts talking about the men who are helping him make cement on South Point.

But pieces of the "Save the Jordan" story have been filtering out of East Jordan and Lansing for nearly a year. Until now they haven't added up. Now the picture seems to be coming into focus.

THE RESULT is inspiring those who love wild rivers and unspoiled nature.

Last spring Michigan State University's Extension Service launched an informal "Save the Jordan" campaign through a series of four meetings. The meetings drew unexpected crowds to hear noted conservationists and scientists deliver facts on the Jordan's "fragile" condition and predict a steadily decaying future unless immediate action is taken.

The series of meetings accomplished their purpose--the Jordan was aroused and informed. "Save the Jordan" and "Remember the Adirondack" became almost a regional battle cry from conservationists.

A permanent and legally empowered organization was started, and officially chartered this month, called the Jordan River Watershed Committee.

White all this was going on the Conservation Dept., bit by bit, started acquiring the remaining pieces of "key" property along the river.

WITHIN THE LAST month the department has completed negotiations giving it

Plats containing 879 building lots -- most of them cottage sites -- were installed last year in Charlevoix County, according to the District Health Dept.

The majority of the lots -- including 7 of the 13 plats -- are on Beaver Island, where American Central Corp. plotted 879 cottage sites in 1967, John Reynolds, District Health Dept., sanitarian said.

AMERICAN CENTRAL Corp. also dominated land development on the mainland. It submitted a plat for 117 lots on Lake Michigan along the railroad crossing on US-31 south of Bay Shore, Reynolds said. Approval of this plat is still pending in Reynolds' office.

The Lansing-based American Central Corp. began making Charlevoix County land development history in 1960 when it announced cottage site subdivisions at Susan Lake, Bay Shore and several projects along Lake Charlevoix.

Though this year's 879 lots are probably a record for Charlevoix County, Reynolds reports there is even more development in Otsego County and nearly as much in Antrim County. There is considerably less activity in Emmet County, he said.

Reynolds and his assistant Dean Mikulski are responsible for administering communities meeting next week to discuss the state's effort to the grass roots party organization and other matters.

Branch office managers are political appointments and are traditionally selected by the local party organization, and then appointed by Haro. Johnson said the county committee may re-endorse Mrs. LaBlanc for the vacancy created by her dismissal.

He pointed out, however, that Haro is not bound to accept the committee's endorsement.

Mrs. LaBlanc said she will turn her license plates and forms over to the Secretary of State's office when his representative appears for them.

EAST JORDAN--Man may be making conservation history in the Jordan River Valley. For the first time in Michigan history man may be on the verge of preserving a stream before he has destroyed it.

With only a few more purchases the department will be able to forever control the quality of the Jordan from its headwaters to within five or six miles of the East Jordan, Jordan River State Forest manager Jack Lockwood said last week.

Due to its purchases since the "Save the Jordan" meetings were held the department now owns about 75% of the river's frontage from the headwaters to Chestonia, Lockwood said.

The most recent purchases include 204 acres in the headwaters area, including about a quarter mile of stream frontage and 100 acres on both sides of the stream directly south of Chestonia Ridge.

The continuing effort to obtain state-owned property in the headwaters is considered necessary to assure that future development in the area does not allow septic tank pollution, deforestation, erosion and loss of wild beauty. The 204 acres most recently acquired in the headwaters cost $21,600.

IN THE INTEREST of preserving the Jordan in as near its wild state as possible, Lockwood said, public use of the headwaters area will not be encouraged through road building or campground development.

The Chestonia area purchase is considered a major step because it was a

OTHER PLATS SUBMITTED to Reynolds and Mikulski during 1967 are:

A 30-lot subdivision at Boyne Falls owned by Ben Orngren. A 12-lot subdivision on E. Twin Lake in Marquette Township, owned by Walter Dett. A 22-lot subdivision on Lakoville subdivision on M-66 at Ferry Ave. A 6-lot subdivision on Dutchman's Bay, along the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, owned by Frank Grake.

Boyne Town, a 10-lot subdivision near Boyne Falls, owned by William Schepers. Alpine Hills, a 37-lot project in Alpine Hills, owned by Clarence Adams, Alpine Peaks, Melrose Township, 15-lots, owned by Gerald Fineout, Beaver Sands, 15-lots on the east shore of Lake Charlevoix, owned by Jack Coulter.

Riverside, a 13-lot subdivision on Deer Creek, owned by Keith Dressel. Olsen's Rolling Acres, an 11-lot subdivision in East Jordan, owned by Ray Olson. Whiteberg's Subdivision, a 15-lot project on Fox Lake, Beaver Island.

City rejects Freedman plan

FREEDMAN Aftermath Engineering withdrew its request for a waiver of the City zoning ordinance as the Council was going to press. The company agreed to construct its water tank 30 feet from the City Airport's property line, as required by the ordinance. A building permit for the tank was issued by the city. Next Monday public hearing on Freedman's original request, was canceled.

It also took under study a plan by Don Soyley to build up to 50 private hangars for airplanes on property he owns next to the airport.

MAX HOSMER, a Freedman employee, asked the Council to waive zoning restrictions by allowing the company to begin work Tuesday on the water tank.

Hosmer requested that Freedman be allowed to build the tank on the company's property (the with the city airport). The zoning ordinance requires that the tank be set back at least 20 feet from the property line.

Though Freedman's proposal called for the sheet metal tank to be located right on the property line, Hosmer said it would be set back at least 20 feet from the airport's east-west runway and has been approved by federal and state aeronautics authorities.

After considerable debate, during which City Attorney John Michael insisted the Council could not legally act on the request until a public notice of its intent had been published, the Council met next Monday, Jan. 29, for a public meeting of the Board of Appeals at 7:30 p.m.

Councilmen appeared agreeable to allow construction of the tank nearer the property line than 20 feet--probably 10 feet, Hosmer insisted, though, that the decision had to be made Monday night as a contractor was coming Tuesday morning to begin work on the tank. He said the tank had been completed by March 1.

MAYOR BILL FOCHTMAN said the Council has contacted all adjoining property owners on previous zoning appeals rather than publish a public notice.

Michael pointed to the section of the zoning ordinance requiring the public notice and replied, "There it is!"

Fochtman said that since the two concerned property owners -- Freedman and the city--were present perhaps it would be allowable to waive the public notice requirement. Councilman Bob Gill sided with him.

"It seems to me we ought to have time to look it over," Councilwoman Marie Webb said.

COUNCILMAN JACK MUI at one point during the discussion moved that the tank

CHARLEVOIX County's Board of Supervisors last spring gave health officials the go with which to halt pollution from septic tanks, but they refused to buy the ammunition with which to lead it.

The District Health Dept.'s two sanitarians--John Reynolds and Dean Mikulski--were directed to administer and enforce the state's health code. The code when it was adopted last spring, the two men were responsible for all environmental health matters in Charlevoix, Emmet, Antrim and Otsego counties.

THEY WERE, REYNOLDS points out, behind their work before Charlevoix and Antrim Counties adopted the Sanitation Code. Under the code they must make a thorough study of soil conditions and other factors before a septic tank permit can be issued. All new subdivisions must also be inspected by the sanitarians to determine whether the proposed lots are suitable for installation of wells and septic tanks.

Since the code took effect in April they have issued 250 septic tank permits in Charlevoix County and 150 in Antrim County. Reynolds and Mikulski also made extensive surveys of soil and drainage factors in subdivisions involving more than 1,000 lots in the two counties.

In addition to the septic tank permits they've issued, other sites were inspected but permits refused due to poor soil conditions, high water table, inadequate drainage and other factors that cause septic tank pollutants to mix with ground water and drain into lakes and streams.

District Health Dept. director Dr. R.S. Luke asked that two more men be added to Reynolds' staff last fall. He estimated the cost of adding the two men at $17,400, including salary and travel expense.

The two additional men would have cost each resident of the four-county health district about 36 cents more a year, Reynolds said.

ANTRIM COUNTY'S board, apparently feeling pressure from pollution-conscious summer residents, went along with the addition of two more men. However, when the other three county boards refused to even consider bolstering Reynolds' work force, Antrim backed out.

Reynolds and Mikulski, Dr. Luke has pointed out, had fulltime jobs before the Sanitation Code, which he vigorously supported, was adopted.

Though Reynolds has for years pleaded for septic tank and plat controls, now that he has them to work with he cannot ignore his former responsibility for making regular inspections of all places that serve food to the public, swimming pools, motels, trailer parks and all other areas that can cause environmental health problems in the four counties.

The public and most property owners and contractors have been extremely cooperative in the four counties.

Equipment costs have been estimated at $334,750. Construction costs are expected to total $2,370,000, with another $50,000 thrown in for contingencies and $75,000 for site development.

Estimates are a site for the school can be purchased in the undeveloped rural area south of Ironton for around $10,000.

The school, Milligan said, would be built on a 20-acre site. The architect proposes constructing four new elementary classrooms, a new library for grades kindergarten through eighth, an audio visual room, conference room and music room. These would be constructed as an addition to the present grade school building.

The new addition would have 11,000 square feet. Cost is estimated $207,000, plus $30,000 for equipment.

Another $187,800 would be spent to rehabilitate and remodel the present East Jordan school, for a total of $430,100.

Lancers may join new teams

ELLSWORTH--Things are looking up for the Lancers prospects of playing football next year.

Supt. John Jurgensen reports three small northern schools that have not been playing football for several years have tentatively agreed to join Mackinac City and Ellsworth in a reorganized eight-man football league. The new schools are Johnsonville, Vanderbilt and Alliance.

Jurgensen said the two schools considering formation of the new eight-man league will meet in Mackinac City Monday, Jan. 29, to draw up a preliminary conference agreement.

Due to lack of students from which to draw athletes, Ellsworth cannot field an 11-man team, school officials pointed out.

OSION is the only candidate to file for the post Mayor Betty Robertson is vacating when her term expires in April. He is now a councilman from the Third Ward. Following the election someone will be appointed to fill his council seat.

The only races on the April 1 election ballot will be for council and supervisor in the Third Ward. Yet all Shepard has filed to oppose incumbent Third Ward Councilman Harry Wilson. Incumbent Third Ward Supervisor Barney Morrison will be opposed by Andrew Shively.

The Feb. 19 primary election will not be held because no more than two candidates have filed for any one office.

In the First Ward Councilman William Morrison and Supervisor William Taylor are seeking re-election. Second Ward Councilman Darwin Morris is not running for re-election and Ward R. Olson is the only candidate for his seat. Mrs. Thora Kotowich is seeking re-election as Second Ward Supervisor.

Estimated cost of the new building is $408,000, plus $21,050 for equipment. The building would be built so it could be easily expanded.

ANOTHER $187,800 WOULD be spent to rehabilitate and remodel the existing elementary school and $17,000 in new equipment would be put in the old elementary.

Trimming the total cost for elementary school improvements and expansion in Charlevoix to $641,650.

In East Jordan the architect proposes constructing four new elementary classrooms, a new library for grades kindergarten through eighth, an audio visual room, conference room and music room. These would be constructed as an addition to the present grade school building.

The new addition would have 11,000 square feet. Cost is estimated $207,000, plus $30,000 for equipment.

Another $187,800 would be spent to rehabilitate and remodel the present East Jordan school, for a total of $430,100.

School building needs estimated at $4.1 million

Architectural consultants have completed preliminary proposals for school construction needs if Charlevoix and East Jordan school districts merge at the Feb. 19 vote on the issue.

The tentative proposal estimates total cost at $4,195,100. This includes $2,880,350 for a new high school with 39 teaching stations for grades 9 through 12, $641,650 for new elementary classrooms in Charlevoix and rehabilitation of Charlevoix's existing elementary school, and $430,000 for new elementary rooms and rehabilitation work at East Jordan.

THE HIGH SCHOOL plan is designed around a departmentalized curriculum containing 12 basic areas of study: "Languages," "In addition there would be a 500-seat gymnasium, 300-seat auditorium, 450-seat cafeteria and various support areas, like administrative offices.

The building would have 131,700 square feet, with building costs estimated at $18 per square foot based on informal agreement between the two districts. It would be built in the area of Phelps Rd. and M-66.

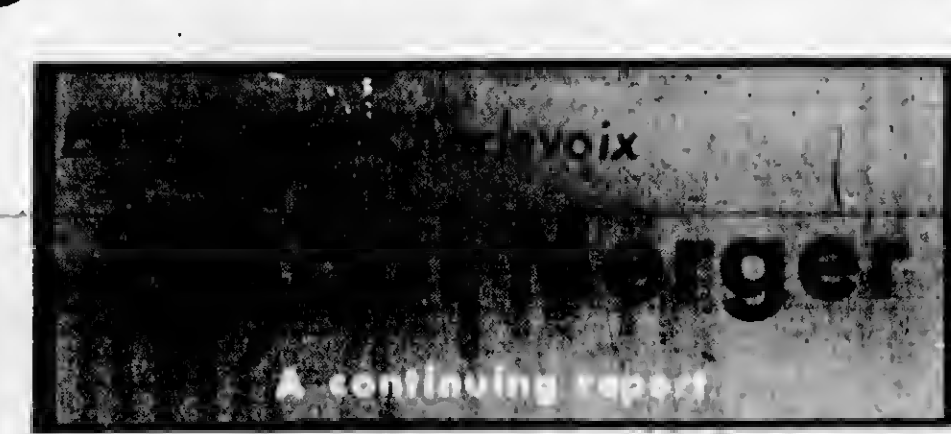

about eight miles from each town and three miles south of Ironton.

Charlevoix Supt. Rex Milligan points out all plans presented now would be subject to complete change since a new school board will immediately take over if the merger vote carries. The new board would not be committed to any plans of the present boards.

Voters would have to approve bond issues before a new school could proceed with any building programs.

The 12 departments in the proposed high school are: Science, business, industrial arts, homemaking, fine arts, foreign language, language arts, social studies, mathematics, physical education and arts and crafts.

THE SCIENCE DEPARTMENT would have classrooms and labs. The business department would have five classrooms, including typing, business machines, accounting and shorthand. There would be four shops or classrooms, in the industrial arts department, including drafting, wood and metal shops and auto shop.

In the homecoming department would be two classrooms and a "living area." The fine arts (or music) department would get two classrooms plus several practice rooms. There would be two "language labs" in the foreign language department. Language arts (English) would get six classrooms.

Social studies (history, geography, government) would have six classrooms. There would be four mathematics classrooms, 300-seat auditorium, cafeteria, teachers cafeteria, a student activities room and maintenance facilities.

Equipment costs have been estimated at $334,750. Construction costs are expected to total $2,370,000, with another $50,000 thrown in for contingencies and $75,000 for site development.

rooms. Two rooms would be provided for the arts and crafts department.

The physical education department would have a 149 by 110 foot gymnasium with three locker rooms and seating for 2,500 people.

Each department would have rooms for storage and, where necessary, "work rooms" and conference rooms.

Loren Willson joins Jordan police force

EAST JORDAN--Loren Willson, 31, has joined the city police force, bringing it up to full strength for the first time since late last summer.

Willson transferred from the city street department to the police department, giving Police Chief Joe Hammond the two fulltime assistants he is authorized by City Council.

The council approved Willson's transfer on the recommendation of the Civil Service Commission.

Chief Hammond and patrolman Melvin Alexander have been carrying the city's police burden for more than four months.

The City Council last week also received a recommendation from R.A. Campbell Insurance Agency to increase maximum compensation for police officers from $5,000 to $10,000 for serious injury to hands, feet or eyes.

The new policy would cost the city $36 a year for each policeman. The proposal was referred to the police committee with Mayor Betty Robertson's recommendation that it be approved.

David's said an intensive recruiting drive is underway to hire the 225 more troopers recently approved by the legislature.

Biweekly pay for troopers has been set at $257, and a regular increase will be $261.60 after six years. A proposed increase would boost the minimum to $272 and the maximum to $383 every two weeks.

Eligible to apply for enlistment are young men, married or single, who are citizens of the United States, between 21 and 35 years of age, high school graduates, and at least 5 feet 9 inches in height, in proportion to height. They must be of good moral character and free of any serious arrest record.

Interested young men can apply at any State Police post or by writing to the Michigan Civil Service Commission at Lansing.

Troopers work a 40-hour five-day week and get paid for overtime. They receive free uniforms and equipment, get two paid vacations a year, paid sick leave and longevity pay. CHARLEVOIX--The City will replace the mature shade trees it has removed around town in the last few years with "substantial" trees that will grow, Mayor Bill Fochtman reports.

Fochtman said it has not yet decided what type or size young trees will be planted to replace the removed trees, but promised the transplant will grow.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

The Chamber is pleased to provide for you-1968 Winter Ice Skating Review, Saturday, February 3, 7:30 p.m. at the ice skating facility at the elementary school, Mason Street. Kathy Chapin of Petoskey will present her group whose performance will be the rhythmic music coming over the loud speaker system. Her group consists of 15 to 20 youngsters ranging from six years to 18 years old. In addition Mrs. Alex Moore of Charlevoix will have some other baton twirling pupils nicely performing on ice skates. This gesture should prove interesting and entertaining to both young and old, and we expect you good people to turn out for this affair.

Your Chamber is receiving regular requests for information and contacts for summer rental places including cottages, summer homes, and lodges, and too, places for summer boarders (long or short stay). Owners and operators are urged to put your listings in here as early as possible.

WOLVERINE Stages Inc.'s S.W. Smith, presented a proposed bus schedule between Petoskey, Boyne City, East Jordan, and Charlevoix, and also Petoskey to Pellston Airport. The writer is endeavoring, for your protection and convenience, to learn more facts and will advise you accordingly.

There has been made possible a Michigan Tax Seminar having to do with Michigan income tax law. Many of you might be interested and accordingly the meeting will be held at 7:00 p.m., Thursday, January 25 at Petoskey Jr. High School auditorium. There is no registration fee, however, it is requested that registrations be made in advance and this Chamber will gladly assist. This is sponsored by Michigan State Chamber of Commerce and the cooperation of Petoskey Regional Chamber, William A. Wick.

ham, general and legislative council of Michigan State Chamber of Commerce will be moderator and G. Van Coevering, Deputy Commissioner Revenue Division, Michigan Department of Treasury, Niles K. Hill, C.P.A., Petoskey, and Mel Smith, C.P.A., will be panelist.

Something for you traveling Tiger fans. We have information available for 1968 tickets for the Tiger baseball club home games at Detroit and some other pertinent information. Those who are interested, please be in touch with the undersigned.

A kindly native of Charlevoix, now wintering at Plant City, Florida writes in part: "Wally, I surely do like your Chamber Chat, we Charlevoixians are so fortunate to have you as our good will ambassador and etc., keep up the good work." How nice. A what? I hope the Chat will continue your interest. Thank you!

IT MIGHT interest some of you that the Cooperative Extension Service, Michigan State University, East Lansing, Department of Resource Development, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture cooperation have announced plans for a two day natural resources program at the campus of Michigan State University, which conference is held in conjunction with 1968 Farmers Week. The program appears to be very interesting and the speakers and individuals otherwise involved seem to be those of authority. There is no registration fee. They have ample free parking and bus service from the parking area to the natural resources building. For further information, contact the writer.

Attitudes, ideas, and efforts, normally the writer believes should be changing for the betterment of all concerned, especially in this rapid cycle in which we live. This is better brought out in publication "Special Report Natural Resources, Michigan State Chamber of Commerce." I quote in part: "Michigan Community Shaping Up. There are many indications now so very apparent that the communities of our state are taking a new look at their responsibilities as they relate to the total population of Michigan. For ages the community has been organized and operated for the convenience of its own people, and have had to answer to relatively few outside of this sphere of influence. Now we live in a different age, and what we do to our neighbor must be regulated because we are all neighbors in a sense. This is not a new pronouncement and is common knowledge among those who have watched the changing patterns of our society. During the last five years in Michigan's history there have been so many changes in this direction that they deserve comment. The Michigan State Chamber of Commerce has spearheaded and supported this move from the dark ages to a more enlightened society." More in the next issue.

Attention! Employers, motels, resorts, dining rooms, restaurants, guesthouses, and etc., your Chamber is beginning to receive inquiries for various summer employment from especially junior and senior high school students and likewise colleges; some have had experience. Thank you in advance for any contacts we will accumulate the information for your convenience.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 25, 8 p.m. at the 4th building, Emmet County Fair Grounds, Petoskey, there will be a meeting having to do with the coho salmon development in Michigan and especially our area. The principal speaker will be Dr. Wayne Tody, Chief of the Fisheries Division, Michigan State Conservation Department. In addition, John Lodge will show a color slide program.

FORMER CHARLEVOIX High School musicians Gary Stutzman, left and Bruce Kroken, practice for last week's Senior Recital at Northern Michigan University, where they are now seniors, with Denise McCorkie of Pembine, Wis. Both Charlevoix youths have participated in musical activities at Northern.

Steelhead being caught at Big Rock atom plant

CHARLEVOIX — Steelhead weighing up to 12 pounds are reported being caught in the Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant water exhaust channel. Conservation Officer Harry Burris said the trout are averaging six to seven pounds. Best bait, according to Burris, is natural spawn or salmon eggs. FISHERMEN reportedly are having best luck after dark.

WE MUST SEEK THE TRUTH

Constantly in search of the TRUTH the scientist takes nothing for granted. Each "hypothesis", each theory, is tested and tried and accepted or discarded on the condition that it proves true or false. The true scientist never jumps to conclusions, consequently you will never hear him proclaiming the self-sufficiency of man—that man needs no spiritual power.

The Church is also a center for the search and dispensation of truth in things other than the material, the things one cannot discern by the physical senses. If each of us would be free we must know the truth and if each of us is active in the work of the church that fits our needs "We Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make Us Free."

Freedman said Freedman should have presented his request sooner. If it was to start work this week, he pointed out the company has previously wanted until the last minute to bring requests to the Council.

"This has been the problem with Freedman," Moll added.

Michael, after lengthy discussion, stuck to his position that a public notice to notify the people of the city who own the property -- of the proposed zoning waiver is legally required. Other councilmen and the mayor decided to take Michael's opinion.

Hosmer said Freedman's needs the to give it more water pressure so that it can obtain more desirable fire insurance. He pointed out the company requested that the city provide greater water pressure and it did not.

The tank will be located about 160 feet from the corner of the State St. and US-31. It will be 20 feet around and 30 feet high.

In other matters dealing with the airport, the Council was asked by Seelye to allow him to taxi airplanes across airport property to the five acres he owns on State St. adjoining the airport.

SEELYE SAID HE plans to construct front hangars on the property -- ultimately as many as 25 -- and provide a complete airplane maintenance facility.

There is considerable demand for more hangar space, Seelye said. When hangars are available, he predicted, even more planes will be based at the airport.

MOST PEOPLE, REYNOLDS said, do not need an expert to tell them "the majority of undeveloped Lake Charlevoix shoreline is unsuitable for development in its natural state." The land that is still vacant along Lake Charlevoix, he points out, is low, with a high water table, meaning pollutants from septic tank seepage through owning the land and refraining from elaborate park plans, to preserve the Jordan in its undeveloped state.

What campsites and access sites are developed, Lockwood said, will be kept reasonable distance from the actual river banks and will be small enough to disagree drains almost immediately into the lake.

A Michigan State University scientist has estimated that due to enrichment from septic tanks and city sewage systems, Lake Charlevoix is aging at the rate of 100 years a year.

This doesn't mean the remaining undeveloped property cannot be utilized, Reynolds has pointed out. He explains that to develop new property large lots are needed and, in most cases, fill dirt must be added.

The bulk of the Chain-of-Lakes in Antrim County are already in serious trouble, he says.

Merger advantages seen by teachers

Merger advantages seen by teachers

Teachers in East Jordan and Charlevoix stand to gain better working conditions and salaries if the two school districts merge.

The 103 teachers in the two districts (59 in Charlevoix and 44 in East Jordan) have indicated solid support for the plan to consolidate the two districts.

The number one attraction of the merger, as most teachers appear to see it, is that they would be teaching only in the fields in which they have the most training and the most interest. This, they point out, would make it possible for them to do a better job and enjoy their work more.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS point out they would probably need all of the teachers now employed by the two districts if they merge.

"Both Charlevoix and East Jordan are schools with increasing populations," Charlevoix Supt. Rex Milligan explained. "Each year it has been necessary to add teachers to the staffs. This year Charlevoix added seven teachers and East Jordan six. It can be assumed that all teachers would be employed by the new board providing their teaching is satisfactory during the 1967-68 school year," Milligan added.

Should the merger vote carry, the Interim board would have authority to release any teacher, including those on tenure. However, if it does not intend to place a teacher back on tenure it would have to notify him within 30 days after the election. If they are not notified in 30 days they automatically regain their tenure status.

CONSOLIDATING the teaching force of the two districts should also give them considerably more bargaining strength with the school board at present Charlevoix's 55 teachers negotiate a contract with a seven-member board and East Jordan's 44 teachers also deal with a seven-member board. If the two districts are merged the 103 teachers will have to negotiate with only seven board members.

Teachers in both districts have been among the most militant in this area during the last two years. Charlevoix teachers kept the school board at the bargaining table until 1966 when they accepted their 1967-68 contract. East Jordan teachers didn't settle until September of 1967.

The current salaries and contracts

The special assessment may be levied on property owners "who will not receive a special benefit from the improvement," and

The special assessment "itself is arbitrary, unfair and unjust because it has been levied in a discriminatory manner."

The six property owners the city had ordered, against their wishes, to pay part of the cost of construction a street into the proposed 24-lot subdivision, brought the suit against the city.

THE PLAINTIFFS are Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Juilliet, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vogler, Mr. and Mrs. Carl O. Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wojan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cook and Mr. and Mrs. Lester McElroy. They retained the 818 Rapid law firm of Zerafa and Zerafa.

James Richio, principal officer of Hampton Associates, charged the other property owners will benefit from increased property values due to the street.

The city reportedly would have paid 45% of the street's cost, Hampton Associates 41.6% and the six objecting property owners 11.4%.

The six persons filing the suit charged that the city's agreement with Hampton

Ellsworth Supt. John Jurgensen said he does not know if the Ellsworth school board would agree to return to six-man football, even if it is the only way the school can continue to field grid teams. He said he does not feel it would be any more difficult for the other schools to play eight-man than six-man football.

In other action, league representatives worked out a tentative 1968-69 basketball schedule between Johannesburg, Boyne Falls, Vanderbilt, Mackinaw City, Wolverine, Alanson and Ellsworth. Central Lake and Bellaire will not be ineligible competition next season.

A request from Alka to join the league was rejected due to a feeling that Alka's gymnasium facilities are not adequate.

Merger advantages seen by teachers

Teachers in East Jordan and Charlevoix stand to gain better working conditions and salaries if the two school districts merge.

The 103 teachers in the two districts (59 in Charlevoix and 44 in East Jordan) have indicated solid support for the plan to consolidate the two districts.

The number one attraction of the merger, as most teachers appear to see it, is that they would be teaching only in the fields in which they have the most training and the most interest. This, they point out, would make it possible for them to do a better job and enjoy their work more.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS point out they would probably need all of the teachers now employed by the two districts if they merge.

"Both Charlevoix and East Jordan are schools with increasing populations," Charlevoix Supt. Rex Milligan explained. "Each year it has been necessary to add teachers to the staffs. This year Charlevoix added seven teachers and East Jordan six. It can be assumed that all teachers would be employed by the new board providing their teaching is satisfactory during the 1967-68 school year," Milligan added.

Should the merger vote carry, the Interim board would have authority to release any teacher, including those on tenure. However, if it does not intend to place a teacher back on tenure it would have to notify him within 30 days after the election. If they are not notified in 30 days they automatically regain their tenure status.

CONSOLIDATING the teaching force of the two districts should also give them considerably more bargaining strength with the school board at present Charlevoix's 55 teachers negotiate a contract with a seven-member board and East Jordan's 44 teachers also deal with a seven-member board. If the two districts are merged the 103 teachers will have to negotiate with only seven board members.

Teachers in both districts have been among the most militant in this area during the last two years. Charlevoix teachers kept the school board at the bargaining table until 1966 when they accepted their 1967-68 contract. East Jordan teachers didn't settle until September of 1967.

The special assessment may be levied on property owners "who will not receive a special benefit from the improvement," and

The special assessment "itself is arbitrary, unfair and unjust because it has been levied in a discriminatory manner."

The six property owners the city had ordered, against their wishes, to pay part of the cost of construction a street into the proposed 24-lot subdivision, brought the suit against the city.

THE PLAINTIFFS are Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Juilliet, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vogler, Mr. and Mrs. Carl O. Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wojan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cook and Mr. and Mrs. Lester McElroy. They retained the 818 Rapid law firm of Zerafa and Zerafa.

James Richio, principal officer of Hampton Associates, charged the other property owners will benefit from increased property values due to the street.

The city reportedly would have paid 45% of the street's cost, Hampton Associates 41.6% and the six objecting property owners 11.4%.

The six persons filing the suit charged that the city's agreement with Hampton

Ellsworth Supt. John Jurgensen said he does not know if the Ellsworth school board would agree to return to six-man football, even if it is the only way the school can continue to field grid teams. He said he does not feel it would be any more difficult for the other schools to play eight-man than six-man football.

In other action, league representatives worked out a tentative 1968-69 basketball schedule between Johannesburg, Boyne Falls, Vanderbilt, Mackinaw City, Wolverine, Alanson and Ellsworth. Central Lake and Bellaire will not be ineligible competition next season.

A request from Alka to join the league was rejected due to a feeling that Alka's gymnasium facilities are not adequate.

Appoint new board if merger carries

Charlevoix and East Jordan school districts would likely become one the minute all the ballots are counted if voters approve the proposed merger of two districts.

The present Charlevoix and East Jordan school boards will be dissolved within ten days after the Feb. 19 election if voters approve the proposal.

THE INTERMEDIATE School District board would appoint a new seven-man board to replace the two seven-man boards which now operate the two local districts. This new board would take over within ten days after the election. An elected school board would not be elected by voters until the regular June school election.

The Intermediate district's board could appoint practically anyone it wants to the interim board. However, Intermediate District Supt. Charles Robinson, who SCHOOL OFFICIALS report that these things "just don't happen." In other areas where schools have been merged the appointed boards reportedly have carried out the pre-merger plans of the districts.

The appointed board should be expected to make several major moves that would have long-range effect on the consolidated district.

All millage now voted to operate the schools would expire the minute the merger election is declared officially in favor of consolidation. All taxes for the 1967-68 year have now been levied, so this creates no problem for the remainder of this school year.

Charlevoix's remaining bonded indebtedness of $840,000 for the high school building would continue to be levied in Charlevoix. East Jordan has no bonded indebtedness.

The appointed board should move immediately to get things rolling on construction of a consolidated high school and classroom improvements and additions in Charlevoix and East Jordan.

This would include selection and approval of site for a consolidated high school and preparation of a bond issue election, probably at the June school election.

Among the most significant responsibilities facing the appointed board would be deciding which teachers now employed will remain on tenure, which will be released and which will go on one-year probation. These decisions would have to be made within 30 days after the election.

Teacher contract negotiations should be well along before the board elected in June would take over from the interim board.

Though little noticed by the public, contract negotiations determine the biggest single expense in local education; teachers' salaries chew up from 70 to 80% of the school budget.

The interim board would have to decide who is going to be superintendent of the consolidated school district. It could retain both of the present superintendents -- one as superintendent and one as assistant superintendent or business manager -- or go select a completely new superintendent.

Public meeting

CHARLEVOIX -- A public meeting to answer questions on the Feb. 19 vote on merging the Charlevoix and East Jordan school districts has been tentatively set for Feb. 13.

School administrators and board members will serve on a panel to answer questions at the meeting. An official from the State Dept. of Education is also expected to attend to repeat threats that if Charlevoix does not merge with another district on its own the department will eventually force it.

No time or place has yet been set for the meeting.

THE HONORABLE

City of Charlevoix, Michigan

Dear Sir:
On my return to Charlevoix today, the action by the City Council at the meeting of January 22, as described in the January 24 issue of the Charlevoix Courier, was called to my attention.

We have always followed the procedure of first contacting the city superintendent with the understanding that whatever we requested required a legal opinion, the city attorney would be contacted by the city superintendent, and if they then decided the matter should be taken up with the Council, we were so advised. In recent years, however, there seems to be a better of confusion.

We have had repeated contacts with the City regarding the supply of water for our fire protection sprinkler system for over three years.

When planning our last large expansion in 1965, we were assured by the City that there would be adequate water to properly supply the expanded sprinkler system. Assuming there would be sufficient water, we did not include the cost of water in the original plans.

After the expansion was completed, tests conducted by the rating bureau indicated there was an insufficient supply of water. We met several times with the city superintendent and the City Council to determine if there was any possible way city or federal cooperation could be solicited to aid us in financing a method for supplying sufficient water. Following these meetings we came to the conclusion that it would not be within the City's means to supply the water or aid us in financing.

We had one last thought that since the City undoubtedly would find it necessary to provide a greater supply of water for the south side of Charlevoix within the next few years, it might be feasible for them to enter into a cooperative program with Article 1702 under the City Ordinance authorizes the City Council to act as a Board

William Fichtman Mayor
City of Charlevoix, Michigan

Dear Sir:
On my return to Charlevoix today, the action by the City Council at the meeting of January 22, as described in the January 24 issue of the Charlevoix Courier, was called to my attention.

We have always followed the procedure of first contacting the city superintendent with the understanding that whatever we requested required a legal opinion, the city attorney would be contacted by the city superintendent, and if they then decided the matter should be taken up with the Council, we were so advised. In recent years, however, there seems to be a better of confusion.

We have had repeated contacts with the City regarding the supply of water for our fire protection sprinkler system for over three years.

When planning our last large expansion in 1965, we were assured by the City that there would be adequate water to properly supply the expanded sprinkler system. Assuming there would be sufficient water, we did not include the cost of water in the original plans.

After the expansion was completed, tests conducted by the rating bureau indicated there was an insufficient supply of water. We met several times with the city superintendent and the City Council to determine if there was any possible way city or federal cooperation could be solicited to aid us in financing a method for supplying sufficient water. Following these meetings we came to the conclusion that it would not be within the City's means to supply the water or aid us in financing.

We had one last thought that since the City undoubtedly would find it necessary to provide a greater supply of water for the south side of Charlevoix within the next few years, it might be feasible for them to enter into a cooperative program with Article 1702 under the City Ordinance authorizes the City Council to act as a Board

Prior to the Council meeting, our attorney informed us that Article 1702 under the City Ordinance authorizes the City Council to act as a Board

Very truly yours,
Gordon L. Freedman

WE MUST SEEK THE TRUTH

Constantly in search of the TRUTH the scientist takes nothing for granted. Each "hearsay", each theory, is tested and tried and accepted or discarded on the condition that it proves true or false. The true scientist never jumps to conclusions, consequently you will never hear him proclaiming the self-sufficiency of man — that man needs no spiritual power.

The Church is also a center for the search and dispensation of truth in things other than the material, the things one cannot discern by the physical senses. If each of us would be free we must know the truth and if each of us is active in the work of the church that fits our needs "We Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make Us Free."

THE ICE in front of Swan Valley Marina near East Jordan on the South Arm became a popular landing strip after Mr. and Mrs. Don Ziegler of Detroit landed the plane in foreground in front of their cottage next to the marina. East Jordan Councilman and flying enthusiast Harry Watson reports a half dozen or more other planes followed Ziegler's lead. The Piper in the background is ski-equipped. Ziegler, a Detroit toolmaker and former test pilot got his heavy four-seater Commanche stuck in heavy snow on the ice and was pushed out by neighbors.

Deluxe Multicycle

No feature of quality has been spared in this line of all automatics. It's a dream washer with a special cycle for Durable Press, Wash-and-Wear and Synthetic fabrics—making it a truly 100% all-fabric washer. Other features include: Nickel stainless steel tub—bleach dispenser—fabric softener dispenser—automatic lint and sediment removal—hot, warm, coldwater selection—special soak cycle—normal and durable press cycles—full-drive—and many others. Available with suds savor—Model A78F.

Model MA77F—“Shur-Fil”

This deluxe model is the same as the model A78F except it is designed for homes with low water pressure. Tub fills for a full hour automatically. Push button stops fill for partial loads.

Model MA76—Custom Multicycle

If you prefer a porcelain tub—and at the same time can save money—you will be interested in this model. It has hot, warm, cold water selection—brisk and gentle speeds—normal, durable press and soak cycles—and automatic lint and sediment removal. Also has fabric softener dispenser.

Model MA75—“Shur-Fil”

Same as MA78 except has automatic control to assure complete tub fill under low water pressure conditions. Push button stops fill for partial loads.

Model MA72—Thriftomatic

Although this model is the lowest priced in the line, it does not sacrifice basic Speed Queen quality or mechanical dependability. The large tub is porcelain with plastic agitator, and the washing speed is “Brisk” only. Hot, warm, cold water selection. Special soak cycle for delicate items. Automatic lint and sediment removal. A terrific value!

School bond vote April 1 if merger defeated

CHARLEVOIX -- The school board Monday evening set April 1 for an election on a $2,090,000 school building program. The bond issue vote will be called off if the Feb. 19 vote on merging Charlevoix and East Jordan schools passes.

The election date for the alternate building program should Charlevoix proceed as an independent school district was set Monday so the district could move ahead with its own plans in time to start construction this spring, Supt. Rex Milligan said.

THE $2 MILLION bonding proposal would build a 29 classroom lower elementary school on the district's new 26-acre site on Division Ave., enlarge and improve the present elementary school into a “middle grades” school and add two classrooms, an auditorium and expanded bus garage facilities at the high school.

Library notes

Story Hour for pre-school children will be held Feb. 9 at 10 and 11 a.m.

An overdue book was recently returned to the Charlevoix Library by mail from Phoenix, Arizona. According to the card in the pocket, it was the August 19, 1922.

At the current rate of 2¢ per day, a quick estimate of the fine would be about $275! However, no effort will be made to collect any part of this fine. Instead, the library staff is grateful to the sender for returning a book that is of particular interest to Charlevoix readers. It is a copy of Elizabeth Whitney Williams' memoir, “Child of the Sea”, published in 1905 and now out of print. In it, the author tells of her childhood in northern Michigan in the early 1800's, particularly the years spent Milligan estimated it will take approximately four mills, on the district's 1968-69 valuation, to pay off the bond issue—and interest over 25 years. The amount of millage required would decrease as the district's taxable property valuation increases.

The comparison, the same architect who designed the $2 million Charlevoix expansion program, estimates it will cost $4.3 million to build a consolidated high school and make improvements in existing schools if the Charlevoix and East Jordan districts merge.

Chamber Chat
BY WALLY LODER

No longer can a community hide behind a facade of quiet peacefulness, of pastoral tranquility and self-sufficiency. The sewage effluent from a community of retired folks is just as lethal and just as potent as the effluent from a new and vibrant community.

Burning leaves and burning rubbish smell the same the world over, and the smoke from a new school may be just as pungent and perhaps more damaging than the variety of smokes and smells from the village dump. No longer can a community claim the sole right to use or to misuse the life-giving water that flows through the heart of their village, without a thought of their neighbor community down stream.

COMMUNITIES across the nation are awakening to the fact that what they do or do not do affects their neighbor greatly. And what they do also affects their county, their state and ultimately the nation.

Yes sir, folks, there are no good excuses for violation, we have been educated, via one means or another, and most certainly we are aware of “pollution” and what happens when not corrected. To give you some idea of what goes on at your Chamber, I quote to part from two letters received this week.

“Dear Mr. Loder, You are indeed a credit to your community and regardless of where we spend our vacation, I am always thankful for your patience and prompt attention to my inquiries. It is easy to see why Charlevoix has become a favorite stop for many of my acquaintances.” This came from a party at Montague, Michigan who has done, then definitely planned next summer's vacation at Charlevoix.

Courier leads North in newspaper awards

The Charlevoix Courier, again this year, captured more awards in open competition with Michigan newspapers than any other paper in the north.

The Courier won two awards at the annual meeting of the Michigan Press Association last weekend at Michigan State University.

Heading the list of winners this year are the Birmingham Eclectic, with three awards, followed by the Charlevoix Courier, Associated Newspapers of suburban Wayne County, Dearborn Press, East Lansing Towne Courier, Lapeer County Press and Wyandotte News-Herald, all with two awards each.

The Courier won awards for its editorial page and advertising idea of the year. The Courier's editorial page placed second behind the Birmingham Eclectic. The Courier's Medusa dedication supplement placed second behind the Lapeer County Press.

The only other northern Michigan newspaper winning honors in the annual contest was also a Charlevoix County paper, the Boyne Citizen, whose editor, Gregg Smith, captured third place honors for feature writing.

estimated 7 mills for 30 years to pay off a $4.3 million bond issue and interest for a consolidated district. Seven mills over 30 years would raise approximately $3,300,000 more than four mills over 25 years.

If Charlevoix citizens elect not to merge with East Jordan and approve the $2 million bond issue, the new elementary school should open in September of 1970.

East Jordan citizens will be faced with a $1.9 million bond issue to improve and add to their school facilities if the merger is rejected.

At the Courier we're pleased as punch to take second place against fine weekly papers like the Birmingham Eccentric and the Lapeer County Press. Both of these papers are published in communities many times larger than Charlevoix, and recognized throughout the nation as standards of weekly newspaper excellence.

Of the 100 newspapers that competed, the Charlevoix Courier was the only Northern Michigan newspaper to win two major awards of excellence.

Rayder fans

ARDENT CHARLEVOIX High School athletic team fans have for several years been flirting with the idea of organizing an adult boosters club. Now that the school has joined the bigger and tougher Huron Straits class B league the need for a Rayder Booster Club has taken on a degree of urgency which is recognized by many parents and alumni.

Coach Don Carey has outlined the problems facing Rayder teams in the next few years. Due to long drives to unfamiliar towns, Carey has said, there is a very real possibility that spectator support of CHS teams will dwindle. As the fans stop following the teams, the players, most assuredly, are going to lose some of their traditional enthusiasm and determination.

FURTHER, IT is going to cost more to transport players and spectators longer distances. Carey has suggested a coach-type bus be made available for the team to travel in. Cost has been estimated at $20,000-plus.

A Rayder Booster Club could directly thwart off many of the problems Carey sees cropping up.

Club members would hold regular "bull sessions" to go over last week's games with the coaches and each other.

More frequent and meaningful ways would be found to make the boys know we appreciate their sacrifices.

Fund raising drives could be organized to raise a share of the money (with the school board doing its share) for such things as busses, a fence around the athletic field and other things Carey and the players feel necessary.

There are numerous Rayder boosters who have experience and a wealth of ideas along these lines. The thing now is to get them together and pulling as a unit for the boys.

BOB LIEBERMAN and Bill Carey were pondering some thoughts for getting things rolling the other day. It was suggested that maybe a couple of charter bus trips to remaining away basketball games could be organized yet this season. This, hopefully, would get together the nucleus from which to build a hard-working Boosters Club before football season starts in September.

Bob and Bill were only thinking out loud over a cup of coffee. They weren't volunteering to undertake the work involved in setting up a charter bus trip. So we hope they'll forgive us if we suggest that if you're interested you give them a call and let them know you'd like to pay your fare on the charter bus trip.

Chamber chat

THINGS KEEP happening at the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce. Even the City Council is sitting up and taking notice. Businessmen are candidly smirking with content over Wally Loder's "get things done" approach to his job as Chamber secretary-manager.

It's a fair statement to say no one on Bridge St. would have believed a year ago that the Chamber in January 1967 would have all of its bills paid, its rent paid three months in advance and $1,000 in the bank. Financially, the Chamber was bankrupt last year at this time.

MONEY WOES WEREN'T however, the Chamber's only dilemma a year ago. It was also stagnated and had incurred the bad will of the majority of Charlevoix businessmen. Many people foresaw its complete collapse... and many couldn't have cared less.

Today, one year later, the Chamber has resumed its position of leadership. Chamber directors are almost cocky—which they should be.

Whereas a year ago when Ron Peterson was elected Chamber president it took courage to accept the position, and a man of Peterson's determination to keep the chamber alive. This year Chuck Carey can take the reins with pride and confidence that he has the backing of the majority of the community's businessmen and citizens.

Loder and the Chamber's directors have taken the initiative in seeing that Charlevoix is prepared for the predicted onslaught of salmon and steelhead fishermen. Loder has set up a committee to make plans for what he calls "Project Coho."

Chamber directors have accepted personal responsibility as chairmen—for seeing that individual committees function. In the past Chamber committees have often been nothing more than names on paper.

Doing it on our own

CHARLEVOIX'S SCHOOL board and administration rates a round of applause. It appears after principal Ray Carr's announcement last week that more than 200 students this year are taking classes that were not offered a year ago.

During a recent PTA discussion Bill Carey, we believe it was, commented that he believes Charlevoix can enlarge its curriculum and continue to develop a better school program without merging with another school district. Carr's report to the school board tends to convince us the school is already proving the soundness of Carey's opinion.

Now and better things are also happening to the elementary school program.

Those progressive, responsible changes do not, of course, prove we should not consider the proposal to merge with East Jordan. But they should be seriously considered by voters when they go to the polls Feb. 19.

and ninth and tenth grade physical education.

Carr is working on plans to enlarge the vocational program, divide the office practices and business machines course into two separate courses and a class in drama will be offered the second semester.

That the school can do this in its present cramped quarters indicates that much more will be done if a new elementary school is constructed, relieving the pressure at the high school.

Now and better things are also happening to the elementary school program.

Those progressive, responsible changes do not, of course, prove we should not consider the proposal to merge with East Jordan. But they should be seriously considered by voters when they go to the polls Feb. 19.

He's crazy about making cement

by GLEN SHEPPARD

CHARLEVOIX—A man who started making cement when horses were common in quarries is running the world's first push button cement plant.

Today THE SHOVEL, his crew operates on South Point, where he is plant manager, takes a 15-ton pile out of the ground at a crack.

It's tempting to write that Hank Krebs is the cement industry and the cement industry is Hank Krebs.

Krebs' dad was Medusa's first employee in its first cement plant.

ment in his face and eyes, the first thing a visitor notices in the South Point plant manager's unpretentious office is three .22 caliber rifle bullets on the desk.

There are a lot of rabbits out by the plant and the guy probably takes a few minutes to hunt for them on his way home, you hardly explain. A lot of people up here carry 22 shells in their pockets all the time, you add, hoping to dispel the manager's fears of assassination.

Then you know you've been taken in. Krebs is sitting there grinning, the first worried about anybody in his plant going after him with a gun. In 50 years, he proudly points out, he has never had to fire a man.

After taking in Krebs' athletic 6-foot-plus frame, trim white mustache and the almost Walt Disneyish excite-

Vocational smokescreen

The committee named to study curriculum opportunities if Charlevoix and East Jordan schools merge had to be so busy with the result that a vocational education smokescreen in a report given them.

The report, prepared largely by Del Terrill of Charlevoix schools and East Jordan High School principal Keith Amear outlined a long and attractive list of vocational courses the merger supposedly could make possible.

It was stated these courses are not now offered at East Jordan or Charlevoix. Which, of course, is literally true. But the courses are now offered at East Jordan and Charlevoix schools. So the statement has to be interpreted as misleading.

STUDENTS AT BOTH schools can now take a wide range of quality vocational education courses at Pottery, Pottery's Vocational Education Center was built for all area students. Charlevoix is now sending some students to Pottery and Sup. Rex Milligan reports he is highly satisfied with the training they are receiving and their progress.

Charlevoix and East Jordan can send students to Pottery, for like, one-fifth, or less, of what it will cost to build our own vocational training facility. Someday Pottery's Voc. Center may be filled. When it is we may find it desirable to build another Center.

The high school proposed by the architect for the merged schools does not include a vocational center. It does, and probably very wisely, include much expanded industrial arts preparatory facilities. This, the educators convincingly tell us, we need so our vocational students are ready for advanced programs when they go to Pottery.—Shep.

Mr. and Mrs. John Geer were the parents of baby born Jan. 13.

THREE VIEWS of Medusa's master cement maker, Hank Krebs, as he talks about 50 years of "poking frozen stones out of bins" and the "good life" of a Medusa veteran.

He started work at the Bay Bridge plant with his dad when he was 14 because there wasn't anything else to do. The family lived in a company house. There was no transportation to other towns where things were doing, so working in the quarry with a shovel was about the only way a teenager could work off his excess energy.

Even going to school took a lot of determination. To get his high school degree Krebs walked seven miles a day. But he found time to earn a place on the Ohio all-state basketball and football teams and earn three gold medals as Ohio's number one high school track star in the hurdles, high jump and shot put.

Getting his high school degree in 1922 he went to work fulltime for Medusa as what he says was then called "a sample grabber" and is now called a lab technician.

BUT HE DIDN'T give up athletics. For the next eight years he played semi-pro basketball and football. In 1925 he was promoted to chief clerk (now called office manager) of Medusa's Toledo plant. He figured he was going in the wrong direction and got transferred to a maintenance job. During the next 20 years he progressed up the ladder until in 1950 he was transferred back to Bay Bridge as plant manager.

Island Supervisor opposes modernizing County Board

Sheppard might also take into consideration that this is the first time that the Board has met on the one day schedule and he might give them a little chance to get organized under the new set up. He believes the cost to the county but has he considered the cost of his suggested expert manager's salary, office, staff and the three or four or five man board that would be nearly full time? And though he states otherwise, his set up would very definitely be getting far away from the people that pay the taxes and have a reasonable right to demand a first hand contact in what is going on and how it is to be paid for.

Library gift appreciated

In any case, I don't think anyone who will give this problem a little serious thought would care to go along with this sort of Communist type of government and if Sheppard will give the Board a chance I am sure adjustments will be made that might even meet with his approval.

I am writing this as a citizen and a taxpayer and not as a Supervisor and personally am willing to pay the shot to retain what we have rather than to lose one of the few rights we have left and revert to a worse, more costly form of organized confusion.

"I was right back with the kids I grew up with," he says with the kind of nostalgic smalltown people recognition.

In 1924 Medusa launched a company-wide expansion and modernizing program. The York, Pa. plant was picked as the one to serve as a model of what a retrofit, Atomic Age plant should be. Hank Krebs was picked to manage it.

In 1929 Mr. and Mrs. Krebs lost their son. They wanted to go back home, to Ohio. His tongue still gets heavy and his throat, gritty when he tells it. Medusa understood. He was transferred to the home office in Cleveland as construction superintendent over all company plants.

In anticipation of retirement this year Mr. and Mrs. Krebs bought a home at Cedar Point, Ohio on Lake Erie, near Bay Bridge. The water, there, he explains, is still clean enough to swim in, but no one here as clean as Lake Michigan here.

People tell him, Krebs says, that he will want to retire in Charlevoix. He isn't convinced yet. Lake Erie's old fishing grounds still mean a lot to him. But he is sold on Charlevoix's golf courses, having played both the Belvedere and city course last summer.

Mrs. Krebs, a former school teacher, didn't "hesitate a minute" when he approached her about the company's request that they transfer to Charlevoix, Krebs points out.

COMING TO CHARLEVOIX, he says you get to reading after you've been talking to him a few minutes, "was in a way an honor and in a way a matter of how crazy can you get."

Hank Krebs, even a casual visitor can figure out, is crazy about making cement.

Making cement in Charlevoix, though, calls for a different set of priorities. Production has always been the first priority of the cement business.

"Here we have to make people dust conscious, first—then production comes," Krebs believes.

'Thank You' concert Sunday by CHSband

CHARLEVOIX -- The new band uniforms have arrived. The 105 new uniforms were distributed to members of the Charlevoix High School Band last week -- and the band wishes to express its "Thank You" to the community by presenting a complimentary "Thank You" concert next Sunday afternoon at 8:30 p.m. in the High School Gymnasium, at the first time in their new uniforms.

A sixty minute program of band favorites will be presented, by the 105 piece band. Several selections will also be presented by the pep band, heard weekly at the basketball games.

NO ADMISSION fee being charged. All are welcome. A special invitation is being made to the 90 individuals and organizations who so far have contributed almost $5,000 to the uniform fund.

George Lusk, President of the Band Boosters Association, announced last week that the drive to still $400 shy of its minimum goal -- 50% of the cost of the uniforms, and urges all who wish to contribute to the effort to do so immediately, so as to reduce the amount that will have to be financed.

Representatives of the Band Boosters Association will be present on Sunday to accept the contributions of any who wish to do so.

The "Thank You" concert is Sunday, February 11, at 8:30 p.m. No admission. It will last about one hour.

Obituaries

Capt. Joseph Howard

CHARLEVOIX -- Capt. Joseph F. Howard, 90, retired harbor master here, died early Wednesday, Jan. 31, at Charlevoix Hospital where he had been a patient since Sunday.

Funeral services were held at St. Mary's church 11 a.m. Friday. Burial was in Brookside cemetery. The body was at the Winchester Funeral Home where the body was lying in state.

Survivors include a nephew and a niece.

Born in Cleveland, Ohio Nov. 28, 1877, Mr. Howard signed on as a cabin boy aboard Great Lakes passenger vessels at the age of 14 years.

Later he became associated with passenger ships of the Great Lakes. He was with the O'Neill Fisheries for 12 years and later with the O.E. Wilbur Transit Co. when he was killed.

JOE HOWARD

EAST JORDAN -- Funeral services for Joe Howard, 87, eight manager at the Harbor Inn in Harbor Springs, until recently, were held at the Watson Funeral Home here at 2 p.m. Monday with the Rev. Daniel Axt officiating. Burial was in Sunset Hill cemetery.

Mr. Howard died Friday at Lockwood -- Macdonald Hospital in Petoskey where he had been a patient since December 30.

Born in Midland County September 3, 1880, Mr. Howard went to Reed City as a young man and was employed at a milling company there. Later he worked at the Traverse City Iron Works before coming to East Jordan about 1909.

Surviving are his wife, Edith, and three children, Allen C. Howard of Dayton, Ohio, and John C. Howard of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Charles C. Cellner

CHARLEVOIX -- Funeral services for Charles C. Cellner, 73, retired harbor master, were held at the Winchester Funeral Home at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday with the Rev. George L. Majors officiating. Burial was in Brookside cemetery.

Mr. Cellner died unexpectedly Friday at Venice, Fla., where he was spending the winter months.

Born at Mt. Pleasant, Pa., February 15, 1894, Mr. Cellner came to Charlevoix county in 1910. He served with the U.S. Army during World War I. In 1924 he was married to the former Helen Garland in Charlevoix. They made their home in Marlon township where he operated a farm until his retirement in 1947 when they moved to Charlevoix. He later was employed as a yard man at the Chicago Club until he retired eight years ago. He was a member of the Leslie T. Sington Post No. 226, American Legion, and the Community Church of God. Mrs. Cellner preceded him in death in September 1960.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. George (Anne) Hamaty of Hastings; five grandchildren; a brother, William of Emmett and a sister, Mrs. Emma Nelson of Long Beach, Calif.

WE MUST SEEK THE TRUTH

Constantly in search of the TRUTH the scientist takes nothing for granted. Each "theory", each theory, is tested and tried and accepted or discarded on the condition that it proves true or false. The true scientist never jumps to conclusions, consequently you will never hear him proclaiming the self-sufficiency of man—that man needs no spiritual power.

The Church is also a center for the search and dissemination of truth in things other than the material, the things one cannot discern by the physical senses. If each of us would be free we must know the truth and if each of us is active in the work of the church that fits our needs "We Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make Us Free."

Chamber Chat

Regretted very much to have to postpone the 1968 Winter Ice Review previously scheduled for Saturday evening, February 3 at the Elementary School ice skating rink. Much the same, rain and quite possible poor ice, if any, for the scheduled performance. I hear many complaints, generally having to do with time involved from origin to destination and, too, cost. I, for one, am yet convinced there are phases in our general economy that can well be handled and for less money by private enterprise. I have been making observations and an example, a package of brochures from Helena, Montana, enclosed to your Chamber at Charlevoix via United Parcel Service was shipped January 26 and delivered February 1, as a cost to the shipper of 46 cents. The same shipment via U.S. government Parcel Post would have cost at least 85 cents, unfortunately, I can not indicate transit time.

Since the disaster at Bay Shore a few weeks ago, naturally we have been concerned as to the outcome and, accordingly, I have been communicating with an authority under whose command is this Air Force facility. A recent letter from this gentleman indicated he had official contact lately with Assistant Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations of Strategic Air Command Headquarters and at the time he was directed to re-instate a temporary scoring facility. However, he had not yet the "go ahead" for construction of an entirely new site, but he said they are already preparing drawings, specifications, etc. They plan to start scoring again about February 10 or 12, 1968. Thus, it appears we will continue to have a large number of this base personnel within our general economy should not "Project Chat" committee had its first meeting at the Chamber's office Thursday evening, February 1, members present: Wm. Quite a number of avenues, so to speak, were

Schooner salvage planned

CHARLEVOIX -- William Carter, 202 Michigan Ave., has asked the Army Corps of Engineers for permission to salvage a sailing schooner off a reef along the southwest shore of N. Fox Island. Carter makes furniture and decorative pieces from the timbers of sunken Great Lakes ships.

The wreck is on and partially covered by a shoal along the island about 27 miles northwest of Charlevoix, off the southwest tip of Beaver Island. The Corps of Engineers will consider objections to the salvage plan if it received them in writing by Feb. 29 at its Detroit District office.

Courage needed

MEN WHO MAKE speeches and pass laws against pollution are as commonplace as advocates of Sunday School and motherhood. Men with the dedication to enforce anti-pollution laws are rare and ever more important in our stumbling, last-minute dash to save some of our air and water from man's lust for sootling it.

But the rarest of the rare are politicians with the courage and character to stand unwavering behind men who would enforce the anti-pollution laws they pass.

FOR DECADES MICHIGAN and Charlevoix have had effective laws against water pollution. Had they been enforced many Michigan lakes would not be suffocating in fifth. Charlevoix's City Council passed a law some 30 years ago making it illegal to empty boat toilets into Round Lake. The law is still on the books, but no one knows of a single instance when it was enforced.

Last Spring the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors, after considerable pressure from concerned citizens, passed rigid controls to halt pollution from septic tanks. Experts in such things told us our "Sanitation Code" was one of the state's finest.

One of the state's most determined civil servants—John Reynolds—was given the responsibility for seeing that the code was enforced.

Some people who owned water frontage in areas where there is high ground water levels or soil that will not absorb sewage before it mixes with lake waters objected when told they have to buy more property or add tons of fill before installing septic systems.

IT DID NOT SEEM to impress some of the less rational and more selfish property owners that Reynolds had consulted with soil experts and used accepted scientific methods to determine whether their planned septic system would create added pollution.

A few people who have for years been flushing their sewage into our lakes became violently angry when told they had to spend money to quit dirtying the public's water.

Most people, of course, were grateful to get qualified technical assistance in designing septic systems that will not contribute to the further decay of Lake Charlevoix, Walloon and others.

But a selfish few insisted that their township supervisors get more "reasonable" men to enforce the county's anti-pollution law. There has been much loud talk from a minority of members at the last two County Board of Supervisors meetings about relegating enforcement of the Sanitation Code to someone who is more willing to compromise with pollution than Reynolds is.

We've seen it happen too often before when the politicians couldn't stand the heat. We hope it doesn't happen here, again. If it does the pollution battle will have another martyr—John Reynolds.

Saving the Jordan

THE COURIER is frequently outspoken in its opinion of Conservation Dept. activities and motives. It is time, we think, to speak out again.

This time it is the Conservation Dept.'s persistent effort to purchase property along the Jordan River that spurs our words. A more worthwhile, fitting cause could not be found. It, in many ways, reminds us that the department has not been completely infiltrated by political espionage and bureaucratic greed. It is good to know that there are still some people in the department who are determined that some portion of our great wilderness heritage will be preserved.

TIME AFTER TIME at last year's "Save the Jordan" meetings citizens expressed a feeling of futility over such grand schemes, pointing out that man's march to "better things" has destroyed everything of natural grandeur in its wake. No matter how many laws are passed, they reminded others, man will eventually destroy the Jordan, just as he has the AuSable and others.

If the Jordan is saved, it will be the only major Lower Michigan trout stream to escape man's deadly mauling. Conservationists who didn't even know the Jordan were inspired by this grand dream.

If the Conservation Dept. continues and succeeds with its effort to buy enough of the property along the Jordan to assure it will remain relatively unmoled, Michigan Conservationists will have won one of their greatest victories.

It is our hope the Courier will be joined by others who share our dream in expressing thanks and encouragement to the department.

Court should decide

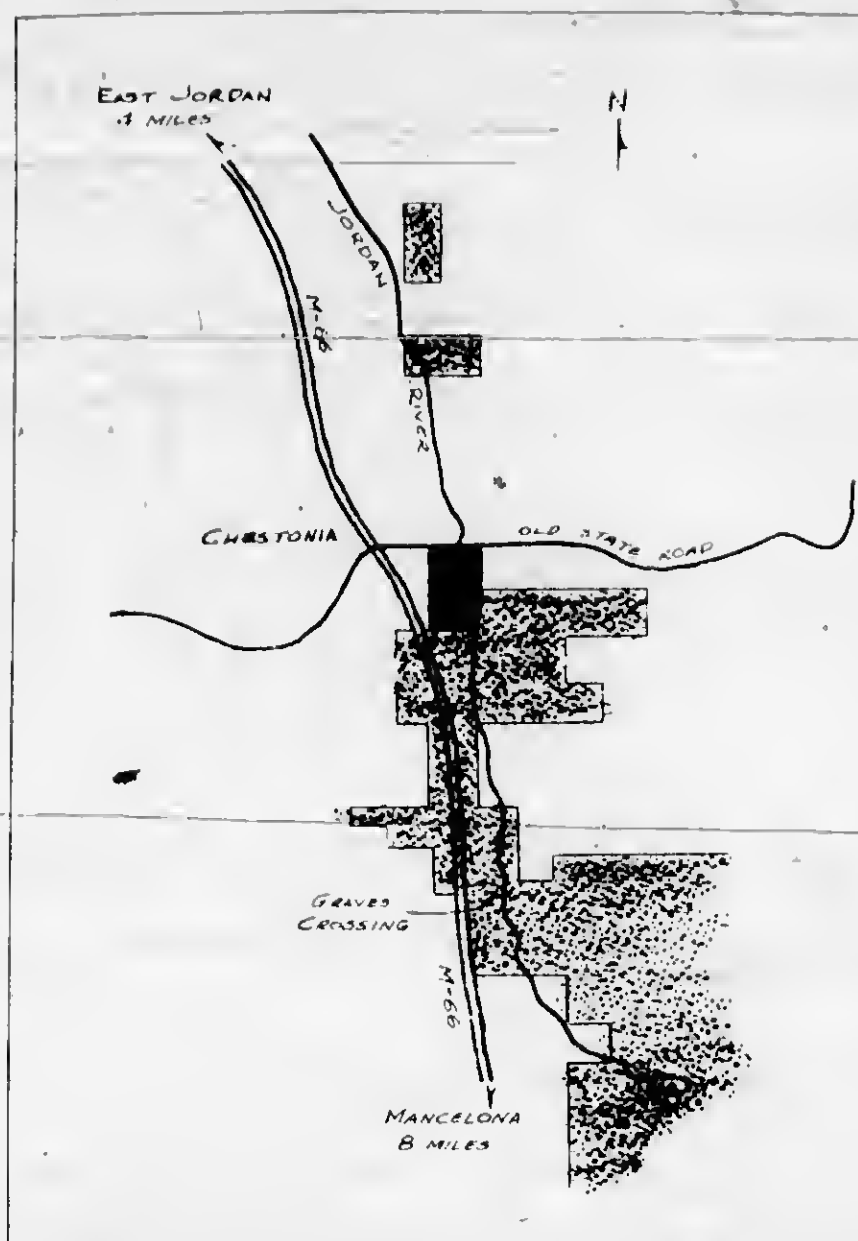

SIX PROPERTY owners on the north edge of the proposed Hampton Court subdivision have taken their grievance against the City Council to court. We would like to salute them. Our support of their action is given not because they are right and the city is wrong, but because they are using the machinery of our democratic society as it should be used.

The charges of conflict of interest against the City Attorney should be heard and settled in court, rather than allowed to simmer and brew lasting hatreds and doubts for years. Circuit Judge Charles Brown, more importantly, is being asked to decide whether the council acted arbitrarily when it went against six of the eight parties involved and placed a special assessment on them for construction of a street into the subdivision.

The Council argued it was acting in the best interest of the majority of citizens due to the city's allegedly critical shortage of new building lots.

Our court system was set up for just this purpose: to give citizens an opportunity to obtain a hearing and, hopefully, justice when they feel routine channels have failed. We applaud the six property owners for insisting on utilizing their citizenship to the fullest.

In all fairness, though, it must be added that we hope Mrs. Jean Vogler, one of the plaintiffs, did not time the court suit to get the most advantage from it in her Feb. 19 primary election challenge of incumbent councilman Jerry Whitley.

State buys Jordan frontage

This map, prepared by State Forester Jack Lockwood, shows the Conservation Dept.'s steady progress in acquiring the land along the Jordan River that is necessary if it is to be preserved as the only major river in the Lower Peninsula whose cleanliness and natural beauty is not destroyed by man.

The blackened area about the center of the map is the 100 "key" acres the department obtained last month on the south side of the Chestonia Bridge. The lightly shaded areas are state-owned land that was purchased earlier.

Several important purchases have also been made by the state recently in the river's headwaters, which is not shown here.

Freedman explains company's position

Dear Editor:

In the January 31 issue of The Courier was displayed the full text of our letter of January 26 to the Mayor of Charlevoix as a paid advertisement.

We wish to make it crystal clear that we have no particular quarrel with, or criticism of, anyone representing the City of Charlevoix. However, we do take issue with some implied statements indicating we tend to rush things through at the last moment.

WE HAVE ALWAYS quietly gone about our business, planning our affairs well in advance. We have aired a few facts at this time which are really of a minor nature, as I feel it is not fair to everyone who has worked hard at Freedman Aircraft that it be implied we are impetuous.

The very nature of our business and the means of keeping us alive in a business noted for high mortality is due to careful planning months and years in advance.

Our main assets are all the people who work at Freedman Aircraft, and a certain something Charlevoix has which enables us all to pitch in and do a better job than our competitors. We realize City officials and members of the Council have many issues and details to administer in addition to running their own personal affairs, and on occasion something can slip by. While we have no particular criticism of the manner in which the affairs of the City are conducted, we do resent that when something has slipped by unnoticed, or an ordinance is misinterpreted, implied criticism is directed toward Freedman Aircraft. We make many mistakes of our own, and are always quick to forget honest mistakes made by others.

In closing I wish to emphasize how much we do appreciate the services of the City of Charlevoix, particularly the patience and quick efficiency of the Fire Department, the Police Department, City electric crew, and all others who are always willing at a moment's notice to come to our aid.

Gordon L. Freedman
President

Morning glass of hot water a sure cure

50 Years Ago

One of the most stubborn fires Charlevoix has seen in years occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Butters on State St. Firemen claim they have never seen a fire where there was so little flame and so much smoke. All that survived were smoldering remains.

The federal government warned Charlevoix that law forbids them to probe into the movements, personnel, destination or cargo of government vessels in the Charlevoix Harbor. Citizens were asked to curb their curiosity and told curiosity killed the cat.

Charlevoix men and women were informed they would no longer feel nervous, despondent, worried, headachy, dull and unstrung if they would drink a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast.

School treasurer outlines reason against merger

Dear Editor:

I would like to thank you for the courage you gave the consolidation issue in the Courier. May I take this opportunity to further explain to the people of Charlevoix some of the main issues and facts that they should seriously evaluate before voting on February 18.

I want the people of Charlevoix to realize that if they vote for this merger, this will be it. There is no further chance of voting again and undoing something which I know they would be sorry for. In we want quality education or quality education I have been personally contacted by several townships and asked if I wouldn't present a few facts for the public to consider.

WE WERE APPROACHED by the East Jordan Board, on the same night which we were planning to go ahead with our own building program, and the Charlevoix Board, by a vote of 4 to 3 decided to put this hot potato into the voters' laps. In the original proposal by the State of Michigan, they considered it ideal to have Peabody as a school district, Charlevoix as one, Boyne City as one, and for the East Jordan, Ellsworth, and Central Lake school districts to merge as one. East Jordan tried the state's proposal, with the other two schools, and it went over like a lead sinker. Then, they approached the Boyne City Board on various occasions, and they didn't even give them the time of day on this suggestion of merger with them. Now, they want us to consolidate with the State of Michigan, which is one of the wealthiest school districts in the state (valuation per student). This amounts to approximately $20,000 behind each child in school as compared to $11,000 per child in East Jordan. Also, we are increasing valuation wise at about 4 times the rate which they are. This year we are paying in taxes, for operational purposes, $15.40 per thousand valuation, and East Jordan is paying $23.40.

2. We, the Charlevoix Board, have proposed an expansion program which will cost us approximately $400 per thousand of assessed valuation for a period of 25 years. If we merge, Max Danoh is quoted as saying on the front page of the East Jordan News (Jan. 25 issue) that the millage would be about $7.20 per thousand dollars for a period of 30 years. Compare. Also, to show you that you can do anything with figures that you want, they didn't tell you what the figure would be if we shortened our contract back to 15 years, for the figure would not compare favorably with the one quoted above.

3. I fully realize a lot of Charlevoixians, through not having the information at the present time on our own building program, are questioning the word "auditorium" in our building program. Our auditorium would seat 600 people, and would be attached to our present band room. The proposed auditorium in the merger, which would be located in some farmer's hayfield, would seat 300 people. Was planning? Our auditorium seats would have a collapsible arm which would come up to serve as a student's desk, and would make a wonderful study hall, and also a nice big classroom.

4. IN OUR OWN BUILDING program, we have made provisions for 8 more stalls at the bus garage to keep our vehicles in, which isn't even included at all in the merger program. A item which might also be of interest to you, is the fact that Charlevoix is able to transport students within the city limits free of charge. This is an extra courtesy which other area schools are not doing.

5. Under our own program we are proposing 25 classrooms plus numerous other related classrooms, on the north side of town. Under the merger, there would be 8 classrooms on the north side, plus our other present schools and the merger school.

I have noticed that through the years, the Charlevoix planners and public officials have done their utmost to see that quality always prevailed in the buildings they have built, and the equipment (vehicles, etc) they have bought. Also, the pride of the officials in seeing that the vehicles of our city and school, are always kept in top shape. I noticed that at the fire at the radar site, when all area fire trucks arrived on the scene, that you wouldn't even have to look at the name on the Charlevoix truck, for despite its 14 year of age, it out shone anything else around. Notice the outstanding example of Charlevoix's school buses when they are parked among 50 others. They are so clean and shining, that it makes one proud to be from Charlevoix. This is all civic pride. This is Charlevoix. Don't sell us down the river.

9. If you are wondering what a shiny fire truck or school bus have to do with our school curriculum, it is just to show you that our officials are concerned and are doing their utmost to keep quality in everything representing Charlevoix.

Forty years ago, when the present elementary school was built, they had community pride at that time, evidenced by the excellent construction of this building. Our architect told us it still has a life expectancy of 20 years. Consider the year 1927, with the Model T. Ford still on the production line. A kindergarten with a fish pond that spouted water in it, and a fireplace, which through the years held memories for all the children who were privileged like myself, to attend it. A foyer with a ceiling on it which today, would be fitting in any high class building. The people of this community at that time as well as now, felt that quality was important.

You might be interested in knowing that 70% of our graduates go on to a Junior or Senior College, and approximately another 20% go on to some form of higher education. This compares to a state average of between 35 and 40%. Now isn't this quality education we're giving them? Why change?

Also, our dropout rate is 2.5%, compared with a state average of approximately 30%. I obtained these figures from Dr. Ratigan, our school guidance counselor.

Let's not be foolish enough to let some fellow from Lansing tell us how great a merger would be for us.

Just recently Charlevoix was one of three bands in the whole state of Michigan, to be invited to play for the Midwestern conference of Band Directors in Ann Arbor. This is a great honor, and our band, under the direction of Mr. Olmstead, is one to be praised very highly. We don't want to lose this close personal work which he does with each member. This, we feel, is very necessary for each student in every class we have. If you will remember, Charlevoix, Gaylord and Boyne City were kicked out of our conference because the other schools figured we were too good for their teams. Just another evidence of the personal help the boys get from their coaches, which may be lacking in a merger. Charlevoix has always had terrific school spirit and great teams. Let's not jeopardize this.

We have the facts of former years, the proof of the continuing progress of Charlevoix, as evidenced by our progress all over town, and the promise of a bright future. This is a matter of life or death for the Charlevoix public school, as it now exists, so whether you're 21 or 41, be sure to get out and vote No on the consolidation issue.

Treasurer, Charlevoix Public Schools

Head Start classes due this summer

Head Start classes are tentatively scheduled for the summer of 1968 in Charlevoix and East Jordan. According to Leonard Kaczorowski, area director of the War on Poverty, the classes will be held in the summer of 1968.

Kaczorowski said application has been made to the federal government for approximately $5,000 for the two local Head Start classes. Each class would have 15 children.

Boys' Fall is also expected to have a Head Start class again this summer.

Coho planning starts

CHARLEVOIX—The Chamber of Commerce's Project Coho Committee got down to work on specifics last week.

The committee elected Dave Julier as chairman and decided to hold a public hearing on the project at the Chamber of Commerce on Feb. 14.

An informal survey to determine what facilities and business services are now available for fishermen was launched, under the direction of Chamber Secretary, Manager Wally Loker.

Great Lakes Fisheries Survey Station chief Myrt Keller, a committee member, recommended a survey be made before the committee attempts to determine what new facilities are needed. Keller agreed to have a department expert analyze the community's existing assets and point out what new facilities and services will be needed when the survey is completed.

Businessmen who have facilities or services they plan to make available to fishermen were asked by Loker to contact him at the Chamber.

By concentrating boat launching, parking, information and other services in the area, Loker said.

The need for enforcement of litter laws and facilities to handle litter was discussed. It was suggested the Chamber provide litter bags at an information booth.

The committee will meet again after Loker has completed the survey of existing facilities and services.

Ferry Ave. beach area, committee members felt traffic congestion, litter and other problems would be avoided.

MAYOR BILL FORTIN and City Manager Jim Taylor said the city realizes the need for a parking lot at the Ferry Ave. beach area and that they will probably be constructed before the color run starts in the fall of 1969.

Hal Fortin and Taylor pointed out that rather than build more boat launching ramps near the two existing ones, privately owned cranes could be moved onto the site and launch boats faster and with less confusion. If necessary, temporary ramps of flexible metal matting could be used, Gordon Neff pointed out.

In addition to existing city docks and new ones planned for Round Lake, Fortin said private marina owners may build more docks for small boats, in the 20 to 25 foot class. It was also suggested the city might be able to install temporary small-boat docks off its beach docks that would handle more boats.

The need for enforcement of litter laws and facilities to handle litter was discussed. It was suggested the Chamber provide litter bags at an information booth.

School merger vote Monday

Voters in the East Jordan and Charlevoix school districts go to the polls next Monday, Feb. 19, to decide if the two districts should consolidate.

All registered voters in the two districts are eligible to vote. There are about 2,300 registered voters in the Charlevoix district and 1,600 in the East Jordan district.

The majority of voters in both districts must approve the merger or it does not carry. If East Jordan voters for merger and Charlevoix voters against it, the plan will be defeated.

Only two members of the Charlevoix school board favor the merger. At the request of board member and former president Darrell Dinwiddie, the board was polled for its opinion Monday night.

Saying they will vote against merging were Dinwiddie, Dale Bloss, Jim Lewis and Jack Rader. (Rader was not present but had been polled before the board meeting.) Only Mrs.

Frank Hooper and Burr Blanchard said they will vote to merge. Board President Glenn Kenney was not present. Previously Kenney has only said he favored letting the people vote on the issue.

IF THE TWO DISTRICTS merge they will have a combined land area of 181 square miles. There are now 75 square miles in the Charlevoix district and 106 in the East Jordan district.

The consolidated district would have 2,533 students, with 1,485 coming from Charlevoix and 1,068 from East Jordan. Of these 684 would be in high school (grades 9 through 12) and 1,849 would be in grades kindergarten through eighth. Charlevoix has 427 high school students to East Jordan's 247. There are 1,028 elementary and junior high students in Charlevoix and 621 in East Jordan.

The combined districts have a taxable property valuation of $29,068,618. Charlevoix has about 70% of the valuation—$20,846,200—and East Jordan has $8,222,418.

Urge study TV teaching

Television instruction not a "controlled school," involving the construction of gigantic, costly school buildings housing masses of students transported by "buses," is the answer to a more diversified educational program for Charlevoix and East Jordan, Mick Smith, a recent Michigan State University graduate, contends.

Smith, who opposes the merger of the Charlevoix and East Jordan school districts, but favors a broader high school curriculum, said consolidation of school districts is "rapidly becoming outdated."

BY INSTALLATION of television equipment, he said, schools the size of Charlevoix and East Jordan can offer the "range of choices in subject matter inherent in a larger system."

According to the text book used in a course of televised high school teaching that Smith recently completed, a school can install a complete system for televised teaching for about $50,000. Operational costs would be about $35,000 a year, including personnel.

The school then purchases video taped lessons taught by some of the country's finest teachers and these are shown in classrooms, Smith said.

By doing this, Smith said, Charlevoix and East Jordan would retain the benefits of a small-town school system, save money and have a better educational program than is possible through the merger.

Merging the Charlevoix and East Jordan school districts would, educators report, make it possible for the 34 high school teachers in the two districts to do a more effective job.

The two districts have a total of 103 teachers—59 in Charlevoix and 44 in East Jordan. Of these, 34 now teach in high school grades. Charlevoix has 20 high school teachers and East Jordan has 14.

School superintendents explain the high school teachers will be able to do a better job because each will be teaching only the subjects in which they have the most training and interest. Now, they point out, most teachers are required to teach a variety of subjects because there are not enough students enrolled in each course to keep a teacher occupied in it all day.

By consolidating their two local unions the teachers would also be forming a more powerful bargaining unit for negotiating salaries and working conditions.

The merger would place teachers in jeopardy of losing their tenure status. "The controlling board may place any of all teachers on one year probation if teachers are notified within the 30 day period" after the merger is approved by voters, Milligan said.

CHARLEVOIX AND EAST Jordan school officials have joined forces in the last two weeks to form panels at public meetings to give voters a chance to ask questions about the merger. Sitting on this panel at last week's Farm Bureau-sponsored meeting at the East Jordan Supt. Max Damoth; East Jordan board President Garnett Hutherson; Charlevoix board member Burr Blanchard; Intermediate Supt. Charles Robinson; and East Jordan board member Bruce Malpass.

TO ADD THESE courses nine new teachers—all in the high school—reportedly would be required.

The new courses and teachers, Supt. Rex Milligan has said, could not be added immediately. The proposed consolidated high school would not be completed until at least the fall of 1970. Until then the Architects and school boards have planned new school buildings for Charlevoix and East Jordan students no matter how citizens vote on merging the two school districts.

School boards report both schools have outgrown their present buildings. East Jordan has been short of classroom space for several years and Charlevoix started really feeling the pinch last year and this year is using four portable classrooms, the City Hall and basement space.

Two plans have been suggested for East Jordan if voters turn down the merger: 1) Add classrooms to the present elementary building and add classrooms and renovate the present high school, at a cost of $2,085,000, or 2) add classrooms to the present elementary building and build a new high school, at a cost of $1,985,000.

The cost of either East Jordan plan is almost identical and both, according to Supt. Max Damoth, would require an estimated 11-mill levy for 27 years, which would raise $3,560,000 to meet principal and interest payments (about $1.8 million in interest).

It Charlevoix remains independent the architect has proposed a $2,090,000 building expansion program, which includes a new lower elementary school, renovating the present elementary school for adding grades and adding classrooms, an auditorium and bus garage to the high school. Supt. Rex Milligan reports a 4-mill levy for 25 years would be necessary to pay off the principal and interest on these bonds, for a total of $3,000,000 (about $1 million in interest).

The appointed board would replace the two elected boards now running the two districts and take over the consolidated Charlevoix-East Jordan district if voters approve the merger.

The appointed board would remain in office until July, when a new board would be elected at-large.

Charlevoix last year levied 14.9 mills for operation including a $211-million library. East Jordan levied 22.4 mills.

tried this year.

All of these factors will change. Whether the schools merge or not, teachers salaries and other operating costs are going to increase and the amount of taxable property valuation is going to go up in the next 30 years.

However, there is no reason to believe the relative comparison shown by the figures above will be changed by increasing costs and valuation.

Curriculum growth seen as major plus from consolidation

With the exception of financial savings for East Jordan, the most important benefit of consolidating Charlevoix and East Jordan school districts, according to merger advocates, is the expansion of the curriculum on the high school level.

School administrators, after studying courses offered in other schools, have said the consolidated Charlevoix-East Jordan school would have come to the conclusion the merger would make it possible to offer 17 new courses to Charlevoix students and 19 new courses to East Jordan students.

TO ADD THESE courses nine new teachers—all in the high school—reportedly would be required.

The new courses and teachers, Supt. Rex Milligan has said, could not be added immediately. The proposed consolidated high school would not be completed until at least the fall of 1970. Until then the

Dems must find office manager

CHARLEVOIX--Local Democrats are scouting around for a Secretary of State branch office manager to replace Mrs. George (Edna) LaBlance.

County Democratic Chairman Pete Johnson reports he has been directed by the Secretary of State in Lansing to have the County Committee recommend someone to replace Mrs. LaBlance.

SECRETARY OF STATE James Hare ousted Mrs. LaBlance from the post she has held here for nine years after she refused to bow to a directive requiring her to quit tussling "desirable" auto license plates when requested.

In doing so, Hare ignored a County Democratic Committee resolution supporting Mrs. LaBlance and asking that she be retained in the job.

In passing the resolution party leaders warned Hare he will not have their support in this fall's election if he did not rescind his order.

They also threatened to turn around and again recommend Mrs. LaBlance, or one of her family, for the job if it was taken away from her.

HOWEVER, COUNTY Chairman Johnson is attempting to soothe over the rift between Mrs. LaBlance's supporters and Hare's office. He does not favor the move to re-endorse Mrs. LaBlance and has said "It is useless, so why do it."

Auto license plates are temporarily being sold at 205 Bridge St. by William Thompson of Traverse City. Thompson will keep the office open only until someone local is recommended by the County Committee and appointed by Hare.

Meanwhile, Johnson is looking for someone he hopes the County Committee will

City workers get pay hike

EAST JORDAN -- City workers were granted a five percent wage increase at last week's City Council meeting.

City Supt. Russell Gee estimated the salary hike will cost the city about $3,500 for its 13 employees.

In other action the Council:

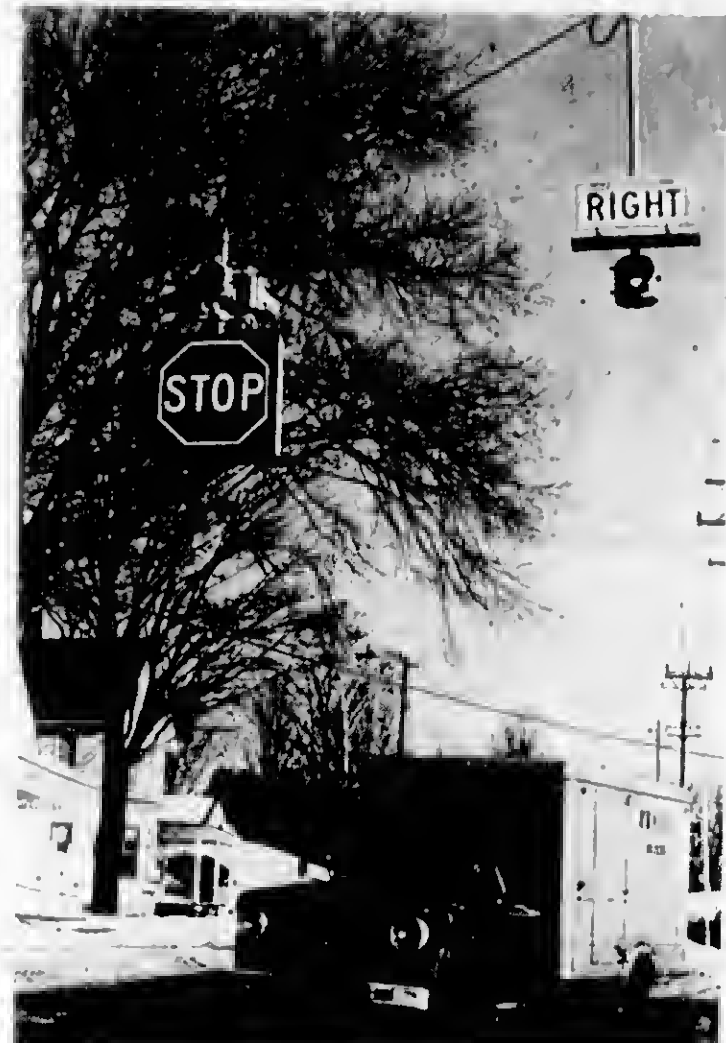

- Set the water rate for customers outside the city at twice the in-city rate and continued the policy of requiring non-city users to pay the full cost of running a water line to them.

- Received six bids on four-wheel drive vehicle, ranging from $3,000 to $2,531 on a Ford Bronco from Boyne Valley Motors.

- At the request of Or. David Pray, the Council appropriated $75 as its share of the initial cost of getting the Jordan River Watershed Commission underway. Or. Pray is the commission's chairman.

- Approved not to pay more than $100 for a two-cap director for a $53,000 federal grant to operate on for the next year, because the application was submitted late, it was not processed in time for the scheduled Feb. 1 funding, according to Leon Kaczorowski, Two-Cap director.

Kaczorowski said he is hoping it will not be necessary to borrow money.

Poverty office moves

Charlevoix County's War on Poverty office has moved from Charlevoix City Hall to Boyne City.

County Director Janet Dunnette's new office is at 121 E. Water St., Boyne City, over the Bogen's Drug Store. The space was donated free by the drug store. Miss Dunnette's new phone number is 7-52-281.

THE TWO -- CAP Board of Directors, which directs the anti-poverty program in Charlevoix and three other area counties, last week was authorized to borrow money on the federal government's credit to continue operations.

Two-cap has applied for a $53,000 federal grant to operate on for the next year, because the application was submitted late, it was not processed in time for the scheduled Feb. 1 funding, according to Leon Kaczorowski, Two-Cap director.

Kaczorowski said he is hoping it will not be necessary to borrow money.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Knudsen were called to Galesburg, Ohio last weekend to attend the funeral services of the latter's sister, Mrs. Rachel (Hudkins) Cass, who passed away February 6 after being ill several months. The family have the sincere sympathy of their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. William Vandewall received word of the sudden passing away Tuesday of their brother, Ralph Vandewall of Kalamazoo. They and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vandewall of Traverse City left on Friday and attended the funeral services Saturday afternoon. They have our sincere sympathy.

The trustees of the church and the kitchen remodeling committee will meet again next Sunday following the morning service.

NEWSPAPERS GET THINGS DONE

Jordan Inn retains quiet dignity of former era

EAST JORDAN--A traveler discovering the Jordan Inn might easily feel he is not in the 1960s, but in the 1920s, the world of today.

Snuggled under a canopy of shade trees, the Jordan Inn is almost hidden only a half block up Main St. from City Hall. Some people who have been visiting East Jordan for years tell you they didn't even realize there was a hotel there.

THE JORDAN INN is a reminder of an era when the north country was spattered with unpretentious, conservative, home-like hotels catering to tourists who came north to escape the pressures and bustle of the city.

Throughout the north other Jordan Inns have been replaced by gaudily painted motels and restaurants that scream for attention in their mad cap race to grab the tourist dollar. Tourism has become a big $100 million dollar high pressure business.

The Jordan Inn seems as out of place in today's tourist industry as passenger trains. The only thing it offers is quiet, comfort, cleanliness and food the way Mrs. Harrison Kilder used to cook on the wood range at the pioneer homestead where to bake, but she can speed just about as long pointing out the strange influence today's mass psychology is having on the nation's moral and political fiber.

A VISIT TO HER kitchen or dining room may suggest cleanliness is next to Godliness in Mrs. Wallace's book, but you'd better believe individual responsibility is, too.

And her business philosophy reflects her political opinions.

"I don't see how restaurants get the chicken done," she says, "when a person comes in and orders chicken and then they try it."

She won't cook that way. If it takes two hours to prepare a proper meal that's how long she spends at it. It takes an appointment to eat at the Jordan Inn. You make a reservation and select the main dish. It will be ready when you arrive. But don't walk in and expect dinner. She doesn't operate that way.

She's also particular about who she rents her 12 rooms to. Other area hotels and motels cash in on skiing by soliciting skiers. Mrs. Wallace prefers family groups.

Feds approve $15,525 for area planning

CHARLEVOIX -- The federal government has approved a $15,525 planning grant for the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission, according to Mayor Bill Fochtmann.

Fochtmann said the grant will pay two-thirds the cost of hiring professional planning consultants for a year. The planning commission has been waiting more than two years for the grant.

Thief making merchants in Boyne nervous

BOYNE CITY -- Businessmen here are reported getting jittery about a continuing wave of petty theft and enteries.

At least two businesses, the Sunnyside Restaurant and Boyne City, have been broken into twice, apparently by the same thief.

To date the crook's pickings have been slight. Last week he broke into the restaurant and the newspaper office and got away with only $9.

Sunnyside owner Chuck Hawley has reportedly threatened to sit up at night with a shotgun waiting for the thief to make a third appearance.

CHARLEVOIX -- The Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association reports the annual Christmas Seal Campaign in Charlevoix County reached $3,273.

New area game officer patrolling county roads

Charlevoix's new conservation officer, Frank Dufon, is getting acquainted with the county's back roads and hunting the fishing hotspots.

Dufon took over Feb. 4 from 20-year veteran Harley Burris, who was transferred to a new job as area conservation law enforcement supervisor at Kalamazoo.

IN HIS NEW JOB out of the Boyne City office, Dufon is also an area supervisor, having supervisory responsibility over officers in Charlevoix, Antrim and Otsego counties.

The "area supervisor" position is a new one for conservation officers. Dufon explained it will make action faster as a team in concentrating officers on apprehending violators.

However, his first job is getting to know Charlevoix County well enough that he can identify and watch areas where violators are apt to operate. He is further handicapped by the pending retirement of veteran officer Ed Hartnell, who worked with Dufon for years.

In his "area supervisor" position, Dufon has East Jordan Conservation Officer Julius Christy, Boyne's Jim Skinner and Gaylord's Jack Bowman working under him. He can pull all of them together on one trouble spot without going through higher headquarters.

THIS WAY, he hopes, chronic problems, like spearfishing and snagging trout during the spring and fall runs can be more effectively controlled.

Dufon, 39, came in Charlevoix County from Petoskey. Before going to Petoskey he was a Conservation Officer in Presque Isle County. A native of Freewill, Mich., Dufon attended Michigan State University and then went to work as a State Park Ranger, before becoming a Conservation Officer 11 years ago.

He is also taking up to 12 pound lake trout in tip-ups with minnows in Watloon Lake, according to Dufon.

From his early observations, Dufon said, he doubts Charlevoix County's deer herd will suffer more than minor winter loss. The deer, he said, are not in the yards yet and it would take an unusually heavy snow fall in yard them up long enough to cause severe winter loss.

WE MUST SEEK THE TRUTH

Constantly in search of the TRUTH the scientist takes nothing for granted. Each "hypothesis," each theory, is tested and tried and accepted or discarded on the condition that it proves true or false. The true scientist never jumps to conclusions, consequently you will never hear him proclaiming the self-sufficiency of man—that man needs no spiritual power.

The Church is also a center for the search and dispensation of truth in things other than the material, the things one cannot discern by the physical senses. If each of us would be free we must know the truth and if each of us is active in the work of the church that fits our needs "We Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make Us Free."

We'll vote no

INDIVIDUALS WHO cherish freedom have historically refused to be intimidated by threats to take it away from them. Especially when these threats come from politicians and self-seeking public servants greedily grasping for more power.

Yet the most frequent argument we hear from people favoring consolidation of the East Jordan and Charlevoix school districts is that if "we don't do it now the State will step in and tell us what we have to do."

THE COURIER REFUSES to give this threat any credence. Government cannot coerce responsible members of a free society into submitting to unreasonable dictates if citizens stand up and be counted. If the state should ever attempt to carry out its threat we suggest it be dealt with then. And we doubt our representatives in Lansing will ever feel so godly that they will attempt to force us to give up our school system as long as we are willing to support it.

There are other arguments, both pro and con, concerning the school merger vote Feb. 19 that deserve careful analysis. Those are the issues citizens should base their decision on.

Educators and advocates of the merger cite the opportunity to expand the curriculum as the number one benefit of consolidation. This, they convincingly explain, can be accomplished because the increased number of students would make it possible to offer a broader program.

These same persons also point out the quality of teaching will improve because instructors will be working only in the fields in which they have the most training and the most interest. This, too, sounds desirable.

HOWEVER, BEFORE blindly accepting this pie in the sky, citizens should ask themselves what our public school system's mission is. Is it to offer students a wide variety of interesting courses or is it to produce citizens who are responsible to their community, family, selves and nation?

If our answer is the latter, we must examine the fruits of "quantity" education. We find examples of the kind of citizens it produces in the growing delinquency rate, unemployment, illegitimate births, divorces, etc. Employers and government agencies tell us shocking numbers of young people who are a product of "quantity" education have their brains so scrambled with irrelevant information they cannot read, reason or communicate.

However, honest evaluation makes it impossible to blame this trend on big schools, or educational philosophy. The weaknesses in our educational system can be linked directly with parents and citizens. Whether the schools merge or remain independent, the quality of education will improve directly in ratio to the interest and concern of the public.

Both East Jordan and Charlevoix school districts have the tax base and student population to support "quality" education. But getting it is dependent on neither of those factors; concerned citizens are the determining factor.

Vocational education, long a need in the area, is in no way contingent on consolidating the two districts. All of the vocational courses proposed for the consolidated high school are now being offered to us at Petoskey. A vocational education area center will be built near East Jordan in the next few years, for the 20% or so, of students who need it, whether the schools do or do not merge.

The merger would cost Charlevoix at least $5,000,000 more over the next 30 years than it would cost to build its own new schools and operate them. All merger supporters have promised to give us for this $5,000,000—more students, more courses and more courses and more debts. No where have they shown us that our children will be learning more.

We are not reluctant to spend the money if we know what it is buying. But we are not willing to spend it on the theory that quantity will buy quality.

Another factor which annoys us is the prospect of the Intermediate School Board appointing the first board of education to run the consolidated district. This appointed board will make decisions on new school buildings, teacher contracts and teacher tenure that will set the course of education for years. Our experience does not give us this much confidence in the Intermediate superintendent or board.

other-week battlefield between personalities. We have watched Jerry Whitley serve the Third Ward calmly, quietly and objectively. We have never seen him influenced by personal vendettas or other factors that suggest his uppermost consideration is not given to the overall good of his constituents.

THE LINES ARE FAR more difficult to draw between Second Ward Incumbent Supervisor Harold Totten and his opponent, former City Councilman and longtime civic leader Ken Staley.

However, for too long we have watched county government lose its grasp of ever-more complex issues. Staley would take a wealth of progressive ideas and an understanding of modern governmental methods to the County Board of Supervisors.

Students have say on merger

by JEANNE MUTZ

CHARLEVOIX -- Next Monday's school merger election has become the major topic of argument and chat at Charlevoix High School.

The biggest percentage of high school students who would be affected by the merger appear to favor it. However, those favoring it cannot in any way be considered an overwhelming majority.

TO GAUGE STUDENT feeling, 12 freshmen, sophomores and juniors were asked for their opinion. Seniors were not asked because they will graduate before any changes made by merger could be implemented.

Of course, the student opinion poll was in no way computerized or scientific. But it does seem to accurately reflect the off-hand talk heard in halls and study hall.

Of the 12 students whose opinions were solicited, six were in favor, four opposed, one undecided and one who originally said he favored the merger later retracted this opinion and said he was against it due to more detailed information made available. So the poll ended up with 6 favoring, 5 opposed and one undecided.

They're for

BETH BALDWIN, a junior -- The fact that only one student had not made up his mind may seem surprising to grown ups, but at Charlevoix High School just about everybody feels one way or the other on this issue.

STUDENTS FAVORING the move think the added number of courses school officials say would be offered would be more to their liking.

Those opposing the merger are more varied in their reasons. Some do not like the idea of having to ride a bus to school when they can now walk.

Others feel they will be "numb" and lose their individual contact with teachers and their pride in the school and its activities. Still others feel Charlevoix is doing a good job and can do an even better one on its own.

Here's what some of the students who favor the merger said:

LYNNE WEIDMAN, a junior -- I think the merger between Charlevoix and East Jordan would be a move for the best. We certainly need a new school and more teachers. By combining schools, students would be offered a wider variety of subjects with more specialized teachers to teach them. Mergers have been taking place and will soon surround this area. If we don't do it now we will have no one to merge with. Some worry about graduating at CIS and then have to be in a new school. Some worry about not having a Charlevoix High School. I guess they don't care too much about what they learn, but where they learn it!

BETH BALDWIN, a junior -- One of the best reasons for merging with East Jordan is a wider curriculum that applies to a greater variety of students. More specialization by teachers would benefit the students. Sure it will cost a lot, but it appears that if we don't merge now with East Jordan we may be forced to merge with a school further away or with more disadvantages than the proposed merger with East Jordan.

DENA VERWY, a junior -- It would benefit the students because they would have more curriculum. We would also have stronger football and basketball teams and a better band.

STEVE PATERKA, a junior -- It would be better for the students because there would be more variety in their choice of subjects, but I think it would cut down school spirit.

CHERIE MEIER, a junior -- I think it's good because there would be more competition and students would try harder to do their best.

BILLIE BERGMANN, a junior -- Adults say that it's too expensive to merge, but maybe they forget that a bigger school will be able to offer a better curriculum. There just aren't enough students as it is now to be in-

They're against

DAVID HERZOG, a sophomore -- I'm interested in enough different subjects to start classes in them. We only have two languages now and subjects like English are just too general. With more students we could have these classes. In this day and age students must have a better education than before and they're not going to get it for free. It'll cost. . . but it'll be better in the long run.

Here are the comments of some of the students opposing merger:

LOUI GOS, a junior -- In my opinion merging with East Jordan would be a terrible mistake. I think it would be stupid for us to give up all we have worked so hard for in athletics, band and everything else we participate in just so that East Jordan can join in on it. We've done just great so far and we'll make it now and in the future all by ourselves.

DIANE HIMEDAUCH, a sophomore -- I don't think it would be a good idea because it would make us at least a S school. This would make us have to travel too far for games, thus losing school support because so few would attend.

JUDY POTTER, a freshman -- No, I don't want the merger because I think East Jordan would have a hard time keeping up with Charlevoix. Also students that live in Norwood would be on buses a lot longer.

DAVID HERZOG, a freshman -- I think a larger school would mean more subjects, but it also means strict rules and school monitors. In a large school a student is just one out of the hundreds of other students and a nobody.

Writer regrets merger viewed as money issue

Dear Editor:

Several months ago when Charlevoix was in the throes of a school millage election, Police Chief Joe Smith stopped by.

"I guess I'll never understand people," he said dismally. "It's the same old tale and cry every time the school district needs more money to operate our schools. Nobody wants to pay it, although this is one way they can help their kids directly. And I've don't live for our kids. What do we live for?"

Unfortunately, the upcoming school election to decide the consolidation of Charlevoix and East Jordan schools has devolved into a dollars-and-cents proposition.

Sure, it's going to cost Charlevoix more, and it might cost heavily-taxed East Jordanians less. But the benefits of a larger school district with more students cannot be calculated on the cash register.

If the merger is approved, we should have a school district large enough so that no teacher need teach out of his specialty, which is presently the case in both Charlevoix and East Jordan.

With more students, we will be able to offer a greater variety of courses.

For example, it is inconceivable that at present Charlevoix has only the most rudimentary art program, taught as an adjunct of mechanical drawing, in an age when form and design have never been more important to business and industry.

Construction of a new high school midway between Charlevoix and East Jordan will give us a second chance to remedy some of the shortcomings of the present Charlevoix High School. For example, it would be unthinkable for the consolidated school district to go ahead with construction of another school without first studying TV and team teaching techniques which are providing high quality-low cost education in other parts of the state and the nation.

East Jordan is obviously in more desperate need of consolidation than Charlevoix. East Jordanians already are taxed to the teeth to support a woefully inadequate school system. Superintendent Max Danoh and his board, have looked to Charlevoix for help, knowing full well that consolidation will benefit the students of both districts.

School spirit and shiny school buses aside, I think that consolidation is the best thing for our kids. And as Joe Smith says, "If we don't live for our kids, what do we live for?"

MRS. JEAN VOGLER, a candidate for Charlevoix's Third Ward council seat, is a sort of public conscience. Every community is probably better off for having such a person probing and jabbing at the thin skin of public officials.

There are many areas in which the city's government is weak. Councilmen often make decisions based on flimsy and inadequate information. This is often inexcusable, but it is hardly corruption.

Our experience makes us doubt Mrs. Vogler will suddenly drop her wits and take up constructive causes if elected to the council. Sitting in a spectator's chair her influence may be beneficial, but we do not care to see the Council table turned into an every-

Charlevoix couple canoeing in Florida

CHARLEVOIX — Capt. and Mildred Foster of Charlevoix clipped the following article about Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Foster from the Key West Citizen:

"In this age of speed, it is refreshing to meet a couple who spends 40 minutes daily going to the post office for mail.

"Forrest and Anne Foster paddle through life as a team. They are a unit, a team, a couple, a family. They look capable of handling a 20 knot wind in a 17 foot canoe, which is exactly what they were doing when I met them.

"As a gourmet, Forrest prides himself on his cooking. He is a chef, a cook, a restaurateur and people. 'Then I have to eat my wife's cooking,' he explains. 'And my wife's cooking is always the best.'

"Happy, healthy, retired and active, this is the best couple description this reporter can think of for the Fosters."

Credit Union ok's dividend

At the annual meeting of the Top of Michigan Central Labor Council Credit Union board of directors announced a dividend to members of 7% in its second year of operation, just completed. The credit union approved $210,000 in the amount of $43,180.11. There were 342 accounts on December 31, 1967, and total assets were $46,805.85.

Bond drive tops goal

Combined purchases of series E and H United States savings bonds and the new freedom share notes by residents of Charlevoix county totaled $279,853 in 1967, according to Elmer D. Howley, volunteer chairman of the County Savings Bonds Committee.

This compared with $276,348 in 1966 and represented achievement of 111.9% of the year's Treasury Dept. assigned sales goal of $250,000.

Mrs. Ross Alexander
LI 7-2037

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Pearl have returned to southern Ohio after spending this weekend in their local home and with their son John Pearl and family in Atwood.

Rev. and Mrs. William H. Harmon are in Washington, D.C. this week but will be back for the morning service next Sunday.

We were pleased to have Rev. Laverne Steele of Boye City take charge of our church service this Sunday morning. His sermon was "Where do you think you are going?" A piano solo, "Restless Brook," was played by Virginia Saunders and a piano solo, "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," was played by Diane Alexander which made it all a morning service to remember.

The Wm. Cooper, L. Frost, Mrs. P. Canfield, and Bob Oudekirk families who were so snowed out Sunday after our severe storm this past week wish to thank Phil Myer for going to the hospital and opening their road making it possible for them to get out again.

We still can't brag about the fishing out here.

Accidents

CHARLEVOIX -- Three accidents in a two mile stretch of US-31 south of the peak of Saturday's storm-hospitalized several people and emergency treatment for others according to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Dept.

All were rear end collisions which happened on sections of the highway where snow was blown onto the roadway from a bank. Two were near Clipperview road, more familiarly known as Pavik's Hill six miles from Charlevoix and the third was near the Frank Gengle farm four miles south of the city.

The first call came at 10:15 a.m. from Clipperview hill when a car driven by Mrs. George (Sylvia Lee) Smith in her early 30's struck the rear of a second car driven by Vincent Rice, 33, of Traverse City.

Mrs. Smith was taken to the hospital via ambulance for treatment of a head laceration and examination. She was hospitalized until Sunday. Her son, Robert, six, and daughter, Debra, eight, and a friend, Roberta Klooster, eight, were also taken to the hospital for first aid treatment.

In the Rice car were Mrs. Carolyn Rice, 27, Norman Matthews, 31 and his wife, 23, also of Traverse City who were taken to the hospital for checkups and discharged.

At 12:30 p.m. in the same general area as the Rice-Smith accident, a car driven levoix, basic speed law, $15; Jon Schmidt, 17, Charlevoix, Stop Sign violation, $10; Gary Hall, 21, Charlevoix, careless driving, $15; Jesse Muma, 27, Ellsworth, stop sign violation, $10; Barry Wayne Wood, 35, Charlevoix, operating a non-registered motor vehicle (snowmobile) on a public highway, $10; Michael Mitchell, 24, drunk and disorderly, $21.50 and 5 days in the county jail; Kenneth B. Chanda, 21, East Jordan, bound over to circuit court on a charge of assault and battery of a police officer, $1,000 bond.

Boys seek state funds for fishermen
BOYNE CITY -- The City Council here is seeking a $77,400 state grant to pay 90% of the estimated cost of developing a two-acre echo salmon fishing center.

The center would include restrooms, boat launching ramps, docks and 200 feet of water frontage. City Manager Forbes Tompkins said.

Tompkins said officials of the Michigan Waterways Commission told him funds for such projects were available if communities meet the requirements to provide adequate property. The Council authorized Tompkins to proceed with the grant application.

Dick Wilkanski makes sergeant
CHARLEVOIX -- Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wilkanski of it-2, Charlevoix have received word that their son Richard is now Sgt. Richard S. Wilkanski. His new address is AF 166-26-124, 4910th Stry. Sq. Box 2209, APO-New York, N.Y. 09007.

Roger Lilak top scholar
EAST JORDAN -- Roger J. Lilak, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lilak, Jr., was named a finalist in National Merit Scholarship competition. This makes him eligible for one of 2,900 Merit Scholarships. The winners names will be announced in May.

Begrow wins award for school plan

CHARLEVOIX -- Architect Jack Begrow has won a national architectural award among 400 firms for his design of the Fox Hills Elementary School in Bloomfield Hills, Mich.

The American Association of School Administrators in making the award their 68th national conference in Philadelphia commented that Begrow's school design was exceptional because of ingenious interpretation of new educational curriculum.

The jury commented, "Excellent distribution of service facilities, permitting a high degree of flexibility in educational spaces."

This is the third national award that Begrow and Brown Architects have won for school planning. Previous awards have gone to Begrow and Brown Architects for their design of the City and Country School of Bloomfield Hills and the Fraser Elementary School in Inkster, Mich.

The firm is presently designing an elementary school for one of the ghetto areas of Detroit.

Begrow has been practicing in Northern Michigan for six years. In February he moved his office into the newly completed Pine River Building, overlooking the channel in Charlevoix. His architectural practice extends to Wisconsin, Minnesota, New York and the U.S. Virgin Islands.

Four graduate from Central CHARLEVOIX -- Four local students were candidates for degrees and teaching certificates at Central Michigan University's mid-year graduation ceremonies held on January 27. The following students earned degrees: Ronald L. Andersen, Judith C. Krens, and Thomas G. Sheets of Charlevoix and Ward D. Cole of East Jordan.

Obituary

Mrs. William Supernaw

CHARLEVOIX -- Funeral services for Mrs. William H. Supernaw, 84, who died Saturday at the Charlevoix Hospital where she had been a patient for two and a half months, were held at the Winchester Funeral Home at 2 p.m. Tuesday. The Rev. Lawrence Tenhagen officiated. Burial was in Brookside cemetery.

Born at Trent, Michigan October 23, 1883, the former Sarah Olmstead came to Norwood township as a child. On August 23, 1906, she was married to Mr. Supernaw.

Surviving are two sons, William L. and Henry F. of Charlevoix; a daughter, Mrs. Lester (Genevieve) Smith, also of Charlevoix; eight grandchildren; five great-grandchildren and two sisters Mrs. Harold Bedford and Mrs. Allen Campbell, both of this city.

Jordan has new plant in offing

EAST JORDAN -- Another tool making plant appears as a possibility for East Jordan.

Multi-Cut Tool Inc. of St. Clair Shores, Mich., reportedly plans to open a 5,000 square foot plant near the airport this spring. The firm makes specialized tools for the automobile industry.

The firm's president, Dick Schuler, Jr., reportedly expects to hire all local men, with plans pending to train some of them. He will move to East Jordan.

Help needed for chapel at Grandvue

Charlevoix County's Grandvue Medical Care Facility has recently provided a multi-purpose room that will be used as a chapel when it is finished. A contract has now been let for that purpose, and a considerable amount of the expense has been raised, according to Rev. Stanley Hayes of the County Ministerial Association. However, contributions are still needed. Checks may be sent directly to Grandvue Medical Care Facility, R-2, East Jordan and designated "Chapel Fund" or contributions may be made through local churches.

WE MUST SEEK THE TRUTH

Constantly in search of the TRUTH the scientist takes nothing for granted. Each "hearsay", each theory, is tested and tried and accepted or discarded on the condition that it proves true or false. The true scientist never jumps to conclusions, consequently you will never hear him proclaiming the self-sufficiency of man—that man needs no spiritual power.

The Church is also a center for the search and dispensation of truth in things other than the material, the things one cannot discern by the physical senses. If each of us would be free we must know the truth and if each of us is active in the work of the church that fits our needs "We Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make Us Free."

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

Have you noticed that Charlevoix is working here in an effort to have Charlevoix brochures and believe you me, we really need one. The writer expects at our next board meeting, Tuesday evening, March 5, a good report will be available to the directors on the effort so far this month.

Hey! there guys and gals, you will realize cooperation is necessary and when any of us have suggestions or indications, be reasonably sure that there are no vacancies, so to speak. The aim of this office, of course, is to keep them here if it is at all possible and reasonable. We have a sizeable number of rooms and/or units here and can accommodate quite a number of persons. The intent of these remarks is not an accusation.

HOW NICE, ALREADY in January 1968 several Chamber of Commerce members voluntarily mailed their checks in for 1968 membership fees and in addition your cooperation and hope there is more of this. The Chamber membership window stickers will be slightly delayed for 1968 due to the fact the first order received some time ago had some little fault as far as I am concerned, and were rejected.

It might interest you to know that each of our directors will be assigned to the different committees this year in an effort to better coordinate any of our activities. Already the boys are working here in an effort to have Charlevoix brochures and believe you me, we really need one. The writer expects at our next board meeting, Tuesday evening, March 5, a good report will be available to the directors on the effort so far this month.

ready the boys are working here in an effort to have Charlevoix brochures and believe you me, we really need one. The writer expects at our next board meeting, Tuesday evening, March 5, a good report will be available to the directors on the effort so far this month.

From the various bulletins and other information from authoritative sources, it appears that 1968 will be a very favorable season and it is further substantiated by the number of personal contacts at the office, long distance telephone calls, and most every day for the past two months we have mail of a wide variety ranging from four to 11 pieces, most of which are inquiries for housekeeping, rooming, cottages or log type units having accommodations from two to eight and ten persons and etc. These are promptly handled and answered, I want you to know, in an effort to attract more visitors. These requests indicate stays from one to two weeks and as much as a month.

Better schools

THE COURIER does not interpret the vote against merging the Charlevoix and East Jordan school districts as a vote against higher taxes or a vote for provincial, small-town narrow-mindedness. Instead, we see it as a public demand for new values and a new direction in education.

Persons favoring the merger presented only one reason: By having more students in the high school we would be able to expand the high school curriculum.

OBVIOUSLY, PARENTS do not see this as the major need. The need is not for more of what we now have. It is for more quality and emphasis in the lower grades and more selectivity in enrolling teachers.

We should now turn our attention to the elementary grades, with priority going to the very lowest. History's great thinkers and doors have repeatedly advised us that if we equip a child with the basic tools for learning (reading, reasoning and responsibility) and inspire them to hunger for knowledge there is no stopping them. The only time to do this is when they are very young. If a child does not have the basic ability and desire to learn by the time he reaches the fifth or sixth grades it's usually too late to make a lasting impression.

The Courier does not have the specific answers for what should be done to accomplish this. Nor did the laymen who rejected the idea that the answer can be found in a broader high school curriculum.

But we suspect it means more specialized and individual attention in the kindergarten, first, second, third and fourth grades. Maybe it means Charlevoix should hire a half dozen teachers who specialize in reading. Almost assuredly every lower elementary teacher should have an adult assistant.

New ideas and other innovations are needed. We should hire only highly motivated teachers and then give them the environment, help and tools to prevent erasing this inspiration with routine.

NONE OF THIS, time has shown us, will come about unless parents take an active and firm hand in their children's education. We cannot excuse ourselves from the fray. If we are not more concerned than the teacher how can we expect her to believe we care. Parents have the ultimate responsibility. Not the school.

The answers, the Courier believes, will be found when parents start visiting the classroom and studying the textbooks and following up with constructive ideas and suggestions for improving things.

The school board and school administrators are now committed to spending far more money on high school than on elementary school education because this is a national habit. School accrediting organizations, like North Central, dictate expensive high school programs and facilities if we want them to label our students as coming from a school that provides an "accredited" program for college entrance. Because this is the "standard" the board and administrators accept it.

However, this week's vote proves that the public does not accept it. The people appear to feel, as the Courier does, that we cannot educate our children from the top down. Let's aim our energy and ideas at the foundation (elementary grades) and work up to the high school.

Proud of Milligan

DURING THE WEEKS preceding this week's school merger election the Courier—though disagreeing with him—gained great respect for Charlevoix school Supt. Rex Milligan. Seldom does a man perform his personal and public duties as honorably as Milligan has.

Knowing full well that the board of education, which hired him, was opposed to the merger, Milligan nonetheless had the courage and integrity to state his personal convictions in favor of the merger. Quite rightly, he did not broadcast these views, but never flinched—even when under fire by a board member—from expressing them when asked.

Milligan's job as chief answer man at public meetings was not an easy one. School merger issues always become rather nasty. Yet we saw Milligan maintain his poise and control of meetings even when unjustly and discourteously badgered.

YET, WHILE SO deeply committed to this opinion, he came up with an absurd demand that the city live up to an agreement it supposedly made that all facilities at the airport will be publicly owned. This, the boys in Lansing and Washington tell us, means that Seelye cannot build his hangars.

Seelye has asked the Council's permission to build airplane hangars on his property adjoining the city airport off State St. His plan calls for up to 50 private hangars and a complete airplane maintenance facility as the airport's use increases. Unlike other improvements to the airport, this one would make the city money (through added taxes) rather than cost it money.

THE STATE and federal government, however, have

We just cannot see the connection. The hangars will be on private property. The federal government be hangar.

The Council, though, will only be living up to its responsibility to protect the taxpayers' investment in the airport by requiring Seelye to construct attractive buildings that will complement the airport's overall appearance.

Ferry's anchor always at ready

IRONTON—The Ironton ferry has been coughing its way across the narrows at the mouth of the South Arm for 40 years, 27 of them with Pete Bennett aboard.

Pete will no longer be at the wheel, he retires this winter, but he figures the ferry is good for another 40 years, or more.

IT WAS 1930 WHEN Pete reported for work with the late Sam Alexander on the then, free ferry. The ferry was only four years old, having been built in 1926 to replace the former one-lunger.

Pete, now 67, landed the job because he had his license from the Coast Guard to operate a 100-ton vessel. He'd been working part-time for a couple years, following Sam and the other operators during his off-duty time as a County Road Commission snowplow and road grader driver.

One of the favorite topics of speculation among Ironton visitors is what will happen if the ferry ever breaks its cable and swings into the lake. Mention this possibility to tourists making their first trip on the ferry and it is sure to spark jittery eyes.

PETE SEEMS a little disappointed that it has never happened. He sorts sounds like he would like to have slid the anchor over the side. Down in the hole is 118 feet of heavy chain attached to the anchor.

"If we ever let her go it would take a derelict to lift her out," Pete says, thinking about the feet of mud the anchor would bury itself in. He doesn't figure the ferry would get more than a few feet off course before the anchor sank deep.

Now that he's retired from the ferry Pete doesn't intend to get off her course. "There isn't any place I know of I want to go," he says. "There's everything right here."

Fishing Lake Charlevoix has been almost as much a part of Pete's life as the ferry. Now he intends to make it an even bigger part.

Pete started guiding fishermen when he had time back in 1934. In 1940 he bought the property next to the ferry where Meade Scott now has his store and boat lift. He paid $10 a foot for 200 feet of frontage. In 1941 he opened a bait shop and livory on the site.

BY 1948 THE fishing business was so good he quit the ferry and worked fulltime at the bait shop. Three years later the fishing bonanza looked like it was going to be a victim of the sea lamprey. Pete sold to Bob and Harold Beattie, who sold to Scott in 1958.

IN 1949 THE County Board of Supervisors transferred the ferry to the County Road Commission and the toll was asked.

On again, off again talk about building a bridge across the South Arm is summarily dismissed by Pete.

In 1956 Pete returned to the ferry, after several years of steaming on the Great Lakes.

Before the lamprey, Pete recalls, "there were perch in here by the ton...you couldn't imagine." Trout and bass fishing was also good. In 1947 he caught 92 rainbows and many weeks he caught 45 bass.

But the faraway look of yesteryears doesn't last long. Pete dashes into another room of his trailer home behind the Ironton Post Office—which his wife runs—and comes back with his tackle box.

"Look here," he says excitedly opening the box and pulling out a bait. "I caught salmon on this in the Columbia River...and we're going to have better fishing here than we ever had when the salmon runs start."

Pete is convinced the salmon will stay in Lake Charlevoix year-round.

Early in February he caught a five-pound brown trout which had a dozen or more alewife in its stomach. Even the big perch are glutting themselves on alewife, he points out. If the alewife are in Lake Charlevoix all winter he reasons the salmon will stick around to feed on them.

IN ADDITION TO having designs on some mighty big salmon and trout, Pete is going to renew his quest for Lake Charlevoix's muskies, which haven't been heard of in several years. Before the lamprey, muskies were caught quite frequently, he says. He caught a 10 pounder himself. But as far as he knows no one has caught one in about 20 years.

"I can't think of any reason they wouldn't be there," Pete says. "The oldtimers always said they'd been around as long as they can remember."

As he talks about oldtimers, Pete doesn't appear to realize he is now the oldtimer.

Pete and his wife Mary didn't move to Ironton until 1934. They were married in 1922 and lived in Egan Township, where they both were born and where he attended Bennett School, going only through the eighth grade.

The county still hasn't found anyone to take Pete's place on the ferry. He and Walter (Curk) Jarvis operated the ferry with no help, except during peak summer hours. Turk has been on the job 17 years.

Actually, Pete says, ferrying across the South Arm isn't what it used to be. When the short trip was free up to 15,000 cars a year made the crossing. Last year only about 35,000 went across.

IN 1949 THE County Board of Supervisors transferred the ferry to the County Road Commission and the toll was asked.

On again, off again talk about building a bridge across the South Arm is summarily dismissed by Pete.

PETE BENNETT prowls through his tackle box in preparation for finally spending all the time he wants to fishing Lake Charlevoix. He expects fishing to be better than it has ever been.

People have been talking that "foolishness" for years, he says. Back in the 1930s, Pete recalls, the County Board of Supervisors dreamed up a scheme to have farmers from both sides of the South Arm bring wagon loads of stone to the crossing and dump them until they created a causeway. In the middle of the causeway was to be a narrow swing bridge.

The federal government put the kibosh on that one.

The best hour Pete recalls on the ferry was back in the late 30s or early 40s, he thinks, when Sam Alexander sneaked his false teeth out and they fell into the lake. Alexander, the patriarch of the ferry, who was immortalized in Ripley's Believe It or Not, had rounded up a crew of kids who started diving off all sides of the ferry. They found his teeth.

Dem leader explains party's position on split with Jim Hare

Dear Editor: Charlevoix County Democratic Executive Committee held a meeting February 14 and decided to stick to the decision made in mid-January by the county committee that we will support the stand of Mrs. Edna LaBlanc because she couldn't be found guilty of doing anything wrong by selling a low license number to her husband.

We believe that Secretary of State James Hare committed gross negligence when he sent the plates for sale on December 3 and then issued a directive on November 17 that she cannot sell low number license plates to herself or her immediate family and friends. When she asked her husband to return the plates for a less desirable number and pay two dollars for the exchange he refused. The committee also thinks that he had a right to do so.

On January 31 her services were terminated by the Secretary of State's assistant, Howard Jones. Jones was notified prior to the date of the termination, that the committee supported Mrs. LaBlanc unanimously.

He said that the committee had nothing to do with this, that this was his business. Later he sent her a request that the same committee should find somebody to fill this concession.

The executive committee on this request refused to find a replacement.

Suggests art gallery needed by Charlevoix

Dear Editor:

In your paper several weeks ago was an article concerning the acquisition of unneeded works of art. Rather than discarding such donations, I feel that they should be encouraged. The problem of course would be what to do with them. If these are regular gifts perhaps we should encourage the beginning of an art gallery-museum. During the summer I hear that you have an art fair which was good participation and attendance.

One suggestion would be to expand this in a limited form to a full season. People artistically inclined could display their talents and perhaps even sell some of their work. Donated gifts could become permanent displays at the gallery later used in the museum.

There must be some interest in art in the community so perhaps some citizens or a civic organization could look into the many possibilities. Many buildings not used at present lend themselves very well for such a project. No doubt it would take some work. Not many cities of our size have museums; but with the cooperation of interested parties certainly such could be a reality. So let us not discourage but encourage donations and look to other and various means of using them.

Area lawmen see need for riot control planning

Area police departments are developing a cooperative assistance plan to concentrate large number of lawmen in trouble spots should riots or mass lawlessness break out.

The departments have already been given the go-ahead to form a two-county mutual assistance pact: Boyne City's police department and the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department.

OTHERS WHICH will reportedly be asked to join in the plan include Charlevoix and East Jordan police, the Emmet County Sheriff's Department.

CHARLEVOIX FIRE CHIEF John Curtis stows a hose on the city's new $26,400 fire truck. The new 750-gallon-a-minute pumper replaces the 1941 pumper. The city now has four fire trucks: the new one, the 1954 pumper, the 1941 pumper and a 1,500 gallon tanker. The tanker and 1941 pumper are kept at the street department garage. The new truck, a Howe, a Chevrolet body, is so large firemen had to move their living quarters out of the fire house and into the upstairs apartment at City Hall.

Library notes

The picture in Vietnam may change drastically from one day to the next, but policy decisions must be based on what is already taken place. The library has a number of "background" books, as well as some "opinion" books on Vietnam, to help you determine just where you stand.

A History of South East Asia, by Daniel George Edgewood Hill. This is a comprehensive book which covers ancient history up to and including the Geneva agreements and the establishment of the 17th parallel as the boundary between North and South Vietnam. The Story of Vietnam, by Hal Darcet. A background book written for young people, which explores the chain of events that led to American involvement. Vietnam, edited by Marvin E. Getteman. History, documents and opinions on which our policy makers rely, presented to enable the public to better understand our involvement.

South Vietnam, Nation Under Siege, by Robert S. Lyano. This book focuses on developments in South Vietnam, for ten years following its establishment as an independent country in 1954.

The Lost Revolution, by Robert Shaplen. Written by a foreign correspondent, this book is described as "the story of twenty years of neglected opportunities in Vietnam and of America's failure to foster democracy there." The Bitter Heritage, by Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. Vietnam and American Democracy from 1941 to 1966. Pulitzer Prize-winning historian and special assistant to President Kennedy and Johnson discusses the impact of the war in Vietnam on civil freedom in the United States.

The Arrangement of Power, by J. William Fulbright. A book about foreign policy written by the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and foremost critic of Presidential policy.

Neither Liberty nor Safety, by General Nathan F. Twining, USAF (Ret.). A hard look at U.S. Military Policy and Strategy by the man who was Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff from 1957 to 1960.

The Draft and the Vietnam War, by Jacques Barzun. A guide to the Selective Service system and an analysis of draft issues raised by the Vietnam war.

mot County Sheriff's Dept. and Petoskey police.

The plan, as explained at last week's Boyne City Council meeting, calls for the 35-40 lawmen in area police departments to establish a formal organization for calling them to one trouble spot with riot equipment.

The Boyne City Council, the Boyne Citizen newspaper explained, agreed to the mutual cooperation plan because of "Anticipated civil disorders, as well as the proximity of the region via super highways to the Detroit, Lansing and Saginaw Negro ghettos."

Freedman introduces record display case

CHARLEVOIX -- The availability of Freedman Art-craft Engineering Corp.'s new HR-10 series record and tape fixtures will be announced to the record and tape industry next month, according to Gordon Freedman, president.

This addition to the firm's standard line of record and tape fixtures was developed to fill a growing need for record department fixtures emulating the appearance and quality of fine domestic furniture. Freedman said. Fixtures of similar appearance and quality were developed by Freedman Artcraft for the greeting card and other industries the past few years.

Freedman said the firm shipped a record number of 35,000 fixtures during 1967. Since moving to Charlevoix in 1946, he said, it has shipped over 400,000 fixtures all over the world. There are few towns in the country, he added, that do not have store fixtures labeled "Charlevoix, Michigan."

In addition to the display of records, tapes and greeting cards, the company's line includes self-service fixtures for gift wrapping, candles, party papers, thread, binding tapes, zippers, sewing aids, etc.

A late model record fixture and stereo tape fixture produced by Freedman's is being used in two local supermarkets.

to purchase about $300 worth of riot control gas. In pushing for funds to purchase the gas and establish the plan, peace officers pointed out that during last summer's downtown riots, only two state policemen were left on duty in the area.

If roving bands of rioters or hoodlums should strike any local community, lawmen point out, local police would be virtually helpless to cope with it. However, if the mutual assistance plan is functioning, a couple dozen policemen could be immediately summoned to restore order.

Equipping police departments for riot control would cost as estimated $1,000, per department, according to officials.

Ironton citizens protest dump site

CHARLEVOIX -- The first round of what promises to be a prolonged legal battle over a sanitary land fill (dump) for Charlevoix ended on a bizarre note in Boyne City's justice court last week.

Eveline Township Supervisor Wayne Saunders had brought criminal charges against Bill Marne Jr., owner of the Charlevoix Garbage Service, for dumping in property Marne bought last summer near Ironton.

BOYNE CITY JUSTICE Lyle Green and six men jury were deciding the case. Prosecuting Attorney Harvey Varnum was prosecuting the criminal complaint, Mrs. Barbara MacKenzie, a Petoskey attorney, was defending Marne.

After some two hours of examination and cross-examination by the two attorneys, Mrs. MacKenzie abruptly ended the case by unexpectedly demanding dismissal on the grounds Bill Marne Jr. is Bill Marne's 22 year old son.

Prosecution witnesses had identified the senior Marne as Bill Marne Jr., the person the complaint was signed against. Saunders admitted he thought the senior Marne was "junior."

Varnum admitted there was nothing left to do but dismiss the complaint. Green dismissed it.

However, before Saunders and Marne had left Boyne City both said the contest was just beginning.

Voc. Ed. millage gets backing

For this $50,000 Charlevoix would:

- Be able to send as many students as are eligible to vocational education classes at the Petoskey Vocational Education Center, at no cost to the school district.
- Would receive 50% this year and 25% next year of the cost of vocationally-certified courses offered at Charlevoix (this year these include cooperative education, business education, and drafting, with home economics to be added next year).
- Would receive 100% reimbursement for vocationalized programs if offered to students from other school districts (this might include drafting and cooperative education).
- Would have the services of cooperative education specialists in such fields as trade and industrial, distributive education and office education.

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE counselors would be hired by the Intermediate School District to work with students in all area schools. These counselors, Supt. Rex Milligan said, would aid students who are not going to college in selecting an occupation and getting the proper training.

All area school districts in the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, including East Jordan, Ellsworth and Central Lake--would receive the same benefits from the program as Charlevoix.

The 1.5-mill levy would raise an estimated $210,000 in the Intermediate School District. It is estimated the first year's operation of an "equal opportunity" vocational education program would take $190,400 of this $210,000. A $10,000 annual payment to Petoskey to reimburse it for the $250,000 it spent to build a vocational education center for area students is included in the $190,400 figure.

Rader pointed out Monday evening that Charlevoix may not get back as much from the 1.5-mill levy as it raises, but added that Charlevoix could not develop and operate a vocational education program of its own that would be nearly as comprehensive as the one being offered for anywhere near what it will into cooperative area program.

ZANE STEIN, vocational education coordinator for the Intermediate District, would have immediate administrative responsibility over the program, Rader told the board.

Charles Robinson, Intermediate superintendent, and his school board, would have ultimate control, just as they do over the half-mill special education tax levy and program.

MEETING WITH THE commission was Everett Thompson of Williams and Works, the commission's professional planning consultants, who will collect the $21,800 for its work.

In addition to deciding to proceed with the original planning program outlined two years ago, commission members reportedly agreed to launch what is being termed a "city and township governmental study."

This study is aimed at determining how public utilities and services--such as water, sewer, police protection, paved streets, street lighting, etc.--can most economically and efficiently be provided to township areas.

Commission member Oscar Stroud has for several months pressed for study to determine if consolidation of the city and Charlevoix Township is feasible. He has been supported by township Supervisor Clarence Rabach.

THE TOWNSHIP NOT long ago had a study made of advantages of starting its own water system or joining the city system. The study reportedly showed that extending the city system was by far the most practical.

The commissions "city and township governmental study" is also expected to deal with the growing health problem due to septic tank pollution in the township.

Areas to be covered under the general comprehensive planning study are: 1. Natural resources; 2. land use and housing; 3. population and economic analysis; 4. transportation and parking; 5. public utilities; 6. municipal facilities, such as schools, harbors, airport and recreation.

On each mill of taxation a property owner pays $1 tax on every thousand dollars at which his property is assessed. Thus, if a home is assessed at $6,000 the annual tax bill to pay for the new bond issue would be a maximum of less than $36 a year and an average of less than $30. After 15 years the average annual cost would drop to around $20.

CLARE, he pointed out, is now using a successful lagoon system. Clare's sewage is pumped about four miles from town to the lagoons in the "backwoods."

In Ironton, the Water Resources Commission has directed construction of a lagoon type sewage system so that effluent does not go into Lake Bellaire. Bellaire does not now have a municipal sewage system. Individual septic tanks are used.

Wherever possible, Little explained, the state is requiring lagoon systems. Communities such as Charlevoix, he said, could find lagoon systems more practical than constructing the expensive modern treatment plants which will ultimately be required.

Bellaire will pump its sewage into large ponds (lagoons) far removed from the lake or town. Once in the lagoons the sewage evaporates, causing no pollution or health problem.

When cross-examined by Mrs. MacKenzie, Kemp said the ordinance was drafted because Saunders found out Marne was buying the dump site. Eveline Township, he said, does not have a zoning ordinance, but is working on one.

"We ain't going to permit no dumps," Kemp said at one point.

Kemp and the only other witness called, Ralph C. Richardson, testified that they believe ground water at the landfill site will drain into ponds on neighboring farms from which cattle drink, causing a health problem.

Kemp said that Marne applied for a township permit, under the provisions of the anti-dumping ordinance, and was denied one.

MRS. MACKENZIE ARGUED that the township ordinance was unconstitutional. She said the state law on sanitary landfills specifies that any ordinance on the same subject drawn by a township, county or city must be more stringent than the state law. Eveline township's ordinance, she claimed, is more permissive.

She charged that the township's denying Marne a permit was "clearly an arbitrary act."

Varnum insisted the court should only act on the criminal charge of whether or not Marne did dump on the site. Whether the ordinance under which the criminal charge originated was legal was not the question before the court, he contended.

Judge Green called a short recess and afterwards said he would consider no more argument on the legality of the ordinance.

Shortly after the judge's decision to allow testimony only on the question of whether or not Marne did dump on the site, Mrs. MacKenzie played her surprise move demanding dismissal on grounds Bill Marne "Jr." was not the legal name of the defendant.

BILL MARNEE, near center, is dwarfed by the size of the trenches into which he is now dumping Charlevoix garbage and trash at his new "sanitary landfill" near Ironton. The big trenches are about 12-feet wide and 12-feet deep. After the garbage and trash is dumped in it is compressed and a covering layer of dirt poured on. No burning is allowed.

School outlines tax cost of bond request

CHARLEVOIX -- It will cost Charlevoix School District taxpayers less than six mills to pay for $2 million in new school buildings, the school board learned Monday night.

Supt. Rex Milligan presented figures prepared by Davenport and Associates, architects, which outlined the estimated annual tax rate required to pay for the school building program voters will vote on April 1.

THE ESTIMATED figures showed that the average tax rate during the next 15 years to pay for the bonds would be 4.57 mills. The peak rate would be 5.48 mills. After 15 years the rate would drop to a 3.19-mill average.

On each mill of taxation a property owner pays $1 tax on every thousand dollars at which his property is assessed. Thus, if a home is assessed at $6,000 the annual tax bill to pay for the new bond issue would be a maximum of less than $36 a year and an average of less than $30. After 15 years the average annual cost would drop to around $20.

CLARE, he pointed out, is now using a successful lagoon system. Clare's sewage is pumped about four miles from town to the lagoons in the "backwoods."

In Ironton, the Water Resources Commission has directed construction of a lagoon type sewage system so that effluent does not go into Lake Bellaire. Bellaire does not now have a municipal sewage system. Individual septic tanks are used.

ent elementary into a "middle grades" school. The second proposition will ask for $455,000 to expand the high school.

Voters may approve or reject either or both bond propositions.

After studying the millage estimates, the school board, on a motion by Dale Boser, decided to ask voters to pay off the $455,000 bond issue in 15 years, instead of 30.

THIS BOSS POINTED out, will cost a taxpayer a maximum of less than a half-mill more a year for 15 years, but save the district thousands of dollars in interest.

Milligan told the board the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission authorized issuing the lower bond issue off in 15 or 20 years, but required that the $1,595,000 issue be financed over a 30 year period.

The millage estimates, presented by Milligan, are figured on the district having taxable property value of $33 million dollars this year, $5 million more than last year.

The tax rate, he pointed out, will decrease below the figures he presented.

Medusa may start next week

CHARLEVOIX -- Medusa's South Point plant is expected to be back in operation next week, according to manager Hank Krebs.

The plant was shutdown Jan. 12 for a general overhaul and maintenance period. The entire plant will be back in operation by next week, he said.

Medusa said the computer installation is nearing completion. Other major jobs being finished are overhauling and changing to the air pollution control machinery and the system that cools the product when it comes from the kilns, he said.

"We'll be starting from scratch," Krebs said. The entire plant will be controlled from the computer system.

Library notes

Our world keeps getting smaller, people become increasingly interdependent, and new countries keep emerging. An outgrowth of this is the emphasis on rivers and mountains and boundaries and chief crops to agriculture today as it was. The emphasis today is on people.

For example, it is still important to know that Columbia is the second largest producer of coffee in the world, but to understand the people of Columbia, you must also know how an average family lives in Bogota, how they celebrate Christmas, why they speak Spanish, and why two-thirds of the country is still virtually unexplored.

Facinating reading about people of other lands is available for juveniles, at the Charlevoix Library.

Charlevoix Court

CHARLEVOIX—Justice John Connolly reports the following cases:

Jesse Muma, 27, Ellsworth, stop sign violation, $10; Keith M. West, 26, Pellston, drunk and disorderly, $25.50; Alan Loucks, 24, Detroit, basic speed law violation, $10.

Swap mayors
Area communities will swap mayors and village presidents again this year on Mayors Exchange Day (May 20) of Michigan Week.

The communities with which local cities will exchange were selected at a drawing in Lansing last week.

Charlevoix's mayor Bill Fechtman will travel to Durand, a southern Michigan town, to swap with its mayor.

East Jordan's new mayor, Gerald Olson—the only candidate for the post in the April election—will go to Athens, a Calhoun County village of 900 people.

Ellsworth Village President Marvin Wynsma is slated to visit Linden, a Genesee County village of 1,146 persons.

Lake shipping down in 1967
During 1967 the Great Lakes tanker trade followed the general trend toward record low levels. The season was noted by various other commodity segments handled in large quantities, according to the Lake Carriers' Association.

Total tanker shipments by vessel comprising the U.S. and Canadian segments of the fleet totaled 12,109,001 net tons or 8.7% and $70.12 less than in the preceding year, Oliver T. Burnham, vice president and secretary of the Lake Carriers' Association, said. In contrast, actual volume was reduced only 2,887,750 barrels or a reduction of 2.67%.

The ship left Charlevoix last Tuesday night for Grand Haven to assist the oil tanker St. Clair into the harbor there. She stood by in Grand Haven until Sunday, when she started back for Charlevoix.

L. Ronald MacFee reports the ship will now be out of service for a two-week engine overhaul period.

Jordan police work for mutual aid plan
EAST JORDAN -- Police Chief Joe Hammond has been given the City Council's backing in cooperating with other communities to develop a mutual aid pact.

Under the tentative plan, as outlined to the Council by Hammond, the pact would bring all area police and Sheriff's departments together in event of an emergency, such as a riot. An Area fire departments have traditionally cooperated in this way to handle fires too large for a single department.

Hammond will report back to the Council when final details of the mutual aid pact are worked out.

Marriages
The following marriages are recorded in the office of the Charlevoix County Clerk:

David S. Lamb, 18, Boyne City, to Kathleen E. Gray, 18, Pellston.

Robert P. McKown, 55, Detroit, to K. Lucille Westergaard, 44, Boyne City.

Klen R. Johnston, 60, Ellsworth, to Edna M. Donaldson, 51, East Jordan.

Federal loan
CHARLEVOIX -- A $75,500 federal loan has been awarded to the Charlevoix Development Corp. to help finance expansion to the Laxelle plant on U.S. 31 north.

According to Sen. Philip A. Hart, the plant will employ 25 more persons when the addition is completed. The Charlevoix Development Corp. obtained a federal grant to make it possible for Laxelle to originally locate here.

Feds ok grant for poverty war
A $49,928 federal grant has been awarded to the Charlevoix County War on Poverty Committee (Two-Cap) to carry on its program.

The funds will be used for administering and financing an office staff in Emmet, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, and Oshtemo counties. Two-Cap applied for a $35,000 federal grant, but it had been cut off.

Sundew returns
CHARLEVOIX -- The Coast Guard Cutter Sundew returned to Charlevoix Monday after a six-day ice breaking mission.

The ship left Charlevoix last Tuesday night for Grand Haven to assist the oil tanker St. Clair into the harbor there. She stood by in Grand Haven until Sunday, when she started back for Charlevoix.

L. Ronald MacFee reports the ship will now be out of service for a two-week engine overhaul period.

Did you run out of money before you ran out of month?

In an age of the creditability gap, the peace gap, and the nuclear weapons gap, there's a much more down-to-earth problem that's familiar to all of us.

It's the money gap. It arises when you have more bills to pay than you have money to pay them with. And what with family expenses and other unexpected expenses, it's a problem that almost everybody has to face sooner or later.

Dems plan '68 campaign

Charlevoix County Democratic Chairman Pete Johnson attended a regional party conference in Cadillac over the weekend.

Party leaders from northern Michigan met with State Chairman Sandy Levine and National Committeeman Neil Stasker to discuss this year's campaign for state representatives, congressmen and President.

Lambert claims the company has failed to live up to a contract with him for improvements to property it owns on the former Lobb estate. According to Lambert he and Bay Shore Co. agreed to a formal contract in October 1967 for Lambert to do earth moving and other work on the Lobb estate holding on Lake Charlevoix.

Lambert, allegedly, was to have been paid $750 a week minimum for his equipment and crew's services.

Lambert claims that on the basis of the contract he turned down other jobs.

WE MUST SEEK THE TRUTH

Constantly in search of the TRUTH the scientist takes nothing for granted. Each "hearsay", each theory, is tested and tried and accepted or discarded on the condition that it proves true or false. The true scientist never jumps to conclusions, consequently you will never hear him proclaiming the self-sufficiency of man—that man needs no spiritual power.

The Church is also a center for the search and dispensation of truth in things other than the material, the things one cannot discern by the physical senses. If each of us would be free we must know the truth and if each of us is active in the work of the church that fits our needs "We Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make Us Free."

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER

A growing community needs a growing Chamber of Commerce.

We are in a period when extraordinary demands of a wide variety are being made of the Chamber of Commerce, our city and area. It is felt we must be ready and prepared accordingly as I believe we cannot afford standing or sitting still.

There is some sort of wise planning in the making, however, more definite action should be stepping up. To keep pace with a growing community our Chamber should be also doing its utmost. There needs to be participation by all of us. We are in a different era, not many front porches left for us to sit on and watch progress and the finer things go by us. We must get more share of the potential and it takes the lot of us together to do it as sure enough we cannot rest on our long gone past laurels.

Our city has grown these past few years and will continue and the Chamber of Commerce has stratched its budget to the breaking point to meet increased demands. In order to continue our march and stay abreast, we are planning a full scale drive for new members, renewals, and much more of getting again allied the "used to belongers", also contributions other than money. With your support the Chamber can be given the punch and push it needs to carry out its business for Charlevoix of which you all are a part. It is necessary to raise money, invest in the community you love and are proud of, by supporting your Chamber of Commerce.

Salmon Fishery Impact: The final of a series of three meetings at Petoskey will be Thursday, February 29 at 8 p.m. at Petoskey Senior High School on East Mitchell Street. A fellow with some Michigan cove experience will be the principal speaker, who is none other than Tom Lewis, Manager, Manistee County Board of Commission, giving a first hand version of a cove impact on the city of Manistee and area, then and now. He will be followed by Dr. Lou Wardzik, professor of Research Development, MSU, planning to be ready before invasion. Dr. Robert, MSU Director of the Institute of Water Research, will explain pesticides and their effect on marine life. Dr. Eugene Dice Specialist, Natural Resources, MSU, Commander Drinkwater, USCG, St. Ignace District, will discuss "Why's and Wherefore's" of charter boat licensing and operation; Iain Christie, MSU Professor in the School of Hotel and Restaurant Management, will speak on the subject "Back up Services" for charter boat operations; and Wes Tebeau, Membership Secretary for West Michigan Tourist Association, will elaborate on the need to "Plan Now - Join Now - Advertise Now". Following Tom Lewis, after brief presentation by the other panel specialists, all will set up shop in adjoining classrooms and be available for intense discussion on their particular subjects. Public is welcome, and there is no admission charge.

How do you rate? It has been indicated, there are three types of people, those who (1) Make things happen, (2) Watch things happen, (3) Don't know what's happening. Inflation: "There is nothing or any mystery about the true causes of inflation. And if I were asked to define them, I would put it this way: When government spends more than it gets, and when labor gets more than it gives, that empty feeling in your pocket is inflation." — Robert M. Blough, chairman, United States Steel Corp.

Sincere thanks for your interest and following. I will be absent two weeks. It was necessary to prevail on the Board for two weeks' leave to take care of the situation planned for three years. Our capable Mrs. Mary Engstrom will cover during my absence.

Boy Scouts honor Louis Edwards

CHARLEVOIX -- Louie Edwards was honored last week for his ten years service to Charlevoix Boy Scouting.

Edwards, owner of the Ironton Jiffy Market and a winter employee at Edwards' IGA in Charlevoix, was honored at the 58th birthday party of Scouting held by Troop 11. Attending were Boy Scouts, their families, adult leaders and members and their wives of the sponsoring Kiwanis Club.

As the program drew to a close, Senior Patrol Leader Eric Peterson called Scouter Edwards from his place and presented him with a shield bearing the Boy Scout seal and a plaque commending him for his 10 years in Scouting.

In quick succession Larry Andere, Junior Assistant Scoutmaster, presented him with a framed letter from Joseph Brunton of New Brunswick, N.J., who heads the Scouting program in the United States, commending him for his dedication to Scouting and Jerry Fochtman presented a framed letter from Gov. George Romney which also com-monded him for his efforts in behalf of the Scouting program.

Earlier in the program, each of the six patrols had presented brief skits; Alan Avery spoke briefly on Scout Advancement and Jerry Fochtman read of Camp Grellick, operated by the Scenic Trails Boy Scout Council.

In an impressive candlelight ceremony during which the Boy Scout Laws are read by Scoutmaster Edwards, assisted by Val Avery, committee member, the following Scouters received Tanagerfoot awards: Howard Otis, Tim Moorland, Robert Hooper, Edward Buday Jr., Mark Peterson, Thomas Avery, Randy Smith, Jerry Russell, Linda Allison, Del Wood, James Borthe, Patrick Whitley and Tom Mort.

Other receiving awards were Paul Osterberg and Walter Krouh, First Class awards presented by Leonard Burns.

The following received Merit Badges: Electricity, Joe Avery, Alan Avery and Jerry Fochtman, presented by Doug Wilks; Forestry, Alan Avery and Joe Avery presented by Ray Shaw; Swimming, Paul Osterberg presented by Mr. Shaw; Soil and Water Conservation, Jerry Fochtman, Mr. Shaw; Citizenship in the Community, Jerry Fochtman, presented by Robert Hooper; Home Repairs, Jerry Fochtman, presented by Mr. Avery.

Star Scout awards were presented to Gordon Skeel and Joe Avery by John McPherson and the Life Scout award to Jerry Fochtman by Don Anders, for more neighborhood committment of the Council.

Larry Flint, neighborhood committment, presented the Scout charter to Rev. Lawrence Tshonop, president of the Kiwanis Club.

Larry Anders served as toastmaster at the program. Rev. Jack Harris led the group singing. Mrs. Leonard Burns accompanied the singing.

The banquet was made possible through the generosity of the Kiwanis Club, Oleson's Food store and Maxbauer Dairy.

13 Rayder JV's score on Mancy

CHARLEVOIX -- Thirteen members of Charlevoix's JV squad got in the scoring act Friday as the junior varsity rallied over Manistota 75-37.

Aside from the ease with which Charlevoix scored, the game's most noteworthy feature has to be the number of fouls. Referees called 22 fouls on Charlevoix and 22 on Manistota.

The Little Rayders scored on 30 field goals and 13 of 31 free throw shots. Manistota's JV's scored on ten field goals and 17 of 44 free throw shots.

Kraig Lieberman, again, set the pace for Charlevoix as he scored 14 points, all on field goals. Others scoring were Stewart Coleman with 12, Bruce Meggison and Mike Thorpe with 7 each, Bob Young, Norman Ostum and Jim Warner with 6 each, George McClellan and David Plann, 4 each, Charles Novak, John Curtis and Bob Crain, 2 each, and Carl Novak, 1.

With Charlevoix leading all the way the score at the end of each quarter was 21-0, 36-18 and 52-29.

BEAVER ISLANDERS GIVE the five adventurers who crossed from St. James to Charlevoix on snowmobiles last week a big sendoff. The five men making the harrowing trek were Perry Crawford, Phil Gregg, Archie and Alvin LaFreniere and Walter Wojan. The trip to Charlevoix took six hours, with detours around open ice leads left by the Coast Guard ice breaker Mackinac. The trip back took four hours. The snowmobilers hauled a sled with spare parts and survival gear. It was the first known winter lake crossing since 1962-63 when the Whitley brothers walked across.

CHARLEVOIX'S FIVE Brownie Scout troops celebrated their World Association Day birthday last week with this giant cake in the Elementary School cafeteria. Presidents of the five Brownie troops are, from left, Debbie Brown, troop 272; Tammy Mann, troop 264; Lisa Vogler, troop 266; Theresa Russell, troop 261; and Sally Goor, troop 270. The five troops have 76 members.

Tax equality

THE DEADLINE is nearing for township supervisors to determine the taxable value of property for 1968 school, county and township tax rolls. Boards of Review are scheduled to begin meeting in early March to review the assessments placed on property by supervisors.

As the deadline nears the amount of assessment on Medusa's South Point plant still appears in question.

The $11,261,665 worth of property Consumers Power Co. has kept exempted from the tax roll since its Big Rock Point plant was built six years ago appears more certainly to continue as tax-free.

MRS. JOAN BLANCHARD, Charlevoix County Equalization Director, reports Consumers has matter of factly told her the Big Rock exemption will continue. Mrs. Blanchard, after a search of her files, cannot find out why, specifically, the exemption was ever granted or what equipment it is on.

She does know, however, that the original exemption was for five years and was to expire this year. Now she has been told, by a company official, that the exemption will probably continue indefinitely. And she still doesn't know why.

At Medusa the situation is equally complex. Medusa's plant, according to a company statement, has a total value of $28,250,000. It is only fair to take into consideration that the plant's computer, which appears to be included in this figure, was not installed at the closing date (Dec. 31, 1967) for figuring 1968 property assessments. Furthermore, the company is seeking a $1.7 million exemption on its air pollution control machinery.

So instead of going on the tax roll for $14 million (50% of its estimated $28 million value) to plant, perhaps, should hit the tax roll for more like $11 million or $10 million this year and then come up to full value next year.

CHARLEVOIX TOWNSHIP Supervisor Clarence Rabach is understandably at a loss to appraise the value of the South Point plant. Such a job takes a highly trained technician. This means a state tax appraiser.

The Courier is not trying to encourage "soaking" our two biggest industries on taxes. We are, though, asking that industry be treated like all others.

Homeowners and small businesses pay taxes on 50% of their property's estimated true cash value. We get no exemptions under such heading as "research and development" and "air pollution control." The state law, wrongly we feel, gives industry the right to exemptions for these things.

We are critical of such laws because small business and homeowners must constantly spend money to find ways to improve their businesses and keep their property from being objectionable to others. We see no reason the small guy should have to pay and the big guy get exemptions. If the state law is that all property be taxed at 50% of cash value there should be no exemptions.

Industry is commonly given a break on its taxes under the guise that if it isn't it will drive out of the state. If this is the case government and school spending should be reduced, instead of heaping additional burden on the small guy.

EXPERIENCE HAS shown us that Consumers Power Co. is one of Michigan's finest, most public spirited corporations. Medusa, we are still hoping, will, as the years pass, demonstrate the same kind of public conscience.

This does not mean they should be unjustly taxed. It means their taxes should be figured at the full 50% valuation that every other citizen's taxes supposedly are.

Fisheries station a plus

CHARLEVOIX IS just beginning to realize how fortunate it is to have the Conservation Dept.'s new Great Lakes Fisheries Station located in the former National Fish Hatchery building and to have Myrl Koller in charge of the operation.

The Station and its work has given Charlevoix insight and understanding of the state's effort to build a great fishery in the big lakes. It has, perhaps most importantly, already assured us that Lake Charlevoix and nearby Lake Michigan areas will be focal points for development of sport fishing.

KELLER WOULD not have been named to his sensitive post if his ability and recommendations were not highly valued by his superiors in Lansing and Rosecon. Thus, we must to some degree suspect that we owe him some thanks for Lake Charlevoix being scheduled to receive 50,000 coho plants this spring. Original department plans did not call for a plant in Lake Charlevoix.

In recent years we have noted the trend by Conservation Dept. personnel to evaluate the success of their fish and game management programs on the basis of statistics allegedly showing how many deer, trout, etc. are in an area. Keller is one of the old school who brood who evaluates success on the basis of the number of fishermen who actually experience some success. He appreciates the fact, that telling someone fish are there is of no value unless they can catch or book them.

In urging the public to inspect the progress of the 600,000 plus baby coho at the hatchery, Keller has involved all of us in this exciting new program.

By seeking an active role in our community's planning to prepare for the coming of sports fishermen, he has shown us that he is sincerely interested not only in his state-wide responsibilities but also in being a responsible citizen of Charlevoix.

Charlevoix, the Great Lakes and all Midwest sports fishermen are, in our opinion, fortunate to have a man of Keller's caliber in command of this immensely important undertaking. His superiors, too, are to be commended for their good judgement in selecting Keller and all to be thanked for selecting Charlevoix as the site of the station.

CHARLEVOIX SCHOOL District's two largest taxpayers, Medusa, above, and Consumer's Big Rock plant, below, may be getting a tax break that is not offered to small business and private citizens. If these two giants pay taxes on less than 50% of their full value it means other taxpayers must fork over a higher tax rate to support schools and local government.

Sen. Phil Hart takes telling look at causes of pollution

by PHIL HART
U.S. Senator

Man is getting remarkably successful at compressing time. A booklet, put out by the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration, entitled "Water Pollution Problems of Lake Michigan" tells how the lake is being hurried through its normal life span as if it were one of those roses that buds, blooms and withers in a few minutes of speeded-up movie film.

Most of us tend to think of pollution in terms of raw sewage, poisonous industrial chemicals, oil slicks and garbage—and this, indeed, is the most immediately dangerous type of pollutant. Lake Michigan, because of the growing population on its shores, has suffered plenty of this type of pollution and yet this kind of dumping is what poses the greatest long-term threat.

The legal and technical tools are already at hand to beat it. Enforcement is proceeding at a fairly brisk pace.

But this doesn't solve the worst problem that Lake Michigan is facing: nutrient pollution.

Even the best waste treatment plant does not return pure water back to the streams and lakes. True, treated water is strained of solids and it is no longer bacteria-laden. Treatment plants simply reduce sewage into non-toxic chemicals.

And back into the lake goes nitrogen, phosphates and potash—a combination that any home gardener recognizes as a superb fertilizer.

This fertilizer generates a great algae growth, first in the waters along the shore and finally deeper and deeper into the lake—an algae growth that is already beginning to choke the beaches of western Michigan.

In Lake Michigan, we must first of all stop the toxic wastes—raw sewage, oil spills, garbage, etc. We are making progress here although it's not easy—and it's not inexpensive.

Overabundant algae carries two dangers: It can make beaches unpleasant for bathing and, in dying and rotting in the water, it begins to soak up oxygen needed to sustain fish.

Glacial lakes, like Michigan, begin with water as pure as desert sand—and just as sterile. Little by little, nutrients dribble in, allowing plant and fish life. As more nutrients come in, algae eventually overpowers a lake. It fills up with dead plant life and other sediment, eventually turning into a swamp.

Understand that even at the present fertilization rate, Lake Michigan will not be a swamp for many thousands of years. But the fact remains that we have done more to age the lake in the past 20 years than nature could have done in the next 1,000.

And anyone who is not impressed with man's ability to destroy a large body of water need only study Lake Erie.

Secondly, if we are to slow down the aging process, we must cut down on non-toxic nutrients. It's unlikely we can ever fully remove all three of the chemical elements that make up fertilizer, but that's not really necessary.

If we remove just one -- the phosphates -- then the other two, nitrogen and potash, will lose much of their effect. A consistently effective way to take phosphates out of treated sewage has not yet been found but scientists are getting close.

When we do get a workable system, it will mean a new round of sewage treatment construction, new local taxes, new federal appropriations, new problems for industry, new political debates on the virtues of economy.

Water pollution control just isn't easy work. It can generate all sorts of unpleasant things like tax levies, factory shut-downs, and complaining letters to politicians.

But algae—the phlegm of a choking lake—is already piling up on our beaches. If it costs an eventual billion dollars to save Lake Michigan, I don't want to tell me why it would not be worth the price.

Future generations will rightly have some very harsh words to say about us if they are presented with a lake that cartographers will color brown.

We agree

The State Senate's apparently ill-timed leap Jan. 31 to authorize home offices for each of its 38 members set off a flurry of outrage from many citizens.

The fact that citizens could probably get a lot more service and mileage from their senator if he had an office and staff "at home" full on deaf ears, or wasn't told. All the public seemed to see in the additional $700,000 tab they will be picking up to support a legislative body that is already taxing them into debt.

MUCH OF THIS outburst of discontent was directed at Sen. Tom Schweigert of Petoskey, who represents a vast portion of Northern Lower and Upper Michigan. Schweigert was one of only five Republicans who joined all of the Senate's 14 Democrats in voting for the unpopular bill.

Since monitoring public opinion on the bill Schweigert has decided it was a mistake.

This department often finds it is admitting Schweigert for his courage in standing on principle. For instance, his outspoken defense of due schooling—which we may not personally agree with—is certainly indication of a man who will stand by what he believes in.

MEAT COOKERY Quiz

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?
A. Beef rolled rump.

Q. Where does it come from?
How is it identified?
A. It comes from the rump section of beef, right next to the sirloin section. The bones have been removed and the meat has been rolled and tied with string.

Q. How is it prepared?
A. If beef rump roast is of high quality, it can be roasted. That means placing it on a rack in an oven pan, fat side up. Neither add water, nor ever let it roast in a slow oven (300° F. to 325° F.) until the most meat thermometer registers 150° F. to 170° F. depending upon the kind of doneness desired. Beef rolled rump weighs between four and six pounds, and 25 to 30 minutes per pound should be allowed for roasting time.

If there's any question about tenderness, beef rump roast may be broiled. Broil the meat in its own fat or oil or dripping. Four fat or oil, broil, season and add a small amount of liquid. Cover tightly and broil slowly 3 to 4 hours or until tender.

CHS, E-J Bands capture top festival ratings

CHARLEVOIX -- Both Charlevoix Band groups were awarded First Division ratings last Saturday at the annual District Band and Orchestra Festival, held in Petoskey.

Cushman returns to where started

ELLIOWORTH -- The 1968 Ellsworth High School commencement address will be delivered by M. L. Cushman, Ellsworth principal from 1929-1931.

Cushman is now Dean of the College of Education at the University of North Dakota. He will address Ellsworth's 1968 graduates to commemorate his 40th year in public education. He started teaching at Ellsworth in September of 1929.

Ironton land mixup settled

IRONTON--The County Road Commission and Meale Scott have reached a compromise settlement over their property line disagreement at the west side Ironton ferry landing.

Scott and the commission, Scott said, agreed to exchange quick claim deeds resulting in a jog in the quarter section line from M-66 down Ferry Rd. to the ferry landing.

THE JOG ALLOWS Scott to retain ownership of his bait shop and the well for the house across the street he purchased from Eweline Township and gives the commission ownership of the ferry landing.

A recent investigation of deeds showed that Scott owned part of the ferry landing and the county owned a small corner of the home he purchased across the street.

The settlement means, however, that the commission will have to remove about six feet from the shed it maintains near the ferry.

Both bands are thus eligible to participate in the State Band and Orchestra Festival, although only the Senior Band will participate, in Battle Creek April 27.

The Senior Band received "A" ratings from all four judges. Only Petoskey in Class B and Gaylord in Class C were given the same straight "A" rating. For the Senior Band, it marks the 15th consecutive First Division rating, the 21st in the past 22 years.

The Reserve Band received two "A's" and a "B" rating from the concert judges, and a "B" from the sight reading judge. The Reserve Band made its first appearance as a uniformed band, wearing the old Senior Band uniforms, replaced by the new Senior uniforms.

Comments from the judges, while technical in nature, were unanimous in their praise of both bands. Judges were Art Steward and Terrill Zyffman of Hastings, Robert Lee Brower of Zeeland and Howard Hornung of Ludington.

Air Force stays

CHARLEVOIX -- The Air Force is completely rebuilding its Bay Shore radar bomb scoring site, according to Sen. Philip A. Hart.

Charlevoix County Democratic Committee Chairman Pete Johnson reported he has been informed by Hart that the Air Force has no plans to move the Bay Shore unit, which was destroyed by fire Dec. 26.

HART'S REPORT is the first official word that has been received about the site's future. Attempts by local officials to obtain information on the site's status through other channels have produced only speculation.

More than 100 men are assigned to the unit, which moved to Bay Shore five years ago from the Upper Peninsula.

The unit's mission is to "score" jet bombers flying over Lake Michigan for their accuracy in practice bombing. Some $3 million worth of complex electronic gear was reportedly burned in the day-after-Christmas fire.

Other bands participating and their ratings: Class D Senior High-Harbor Springs B, Central Lake I, Conway III, Class C Junior High-Gaylord I, Rogers City III, Rudyard III, Class B Junior High-Quincy II, Class A Senior High-Sault Ste. Marie I, Class B Senior High-Cheboygan II, Petoskey I, Rogers City II, Class C Senior High-Ford IV, East Jordan I, Boyne City I, Gaylord I, and Charlevoix I.

Bond vote

As the district's assessed property valuation increases.

Milligan told the board he doubts the proposed expansion will serve the district's needs for more than another five to seven years. "We could say ten years," Milligan said, "but I doubt we'll make it."

He added that the new grade school on the north side will be easily expandable, thus reducing the cost of adding new classrooms.

MILLIGAN ALSO recommended that the board consider levying a one-mill sinking fund levy. This way, he explained, the money to add classrooms will be available when the rooms are needed and instead of paying interest on borrowed money the district will collect interest on the sinking fund by investing it until it is needed.

In addition to millage needed to pay for the new bonds, if they are approved, the district will continue to pay for the 1959 bond issue, which is scheduled to be paid off by 1959. Milligan estimated less than two mills will be required to pay for the old bonds.

The $88 maximum millage required to pay for the new bonds is more than five mills less than the 11 mills architects estimated it would cost to pay for new buildings if the East Jordan and Charlevoix school district merger had been approved at the Feb. 19 election.

(The merger was voted down 7,128 to 227 in Charlevoix.)

DEPUTY CITY Clerk Mrs. Ida Helse swears in Ken Staley as new Second Ward Supervisor Tuesday morning. Staley took his seat on the Board of Supervisors meeting as a member, replacing Harold Totten.

Staley appointed to replace H. Totten as City Supervisor

CHARLEVOIX -- Kenneth Staley, 45, was appointed Second Ward Supervisor Monday night, replacing Harold Totten.

Staley's appointment took immediate effect. He was sworn in as a city official Tuesday morning and took his seat on the Board of Supervisors.

Totten, 58, who is vacationing in Florida, submitted his resignation, by letter, asking that an immediate replacement be found so he could extend his vacation.

STALEY, A FORMER city councilman, beat Totten in the primary and was elected to take Totten's seat on the County Board of Supervisors in the April general election. He upset Totten in the primary by a slim 20 votes.

Totten was appointed to the County Board in 1964 to replace the late John Urbick. He was re-elected in 1966 and 1967. He is a former manager of the Charlevoix Courier and lifelong newspaperman.

Staley, who owns and operates a grocery store on Antrim St., was a city councilman from 1960 to 1964. In 1964 he did not run for reelection. He is a charter member and former chairman of the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission. He is a former commander of the Charlevoix VFW post and served in the Marine Corps from 1942 to 1946.

In announcing his decision to oppose Totten in the primary, Staley said he felt more effective opposition is needed on the County Board to proposals to build a $500,000 County Jail.

Mayor Bill Fochman appointment of Staley was unanimously approved by the Council.

Turning to other matters, the Council Monday announced it will allow the County to build its proposed jail on W. Garfield. The County Board has asked City Council to allow the jail and sewer and water sewer would be available.

Before the jail can be built the County Board must raise the money.

The Council directed City Supt. Jim Taylor to seek action from the owner, W. Garfield, to allow the jail and sewer and water sewer would be available.

Seventeen persons who live near the Jones property petitioned the Council to have the house and shed torn down. They claimed the house hasn't been lived in for ten years, no repairs or painting has been done in 10 years and "skunks, rats, woodchucks and rabbits are living underneath."

Mayor Fochman asked that Mrs. Jones' voluntary cooperation be sought and that legal condemnation action be implemented only if this does not work.

FOCHMAN SAID the city is continuing to negotiate with Hal Forberg over the County's demand that the Colonial Club property on Meach St. be torn down. On Feb. 5 the Council directed City Attorney John Michael to order the Club building torn down.

Forberg has asked that he be allowed to rebuild part of the building and tear the rest down, Fochman said.

Rayders meet Mancy to open tournament

CHARLEVOIX -- This may be the year Charlevoix brings home the Michigan Class C basketball championship.

Longtime Red Rayders fans are guardedly saying this will be the year.

Unwaten in their 16 regular season games, Coach Don Carey's all-senior Rayder cage squad goes into its first round of the tournament play Thursday against Manelona at Gaylord. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

ASSUMING THE Rayders beat Manelona (which they've already done with no trouble twice this season), they will meet Boyne City, Gaylord or East Jordan Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in Gaylord.

The district Class C playoffs begin Tuesday when Gaylord and East Jordan clash. Gaylord is almost sure to beat winless East Jordan. The winner of this game will meet Boyne City at 8:30 p.m. Thursday to determine who takes on Charlevoix for the District title.

Charlevoix could end up meeting either Gaylord or Boyne City in the District finals.

Next week Tuesday, March 12, the Regional playoffs begin in Gaylord against winners of the northern Lower Michigan District titles.

IF CHARLEVOIX is still in the running, it will progress to the Quarter-Finals Wednesday, March 20. No site has yet been designated for the Quarter-Finals.

The Rayders will go to the Semi-Finals in Lansing March 22, if they win the Quarter-Finals crown. The state championship contest will be played Saturday, March 23, in Lansing.

CHARLEVOIX--Frank Smith this week charged he was unjustly persecuted following the Feb. 27, 1967 shooting at his May St. motel.

Smith told the Courier that members of his family, attorney, and police have refused to hear his side of the story, spread false stories about him and were determined to ruin his reputation. He considers that he has been sacrificed in an effort to protect others.

"NOT ONCE did anyone even ask me a question," Smith told the Courier. "I asked to be allowed to take the lie detector test and they wouldn't even listen. I asked them to subpoena three witnesses--I have their names and addresses--and they wouldn't do that," he added.

In a 30-page statement, Smith tells his version of what happened the night of the murder and in the week's preceding it, as well as personal details.

Mrs. Smith (Verna) is now divorcing him. As part of the divorce settlement she obtained partial ownership of the two houses and three-unit motel he owned on May St. Smith said, he has purchased her interest from her and she is living on Eaton St., he added.

"This is my hometown," Smith said, "I have done nothing wrong and I am not going to be run out of town."

"I AM NO ANGEL," I'm not saying that, but I haven't done the things people are saying and talking about. People who know me know that."

Auto license office hours cut

CHARLEVOIX -- The split between Charlevoix County Democrats and Secretary of State James Hare has left Charlevoix with sharply reduced services.

Auto license plates are available only 12 hours a week in Charlevoix. Until March 1 they were available 40 hours a week.

Bill Thompson of Traverse City, who opened what was termed an interim office here Feb. 5, after Mrs. George (Edna) LaBlance was fired as Secretary of State local branch office manager, will open his office only 12 hours a week, six hours on Tuesday and six hours on Thursday.

THOMPSON MAINTAINED a 40-hour-a-week office here until the deadline passed for 1968 plates on Feb. 29. The limited number of plates that will be sold now reportedly do not make it financially feasible for Thompson to keep the branch office open more than 12 hours a week.

Monday morning, when they discovered Charlevoix's services had been sharply reduced, most of Charlevoix's five auto dealers reacted angrily. They must now drive to Petoskey or Boyne City if a customer wants to take a delivery on a new car any day but Tuesday and Thursday.

Assistant Secretary of State Howard Jones told the Courier, "It's a rather ticklish situation," in reference to his department's political clash with county Democrats.

UM band concert March 28

CHARLEVOIX -- The University of Michigan Symphony Band will present a concert in Charlevoix Thursday, March 28.

"This is the finest musical group that has ever performed in Charlevoix," high school director Clarence Omdark said in announcing the U-M band's date here.

THE 110-MEMBER symphony band will present its concert at 8 p.m. in the high school gym. Tickets are $1.00 for adults, $1 for senior and junior high students and 50¢ for elementary school students. Omdark expects people from Emmet, Antrim and all of Charlevoix Counties to come to Charlevoix for the concert.

The band's appearance here will cost about $700, Omdark said. He is hoping to raise this amount through ticket sales. The student musicians will be lodged at private homes. William D. Revell, band director, and his assistant, George Cavender and their wives will be lodged in a motel.

The University of Michigan Symphony Band, Omdark said, has appeared around the world and in emergency situations. The band selected by the United States Government to represent the U.S. in the Soviet Union and the near East as part of the cultural exchange program.

During 1967, Boucher explained, the bridge was opened 3761 times. An average of 8,400 cars reportedly passed over the bridge daily.

Under the proposal the bridge would open only every half hour from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. for pleasure boats. Boats entering the channel would be "forced" to wait until the half-hour interval time, then all boats waiting to move under the bridge would be passed.

THE BRIDGE WOULD open, for instance, at 7 a.m., 7:30 a.m. and 8 a.m. If boats were waiting to get through.

The Highway Dept.'s requested change does not appear to affect government or commercial boats. They would appear to have the right of passage anytime, just as air boats do now.

Persons who objected to the proposed regulations have until Mar. 18 at 4:30 p.m. to file written statements. The statements, according to a Coast Guard news release, "should be specific in describing the reasons pertaining to navigation upon which the protest is founded."

Smith claimed his attorneys, his wife's attorney, the Prosecuting Attorney and Probate Court were collaborating to make him the scapegoat. When he would present ideas or evidence to his attorney, Smith charged, this information was relayed to the other parties involved.

He said his attorney advised him to plead guilty to the original morals charges.

"We have to find a way to do it (get a fulltime office here) without a lot of stink," Jones said.

County Democrats have refused to endorse anyone for the job, insisting that Mrs. LaBlance should be reinstated and that she was unjustly fired.

MR. LABLANCE REFUSED to bow to a state order that he buy new license plates for his personal car two weeks after he purchased plate XZ 0001. Mrs. LaBlance argued that the plate was issued legally before Hare issued the order.

The LaBlances said they were always told they had to have the office open 40 hours a week.

Jones, however, told the Courier it is banning the sale of plates with "desirable" numbers.

Mrs. LaBlance has said she will not take the job back unless the Secretary of State pays her office expenses. Last year she received $2,120 in fees for operating the office 52 weeks, 40 hours a week.

The LaBlances said they were always told they had to have the office open 40 hours a week.

Jones, however, told the Courier it is legal for the Secretary of State to operate the branch office here only 12 hours a week. The law requires that there be a branch office in the county seat.

JONES SAID HE feels there is little chance the state will set up a salaried Civil Service branch office here.

If the Secretary of State can find someone in Charlevoix who will operate a full-time branch office, Jones said they will be appointed without an endorsement from County Democrats.

MR. AND MRS. Wayne Blokken and their children were among several surprised Charlevoixians who found the city without an automobile license plate outlet Monday morning. The office at the corner of Bridge and Park will only be open two days a week, the Secretary of State's Lansing office announced.

Reynolds takes new health job

John Reynolds, 65, is resigning as director of environmental health for a four-county area to accept a new post with the State Health Dept., he said last week.

His resignation has been expected for several weeks due to pressure from a few township supervisors in Charlevoix, Antrim, Emmet and Ogemaw Counties on District Health Dept. director Dr. Robert Lipke.

SOME SUPERVISORS charged Reynolds has been too strict in his enforcement of anti-pollution and other health laws.

Lipke said he has seen no evidence to support these charges, and feels Reynolds has served the area faithfully and courageously.

Reynolds would not say whether he was forced to accept the new job. He said he will be "relieved" to get out from under the political pressure he has been working under here.

In his new job he will act as environmental health consultant on a federally funded program in the Baldwin area. His new job begins March 18.

Ice thickness

CHARLEVOIX -- How thick is the ice on Lake Charlevoix?

Want the official figure? Phil Lawrence is now measuring the "official" depth of Lake Charlevoix's ice for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The "official" measuring spot is 350 feet off the shore from the Ferry Ave. beach.

When he measured the depth Feb. 29, there was 16 inches of "lake ice", 51 inches of "snow ice" making a total of 67 inches of ice. On top of that was 11 inches of snow.

Smith also claims Mrs. Nichols might not have died from the gunshot wounds but from a heart attack. He said Mrs. Nichols lay on the ground outside the motel for nearly an hour after the shooting and did not die until she was at a minute to Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey.

He added that efforts to obtain a copy of the autopsy report have been fruitless. "Somebody must be hiding something," he said.

State seeks limit on bridge opening

CHARLEVOIX -- The Michigan Highway Dept. has asked the Coast Guard to limit the opening of the Pine River bridge for pleasure boats to half-hour intervals from morning to evening.

According to Edward Boucher, of the Highway Dept.'s Information staff, the proposed restrictions resulted from the Charlevoix City Council's request that bridge opening schedules be reconsidered.

Boucher said the city cited traffic problems and difficulty experienced by the first department in emergency situations. He said the Highway Dept. considers regulating bridge openings.

During 1967, Boucher explained, the bridge was opened 3761 times. An average of 8,400 cars reportedly passed over the bridge daily.

Under the proposal the bridge would open only every half hour from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. for pleasure boats. Boats entering the channel would be "forced" to wait until the half-hour interval time, then all boats waiting to move under the bridge would be passed.

THE BRIDGE WOULD open, for instance, at 7 a.m., 7:30 a.m. and 8 a.m. If boats were waiting to get through.

CHARLEVOIX -- Another story hour for pre-school children ages three to five will be held at the public library again this Friday, March 8, at 10 a.m. and 11 a.m.

Telling stories will be Mrs. Robert Klooster and Mrs. Gerald Staubb. Mothers will be treated to coffee while their children enjoy stories.

SMITH SAID SEVERAL things connected with the affair have been "hushed up."

Several weeks prior to the shooting, he said, he learned through one of the girls that a dog was being circulated in town and that it originated from men assigned to the Coast Guard Cutter Sanibel.

Smith said he reported this to Chief of Police Joe Smith. He said he believes the Coast Guardmen were getting close to deserting and that they were planning to take the dog and distribute it to servicemen and civilians.

He said his attorney advised him to plead guilty to the original morals charges.

Coast Guardsman here retires after 20 years

CHARLEVOIX -- Orlis McKeithan, BMC, officer in charge of the Charlevoix Lifeguard Station for the past two and one-half years, retired from the U.S. Coast Guard last week after completing 20 years service including four in the U.S. Army.

Following a personnel inspection, WO Earl F. Hauser, executive officer of U.S.C.G. Group Charlevoix, read letters of commendation from Adm. Willard J. Smith, Commandant, U.S. Coast Guard, and Adm. Charles Tighe, Commander, Ninth District, U.S. Coast Guard.

Richard J. Covey, BMC, who will succeed him as officer in charge of the lifeguard station, will come here Apr. 1 from Great Chicago to assume his new duties. In the interim, Robert Baker (BMCI), will serve as acting officer-in-charge.

Mr. McKeithan left Friday for Chesapeake, Va., to make his home. He was accompanied by Mrs. McKeithan, their daughter, Nancy, and son, James.

A native of Bolton, N.C., Mr. McKeithan enlisted in the U.S. Army in Sept. 1947. After completing basic training, he served 30 months in Japan

WE MUST SEEK THE TRUTH

Constantly in search of the TRUTH the scientist takes nothing for granted. Each "hearsay", each theory, is tested and tried and accepted or discarded on the condition that it proves true or false. The true scientist never jumps to conclusions, consequently you will never hear him proclaiming the self-sufficiency of man—that man needs no spiritual power.

The Church is also a center for the search and dispensation of truth in things other than the material, the things one cannot discern by the physical senses. If each of us would be free we must know the truth and if each of us is active in the work of the church that fits our needs "We Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make Us Free."

motorists who lived within 25 miles of the crossing, a fact which leads the Texas Safety Association to believe that familiarly breeds accidents, especially at grade crossings. In two out of five of the accidents, motorists violated crossing protection. In some cases they disregarded audible and visible warning signals, and in some cases they even ignored lowered gates. It went on to say that the common causes of crossing accidents are the driver's inability to judge the speed and distance of approaching trains, excessive speed, and failure of the driver to check to see whether another train on an adjacent track is approaching after one train has cleared the crossing. All of which suggest that negligence on the part of motorists cause most of the crossing deaths.

From a recent release, February 6, 1968, from the office of Attorney General, Frank J. Kelly, (Michigan) there was warning of a "wide spread operation by Texas speculators to encourage Michigan land owners to sign away all of their rights to oil, gas, and minerals on their land. There was also indication that land owners in the Northern part of Michigan's Lower Peninsula have been approached through the mail by this operation. It was further indicated a careful reading of the deed they include that reveals that if the land owner signs, he not only grants the speculator the sole right to explore for oil, gas, and minerals, but also signs away all rights to any royalties whatsoever from any oil, gas, and minerals which may be found on his land. This only mentions a small part of the "free-lance". It is urged that any citizen who has received or will receive such a communication, to contact the Consumer's Protection Division of the office of the Attorney General at Lansing.

You charter boat operators be advised and it might be in anticipation of a rush of salmon fishermen surpassing even last fall's mass migration, there has been recently and formidably organized, "Manistee Charter Boat Association". Nearly 30 operators met and have elected Robert Cederholm, president, Ralph Fairbanks, vice president, and Duane Cornell, secretary, a treasurer. Their membership requirements call for owned boats of 17 ft. or over, pilot license, insurance and compliance with all Coast Guard safety regulations. Rates were tentatively agreed upon, with a top of $120 a day for the largest boat, but average $100 a day for a party for seven hours or until legal catch limits are reached. There was indicated this group was involved in a promotion booth at the Chicago Boat Show, February 9-18.

So long from Yours Truly until March 18.

Our first Lenten Service will be held Thursday evening March 7 at 7:30 p.m. and the regular weekly choir practice will follow the service.

Received a card from Mrs. Lydia Greis, who is spending the winter in Punta Gorda, Florida with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. R. Russell, saying that she is seeing much of that state and really enjoying the warmer weather. We are all happy that our neighbor can spend this winter in the Sunny South.

Mrs. Pauline Canfield entertained several friends Friday evening with an Indoor-Outdoor Picnic.

The local Home Extension Group met Monday afternoon with Mrs. N.C. Christensen. Their program was on Emergency Preparedness and Securing Your Life. They also enjoyed the fun of a Chinese Auction. The guests were Louise Pop, Elsie Saunders, Elaine Dvoracek, Mry Peltz, Emma Ghelivou, and Lorena Jensen.

The Ladies Fellowship will meet this Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Mrs. Wayne Saunders. Everyone interested is invited.

Vanderbilt trips Lancer title drive

ELLSWORTH -- The Lancers Friday night saw the conference title slip out of their hands--after being in the number one slot all season. Vanderbilt upset the plucky Ellsworth team 50-40, to capture the Northern Lakes Class D Conference crown.

The Lancers lead the league all season. Vanderbilt moved up to a tie through makeup games last week. Friday's game -- the last of the season -- settled it.

VANDERBILT GETS the title with a 12-1 record. Ellsworth finished second with a 12-2 record.

It is Vanderbilt's first Northern Lakes league crown.

Ellsworth took it last year.

In Friday's upset, Vanderbilt moved out front 13-10 in the first period, but the Lancers pressed ahead 26-22 by halftime. The third period clinched it for Vanderbilt as it took a 37-20 lead going into the final eight minutes.

Hon. Boss paced Ellsworth with 18. Harold DeYoung had 10 for the Lancers.

These five Rayders put 1,085 points through hoop

TOM WEBB (32) led Rayder scoring during the season with 292 points, 118 field goals and 56 free throws. FRED WABANIMKEE, left, scored 248 points for the Rayders, regular season for the Rayders. He hit on 113 field goals and 22 free throws. BERNIE WARD (50) scored 219 points for the Rayders, regular season play. He hit on 83 field goals and 53 free throws. LARRY MARTIN (12) shoots for one of the 122 points he made during regular season play. He scored on 23 field goals and 16 free throws.

Statistics show Rayders strong on offense, defense

by PAUL FIEDOREK
CHARLEVOIX--The Charlevoix Rayders' undefeated record so far this season can be backed up with some favorable statistics.

In 14 conference games and two non-conference games with Petoskey, the Rayders have totaled 1,210 points while holding their opponents to 817 points.

THIS AVERAGES out to 75.6 points a game for the Rayders as to 51.1 points a game for their opponents.

This shows that the Rayders have a balanced scoring attack backed up by a sound defense, which is a perfect combination for winning games.

Charlevoix has made 220-371 free throws for 59 percent with their opponents close behind with 205-355 for 57 percent.

The big difference this year has been in the Rayders ability to hit on field goals.

Charlevoix has totaled 990 points on field goals while holding their opponents to just 612 points. Getting good shots in the game and making them, have been the key factor as far as their offense is concerned.

DEFENSE STILL seems to be Charlevoix's biggest asset thus far. Charlevoix has held seven opponents to 20 points or less and picked up many loose balls. With their aggressive type of defense, it puts a lot of pressure on the other team, causing them to make many costly turnovers.

In the individual scoring department Tom Webb is leading with a season total of 292 points, for 15 games, for a 19.5 points a game average. Bernie Ward is the leading free throw shooter with 53-71 for a 74.6 percent followed closely by Tom Webb who has 56-79 for a 70.1 percent.

The leading scorers for the Rayders are as follows:

	FG	FT	TP
Tom Webb	118	56-79	292
Fred Wabanimee	113	22-42	248
Bernie Ward	83	53-71	219
Brad Carey	88	28-54	204
Larry Martin	53	16-39	122
Al Venestra	28	15-24	59
Lee Cross	20	5-10	45

Others scoring were Bruce Maclean, 18 points; Steve Thompson, 2 points; and Larry Martin, 12 points.

The JV's scored on 21 field goals and 21 out of 31 free throws. Pellston scored on 18 field goals and 18 of 21 free throws. Revere's called 16 points, 34-40, at halftime and Pellston.

STEWART Coleman turned in the evening's best performance with 18 points. Following were George McClellan, 15 points, and Steve Thompson, 10 points, 34-40, at halftime and Pellston.

Friday the JVs stopped Pellston 85-54 in a hard-fought contest. Though leading at the end of every quarter, the JVs were never far out in front.

THE FIRST period ended with the little Rayders holding a slim two-point, 17-15, edge. They extended it to only four points, 34-30, at halftime and Pellston.

Library notes

Remember that old cliché "I don't know anything about art but I know what I like?" Most people who visit the library with pleasure and appreciation do not know anything about art but I know what I like.

Taste is a matter of personal opinion, but if you admit that you don't know anything about art, and would genuinely like to be better informed, here are some books that may prove helpful. With increased understanding, you may find that your tastes change.

The Picture History of Painting, by H.W. Janson and Dora Jane Janson. A beautiful illustrated history of art from cave painting to modern times.

Abstract Painting, by Michel Segouier. A history of the last fifty years, covering the contributions made by Kandinsky, Mondrian, and others. A helpful book for the art amateur who is confused by the various "isms" that have splintered the main movement of abstract art.

The above two books were given by Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury Ransom in memory of Sall Frantz.

modern painting. According to Rogers, a well known art critic, "modern" painting does not refer to recent or contemporary painting so much as to a type of painting. The goal of classic art was like-like representation. The goal of modern art is to interpret or to create.

Art as image and idea, by Edmund Burke Pollock. The author's purpose is to "stimulate thought and discussion about art as it enters into our private lives and common existence."

Auction, by James Brough. Critics may argue the merits of a work of art, but its monetary value, like that of any other object, is established in the market. This book deals with the secrets of the world's great sales rooms and sheds fascinating light on the psychology that motivates the people who bid, buy and sell there.

The Art Stealers, by Milton Ekstrom. A highly entertaining book which will delight both art lovers and detective story fans. Art stealers are as old as art itself and sometimes even thieves help to establish the value of a work of art. For example, the young man who stole a 13 inch Fredin bronze called "Psyche" and later returned it with a letter which said "I merely wanted to live with her for a while."

Red Devils end season without win. EAST JORDAN-The Red Devils ended their most disastrous season in memory Friday without a single victory in the last year of Northern Michigan Class C Conference action.

East Jordan lost 89-51 to Gaylord, which finished in third place in the league to Jordan's last place. The Red Devils are the only squad in the league to finish without a win.

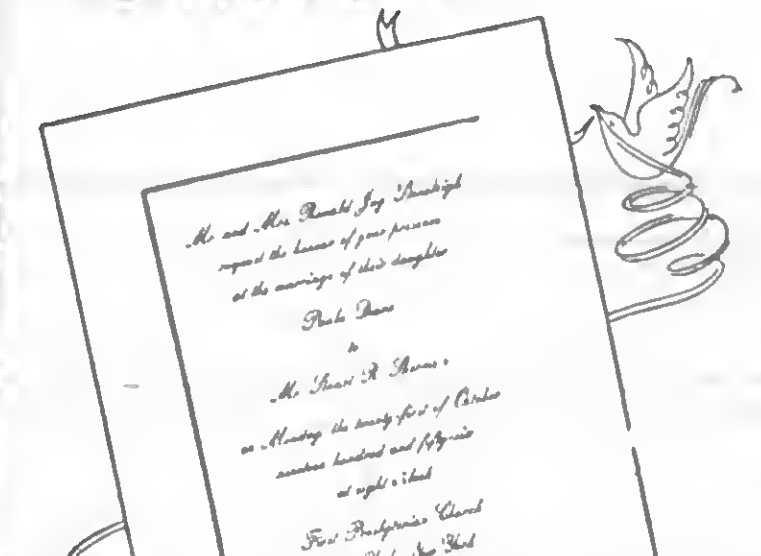

Friday Gaylord used all 15 of its players. Gaylord moved to a 20-8 first period margin and stayed out-front with a 20-0 lead at the end of the game.

Doug Raymond poured in 19 points and Bruce Sargitt hit 11 for the Red Devils.

Dump debate

THE MERE MENTION of a dump is understandably noxious to just about everyone. Call it a "sanitary landfill" and a few people may be puzzled, but the reaction's about the same.

There is a difference, though. According to the state's definition, a sanitary landfill is what laymen might better describe as a sanitary dump. Garbage and trash is dumped into a big trench, compressed by driving heavy machinery over it and then covered with dirt. No burning is allowed.

Unsightly open-pit dumps will not be tolerated by Michigan after May 1968.

THE NEW SANITARY landfill concept is a far, and welcome, cry from the smoking trash and garbage heaps people think of as dumps. But no matter, the guy who has one in the next forty is still going to holler "dump!"

Just as surely, people have to have a regulated place to get rid of their garbage. So we have to have dumps, or preferably, "sanitary landfills."

Which stacks up to a stand-off. The guy who is near the dump doesn't like it. But we have to have them.

The big time political seers tell us a very likely presidential candidate — Nelson Rockefeller — only a few weeks ago got himself mixed in the grime so bad by mixing in the New York City garbage mess that he is now permanently erased from the GOP's running list.

Which brings us to the disagreement between Bill Marme and some Ironton folks over Marme's new "sanitary landfill" near Ironton.

MARME'S LANDFILL (opponents call it a dump) may be a whole of a lot more sanitary than his old dump, just around the corner a piece on Shaw Rd. But, admittedly, we'd rather have a hayfield in its spot if we wore his neighbors.

The Charlevoix garbage service, owned by Marme, has been picking up Charlevoix's garbage for more than 15 years. Originally they used the old city dump. When that was closed Marme opened the dump on Shaw Rd. Marlon Township took him to court—and lost—over that one.

For the past three or four years, he says, he's been looking for a site on which to operate a sanitary landfill. Health Dept. officials have been urging him to get moving. But other the site wasn't suitable or the owner wouldn't sell when he found out what Marme had in mind.

When Harry Foster agreed to sell Marme the 120-acre site on Sequanota Rd. Evoline Township got up in arms and passed an anti-dump ordinance.

Marme proceeded to get a state license to operate a sanitary landfill on the site. When the township refused to grant him a permit under its new ordinance he went ahead and used the site anyway. So Township Supervisor Wayne Saunders took him to court on a criminal complaint. The court, on a technicality, dismissed the complaint. But the battle is only beginning.

MARME CONTENDS the township's ordinance is discriminatory and illegal. The township says hogwash. Further, the township argues that Marme's property is not suitable for a landfill because water draining off it will contaminate ponds used by neighboring farmers to water their livestock.

Health Dept. officials are on Marme's side, since they issued the license.

One of the most obvious lessons to be learned from this is that Evoline Township shouldn't have been asleep so long. A carefully considered, reasonable, zoning ordinance should have been enacted long ago.

However, even a zoning ordinance cannot and should not completely bar state-authorized, legally operated sanitary landfills. Though they may be something of a nuisance, landfills are an absolute necessity.

Throwing Marme in jail or fining him on a criminal complaint will not settle the matter. Evidently, the court will have to decide if Marme's operation does meet state requirements and if Evoline's ordinance is legal.

Taking the nutrients out of effluent from the Charlevoix, East Jordan and Boyne City sewage plants will not stop this rapid aging. But it, along with controls on boat toilets and the county's new septic tank controls, will certainly slow it down.

The fact that our lakes are being killed by these nutrients has been established beyond any reasonable doubt by the state's decision to act and the findings of biologists.

There is no justifiable reason why city officials should procrastinate until the state-ordered 1977 deadline nears. We know what the problem is and how to meet it. The time for our cities to act is now. Not after Lake Charlevoix is 900 years older.

Charlevoix, by calling for research funds and electric plant profits, can easily afford to move now. East Jordan and Boyne City cannot afford not to.

Merger defeat leaves some bitter

by GLEN SHEPPARD

While avidly reading East Jordan's much-improved newspaper last week this department discovered that there's a fellow down here who says he is considering falling in for Lanko's deal with the Courier's editor. The guy is so fond of knuckles was, most probably, joking.

The point, though, is that this spark of reported violence appears to stem from my opposition to the East Jordan-Charlevoix school merger idea. A certain—and I assume minority—group in East Jordan would have it that the Courier and its editor, as well as many other Charlevoixians, opposed merger because they didn't want to share Charlevoix industrial tax wealth.

THIS SAME GROUP is now attempting to maneuver East Jordan into consolidation with Boyne City. If it does this department will be just as opposed, as it was to merger with Charlevoix.

My opposition is based on just one thing: I do believe East Jordan, Boyne City and Charlevoix can do a better job of educating their children through responsible local citizenry. Wherever we look in today's society, wherever we believe we must do things "their" way because it is the only "right" way.

The fact is, the Courier presented

Call me blind or deaf, if you insist, but I am not ready to concede that someone in Lansing, Washington, a teacher's union office or a regional accrediting association has a successful formula for teaching our kids to communicate, reason and learn for knowledge. I'm not even ready to agree that someone in Charlevoix knows what is best for someone's daughter in East Jordan.

There are also those who fumble footedly charge that Courier news coverage of the merger was slanted and one-sided.

THE PEOPLE MAKING these charges are really complaining because they were not allowed to "manage" the news or censor out all facts and opinions that were in conflict with their personal feelings. These self-declared tyrants are the type who would have us believe we must do things "their" way because it is the only "right" way.

Quantity does not determine quality in education. The key to quality is parental interest and intelligent demand and pay for quality. If they cannot, or will not, have this influence on their schools in towns the size of East Jordan and Charlevoix they certainly will be tragically influential when their voice is muted by more facts and opinions on both sides of the issue than did all other newspapers put together. And that's our job. We're not here to appease tyrants, on either side.

Our real concern is that parents will be so befuddled by this smoke-screen of "broader curriculum" and petty emotionalism that they will continue in their failure to examine the quality of education.

portunity Charlevoix has to provide top-flight schools.

For years Michigan legislators have been discussing a plan to spread the state's industrial property tax value equally among school districts. . . a sort of sharing the wealth.

Simply put, all of the state's taxable industrial property would be put in a common pool. Money raised from school taxes on industry would be distributed state-wide on a per-student basis.

While this department continues to oppose our state school aid plan, it supports these proposals to share industrial taxes.

Charlevoix did nothing to "earn" the tax advantage it receives from Michigan and the state has no justification for Charlevoix bearing this wealth when children in East Jordan and elsewhere may be deprived due to lack of industrial taxes in their hometown.

There are many roads to quality education. Why must so many people insist on the one road that is dictated by those who see sometimes impractical, and usually hard to control, local officials as their greatest enemy?

There's poverty in backyard

NOTE: With this column the Courier begins a new feature we are hoping will be a regular. Mrs. Westhoff has written several books and numerous magazine articles and has been an active life-long observer of the Charlevoix area scene.

Now that POVERTY is being screened on a national scale, it would appear that now is also the time for all good men to not only come to the aid of their party, but take a long look at poverty on the grass roots level.

Granted that poverty and its antithesis, riches, is comparative, and that our own affluent government agency of poverty would spell wealth to many peoples the wide world round, there is some difference between genteel poverty and destitute poverty.

CHARLEVOIX is such a tight little island of well-kept summer homes and equally well-kept "native" homes that it is inconceivable slum areas are likely.

It is doubtful if there is a housewife in the town who could take satisfaction in her own well-ordered kitchen if she were aware that across the town, only a few short blocks away, another housewife is struggling with her household conditions as primitive as any of our forefathers endured and many of them.

It is doubtful there is a housewife in the town who could enjoy her deep carpeted, well upholstered, snug, spacious living if she were aware that across town another housewife was hovering with her pre-school brood, around a crockpot heating stove that had the power, to restrain the north wind that howled around the loose windows, of a candle in a barn!

PERHAPS IN the long run it will be up to the housewives of the town to correct this long-standing, deplorable situation. . . After all, women do think with their hearts as well as their heads!

And there is help to be had through the Federal Housing Administration that will cost our city little more than the granting of a Housing Authority to administer and supervise until the Federal Bureau is repaid in rentals.

These social services are needed and needed badly if those among us who are concerned are to be true to enjoy our own prosperity with a clear conscience.

Major salmon hatchery planned on Jordan River

EAST JORDAN--The state plans to build a major salmon and steelhead rearing fish hatchery on the Jordan River. It will be near the Chestonia rd. crossing on property already owned by the state.

According to Thomas Durling, chief of the Conservation Dept.'s hatchery management section, the Jordan River hatchery will cost around $4.5 million. Construction will not begin until 1970, and possible later.

THE HATCHERY, Durling said, will be Charlevoix's hatchery earmarked for chinook capable of raising at least 4.5 million coho salmon from eggs to planting size. "That's darned big by Midwest standards," he added. This, he pointed out, is more than can be raised in all of the state's present hatcheries. It will also be flexible enough to raise coho and chinook salmon and steelhead trout.

Durling said the hatchery will be the first in the nation with water quality control (anti-pollution) facilities.

Between eight and twelve men will be employed in the "automated" hatchery, he said.

The Conservation Dept. hopes to build three hatcheries similar to the one planned on the Jordan. Top priority has been given to a hatchery on the Platte River near Honor. The Jordan hatchery is second on the list. Third is a hatchery on the Fox River near Sney in the Upper Peninsula.

The Legislature reportedly has approved the first $1.5 million to begin work on the Platte River hatchery. Conservation Dept. officials are hoping to get funds for the Jordan hatchery by 1970.

IN 1963 THE federal government opened its first "modern" lake trout hatchery near the headwaters of the Jordan. Fish raised there are being used to rebuild lake trout populations in Lakes Superior, Michigan and, eventually Huron.

Some conservationists have been critical of the federal hatchery for allegedly polluting the Jordan.

Probe tax plan

CHARLEVOIX -- The controversial proposal to give state aid to private and parochial schools will be discussed at tonight's PTA meeting.

All interested citizens have been invited to the meeting, starting at 8 p.m. in the elementary school cafeteria. Persons will be able to ask questions.

Until 1959, when Alaska entered the Union, Michigan could claim the longest coastline of any state. Michigan has 11,037 inland lakes, and her inland streams and rivers traverse some 36,350 miles, a distance of almost one and one-half times around the world.

The fish, Drummond pointed out, were all returned to the stream unharmed.

The Conservation Dept. has recently stepped up its efforts to acquire undeveloped property along the Jordan. This was urged by the Informal "Save the Jordan" committee last year.

vice, Drummond said the "electrofishing" survey did not yield a 100% sample of the fish in the stream, but only a reasonably accurate indication of fish population, size and condition.

A similar Jordan River fish survey was also taken in 1960. Both surveys, Drummond said, revealed large populations of brown and brook trout but small rainbow populations.

By comparison, the 1967 survey revealed that brown trout are taking over areas in the upper Jordan that were formerly dominated by brook trout, Drummond said.

The trout were "counted" by temporarily stunning them with an electric shocking device.

EAST JORDAN-- Plans to construct a major salmon rearing hatchery on the Jordan River do not pose a threat to the stream's trout population, Conservation Dept. officials point out.

Thomas Durling, chief of the department's hatchery section, said weirs will be placed in the Jordan to control salmon runs so they cannot become serious competitors with stream trout.

ONE WEIR IS definitely planned at the hatchery, near the Chestonia bridge. Another weir is tentatively planned for the mouth of the Jordan. At both weirs, salmon and steelhead trout would be stripped of eggs for use in hatcheries.

Officials earlier said they expect stream salmon fishing to be outlawed to avoid littering, illegal fishing and property damage.

The Jordan, according to district fisheries biologist Rob Drummond, "possesses one of the finest trout populations in the state."

This is confirmed by the just-released results of a fish

Anglers wait for steelhead

Ice fishing success and interest is rapidly dwindling according to Conservation Officer Frank Dufon.

The few fishermen who are still on the ice are getting some pike and perch, he said. Deer Lake has been producing nice pike. Both perch and pike are being taken at Walloon.

ALL TROUT fishing is illegal until April 1, when the special early spring steelhead season opens, Dufon reminded fishermen.

One Charlevoix County stream will be open for the April 1 steelheading. The Boyne will be open from its mouth to the first dam.

In Emmet County the Bear will be open from its mouth to the first dam. The Carvel will be open from Carp Lake to the first bridge, and the Crooked will be open between Crooked and Burt Lakes.

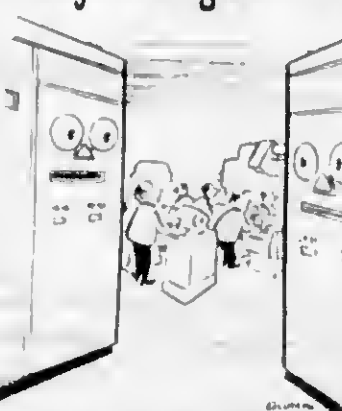

Lake Charlevoix will be closed until the regular trout season opens April 27. Lake Michigan will be open.

In Antrim County the Elk River will be open from its mouth to the power plant.

Only rainbow (steelhead) and brown are legal during the early season. It is illegal to catch brook or lake trout until April 27.

Rayders out-point opponents by 363

In posting a perfect season record of 16 wins and no losses, the Red Rayders have scored 363 more points than their opponents.

During the last few weeks of the season Michigan sportswriters ranked Charlevoix as the state's fourth best Class C team. Charlevoix ranked right behind Detroit All Saints, Leslie and Mt. Pleasant Sacred Heart.

A tally of the season's scoring shows the Rayders have put 1,210 points on the score board to their opponents' 816.

RUNNING THE SCORE up was the team's first 100-point game, which came on February 2 against East Jordan. The final score was 100-48. Paul Fiedorok, a second stringer, who hadn't scored before the East Jordan game, went on the history books for putting the first "100" in the Rayder record book.

Other interesting oddities of the season:

Two weeks in a row the Rayders scored 75 points--on Jan. 12 they downed Pellston 75-52 and on Jan. 19 Boyne City bowed 75-54.

A month later the Rayders won by a 62-42 margin two weeks in a row--beating Harbor Springs 62-42 Feb. 9 and Gaylord 62-42 on Feb. 16. Both Gaylord and Harbor were the Rayders' chief contenders for the Northern Michigan Class C Conference title.

Here's a replay of the season's scores:

The little Rayders--the junior varsity--squad had a nip and tuck season, winning 10 games and losing six. In Northern Michigan Class C Conference games the Rayders came out with a 10-4 record.

They lost twice to Boyne City and once each to Gaylord and Pellston. League opponents they beat twice are Grayling, East Jordan, Mancelona and Harbor Springs.

Petoskey, in non-conference action, beat the little Rayders twice.

THE JUNIOR VARSITY scored 966 points during the season to their opponents 871, giving them a slim 95 point edgo.

- THE BANK ON THE CORNER -

Rayders join new league

For the first time in 32 years Charlevoix will have new foes on its basketball schedule next season.

After 32 years in the eight-team Northern Michigan Class C Conference, Charlevoix next season begins playing as a member of the Huron Straits Class B Conference.

THE NMCCC STRANGLED due to the constant predominance of its two largest members--Charlevoix, Boyne City and Gaylord. For the last decade or more these three schools have repeatedly carried away top honors.

The five smaller schools--East Jordan, Grayling, Harbor Springs, Manistota and Pellston--chose to break the league up in early December. They joined with Onaway, Kalkaska and Petoskey St. Francis to form the Northern Lower Michigan League.

This left Charlevoix, Boyne and Gaylord adrift. The Huron Straits League--Petoskey, Cheboygan, Alpena Catholic Central, Rogers City, St. Ignace and Traverse City St. Francis -- sent out feelers.

Charlevoix officials were reluctant to join the bigger league due to the long distances (about 125 miles to Alpena) and fears that Charlevoix fans would lose their enthusiasm. But there was no other alternative. In January the school board agreed to join the enlarged Huron Straits league. Boyne and Gaylord also joined.

MOST RAYDER boosters feel

Charlevoix will be able to hold its own against the bigger schools in the league. There is persistent talk of forming an adult Rayder booster club to support the team and assist in buying things like a coach-type bus, which the school board is already studying.

This year Petoskey finished as co-champs of the Huron Straits league. Charlevoix beat Petoskey twice.

Coach Don Carey frankly admits he doesn't know how the Rayders are going to fare in the new league. He has told the school board he is worried about spectator support falling off at away games. If this happens, Carey said, the boys are going to lose their enthusiasm.

Outlook bleak next year

The Rayders will be starting over fresh next basketball season. All of this year's starters and first string reserves graduate in June.

Coach Don Carey's five powerhouses--Tom Webb, Brad Carey, Bernie Ward, Fred Wabanim-kee and Larry Martin--are all seniors. So are the players who make up the bench strength--Lee Cross, Allan Veenstra, Ralph Doan and Terry Bilssett.

Carey will have to form his 1968-69 squad around mostly sophomores from this year's JVs. His biggest loss will be height. Kraag Lieberman, at six feet, will probably have to replace 6-4 Bernie Ward at center.

Other JVs who are showing real promise, according to Carey, include Stewart Coleman, George McClellan, Bob DeYoung, Norm Ostrum and Charles Novak.

There are seven juniors on this year's varsity, but they have had little experience, Carey points out.

Ray Kipke...

Ray Kipke, now 66 years old, hasn't coached a cage team in more than a decade, but Rayder fans still think of him as "coach".

In his playing days at Michigan State Agricultural College (back in the early 20s), a Chicago University coach once said of Kipke, "pound for pound he was the best end ever to play on Stagg Field." Though he was an All-State star at Lansing Central, five-foot six-inch Kipke only turned the scale for 140 pounds.

FOOTBALL WAS really Kipke's first love, but when he came to Charlevoix in 1929 to coach the Rayders Charlevoix's first love was basketball. During the next 25 years Kipke coached some of the finest cage teams to come out of the North.

In 1938 and again in 1948 the Rayders were contenders for the State Class C crown. In 1938 they lost 27-24 in the finals to Manton. In 1948 Milan beat the Rayders 36-32 in overtime in the semi-finals. Manton copped the state crown in 1938 and Milan took it in 1948.

Today Kipke rubs his hand as he grinningly tells a story that must have been painful back in 1948.

It seems he was constantly pressing the team to improve their free throw skills. To foster competition he got right in and challenged the players to beat him.

HE AND BILL Carey were having a tense free throw contest. It was Ray's turn. He missed. He slammed his hand down hard on the stage (the team then played at the what is now the elementary school gym) and broke a bone. Bill later broke a finger on the gym floor.

In the Milan contest a missed free throw cost Charlevoix the game. If the free throw had been good, Ray figures, Charlevoix would have won the state title. He won't say who missed the free throw...just grins.

During his years of coaching Ray figures the Petoskey and Boyne City rivalries were the most important to Charlevoix.

One of his fondest memories involves a super - secret Petoskey play.

DURING THE 1948 regionals, when Charlevoix wasn't having trouble beating anyone, thanks to the Carey twins (Bob and Bill) and a well balanced team, Ray got the secret play from a Class D coach who had picked it up from Petoskey's coach because they wouldn't be playing each other.

The next year, in 1949, the Rayders used this information to beat Petoskey twice. If Ray hadn't been onto the secret play, he figures, Petoskey would have beat Charlevoix by a good 15 points.

Charlevoix's football fortunes didn't start looking up until after World War II.

Ray believes it was in 1945 that the area went on fast time and the ...sports patriarch

Ray Kipke as he reminisces on Rayder sports history school agreed to let grid players out an hour early for practice. The community became avidly interested in football.

Kipke jumped at the chance and in the next few years Charlevoix established a name for itself as one of North's top grid powers. When it came time to give the new football field a name "Kipke Field" was the natural choice.

KIPKE RETIRED as a math teacher at CHS in 1964, some ten years after he quit coaching. He continues to manage the Belvedere Golf Course, a job he's held for 35 years.

He doesn't like Charlevoix's entry into the Huron Straits league, this coming September feeling towns like St. Ignace and Alpena are too far away. But adds the school had no choice.

Sports, he continues to feel, has far broader benefits than molding healthy, spirited young men. Winning teams, he points out, hold a community together and "make it more like a family."

CHARLEVOIX--What is already being billed as the biggest sports spectacular in Charlevoix history is scheduled March 27.

Chuck Fairbanks, 34, head football coach of the Oklahoma Sooners and Charlevoix's most successful Rayder alumni will address an All-Sports banquet honoring this school-year's Charlevoix athletes.

Fairbanks is making the trip at his own expense to honor the 1967-'68 Rayder and their coach, Don Carey, co-chairmen of the banquet, Fran Martin and Bill Lusk, announced.

A 1951 CHARLEVOIX High School graduate, Fairbanks played on several championship Rayder teams before going on to Michigan State University.

Fairbanks' appearance will focus at-ention on the Rayder squad which this season won a share of the Northern Michigan Class C Conference grid title--with Boyne and Gaylord--and was ranked No. 2 nationally by Sports Illustrated and the Football Writers of America and No. 3 nationally by both the AP and UPI polls at the end of the regular season.

It will also mark the final year of the more than 30-year-old Northern Michigan Class C Conference, in which many Charlevoix athletic greats, including Fairbanks, played. Next season Charlevoix becomes part of the Huron Straits League.

Miss Martin said all Charlevoix citizens interested in athletics are invited to the banquet. Tickets will be available soon. The banquet will be held in the high school gym.

Fairbanks, Oklahoma's new football head coach, brought the Sooners back into the national spotlight in 1967.

Fairbanks' first Oklahoma team finished 9-1, won the Big Eight conference championship, upset powerful Tennessee 26-24 in the Orange Bowl, and was ranked No. 2 nationally by Sports Illustrated and the Football Writers of America and No. 3 nationally by both the AP and UPI polls at the end of the regular season.

Fairbanks' 9-1 regular season record was tops in the nation among the country's 18 first year coaches. In addition, Fairbanks was voted Coach of the Year in district 7 by the American Football Coaches Association.

Fairbanks came to Oklahoma in 1966 as Sooners defensive backfield mentor. The late Jim Mackenzie, Sooners head coach that season, brought Fairbanks to Norman from Houston.

Fairbanks' Sooners pass defense was superb, it ranked second in the nation in 1967, yielding only one aerial touchdown all year, that when a Sooner secondary-man slipped and fell in the end zone, leaving a Colorado pass receiver wide open. Opponents averaged only 87.3 yards per game against it.

His Sooner punt runbacking game, also meticulously organized, also ranked second in the nation in 1966 with its average of 19.2 yards per each runback.

Prior to coming to Oklahoma, Fairbanks had earlier proved his defensive coaching genius at Arizona State, where in 1961 his Joe Zuger led the nation in pass interceptions. Later, when he coached at Houston, he developed Byron Beaver who set an NCAA record of five interceptions in the Baylor game, four of them off Don Trull.

Fairbanks also coached Houston's offense in 1965 and their offensive backs his first three years there. He coached Oklahoma's offense in the first ten days of spring practice here.

He has served as assistant head coach under two different coaches, Frank Kush of Arizona State in 1961 and Bill Yeoman of Houston in 1965.

Fairbanks began coaching at Ishpeming, Mich., high school in 1955 after a hitch as student assistant at Michigan State. He stayed three years at Ishpeming. In 1958-59-60-61 he was defensive backfield coach at Arizona State. In 1962 he began a four-year career at Houston.

Fairbanks played high school football at Charlevoix, Mich., and never played in a losing game. His coach was Ray Kipke and he made all-state in both football (playing end) and basketball.

In 1952 he played offensive end for Reggie Munn's Michigan State powerhouse that won the national championship at 9-0. In 1953 he played both offensive and defensive end on Munn's Big Ten champions who finished 8-1 and defeated UCLA in the Rose Bowl. He played the 1954 season under Duffy Daugherty and afterwards played in the Blue-Gray game, catching a pass that set up the winning touchdown for the Blue.

Fairbanks married Virgeleen Thomson of Ironton, Mich., and they have five children. He holds a B.S. degree from Michigan State, belongs to the Presbyterian church and his hobby is golf.

Supervisors block bid to debate jail issue

The effort of a Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors' minority faction to block purchase of property for a new County Jail, at least until more information is obtained, was successfully blocked last week.

Three supervisors objected to the $18,000 land deal. Four voted against it at Friday's meeting.

Speaking in opposition were Charlevoix's new Second Ward Supervisor Ken Staley, Marlon Township Supervisor Clyde Cunningham and East Jordan's First Ward Supervisor Bill Taylor. Chandler Township Supervisor John Howard joined them in voting against the motion.

CHARLEVOIX FIRST Ward Supervisor Kit Carson, Chairman of the Building and Grounds Committee, said his committee recommended buying the seven-acre parcel on Garfield and Sheridan for $5,000 down and $15,000, plus six-percent interest, to be paid at the county's convenience.

"We're not in the real estate business," Staley said. "We haven't even ironed out whether we're going to build a new jail."

Taylor joined him. "If we don't know how we're going to build a building why are we going to buy the land?" he asked.

Boyle City Supervisor John Kujawski said he understood the county was only buying the land as a delaying tactic to satisfy the state, which has demanded

St. Patrick's Day
The Irish on the mainland and on the lake will celebrate St. Patrick's Day Sunday, March 17.

In Charlevoix, the annual St. Patrick's Day dinner starts at noon in St. Mary's school. Serving will continue to 3 p.m., according to Mrs. Charles Sonnenberg, chairman.

On the menu at St. Mary's will be corned beef and cabbage or ham with raisin sauce.

Beaver Island's Irish and friends will hold their annual dinner in the Italy Cross Parish Hall.

that the present jail be modernized.

"THE FASTER WE BUY that land the more they're going to be on our back," Cunningham said.

Taylor said he had heard talk that there was a possibility the board would attempt to build the jail without a bond vote, he demanded an answer from Carson.

"We are certainly going to put it up to a vote of the people," Carson said. "Then, if they vote it down, we'll do something else," he added. He said it would probably be a year before the public is asked to vote.

Carson later explained the county collects about $38,000 a year in fees and rentals and that this money could be used to pay for the jail, without voter approval.

Carson said his committee had considered buying the two lots next to the County Jail, for $35,000, but the architect felt this would not be enough room.

When Staley said he understood a new jail would cost about $500,000, Carson angrily asked where he got the figure. Staley told him he read it in the Courier.

"IT'S A DAMN LIE!" Carson shot back. He added the jail would cost $325,000.

Staley demanded to know if that included all equipment. Carson said down and did not answer. When later asked if equipment, architect fees and interest were included, Carson retorted, "Whosaidany."

Boatmen fear trouble from bridge schedule

CHARLEVOIX--Marina operators here appear to favor controlling the opening of the Pino River bridge for boaters, but fear dangerous complications may arise from the proposed regulations.

The State Highway Dept. has asked the Coast Guard to authorize it to open the bridge, only every half hour (on the hour and half hour) from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. for pleasure boats.

UNDER THE HIGHWAY Dept.'s proposal, boats wanting to pass from Round Lake to Lake Michigan and boats entering the channel from Lake Michigan would wait until the hour or half hour opening period. Persons have until 4:30 p.m. March 18 (next Monday) to file written objections to the regulations with Coast Guard District Headquarters in Cleveland.

During days of heavy boating activity, marina operators and numerous boatmen questioned by the Courier, said they feel this could cause dangerous congestion in the channel.

The most concern is for sailboats. Bob Hamilton, of Hamilton's Boatyard, a specialist in sailing boats, pointed out some sailboats do not have auxiliary motors. Those that do, he said, usually have very small motors, which make it nearly impossible for them to maneuver in tight situations, such as the channel.

A sailboat under sail could not possibly hold its position in the channel for a half hour, or so, Hamilton said.

WITH ANY KIND of wind blowing from the west or northwest the current in the channel could cause collisions and complete chaos in the channel if a few boats were attempting to hold position, Phil Lawrence of Fairport marina pointed out.

Boats can be seriously damaged by attempting to tie up against the channel breakerway, all boatmen pointed out.

Jim Bellinger, of Bellinger Marine Service, feels some kind of regulations are inevitable. He adds, however, that boatmen have been cooperating by voluntarily folding down their antennas.

If the proposed regulations are stringently enforced, Bellinger said, emergency piers of some kind will have to be built in the outer channel for boats to tie to while waiting for the bridge to open. If this isn't done, he explained, there will be considerable damage to boats.

Bellinger feels the ultimate answer will be to widen Bridge St. to four lanes. The State Highway Dept., he pointed out, built the bridge for a four-lane highway, expecting the building on the east side of Bridge St. would be torn down when traffic volume increased, as it now has.

The marina owners, however, said they feel the regulations will force persons who can pass under the bridge by lowering their radio antennas to do so. All favor this.

Lawrence, who specializes in electronic equipment, said virtually all radio antennas sold today are the fold-down type.

Lynn Porter, at Browe Marina, estimated 80%, or more, of the boats which go through the channel can make it without the bridge opening if their antennas are down. Lawrence and Hamilton concurred that the vast majority do not need to lower the bridge.

Most larger cruisers (longer than 45 feet) and just about all sailboats, however, must have the bridge open.

Lawrence pointed out that some elderly boatmen are concerned danger if they attempt to crawl out on the cabin roof to lower their antenna.

PORTER SAID THE bridge tender should CONTINUED ON PAGE 12

Ellsworth captures district cage title

ELLSWORTH--The Lancers Saturday carried off the District Class D championship trophy at Bellaire.

The Lancers won the District title, the only area team to do so, by beating Bellaire 69-50 Thursday and Central Lake 63-52 Saturday.

They now move into Regional competition at Gaylord Thursday against a much taller Suttons Bay squad. According to Lancer coach Duane Sobek, Suttons Bay boasts one 6-foot 5-inch player and another who is 6-4. The Suttons Bay game starts at 7:30 p.m.

IF THE LANCERS beat Suttons Bay they will meet the winner of the Vanier-Hill-Posen game in the Regional playoff Saturday, 7:30, at Gaylord High School.

In the District playoff game against Central Lake, Ellsworth's 63 points. They each scored 22. Other scorers for Ellsworth were Bruce Chellis with 19, John Jurgensen with 4, Fred Taylor with 3 and Randy Ruis with 2.

Ellsworth led Central Lake all the way, with the score at the end of the quarters being 16-13, 27-24 and 43-39. The Lancers scored 26 field goals and 11 free throws.

Thursday's District tournament opener went easier for the Lancers, with DeYoung scoring 27 points. Jurgensen scored 14, Chellis, 10; Boas, 9; Taylor, 4; Joe Donaldson, 2; and St. Doctor, Dennis Drenth and Pete VanderArk one each.

Bellaire led Ellsworth at the end of the first quarter, 24-20. But by halftime the Lancers held a seven-point, 34-27 margin. The third quarter ended with Ellsworth out front 47-39. The Lancers scored 25 field goals and 17 free throws.

The tournaments will be the last high school basketball games for Chellis, DeYoung, Doctor, Jurgensen and VanderArk, who graduate in June.

CHARLEVOIX'S NEW $26,000 fire truck got its first workout last Wednesday at a fire in Burgess (see other pictures page 10). Volunteer firemen kid-dly grumble about the mud on the truck as they wind the hoses up in front of the house where the wellhouse caught fire.

Area women advocate dissent on Viet war

A group of Potosky women who oppose United States policy in Vietnam have invited Charlevoix area women to participate with them in this cause.

The Potosky women are members of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom (WILPF). This organization's stated objective is to unite "women of different political and philosophical tendencies in their determination to study, make known and help abolish the political, social, economic and psychological causes of war and to work for a constructive peace."

The Potosky women in January conducted an informal public opinion poll through the Potosky newspaper. Nearly 200 persons answered questions asked in the poll. Only eight persons indicated they favor the U.S. current Vietnam policy. Fifty-two percent favored withdrawing American troops. Only 18% favored escalation.

These brochures attempt to report both the Administration's argument justifying its Vietnam policy and the dissenting view.

The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom maintains a national office, a Congressional liaison office and a United Nations office.

The Potosky group's next meeting will be held Friday, March 22, 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Gerald (Martha) Drake, 234 Fairview, Potosky. Interested Charlevoix and East Jordan women should call Mrs. Drake at DI 7-9945 or DI 7-4645 or Mrs. Laurier at DI 7-6093.

We pride ourselves in the fact that our boys don't wear their hair at ridiculous lengths with sideburns and hair that is beyond the collar.

We pride ourselves in the fact that the girls wear their skirts at reasonable lengths that are not too short.

If you have ever attended a game between Charlevoix and one of its opponents, you probably have found that Charlevoix students appear to be noticeably different.

I think the parents of Charlevoix have failed to notice this very evident difference and fail to give the students at Charlevoix High School credit for being well groomed.

Walking through the halls of CHS, the first thing you notice is the students and the way they appear. This is probably the most important factor in what kind of an impression we give to a visitor.

Since we do not allow these visitors to take their impressions only on what they see. For this reason it is important that we present a favorable picture of our school.

I think the students of Charlevoix High School have been successful and have given a good name to our community.

I hope that in the future the students of Charlevoix High School will continue to give our school an even better reputation and that parents realize what the students are doing to give our community a favorable image.

WE MUST SEEK THE TRUTH

Constantly in search of the TRUTH the scientist takes nothing for granted. Each "hypothesis", each theory, is tested and tried and accepted or discarded on the condition that it proves true or false. The true scientist never jumps to conclusions, consequently you will never hear him proclaiming the self-sufficiency of man—that man needs no spiritual power.

The Church is also a center for the search and dispensation of truth in things other than the material, the things one cannot discern by the physical senses. If each of us would be free we must know the truth and if each of us is active in the work of the church that fits our needs "We Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make Us Free."

Sundew ready to open lakes for navigation

CHARLEVOIX -- The hull of the Coast Guard buoy tender Sundew is as sound today as it was 24 years ago when in February 1944 the ship's bottom touched Great Lakes water for the first time at a Duluth shipyard.

Years of slamming against ice and bulging into the worst storms Lake Michigan can whip up haven't weakened the 180-foot ship's structural strength, according to her skipper, Lt. Cmdr. John Uthol.

FOR THE PAST TWO weeks Uthol's 45 enlisted men and five officers have been giving the Sundew her annual spring maintenance going over. Engines have been overhauled. The complex electronic gear has been thoroughly checked and necessary parts replaced or repaired. Cheery white paint has replaced the former drab yellow in passageways.

The ship's specialized crew has torn down the two 900 horsepower diesel motors and put them back together, hopefully in like-new working order. The massive 1,800 horsepower electric motor, that gets its power from the diesels, has also been thoroughly gone over.

It's the big electric motor that actually propels the Sundew. Power from the diesels is converted into electricity to drive the 1,800 horsepower motor, which turns the ship's propeller.

The Sundew's metal skin might not be in such good shape if it had been exposed for long periods to salt water or the polluted waters of Lake Erie, Uthol said.

Down in the Sundew's hold, which in two weeks will be bulging with buoys, the crew has rebuilt the watch-stander's shack that sits on the dock by the gangway when the ship is in port. Vandalism, Uthol explained, left the snug metal building in need of repairs.

MARCH 25 THE Sundew is scheduled to begin replacing men and equipment on the 11 off-shore navigation light stations. It is responsible for from Thunder Bay on Lake Huron to the Manitow Islands in Lake Michigan off Leland.

The ship's first task in reopening the shipping channels is to get the light stations manned and operating. When that task is done some 35 lighted buoys and 70 unlighted buoys are put out.

To place the buoys exactly where boatmen expect them, Uthol will use a sextant and come within one-minute of angle of accuracy, according to Great Lakes charts.

Setting the buoys on precisely the right spot becomes rugged, sometimes hazardous, work in cold spring weather and storms. But the job is supposed to be done by June 10, when the Sundew is scheduled to go into drydock. The 180-foot long, 37-foot wide ship will be pulled out and her hull given a complete inspection.

During the four-week drydock layup, a massive sewage holding tank will be installed in the forward hold. This tank will store the crew's wastes, which are now pumped into the lakes. The tank will be emptied into Charlevoix's sewage treatment plant.

School board decides location of auditorium

CHARLEVOIX--The school board Monday night decided the proposed 600-seat auditorium should be located behind the present high school band room instead of at the south end of the gym.

Board member Dale Boss urged the board to consider putting the auditorium at the south end of the gym. If this were done, he said, a "dual facing" stage could be installed to serve both the gym and the auditorium.

Riches have drawbacks

CHARLEVOIX--Being rich can also have its disadvantages for a school district, Supt. Rex Milligan told the school board Monday night.

Because Charlevoix has so much property valuation (due to Big Rock Nuclear plant and Medusa) it gets a larger percentage of its income from property taxes than do other area districts, which rely more on state aid.

PROPERTY TAXES, Milligan explained, are collected between January 1 and March 1. Thus the school district has to withhold payment on some bills until property taxes start coming in.

State aid, on the other hand, is received regularly throughout the year, making it possible for schools which rely heavily on these payments to settle with bill collectors more promptly.

With tax money coming in now, the board Monday was able to pay off its $45,000 note at the First National Bank of Petoskey. The money was borrowed in November to tide the district over until taxes started coming in.

and the auditorium. It would also be easier to expand the auditorium, if necessary, he contended.

HIGH SCHOOL Principal Ray Carr and Supt. Rex Milligan said the auditorium would be better located for educational purposes beside the band room. If the school board agreed, would be better for community use.

Carr said an auditorium is one of the most useful educational facilities a school can have and that people do not realize this.

Boss said the additional cost of building the auditorium at an extension of the gym would be about $12,000. The auditorium and gym, he said, would be divided by a $10,000 sound-proof gym.

Library notes

Truth can be stranger than fiction, and often, more interesting. Under the general heading of Biography, may be found books of adventure, war, intrigue, sports, politics, social problems, romance and all the variety that the fiction shelves offer. If you are a fiction reader who would like to read about real people and events, for a change, here are some biographies available at the Charlevoix Library:

Nehru: The Years of Power, by Vincent Sheean. A perceptive and provocative account of Jawaharlal Nehru's frequently stormy, often enigmatic course as Prime Minister.

Arnold: The Evolution of a Legend, by Mark H. McCormack. Arnold Palmer, the dominant golfer of our time, whose unparalleled skill and immediately communicated charm have made him one of the most idolized sports figures of the century. This is an intimate, candid and highly unconventional insider's view of the world of big golf and big money, written by the business manager who helped "Arnold" build an unprecedented business empire.

Forlone Scientists in Mayan America, by Sister Mary Cordie Loring. Sister Mary Cordie taught science for many years at Mary Rogers College in New York. This book is an account of a year she spent studying the sites of ancient cities in Guatemala, Yucatan and Mexico. It is also a warm-hearted account of the Mayan people's day-to-day life, a friendly book that will do much to promote inter-American understanding.

CHS lockers hit by thief

CHARLEVOIX--Charlevoix High School students feel they need locks on their lockers to safeguard money and valuables, the school board learned Monday night.

Principal Ray Carr told the board about $20 has been stolen from lockers in recent weeks. Carr said he hopes to have "some results" in his attempt to nab the thief, or thieves, within a day or two.

Carr, however, said he is opposed to students padlocking lockers "except as a last resort." Students, he said, shouldn't leave money in lockers.

BACKACHE & TENSION KIDNEY IRRITATION

Common kidney and bladder troubles make many men and women feel tense and nervous from frequent, burning or itching urination, night and day, and from loss of sleep and backache. Backache and loss of sleep, however, are not always due to kidney or bladder trouble. They may be the result of a urinary tract infection or a urinary tract obstruction.

County has lost five men in Viet Charlevoix County has now lost five young men to the Vietnamese war.

Marine Corps Lance Corporal Gerrie G. Jeffries, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Jeffries of Clarion, was killed Feb. 27 at Khe Sanh. Cpl. Jeffries was reportedly killed by enemy artillery, which has been pounding the encircled Marine outpost.

He is the third Marine from the county to die in Vietnam. Other Charlevoix County men killed in the Asian war were: Army SP-4 William J. Taylor Jr. of East Jordan; Marine Pvt. Donald G. Belch of East Jordan; Air Force T/Sgt. Norman Kerr of Boyne City, and Marine L/Cpl. Humphrey J. Price of Boyne City.

Trout fishing to end early for Sundew's skipper

CHARLEVOIX -- The trout fishing flies and dreams Lt. Cmdr. John Uthol has been nourishing this winter are going to have a short season.

A Jordan River trout fishing enthusiast, Sundew Captain Uthol will leave Charlevoix for Washington D.C. May 3, a week after the trout season opens April 27.

LT. CMDR. LEONARD Garrett, now stationed on the West Coast, will replace Uthol as skipper of the Sundew.

In his new assignment, Uthol will be in the training branch at Coast Guard headquarters in Washington D.C. He will have been in Charlevoix 23 months, before coming to Charlevoix.

he was commander of a Coast Guard patrol boat in Vietnamese waters.

$370,996 budget for Intermediate

A $370,996 budget has reportedly been approved for Supt. Charles Robinson's Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District.

The intermediate district's budget is broken into two categories--$301,746 for special education and $69,250 for general operation.

Of the total, Robinson and his staff are expected to collect $190,925 in salaries. Remaining funds will be used to pay salaries and expenses of special programs operated by local school districts and miscellaneous items.

With the exception of the final miles of the Jordan's reach to Lake Charlevoix, it remains one of populated Mid-America's least spoiled trout streams. Conservationists have had the foresight to anticipate the pressure that in the next decade will ruin the Jordan if they are not contained now.

THE JORDAN RIVER Watershed Commission (better known as the Save the Jordan Committee) has been legally organized. The commission is a quasi-official regional government agency, with power to make studies and submit recommendations to local and state government agencies.

It's job is to identify the dangers, present and future, to the Jordan's semi-wild state, find practical ways to dispose of or control these threats and arouse public support resulting in government action. That may be easy to write and say, but it is a bigger job than has been done to save an endangered Michigan river.

The Conservation Dept. has recognized the significance of this movement and appears to be fully committed to buying as much property as it can to create a buffer zone against exploitation of the Jordan.

But the Conservation Dept. can only do part of the job. The Jordan River Watershed Commission must become an Action Committee if the Jordan is to be saved. Action costs money.

It seems to the Courier that the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors should help support the commission. If the County Board allocated $1,000 a year to Save the Jordan it would cost each resident of the county less than 10¢ a year.

IT MIGHT NOT TAKE that much. Or it might take more. But, whatever the cost, it would be the most meaningful investment Charlevoix County citizens have ever made.

The County Board now allocates money for local conservation projects. It should be an easy matter to extend this policy to cover an allocation for the Watershed Commission.

Unfortunately, we can anticipate some supervisors asking how much Antrim County is contributing. We should think Antrim County citizens would be as eager to have the privilege of participating in this great cause as we are. But whether they are is not relevant to our support of this effort to save one of Michigan's grandest rivers.

IT IS PAST time for Charlevoix County Democrats and Secretary of State James Hare to get off dead center in getting a fulltime license plate outfit back in Charlevoix.

Charlevoix both needs and deserves a 40-hour a week Secretary of State branch office. The feud between local Democrats and the absurd position Hare got himself in with Mrs. Edna LaBlance has become academic.

There are five new car dealers and several used car dealers in Charlevoix. People from an ever-expanding area do their auto buying and general shopping here. They have the right to expect the convenience of being able to get their license plates here.

ON ITS PRESENT 12-hour a week scheduled (six hours on Tuesday and six hours on Thursday) the office is operating purely for the convenience of the Secretary of State, instead of the people he is supposed to serve.

Hare was made to look like a tyrannical fool in his confrontation with Mrs. LaBlance over the potty issue of a "desirable" plate number. We can understand the stubbornness of local Democrats. But we feel if they want to continue their battle the time has come when they must stage a pitched battle with Hare and either win or lose.

Some of Charlevoix's most active Republican leaders have solidly supported the LaBlances on this issue. So this is not a political question.

It is a Democratic party issue. Political organizations defeat their reason for being when they give the party's internal interest priority over the people's interest.

Ward apportionment

CHARLEVOIX'S CITY primary election should have focused attention on our city government's major shortcomings! Citizens are not given an equal voice in electing members to the council.

Charlevoix's three wards are unjustly apportioned because there are more people in, for instance, the Second Ward than in the First Ward. This gives the First Ward's councilmen the same power for fewer people than Second Ward councilmen.

PERHAPS THIS HAS not resulted in an gross inequity in legislation or decisions at the council table, but it certainly does not represent the equality of opportunity that is the essence of democratic government.

Charlevoix city officials can, of course, voluntarily draw new ward boundary lines so that each citizen has an equal say in their city government.

THE BOARD WENT ahead and purchased property for a new jail without even considering asking the people if they want to build a jail. (When the Charlevoix School Board wanted to buy property for a north side school it first got voter approval of a 1.75-mill levy to pay for it.)

Buying the land with absolutely no expression of opinion from taxpayers would seem highly unethical and irresponsible. But the clincher came when Charlevoix's First Ward Supervisor, Kit Carson, chairman of the county's Building and Grounds Committee, revealed plans to build the jail even if voters say they don't want it.

If Carson meant what he said, there can be no greater affront to the citizens of Charlevoix County.

"We are certainly going to put it up to a vote of the people," Carson told East Jordan Supervisor Bill Taylor (who has been one of a handful of supervisors with the guts to buck jail proposals). "Then, if they vote it down, we'll do something else," Carson added.

HE EXPLAINED that this "something else" would be to use money collected from fees and rentals charged by the county for its various services to pay for a new jail. (Apparently the County Board can use the fees and rentals for new buildings without a public vote. This was done to improve Grandview.)

The point isn't whether special millage should be levied to pay off a bond issue or whether income from fees and rentals should be used. It is that voters should make the decision... not politicians, architects and state jail inspectors.

An attempt by Charlevoix's new Second Ward Supervisor, Ken Staley, to get some answers on the jail were openly resisted by the prime movers of the plan. Staley's questions were met with a curse and then absolute refusal to answer them.

Staley, for his forthright challenge of the board's entrenched power structure, got nothing more than insults. As a member of the board Staley has no more right than any other citizen to the truth of what is going on. Evidently, a dozen or so people are deciding what is going to happen and they have no intention of consulting the public or other board members.

THE STATE HAS said the county needs to improve its jail. An architect has said more improvements aren't good enough. We should build an entirely new jail, says the architect, whose fee is based on the amount spent.

This department is not arguing about the need for improvements at the jail. I recall writing an editorial three years ago citing the need for modernization and expansion of the jail and warning that if something wasn't done then the state would soon attempt to cram something less desirable down our craws. Former Sheriff Glenn Hesse repeatedly warned the board to act then instead of waiting until its collective back was to the wall and costs had risen.

We can still moderate and expand the jail for a lot less than the $500,000 politicians are trying to avoid admitting a new jail will ultimately cost us.

Let's help

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY citizens have an opportunity to participate in what, generations from now, may be hailed as one of Northern Michigan's most significant Space Age conservation projects: Saving the Jordan River.

With the exception of the final miles of the Jordan's reach to Lake Charlevoix, it remains one of populated Mid-America's least spoiled trout streams. Conservationists have had the foresight to anticipate the pressure that in the next decade will ruin the Jordan if they are not contained now.

THE JORDAN RIVER Watershed Commission (better known as the Save the Jordan Committee) has been legally organized. The commission is a quasi-official regional government agency, with power to make studies and submit recommendations to local and state government agencies.

It's job is to identify the dangers, present and future, to the Jordan's semi-wild state, find practical ways to dispose of or control these threats and arouse public support resulting in government action. That may be easy to write and say, but it is a bigger job than has been done to save an endangered Michigan river.

The Conservation Dept. has recognized the significance of this movement and appears to be fully committed to buying as much property as it can to create a buffer zone against exploitation of the Jordan.

But the Conservation Dept. can only do part of the job. The Jordan River Watershed Commission must become an Action Committee if the Jordan is to be saved. Action costs money.

It seems to the Courier that the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors should help support the commission. If the County Board allocated $1,000 a year to Save the Jordan it would cost each resident of the county less than 10¢ a year.

IT MIGHT NOT TAKE that much. Or it might take more. But, whatever the cost, it would be the most meaningful investment Charlevoix County citizens have ever made.

The County Board now allocates money for local conservation projects. It should be an easy matter to extend this policy to cover an allocation for the Watershed Commission.

Unfortunately, we can anticipate some supervisors asking how much Antrim County is contributing. We should think Antrim County citizens would be as eager to have the privilege of participating in this great cause as we are. But whether they are is not relevant to our support of this effort to save one of Michigan's grandest rivers.

IT IS PAST time for Charlevoix County Democrats and Secretary of State James Hare to get off dead center in getting a fulltime license plate outfit back in Charlevoix.

Charlevoix both needs and deserves a 40-hour a week Secretary of State branch office. The feud between local Democrats and the absurd position Hare got himself in with Mrs. Edna LaBlance has become academic.

There are five new car dealers and several used car dealers in Charlevoix. People from an ever-expanding area do their auto buying and general shopping here. They have the right to expect the convenience of being able to get their license plates here.

ON ITS PRESENT 12-hour a week scheduled (six hours on Tuesday and six hours on Thursday) the office is operating purely for the convenience of the Secretary of State, instead of the people he is supposed to serve.

Hare was made to look like a tyrannical fool in his confrontation with Mrs. LaBlance over the potty issue of a "desirable" plate number. We can understand the stubbornness of local Democrats. But we feel if they want to continue their battle the time has come when they must stage a pitched battle with Hare and either win or lose.

Some of Charlevoix's most active Republican leaders have solidly supported the LaBlances on this issue. So this is not a political question.

It is a Democratic party issue. Political organizations defeat their reason for being when they give the party's internal interest priority over the people's interest.

Who's deciding on jail?

Who do the members of the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors represent? The people of Charlevoix County? Or architects and state bureaucrats?

Last week's County Board meeting appears to have answered the question. The majority of board members seem more concerned about the interests and opinions of architects and state jail inspectors than in those of the people who elect them and pay them $25 a day, plus, for their services.

Jerry Hammond dies in US-131 auto crash

LAST JORDAN -- Jerry Allen Hammond, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Hammond, 17, died Saturday, March 9, in an automobile accident on US-131 on the Elmira Hill.

Also killed was Edward N. Ellegren, 51, and George Goulet, 46, both of Greenfield. Two other men in the car driven by Ellegren were injured.

POLICE REPORTED the two cars collided, apparently head-on near the bar road that cuts US-131 from a divided highway into a two-lane highway.

Hammond attended school in East Jordan until his senior year when he went to Catholic Christian School in Jackson, Ky., where he graduated.

Hammond was reportedly traveling south on US-131, en route to his job in Marquette, when the cars collided.

Little Flower Guild meets

CHARLEVOIX -- The Little Flower Guild of St. Mary's church held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Jack Hefner, business discussed was the final plans for the St. Mary's dinner to be held Sunday, March 17 from noon until 3 p.m.

Mrs. Robert Elliott of Frank's Flowers gave a discussion on making centerpieces. During the meeting she made a number of plans and items in a basket that she made, also several corsages. Afterwards all flowers were awarded to members present.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Josh Barnes on April 4.

Savings Bonds

CHARLEVOIX -- Elmer D. Hawley, savings bond chairman for Charlevoix County, is reminding taxpayers that the Treasury Department is again offering people the opportunity to take income tax rounds in United States savings bonds. Taxpayers who elect to do this will be building financial security and also contributing to our country's economic strength.

County oks tax study

Property tax assessments in Charlevoix County are estimated 10% lower than they should be, County Equalization Director Mrs. Joan Blanchard told the Board of Supervisors last week.

The board authorized Mrs. Blanchard to begin a reappraisal of county assessments as soon as possible to bring them up to the state-required 50% of true cash value.

SOUTH ARM TOWNSHIP Supervisor Don Graham urged the board to authorize the reappraisal rather than wait for the state to come in and do it "so we will have more control."

The assessments, which were at 50% of true cash value four or five years ago, are now down to about 40% due to increasing property values, Mrs. Blanchard said.

Graham said the money people have been paying for real estate in the last year is "just out of the world."

Mrs. Blanchard explained her department keeps records of all property sales registered with County Register of Deeds Grover Genet.

The state Tax Commission would be alarmed if it compared the amount people are paying for property to the amount it is assessed at, she said. If the county does this on its own, and the state knows a reappraisal study is underway, the Commission will, most likely, let local assessors continue to set the assessments, Mrs. Blanchard explained.

UNDER THE PLAN approved by the board last week, five townships and one city will be reappraised every year. Mrs. Blanchard's department will study the true cash value of five-percent of all property in each classification (residential, agricultural, industrial, etc.) in each city and township. The study will take three years.

True cash value will be determined by amounts paid in recent sales and other local factors.

The study will start this spring in Hayes Township.

Lodge betting

CHARLEVOIX -- Hear this, all lovers of a game of chance. Would you like to make an educated guess of the exact month, day and hour in which the last piece of ice will melt from the ice tower at The Lodge in Charlevoix?

If you're the winner you can stay any two nights during 1968 except from June 15 to September 10, 1968. Someone will be the winner, so make your estimate, then watch the tower at The Lodge slowly melt away.

Fulltime license office

WILLIAM R. ZEITLER, 28, has set up a fulltime auto license bureau in Charlevoix, replacing the part-time office run by Bill Thompson. Zeitler's Secretary of State branch office is located at 508 W. Huribut (in the fifth block west of Bridge St.). He will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., weekdays, except Wednesday when he will be open from noon to 8 p.m. Zeitler has studied accounting at North Central Michigan College and hopes to pick up some accounting work in conjunction with his branch office operation.

Charlevoix to pick 2 queens, instead of 1 Venetian Queen

CHARLEVOIX -- The annual Venetian Queen contest and program has been expanded under a new Chamber of Commerce committee.

This year a Miss Charlevoix will be selected to represent Charlevoix throughout the state. In addition, a Venetian Queen will be selected to reign during the Venetian Festival, only.

All Charlevoix area girls between the ages of 17 and 21 who have never been married are eligible for the Miss Charlevoix title. Miss Charlevoix and queen contest winners from other communities will vie for the Venetian Queen's crown.

THIS YEAR'S MISS Charlevoix will be supported by the Chamber and sponsoring businesses, clubs and industries which will put up the money for her wardrobe and living and traveling expenses to represent Charlevoix at such events as the National Cherry Festival, National Trout Festival, Potokoski Winter Sports Carnival and other pageants and events, the committee announced.

Members of the committee are Mrs. Perry (Billie) Smith, Don Kowbel and Dave Jullerle.

The committee is now seeking queen sponsors. Letters have been sent to potential sponsors, Mrs. Smith explained.

A talent contest is being planned as part of the Miss Charlevoix selection program. Judges will be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. William Crowe have returned home after spending the winter with their daughter and family in Detroit and with their niece and family in San Fernando, California.

Mr. Ethel Cook of Charlevoix was a guest Thursday afternoon of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Beene.

Mrs. Joe Williams and Mrs. J.L. Lockyer of Charlevoix were guests Thursday afternoon of Mrs. Pauline Canfield.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Scott of Nanticoke, Michigan have been guests the past two weeks at the home of their son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Merle Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. William Peck have returned home after spending several weeks in Florida and also enjoying a cruise through the Caribbean.

Jordan marriages

EAST JORDAN -- Justice Charles L. Brown, last week arranged five men being held in the Charlevoix county jail on various charges.

Marriages

Steven R. Anthony, 18, Elmira, to Linda L. Nowland, 16, Boyne City.

Will explain 'self-help' housing plan

Area families who are willing to do much of their own work in building a new home can get information on the Federal government's "self-help" program in Boyne City April 4.

The anti-poverty agency--Two Cap--is holding a public meeting on the self-help program at the Top O' Michigan building in Boyne City at 7:30 p.m. April 4. All interested persons are invited, according to Janet Dumelle, county director.

Under the program, several families cooperate in helping each other build new houses. The government loans the money for materials and hiring of craftsmen at three percent interest.

LOCAL

Mr. and Mrs. John O'Dell of Farmington visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Sundberg this past week.

Circuit Court

CHARLEVOIX -- Judge Charles L. Brown, last week arranged five men being held in the Charlevoix county jail on various charges.

Three East Jordan men, Charles W. Bourdy, 22, his brother, Vance, 17, and William G. Goff, 25, charged with breaking and entering a deer lake road March 8, pleaded guilty to the charge and their cases were referred to the probation officer for investigation. They will be sentenced at a later date. Their bonds of $500 each were continued and they were returned to the county jail when they failed to furnish them.

Joseph H. Washburn, 36, of Boyne City, also charged with breaking and entering a plea guilty when arraigned and his bond of $2,000 continued. He was remanded to the county jail after failing to furnish bond. His case was referred for pre-sentence investigation.

Carl F. Hayes, 34, of Lansing, pleaded guilty to a charge of indecent liberties. Bond of $5,000 was continued and he was returned to the county jail to await sentencing.

Kelth West, 38, of Boyne City, demanded examination on a charge of breaking and entering when arraigned and his bond of $2,000 continued. The case was referred for pre-sentence investigation.

Charlevoix Court

Justice John Connolly reports the following cases:

George A. Hughes, 17, Detroit, petty larceny, $21.50 or 15 days in the county jail, committed; Lymon Mathews, 54, Ellsworth, improper parking, $10.

Library story hours continue popularity

CHARLEVOIX--Story hours for pre-school children at the Charlevoix Public Library are very popular and new children are being added to the groups at each session, according to librarian Dorothy Olmstead.

The stories are intended for children who are three to five years old and are not in kindergarten as yet. If children come who are not in this pre-school group they may join their mothers in the Rangoon Room where the mothers enjoy coffee and conversation.

Stories are shared on alternate Fridays at 10 a.m. and at 11 a.m. Dates for coming story hours are March 22, April 5, April 19, May 3, and May 17. Five more times in this spring session.

Call or stop at the Library and register your child.

Consumers Power Company reports a 8 percent increase in kilowatt-hour sales to residential electric users in 1967. Sales of natural gas to residential space heating customers increased 8 percent for the year.

As always, there are good and bad to all things even experiences. The one thing Susie dislikes in this country is the constant demand to "hurry up!"

"Americans do too much rushing," says Susie. "In Brazil, things move much slower and their pace of living is much more relaxed."

However, after all is said and done this young lady and her American family enjoy sharing the experiences of everyday living and both she and the Maurer family will have had hearts when June rolls around and Susie returns to her home in Brazil.

WE MUST SEEK THE TRUTH

Constantly in search of the TRUTH the scientist takes nothing for granted. Each "hearsay", each theory, is tested and tried and accepted or discarded on the condition that it proves true or false. The true scientist never jumps to conclusions, consequently you will never hear him proclaiming the self-sufficiency of man—that man needs no spiritual power.

The Church is also a center for the search and dissemination of truth in things other than the material, the things one cannot discern by the physical senses. If each of us would be free we must know the truth and if each of us is active in the work of the church that fits our needs "We Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make Us Free."

Disney fans won't want to miss his 'Jungle Book'

by PAT BEGROW
Pseudo sophisticates can look-pony Walt Disney all they like, but as far as Pat concerned he's had me under his spell ever since his first animated film "Snow White," so I'm anxiously anticipating his last film "The Jungle Book." It will be shown at The Palace Theatre in Charlevoix on March 22, 23, and 24 at 7:45 each evening.

"The Jungle Book" is an animated musical inspired by "The Jungle Book" of Rudyard Kipling about a child who was raised by animals.

Every cartoon animal has a distinct personality accentuated by the fine actors who assume the voice roles.

Phil Harris plays the part of Baloo the Bear a Wallace Beery type character. From this role was born the catchy song "I Wanna Be Like You," written by Terry Gilkyson. Five other songs for the movie were written by the Oscar winning team of Sherman and Sherman.

Sebastian Cabot the lovable butler of the TV series "Family Affair" is the stern voice of Bagheera the Panther.

Louis Prima and his musical group, The Witnesses, were the inspiration for some of the music of the movie.

George Sanders is the voice of Shere Khan, a sophisticated tiger. Sterling Holloway plays Kaa, a sneaky snake. Junnyman J. Pat O'Malley plays the pompous elephant Colonel Hathi, and Bruce Rutherford plays Mowgli, the man-cub.

Strangely enough Rudyard Kipling the English storyteller and poet wrote "The Jungle Book" while snowed in during a Vermont blizzard. Following a successful career as a newspaperman in India, he had returned to England in 1892 and married an American girl, Caroline Balestier. Her home was Brattleboro, Vermont so Kipling and his bride built a house and lived in Vermont for several years.

During his stay in the United States he also wrote "Captains Courageous" and began work on his greatest novel "Kim." Though he declined knighthood, in 1907 he was awarded the Nobel Prize for literature.

I'll be anxious to see how closely Walt Disney follows the Kipling stories of Mowgli.

The film lasts 76 min. and 7 seconds so those of you taking small children to the movie can pace yourselves accordingly.

On the same bill with "The Pharmacists warn parents of poisoning danger

Half of the one million accidental poisonings in the United States involve children under five years of age. The Michigan Department of Public Health reported that 7,417 children in this age group were poisoned in the State in 1966.

Aspirin - and these are not restricted to the baby type - are the largest single item reported in cases of accidental ingestions. Parents should pay particular attention to the storage of this product, locking them up when not in use and not taking them in front of children, Charlevoix pharmacists Frank Ochs and John Schroeder said.

A statistical analysis of ingestion experience reported to the National Clearinghouse for Poison Control Centers, 1966, indicated a decrease in poisonings by household products, but increased medicine ingestions, as a child approached three years of age.

Interestingly enough, a review of reported clinical cases indicate that children actually were under the supervision of adults in 95% of ingestion incidents, Schroeder and Ochs said. The problem appears that too many parents are unaware of the potential hazards of daily-used products in the home. Also, parents should recognize the relationship between their children's development and the accessibility of various household items, according to Schroeder and Ochs.

Lieutenant Governor Milliken has commended pharmacists throughout Michigan "for developing and directing public service programs to educate citizens to the hazards of accidental poisonings" in Poison Prevention Week Observance, March 17-23.

"Family Health and Safety" will be the theme of this year's Poison Prevention Week observance by the Michigan State Pharmaceutical Association, March 17-23.

A survey of four major Poison Control Centers, located in different parts of the country, indicated that during the last observance of National Poison Prevention Week (1967), there was a sharp increase in telephone inquiries as compared with several weeks before and after. This may be some measure of effectiveness in alerting the public to the potential hazards of commonly-used products.

The best medicine against accidental poisonings is preventive medicine, the Charlevoix pharmacists said. Vaccines can protect children against such diseases as smallpox, influenza, polio, and even mumps. Parents, however, must protect their children against accidents!

For Family Health and Safety, Charlevoix pharmacists remind you:

- Always keep medicines, poisonous substances and household chemicals out of the reach of children, preferably in a locked cabinet when not in use.
- Store all medicines, poisonous substances and household chemicals separately and in their original, tightly sealed containers.
- Never store non-edible substances in empty food or beverage containers.
- Always read all labels, following directions and caution statements carefully.
- Use prescription medications only for the patient for whom they were ordered.
- Always refer to medicine by its proper name - not "candy".
- Clean out medicine cabinets regularly, especially prescription medications no longer required.

Federal crackdown begins on big lake's pollution

EDITOR'S NOTE: This article is reprinted from the Chicago Tribune to give Charlevoix area citizens an understanding of the pollution threat that faces Lake Michigan. Charlevoix's city sewage system has been identified by state authorities as a pollution contributor. City officials have been ordered to modernize the sewage treatment plant to cut down on the pollution it is pouring into Lake Michigan and Round Lake.

Breakthroughs against five major water pollution problems were made at the recent four-state conference on Lake Michigan.

"Effective solutions had never before been proposed in some of these areas," H.W. Poston, Great Lakes regional director of the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration, told The Tribune. "Effective action can be anticipated in these areas now," he said.

Make Final Recommendations

Poston was discussing the final recommendations adopted last week by the federal-state conference called by Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall to stop the pollution of Lake Michigan. The chief water pollution control officials from Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, and the federal government were present.

The five stubborn water pollution problems among those covered in the 26 recommendations are: phosphate removal from waste waters; wastewater treatment; thermal and radioactive pollution from nuclear power plants; oil discharges; and industrial waste treatment by municipal sewage treatment plants.

"Three months ago there was no common agreement between the states on the eutrophication (lake aging) problem or on feasible methods for phosphate control," said Poston.

Phosphate Removal Plan

Phosphate causes algae to grow. Federal experts reported for the first time at the conference that a way had been found to remove phosphates from wastes at low cost.

"Now there is a partnership between four states and the federal government on a program we all understand and agree upon," said Poston. "This is the first time something like this ever has happened."

The federal official said he believes the Lake Michigan pollution control plan is realistic and will be successful.

Further, the water pollution control regulations adopted in Chicago might appear as water quality improvements throughout the Great Lakes, Poston said. It is likely that officials of other states will adopt some of the Lake Michigan recommendations to control water pollution in the other lakes.

26 Points in Plan

The 26-point Lake Michigan plan identifies every known water pollution problem in the Lake Michigan basin. It has been sent to all states where potential hazards exist from oil or chemical spills will be made, with a report in six months. Conference recommended that the federal law on oil pollution control in Lake Michigan be strengthened.

Power plants - A special committee on nuclear discharges and thermal pollution will be formed to develop guides for pollution control at nuclear power plants.

Dumping - Dumping of polluted materials into Lake Michigan is to be prohibited as soon as possible. The Corps of Engineers and the four states will report within 30 months on a coordinated plan for disposal of dredged materials, with a target date for putting the program into action.

Watercraft - A special committee on aircraft waste control will report within 60 days on uniform rules and regulations for controlling wastes from boats using Lake Michigan by all four states.

Seek Pesticide Control

Pesticides - A technical committee on pesticides will report in six months on an evaluation of the pesticide problem and recommendations for a program of monitoring and control. The states shall seek legislation to license commercial pesticide applicators.

Oil-Discharge of visible oil reaching Lake Michigan will be eliminated. An inventory of all sites where potential hazards exist from oil or chemical spills will be made, with a report in six months. Conference recommended that the federal law on oil pollution control in Lake Michigan be strengthened.

Alleviate - The conference supports a program of using commercial trawlers to skim dead seaweed from the Secretary Udall for approval. The problems and the actions recommended are:

Municipal and industrial wastes - At least 80 per cent reduction of phosphates in municipal sewage treatment, higher for some industries. Municipal and industrial wastes must be treated sufficiently to comply with strict water quality standards adopted by the four states and the federal government. These actions are to be "substantially accomplished by December, 1972." Cities and industries are the major water pollution violators.

Waste discharges - Within six months, each of the four states and the federal government will list all communities and industries in the Lake Michigan basin that are discharging wastes into the lake. Pollution violators will be identified and given deadlines to install pollution control equipment.

Nuclear Wastes Studied

Power plants - A special committee on nuclear discharges and thermal pollution will be formed to develop guides for pollution control at nuclear power plants.

tion from agricultural land use, such as silage.

Water to be Tested

Grants - It was recommended that Congress appropriate the entire authorization for water pollution control construction grants under the federal water pollution control act.

Monitoring - A committee will be formed to develop a water quality monitoring program in Lake Michigan, using the coast guard and aircraft. Water quality tests will be taken at least twice weekly at eight points along the lake, including Chicago, with annual reports to the conference.

Research - Research will be pursued on algae control, less costly ways to remove dissolved chemicals and nutrients from waste waters, lake aging, waste disposal, improved sewage treatment, ways to handle industrial waste, and improved water quality tests and monitoring.

Progress - Progress meetings will be held at least every six months.

Cost: Hundreds of Millions

Murray Stein, chairman of the conference and chief enforcement officer of the F.W.C., said the program will cost "hundreds of millions, maybe billions of dollars. The money will come from taxpayers and industry."

"We can't afford not to do it," said Stein. "If we don't, Lake Michigan will be lost forever."

The federal-state program coincides with an 11-point pollution abatement plan published by The Tribune Nov. 20 to "Save Our Lake." The conference was called by Secretary Udall after The Tribune published a series of articles showing the effect of water pollution on Lake Michigan.

Bells Bay campsites getting maximum use

CHARLEVOIX -- Bells Bay campground is being used to capacity and State Forester Jack Lockwood would like to see more campsites developed.

In 1965, the first year all 20 of the campsites at Bells Bay were opened, 170 camps were registered.

LOCKWOOD DEBATES the 20 campsites could accommodate more than 1,000 campers during the last two summers.

Development of Bells Bay campground started in 1962, when a half-dozen sites were cleared. In 1964 the state cleared 14 more campsites, ten of them along the beach and city and township officials cooperated to construct the well at the main camping area.

In addition to the campsites there are four toilets and several picnic areas. It costs about $100 to develop each campsite, Charlevoix businessmen sell users of each campsite around $1,000 worth of goods a summer according to statewide estimates. Meaning Bells Bay brings about $20,000 in community coffers every summer.

Campsites, Lockwood said, could be developed with local money.

This summer he expects to work with the Charlevoix Garden Club to develop a nature hiking trail at Bells Bay. There will be a long and a short trail, with nature highlights identified by signs.

Vocational ed

BY ENDORSING the proposed 1.5-million area-wide vocational education tax proposal the Charlevoix school board not its responsibility head on. Whatever the outcome of the June vote on the Intermediate School District's millage request, the board should be re-membered for its unflinching support of this vitally needed improvement in education.

A sub-center, offering different occupational courses for area students than those at Petoskey, should, state and area educators feel, be located somewhere near East Jordan. Individual schools, such as Boyne City and Charlevoix should develop occupational training programs for students from area schools.

Ellsworth, for instance, might take advantage of Charlevoix's cooperative education (on-the-job training) program. So might Central Lake.

ALL VOCATIONAL education programs should be tailored to occupations in which there is a very real demand for employees. There is no sense in training people for jobs that do not exist.

The argument advanced by some that travel distance between, for instance, East Jordan and Petoskey is too great strikes us as a mere excuse. Persons putting up this smoke-screen contend students in the 11th and 12th grades should be taking at least three one-hour courses a day in addition to the two-hour course at the vocational center. This leaves only one free hour in the day for travel, etc.

If, however, a student is in the 11th or 12th grade and still needs more than two hours a day of general education courses the school has failed in the lower grades. It is far more important, we feel sure, to give the student a chance to learn something he can make a living with than to cram him full of more worthless information.

Estimates are that fewer than 30% of the children we graduate from high school finish college. For generations we have been neglecting the needs of the majority of that remaining 70%.

Other area school officials -- notably in East Jordan and Boyne City -- have been reluctant to support the area concept of vocational education. Their reluctance, and sometimes outright opposition, stems from personal conflicts with officials of other school districts or the intermediate district and bitterness over earlier events.

THE NEED FOR COMPREHENSIVE vocational education is, we feel, too great to allow such petty concerns to cloud the thinking of responsible citizens.

The fact is that quality vocational education can only be offered through the cooperation of area school districts. No single district (or even two combined districts) on their own can buy the facilities or pay for operating a vocational education program that meets the needs of our children.

Not even Petoskey can do the job alone. Due to lack of area support, Petoskey's much-praised new Vocational Education Area Center is faltering. The Center was built for all area students and all should have an "equal opportunity" to attend its classes.

Island supervisors rate break

LEE MOERLAND, Charlevoix's Third Ward Supervisor, should be supported for his sense of fair play in pressing the County Board to grant extra expense money to Beaver Island's two supervisors when they come to Charlevoix for board meetings.

Since then McDonough and Schnaudegel have been paying their own motel bills. As Moerland said, this is unjust.

Perhaps the only honest answer is for the county to openly defy the state ruling, hoping by this to force the state to recognize the unique situation that exists here and make an allowance for it.

SPORTS ENTHUSIASTS, due to the competitive and emotional nature of athletics, just naturally start dissecting plays, players and coaches following an especially unexpected defeat. Notes

SURE, THE TOTS WILL still be getting their three-month vacation. Nobody's saying they shouldn't have that.

But the stipend is that only one-quarter of them are going to get the summer off. Have you any idea what that will do to Michigan's tourist industry? If you think families are going to take their vacations to Northern Michigan in March and April, think again.

But there go again, thinking more about the economy than the kids.

The fact is you and I got summer's off when we were kids and my son, at least, is going to have his summers off, no matter what some economist, some educator or some legislator says. I don't think I would need any more information than I have at this point to make such an important decision. However, I would look for the fact that would better my children. The schools are very important in our community and I would like to see the school move out of our town.

East Jordan-Charlevoix merger. Most said they voted against merger with Charlevoix because it would have meant high school students had to travel through East Jordan and up the west side of the South Arm to reach the proposed merged high school.

Some of the comments from people questioned by the Courier:

Mrs. Alfred Crowell, stated that she would definitely vote for a merger if it meant that the school would be closer to home. She said she would keep a close eye on the merger even if it meant merging with some other district, our school will still need to have more money to even add an addition.

Mrs. Allen G. Rehn: "I really couldn't vote yes or no because at this point I feel that I would need more information than I have at this point to make such an important decision. Tragedy lurking on sledding hill

These temporary residents are unaware of the playground aspects at the foot of Grant street intersection and near tragedy has been averted by a hairs breadth, many times a day, and literally dozens of times in the course of a season.

UNFORTUNATELY, PARENTS stay away from using the Lake Michigan bluff for a sled hill for the local kids because of inordinate fear of the water and the possibility of drownings. It is a possibility, no doubt, but at the same time these same parents refuse to recognize the equal danger of the Grant street hill.

There must be a safer winter playground for our children than either the streets or the Lake Michigan bluff. There should be a centrally located hillside away from water and traffic where the youngsters, both preschool and school age, can use their new Christmas sleds in safety from new Christmas sleds in safety from the project before a child is scolded.

There are stop signs on Antrim street plus an overhead caution light at all hours of the morning and evening without the knowledge of their parents. It would be unthinkable that they would come with their parents' blessing, for it is a dangerous place for happy, heedless pre-schoolers who seem drawn to the hillside like a magnet pointing northward.

Library notes

People who come to the library looking for reading material for pleasure or relaxation tend to ignore the non-fiction shelves as containing only books for serious research. However, there are a great many books that might be classed as popular reading. For example, if you like historical romances, here are three non-fiction stories of real life royalty.

A Royal Affair, by Constance Wright. Frederick the Great and his sister Wilhelmina had a particularly close relationship, based on the persistent belief that they shared common fate. This "Royal Affair" provides the central theme for the dual biography in which the Prussian emperor and the early 18th century countess alive.

Queen Victoria, Born to Succeed. A biography by Elizabeth Langford. Victoria is shown as a woman who was happy childhood, entrusted by a law match, tantalized by a brief marriage and driven by the shock of the Prince Consort's death into a long retirement. Then, impelled by an inner sense of duty, she emerges at last to rule her vast empire and her high-spirited family, as a queen.

Napoleon and Josephine, by Frances Mossiker. This is the Lake ice going fast

The ice on Lake Charlevoix is going fast.

Phil Lawrence reports there was only 17 inches of ice Tuesday morning, compared to 21 inches when he took his last measurement.

For along the shore, Lawrence said, is much thinner than it is 350 feet off the Ferry Ave. beach, where he takes his weekly measurements for the Corps of Engineers. He warned people against venturing onto the ice, fearing that it will break up along shore soon.

Tuesday's measurement was 151 inches of solid lake ice and 2 inches of coarse snow ice.

Church camp back in court

The Lake Louise Christian Community church youth camp on Lake Louise was back in court Tuesday when Judge Charles Brown ruled in favor of the church. The court decision was based on the church's claim that the camp was a religious activity and not a commercial enterprise.

The new suit, the third on the issue, started in Charlevoix County Circuit Court, where the church claimed that the camp was a religious activity and not a commercial enterprise.

The camp and township are at odds over whether part of the camp property is used for church activities. Property owned and used by a church is exempt from taxation. The township claims the portion of the camp property it taxes is not used for camp activities.

The church organization started its original suit February 4, 1964. When Judge Charles Brown ruled in favor of the church, the township appealed to the Michigan Court of Appeals, which has not reached a decision.

No further action on the newest suit is expected until the Court of Appeals ruling is made.

Local student member of U-M Symphony Band

CHARLEVOIX -- When the University of Michigan Symphony Band appears Thursday evening in the Charlevoix High School gymnasium, a young man from Charlevoix will be playing with them. He is Robert Odmak, a University of Michigan student who is a regular member of the Symphony Band.

Odmak is an accomplished French horn player and holds second chair in the University of Michigan Symphony Band and first chair in the Charlevoix High School Symphony Orchestra. He is the son of the famous U-M marching band since his freshman year.

ODMAK IS IN HIS fourth year at the University of Michigan and spent the first year as an engineering student before he decided to make music his career. He is now taking a double major, French horn and music education. This year he has a student assistantship, and is teaching French horn to high school students.

While at the University of Michigan Odmak distinguished himself in the Concerto Auditions when he was the only brass player chosen and five of the only underclassmen to be so honored. On April 6, Odmak will be the soloist with the Symphony Orchestra at its performance in Hill Auditorium in Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Odmak has played with many community orchestras, Phil, Sidway, Plymouth, Hillsdale and Jackson. During his high school years he was a member of the Charlevoix High School Band and is the only student to have been selected for a chair in the University of Michigan Symphony Band or Orchestra.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Odmak of 317 Meach Street, Charlevoix. Mr. Odmak is director of the Charlevoix High School Band.

Another area student who will appear with the U of M band is Harold Fisher of East Jordan, a tuba player.

George Griffin claims that his son, Thomas, suffered permanent injury to his hip, legs and back when he fell on a stake in the yard of Ralph and Nellie Hamill in Bevo City. He contends the Hamills were negligent in having the stake in their yard.

Conservation must exist in the mind before it exists on the land. The number one problem in the establishment of conservation lies before the educators of the nation.

Library notes

Last week several hundred books from the Grand Traverse Library Federation arrived at the Charlevoix Public Library. Many of the fiction books are new and on the shelves for patrons to enjoy. Among the new titles are a number of stories of adventure and intrigue.

The Cordier book, by Richard Rains, a suspense story in the exciting mode of The Incredible Machine.

The Dissent of Dominic Shapiro, by Bernard Kops. The misadventures of a London youth in protest against middle-class conformity. Both tender and funny, it presents a vivid picture of Jewish life and offers ironic and satirical comment on rebellion among the young.

On the lighter side: A Sunday World, by Camille R. Bittu. Rosemary loved the gentle world of Sunday pictures, loving its smiles and friendly neighbors and was determined to preserve it for her children. This is the story of her attempt to hold on to that vanishing way of life, to a South where Civil Rights marches have taken the place of church bazaars.

A Time Too Soon, by Edward Lindell. Four white people are left to oversee a coffee plantation and a town in an isolated district of New Guinea at a time when the district is being turned over to the natives.

Another area student who will appear with the U of M band is Harold Fisher of East Jordan, a tuba player.

Florida picnic attracts 200

The fifth annual Charlevoix and Antrim counties club picnic was held Tuesday, March 12, at the Phillip Park on Tampa Bay, Florida.

A potluck dinner was enjoyed by about 200 people, some from the west coast. A short business meeting was held following the dinner and new officers were elected:

President Ole Olson; Vice President Floyd King; and Secretary-Treasurer Ole Olson.

Those who registered from Charlevoix were: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. George Zoller, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Boak, Rev. Leona Wingard, Mr. and Mrs. Elton Drake, Mrs. Elizabeth Rehner, Mr. and Mrs. George Spayde, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Naparalsky, and Mrs. Ira Olney.

Of 73 bald eagles found dead in the north-central United States in the last two years, 70 percent had been shot. This sparks the need for a nationwide education program to aid in protection of our nation's symbol, the bald eagle, which is protected by state and federal law.

The Lenten Service will be this Thursday evening at 7 o'clock in order that those who wish to attend the Band Concert in Charlevoix that evening, may have the opportunity to do so.

Word has been received of the death of our neighbor Mr. Al Janasch at his home 70 John Hall Park N.W. in Grand Rapids, Saturday the 23rd. Our community extends its sincere sympathy to his family.

Mr. and Mrs. James McNeil of Bevo City were guests Saturday at the home of their daughter Mrs. Wayne Saunders and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Chak and children of East Jordan spend this Sunday at the home of the latter's parents, Ole and Edna Nelson.

The Ladies Fellowship will meet Thursday afternoon April 4th at 2 p.m. in the Church.

WE MUST SEEK THE TRUTH

Constantly in search of the TRUTH the scientist takes nothing for granted. Each "hearsay", each theory, is tested and tried and accepted or discarded on the condition that it proves true or false. The true scientist never jumps to conclusions, consequently you will never hear him proclaiming the self-sufficiency of man—that man needs no spiritual power.

The Church is also a center for the search and dispensation of truth in things other than the material; the things one cannot discern by the physical senses. If each of us would be free we must know the truth and if each of us is active in the work of the church that fits our needs "We Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make Us Free."

Students feel squeeze for classrooms at CHS

by JEANNE MUTZ
The citizens of Charlevoix may not realize how crowded Charlevoix High School really is.

Since Modera has come to Charlevoix, the crowded conditions have increased and probably will increase more and more each coming year.

It has become necessary for the library and cafeteria to be used as classrooms causing much confusion. I also feel this decreases our feeling that he is in a place of academic education. Being taught in a library or cafeteria isn't my idea of a school.

IT HAS ALSO become necessary to use the com-cial area for regular classrooms, causing crowded conditions and cluttered space because of the equipment.

The open area in the junior high area had to be enclosed to create a study area and classrooms for students. Putting up the partitions to close it off has ruined the surroundings in our school. The same goes with the study hall which had to be enclosed to make room for lockers. Up to this time two and three students were in a locker; and with those lockers there is hardly room for one person to put his books, coat, and boots.

Lunch hour is a good time to observe crowded conditions to CHS. Some students are having to wait up to fifteen minutes in line to get their lunch and when you do get your food there is the problem of where to sit.

During assemblies and other activities that are held in the gym the crowded conditions can be easily noticed for the entire high school, grades 9-12, must squeeze to fit on the permanent bleachers.

For these reasons I feel more classrooms are definitely needed before we have to move outside for classes.

As for an auditorium, I think it would be very nice and would be adequate for holding assemblies, plays, and other activities.

Musicians cop two firsts

CHARLEVOIX -- Two of Charlevoix's 23 entries in the annual State Solo and Ensemble Festival at Muskegon won first division ratings Saturday, according to C.A. Odmark, director.

Twenty of the entries received second division ratings and one a third division, he added.

The clarinet trio composed of Barbara Avery, Kathy Milligan and Virginia Ochs received a III rating.

Odmark said the group, which had gone to Muskegon Friday afternoon, awoke early Saturday to a snowstorm that had dumped four inches of snow on the city. The Charlevoix aggregation, however, arrived at Orchard View High school on time and without mishap from the Occidental Hotel in downtown Muskegon, a distance of four miles, at 7:30 a.m. He said they departed for home about 1 p.m. Saturday and drove out of the storm at big rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hein and Odmark accompanied the group. Mrs. Gordon Wolcott was the driver.

PRIVATE Max P. Oswald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Goss, has completed his training at Fort Knox, Kentucky. He is now taking a course in helicopter repairs at Fort Eustis, Va.

Something Special!
For total performance, try our new & improved gasoline

LEONARD PREMIUM 500

now 5 ways better

1. Better carburetor cleaning. Keeps new carburetors clean and bright, cleans even dirtiest carburetors for better mileage, improved performance.
2. Better ice-proofing properties. On cool, damp days, ice may form on the carburetor throttle plate, causing annoying stalling. The new additive forms a slippery film one molecule thick on the metal surface. Ice never gets a chance to build up.
3. Better rust protection. The same molecular film protects metal surfaces against corrosion — in engine parts as well as the entire gasoline distribution system.
4. Better exhaust emission control. Works on exhaust emission devices, like Positive Crankcase Ventilation just as it works on the carburetor — cleans and keeps clean, reducing the need for expensive maintenance.
5. Better ignition. A special compound in Premium 500 suppresses pre-ignition and sparking fouling caused by combustion chamber deposits. Car performance is noticeably improved.

See us for the gasoline that's 5 ways better.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Feltsberger received a telephone call from their son, First Sergeant Harry Feltsberger in Hong Kong last week. He was in Hong Kong on five days leave from his unit in Vietnam. "It sure did seem good to hear his voice," Mrs. Feltsberger said. It was 8:20 in the morning in Charlevoix and 8:20 p.m. on the previous day in Hong Kong when he called.

Mrs. Annabelle Zacharias

ELLSWORTH -- Funeral services for Mrs. Annabelle Zacharias, 73, were held Wednesday, March 20 at the Hastings Funeral Home.

Mrs. Zacharias died early Sunday morning at Little Traverse Hospital shortly after admittance.

Born in Chicago February 9, 1895, Mrs. Zacharias came to the Ellsworth area in 1961 where she and her husband, Henri Zacharias, operated Zach's Snack Shop and gas station.

She is survived by her husband Henri, two sons by a previous marriage, Edward Lawe of Gifford, Connecticut, Charles Cooper of California, three grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Paul L. Schantz

CHARLEVOIX -- Funeral services for Paul L. Schantz, 72, retired Penn Dixie employee and former Norwood Township resident, were held at the Winchester Funeral Home at 4:30 p.m. Saturday with the Rev. Lawrence Tophen officiating. Burial was in the Norwood cemetery.

Mr. Schantz died Wednesday at Traverse City Osteopathic Hospital where he had been a patient for three months.

Born in Kent county Sept. 20, 1895, Mr. Schantz came to Hayes township with his parents as a boy. During World War I he served in the U.S. Army. In 1920 he was married to the former Marion Cameron who preceded him in death in February 1957. They lived briefly in Flint before Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Gerald (Isabelle) Reid, Mrs. Leonard (Jois) Steffens and Mrs. Richard (Shirley) Klotz, all of Traverse City and Mrs. Arthur (Audrey) Crain of Drayton Plains; one son, Jack of Eupora, Miss; 15 grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Pete Scott of Charlevoix and Palmetto, Fla., and Mrs. Emma Muscott of Detroit and two brothers, Isaac and George, both of Petoskey.

Barney Englehart

CHARLEVOIX -- Elmer A. (Barney) Englehart, 70, a leader in local youth and civic activities, died unexpectedly at his Hayes Township home Saturday.

Funeral services were held Tuesday (March 26) at the Winchester Funeral Home with Rev. Jack Harris officiating and Charlevoix Lodge 282 F&AM, of which he was a life member, participating.

A former Lieutenant Governor of Michigan Division 15 and Camp Charlevoix supervisor for 22 years, Englehart moved to Charlevoix in 1940 to take the position at Camp Charlevoix.

Born in Bay City January 30, 1898, Mr. Englehart served with the U.S. Air Force during World War I. He was employed by the Buick Division of General Motors Corp., until coming to Camp Charlevoix in 1946.

He was a life member and past president of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club, and served as lieutenant governor of Kiwanis Division 15 and as a division committeeman. He had also been active in Charlevoix Chapter No. 19, SPE-BSQA and for many years had served as Santa Claus for the annual Christmas party sponsored by the Charlevoix Volunteer Fire Department. He was active in the Charlevoix

Lake Charlevoix open for early fishermen

Trout season opens on a limited basis Monday, April 1, when rainbow (steelhead) become legal targets for hook and line anglers in the Boyne River, Lake Michigan and Lake Charlevoix.

Conservation Officer Frank Dufon reports Lake Charlevoix, which is still largely ice-covered, will open for the first time for the early season.

The Conservation Dept.'s list of early season waters does not list Lake Charlevoix, Dufon said he checked with Lansing and found there was no reason for the lake not to be open.

LAST YEAR early-season fishermen were stopped from fishing in the lake a few days off the mouth of the Boyne River.

Walleye runs at the mouth of the Jordan River are also expected to start soon, according to Conservation Officer Julius O'Brien. Walleye fishing is legal in the lake at the river's mouth.

Dufon and O'Brien expect rainbow runs to begin slowly in the Boyne. Dufon said fishing may be good in the water discharge channel at Big Rock nuclear plant.

Some trout have already been seen moving into creeks and rivers.

There have been reports of illegal spearing in Wilkeson Creek at the northeast end of Torch Lake. Both Dufon and O'Brien hope to crack down on spears this spring, report that with the use of walkie talkies poachers are difficult to nab unless citizens report them.

Need for federal aid debated by planners

CHARLEVOIX -- The Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission last week found itself again debating the pros and cons of federal programs.

Charlevoix Township member Oscar Stroud told the commission, "I'm not sure we want federal help and then not have anything to say about it."

Stroud pointed to the federal and state governments' recent veto of a plan to develop private hangar facilities for the city airport. The federal and state officials had the right to rule on the local issue because federal and state money was used in improving the airport.

THE FEDERAL government recently approved a $15,000 grant to pay two-thirds the cost of a one-year comprehensive planning program by the commission. Contracts with consultants Williams and Works have not yet been signed.

Stroud said he favors going ahead with the planning without federal help. The rest of the board decided to stick with its original plans.

City Councilman Nate Boss and Mayor Bill Fochtmann both told commission members they felt the federal and state governments have experts who were better qualified to decide on the hangar question than local officials.

Stroud also asked that the commission have more members from the city of Charlevoix. "The city should have the controlling vote," Stroud said. Commission members agreed to study the proposal.

The city has four members on the commission while Charlevoix and Marlon townships together, have five. The city, however, has approximately three times as many people as the combined townships.

COMMISSION members from the city are Ralph Doan, Ken Staley, Lee Moorland and Boss. Representing Charlevoix Township are Mrs. Rose Bergmann, Jim Lewis and Stroud. Marlon Township representatives are Burr Blanchard and Russ Dohm.

The commission also discussed the county's purchase of property on Garfield Ave. for a proposed jail. Chairman Doan said he felt the commission should have been given a chance to study the site selection before the county bought the property.

Mrs. Bergmann said that when county supervisors "brought it to us it was so cut and dried there was no chance for discussion."

PROGRESS Like Time, Stands Still for No Man

Your elected representatives on the Charlevoix School Board need your support in solving a problem that has developed from growth of the Charlevoix School District.

The members of the Board unanimously endorse the following proposals:

- | | |
| I Build a new elementary school for grades K-4 on the new site with the following facilities: | II Improve the high school by: |
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. Three kindergarten rooms b. Twenty classrooms c. Special education classroom d. Library and audio-visual room e. Music room f. Arts and Crafts room g. Multi-purpose room h. Remedial reading and speech correction rooms i. Cafeteria | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. Adding two classrooms for science b. Improving home-making facilities c. Expanding the present library d. Constructing additional area for dressing rooms and shower area e. Constructing additional area for shop and vocational education f. Providing area for the arts g. Providing area for increased number of students in drafting h. Adding storage area for eight buses to present bus garage i. Constructing a 600 seat auditorium with stage |

Remodel and rehabilitate the present elementary buildings into a middle grade building for grades 5-8

Based on the inflationary trends of the last nine years, when the high school was built, construction costs have increased nearly 50%. It will cost us more to build the same proposal next year, with construction costs currently increasing at 2% per month.

Your YES vote next Monday will solve the problem of over-crowded class rooms, and take best advantage of this districts tax dollars.

VOTE YES ON BOTH ISSUES MONDAY, APRIL 1st

When people with vision and vitality get together in a community of present accomplishment and even more promising potential, the blueprint for progress is clear. It's full speed ahead, toward a tomorrow of growth and gains, in every way. That's what we have going for us, in Charlevoix, where wonderful people through their united efforts have made Charlevoix a wonderful place to live and work...a town with a wonderful future in store!

City-township merger gets tentative support

CHARLEVOIX -- Consolidation of the city and township of Charlevoix received informal tentative support last week from the township's three representatives on the Regional Planning Commission.

Citing advantages of such a merger and expressing belief that township residents favor it were Mrs. Rose Bergmann, Oscar Stroud and Jim Lewis, all elected officials. Mrs. Bergmann and Stroud serve on the township board. Lewis is a member of the school board.

STROUD TOLD THE commission it should give the merger proposal immediate attention. He said necessary answers to the pros and cons of such a merger are not hard to obtain and present to the people.

Residents of both the city and township would have to vote in favor of the merger.

Township residents, Stroud and Mrs. Bergmann both said, understand the city could not immediately extend utilities and services to all areas of the township.

They pointed out water is the immediate need in areas of the township that are rapidly building up. Mrs. Berg-mann said people are paying between $1,500 and $2,500 to have an adequate well installed. Some people, she said, have been unable to get water.

Township residents using city water pay double the rate paid by city residents.

Lewis said that due to the city's lower electrical rate, he would save $100 a year in electric bills. He compared this savings to the approximately $50 more he would pay a year in property taxes.

STROUD SAID TOWNSHIP officials are becoming concerned that due to increasing residential congestion in some areas wells will become contaminated by septic tanks.

City Supt. Jim Taylor told him the city could supply water to Boulder Park and North Point or "Pine Point" within one year after merger and to other major residential areas within two years, Stroud said.

The township has a professional engineering report which suggests the feasible answer to its water problem is through the city.

Taylor also told him the city would not have to add more policemen to serve the township. Stroud said. The city fire department already serves the township.

City Second Ward Supervisor and commission member Ken Staley recommended that a consultant be hired immediately to assemble financial information on consolidation.

Ice unsafe

CHARLEVOIX -- Lake Charlevoix's ice is no longer safe.

Dave Patrie and Phil Lawton, who are taking "official" ice measurements for the Corps of Engineers, report the ice is virtually gone along the shore and in the outlet and is weak and porous.

Tuesday morning Patrie found only three inches of ice left two yards from shore and 12 inches ten yards from shore. One hundred yards out there was 15 inches of porous ice. There is no safe "high" ice left, he reported.

Annual township meetings

Michigan's grass roots level of government, the annual township meeting, which can be likened to the annual town meetings of New England, are open to all area township residents this Saturday evening.

At the annual meetings, township residents can make actual decisions on budgeting, road construction and other policy and financial activities of their local government. A simple majority of residents at the meeting is all that's required to make these decisions.

The most interesting in the area, in addition to regular business, persons attending the meeting will get their first chance to speak out on the township's proposed zoning ordinance. Zoning previously has been tentatively approved.

Norwood Township residents will discuss a petitioning in ambulance service with the city of Charlevoix and other area township of their.

Grass fire season starts

CHARLEVOIX -- The grass fire season started all alone Monday for Charlevoix's volunteer fire fighters.

At 3:20 a.m., firemen were called to a grass fire on the Maple Grove Rd. in Hayes Township. At 3:45 p.m., the alarm sounded again, this time calling volunteers to a fire on the road into Norwood.

Both fires were out before any buildings were threatened.

Because the city now has

Boyne, EJ boards favor merger

EAST JORDAN--Both the Boyne City and East Jordan school boards have endorsed merging of the two districts.

The boards last week publicly stated their support for consolidating the school districts. A vote of citizens in each community is planned later this week to obtain public opinion.

If the public appears to favor the merger, the boards tentatively agreed to put it on the ballot, probably in June.

THE EAST JORDAN board has been pursuing a merger with Boyne City since last spring, when its citizens study committee recommended that the two districts consolidate.

The proposal to merge Charlevoix and East Jordan--which was defeated Feb. 19--was presented by the East Jordan board because the Boyne City board did not respond to its request for merger in that direction. The Boyne City board, however, moved to act on the plan immediately following the Charlevoix plan's defeat.

In addition, architects estimated another $400,000 would be needed for additional grade school classrooms and improvements at present East Jordan buildings. East Jordan now has some 200 grade school children in makeshift classrooms.

BECAUSE THE MERGED districts would have approximately the same enrollment as Charlevoix and East Jordan would have had, high school building costs will be approximately the same as they were for the Charlevoix-East Jordan merger--about $3 million.

One major objection to the Charlevoix-East Jordan merger that is overcome by the Boyne City plan is that of persons living on the east side of the Iron River who felt they would have to travel through East Jordan back up to Iron River to reach the merged high school.

Coho facilities sought at park

CHARLEVOIX--Mayor Bill Footman has directed preliminary planning for a public toilet building at the Ferry Ave. beach and boat launching site.

Footman said the need for toilets at the site will become more acute due to the expected increase in boating due to the fishing.

HE POINTED OUT that the city expected to build toilets for swimmers to use last summer, but decided the need for toilets was greater at the softball diamond, so they were built there. Islanders have been using the toilets at the old city generator plant behind the beach.

Toilet construction at the site is difficult, Footman said, because there is no sewer nearby and the ground is too low for a septic tank. It said sewage might have to be pumped uphill to the city garage on old M-66.

The feasibility and need for additional launching ramps and paved parking area is also being studied, he said.

Court order requires change in county bd.

Ten members will be trimmed from the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors and control of the board will pass from townships to the cities, due to a Monday ruling of the U.S. Supreme Court.

The Court, in a long-awaited decision, ruled that all local legislative bodies must be elected on an equal population basis (one-man-one-vote).

THE RULING WILL also apply to the City of Charlevoix, which, due to a quirk in Michigan law, is the only area city that has been able to continue electing councilmen from malapportioned wards.

The Charlevoix County Board on April 10, 1967 re-drew its district boundary lines on an as-near-to-possible one-man-one-vote population basis. The county districting was the result of a state law, which cut the board's membership from its present 25 to a maximum of 15.

The board, however, set aside its reapportionment plan--and has continued to operate with 25 members, some representing fewer than 100 people and others representing as many as 1,000 or more--due to a Michigan Supreme Court ruling that the state law requiring the reapportionment was not legal.

THE U.S. COURT'S ruling takes precedence over the state court, meaning the Michigan law is now interpreted as legal and binding.

UNDER THE STATE law, the county will elect supervisors from the new districts this fall. Township residents will continue to elect supervisors, who will be their top local officials, but will not have a seat on the county board.

It is not known how soon the city of Charlevoix will have to comply with the new law. Most likely, though, the city will be required to elect councilmen from equal-population wards no later than April 1969.

Following is a breakdown of how the districts are created under the county's reapportionment plan:

District 1 South Arm 726 1 Supervisor;

District 2 Marion-Norwood-St. James-Peaise 970 1 Supervisor;

District 3 Hayes-Charlevoix 789 1 Supervisor;

District 4 Bay-Evangeline 768 1 Supervisor;

District 5 Evelyn-Wilson 1066 1 Supervisor;

District 6 Melrose-Chandler 785 1 Supervisor;

District 7 Boyne Valley-Hudson 850 1 Supervisor;

District 8 East Jordan-971-All that section of City South West of Lake Charlevoix and South of the center line of Estery St., projected to the eastern boundary.

District 9 East Jordan - 948 - All that section of the City East of Lake Charlevoix and North of the center line of Estery St., projected to the eastern boundary.

District 10 1st District East Jordan 971 1 Supervisor;

District 11 2nd District East Jordan 948 1 Supervisor;

District 12 3rd District East Jordan 971 1 Supervisor;

District 13 1st District Charlevoix 891 1 Supervisor;

District 14 2nd District Charlevoix 930 1 Supervisor;

District 15 3rd District Charlevoix 930 1 Supervisor; Total Population 13,421.

The following is the breakdown of the districts within the cities:

District 8, East Jordan-971-All that section of City South West of Lake Charlevoix and South of the center line of Estery St., projected to the eastern boundary.

District 9, East Jordan - 948 - All that section of the City East of Lake Charlevoix and North of the center line of Estery St., projected to the eastern boundary.

Voters ok grade school

CHARLEVOIX--School district voters Monday decided to spend $1,595,000 to build a new north-side elementary school, but rejected plans to make $450,000 in improvements at the high school.

The vote on the new elementary school and improvements to the old elementary school was 333 yes to 323 no. The vote on the high school proposal, which included a 600-seat auditorium, was 482 no to 473 yes, a slim nine-vote defeat.

SUPT. REX MULLIGAN said Tuesday morning he was calling architects and attorneys immediately to begin work on selling the $1,595,000 in bonds for the elementary school expansion and preparing finished plans so construction bids can be taken and work begin this summer. The board is hoping the new building will be completed by September of 1969.

He also said the school board will begin an immediate reappraisal of its program to improve the high school. This may mean that another bond issue vote for high school expansion will be placed on the ballot in June.

The district will be indebted for 29 years to pay for the elementary school improvements. It is estimated the average annual payments on the bonds will cost taxpayers about three-mills on their property tax bill. For the average property owner this will cost about $18 a year.

The new elementary school on Division Ave. (where the school board previously bought property) will house kindergarten through fourth grades. There will be three kindergarten rooms and five rooms each for grades first through fourth. In addition there will be numerous special purpose rooms, for special education and other educational functions.

The $1,595,000 WILL also include renovation at the present elementary school, which will house fifth through eighth grades. Seventh and eighth grades will be moved from the high school to the

No upsets in city elections

There were no surprises in Monday's city elections in Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Voters returned all incumbents who were on the ballot to office.

In the only two contests, East Jordan voters re-elected Third Ward Councilman Harry Watson and Third Ward Supervisor Barney Milstein. Watson bested challenger Vail Shepard 97 to 33. Milstein defeated Andrew Shively 95-53.

In Charlevoix all candidates were unopposed. Mayor Bill Footman got 304 votes, City Clerk Hugh Mayne got 308 votes as did Treasurer Annabelle Cunningham.

In the First Ward, Councilman Jack Moll got 107 votes; Supervisor Kit Carson got 103; Footman got 110; Mayne, 111, and Miss Cunningham, 110.

In the Second Ward, Councilman Nate Bock got 85 votes; Supervisor Ken Shaly, 82; Footman, 82; Mayne, 85, and Miss Cunningham, 88.

In the Second Ward Ray Olson got 61 votes as councilman, and Supervisor Mrs. Thora Kotowich got 82.

LOCAL POLICE failed to nab an escaped convict at this road block at the bridge in downtown Charlevoix for two hours late Monday afternoon. Police were armed with a rifle, shotgun and pistols. Every car and truck going north on US-31 was stopped and checked from Jack C. Partee, 43, who escaped from Traverse City hospital. The six-foot three-inch, 170-pound convicted armed robber is serving 20 to 40 years in prison. He was still at large at Courier press time. Checking cars at the road block are city patrolman Glenn Pemberton, left; Undersheriff Byron Stockwell, center, with carbine and Sheriff Philo Sumner.

truly enjoyed being Charlevoix County Chairman for this program three years in succession. It also was in a number of ways a learning and many new friends and community associations were formed. I realize we all have our hands full with our various chores but if we squeeze a little more, it is getting late and it is hoped through this column and my personal contacts, to get Charlevoix participating as it normally expected. Jack Dickhout is President at the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce, to mention but a few that keeps his hands full, but yet he managed to make time for an extra chore. Lets go!

Here is something for free, April 8, starting at 7 p.m. at the 4-11 Building, Charlevoix, Michigan. It will be held a dog obedience class.

From the regular monthly meeting the first Tuesday each month, in April it is the 2nd, unfortunately the date is past the deadline for this column therefore Chamber information will be published April 12.

A response by the advertisers to a release of the Chamber's so called long-term place brochure is amazing and I certainly appreciate this response. It is hoped that before too many days the changes can be submitted to the printer so he can set up for approval and then can go to press because this brochure has good distribution, it is necessary, a time and money saver.

Anglers sought to seek information on salmon

CHARLEVOIX -- The Conservation Dept. is seeking volunteers to serve as exploratory salmon fishermen.

The volunteers--up to five from Charlevoix--will be asked to explore nearby Lake Michigan areas in search of salmon and then determine how to catch them. This information will then be relayed to the fishing public so that it can catch the exotic imports.

By mid-June, he suspects, the salmon--also and chinook--will be scattered in loose schools throughout the northern part of the lake. They may, he says, hold to mid-lake until the alewife move in to shore. This should happen about the first of July.

If the exploratory fishermen operating out of Charlevoix can locate the salmon in June or July and flash word to Michigan sports fishermen that the fish are here

Myrl Keller, chief of the Great Lakes Fisheries Station here, reports 100 persons will be issued the "volunteer" permits on Lake Michigan. They will supplement his crew will do

Students selling flowers

CHARLEVOIX -- The student librarians of Charlevoix High School are selling flowers made of feathers to raise money to send a student to a library workshop this summer. The flowers are on display at the public library and in some of the local businesses.

Now... you can reduce your car insurance costs by as much as 30%

Effective immediately...

Auto insurance rates for young married drivers have been reduced by as much as 30% by the Farm Bureau Mutual and Community Service Insurance Companies. Today, many men and women age 24 and under can qualify for coverage at the same rates paid by older adults. This unique program provides high-quality protection—at favorable premium rates, to responsible individuals.

See your local Farm Bureau Insurance Group agent today. Ask him about the new, low rates for safe-conscious young adults. You'll be glad you did!

married men, age 23 & 24

Up to a 30% reduction from previous levels. Now you can have sound car insurance protection at the same rates paid by older adults.

married men, age 19 & 20

Up to a 30% reduction from previous rates. Among the lowest in Michigan—if not the lowest.

VFW women

The VFW Auxiliary of Charlevoix Post 1153 will meet at the Post home Thursday, April 4 at 7 p.m.

All members are asked to be on time as the Auxiliary is leaving to attend a School of Instruction at Petoskey at 7:30 p.m. This meeting is very important and helps to inform the members of duties and what the VFW Auxiliary does.

Top vocalists to perform at E. Jordan

EAST JORDAN -- Professional vocalists from Interlochen Arts Academy, Marquette's Northern Michigan University and Central Michigan University will join a seventy voice choir of outstanding singers from the Jordan Valley area in presenting the famous Mendelssohn Oratorio "Elijah" on Sunday, April 7 at 4 p.m. in the East Jordan high school auditorium.

Adding to the decor will be an exhibition of paintings by area artists, most of whom have been students in art classes sponsored by East Jordan's portside arts fair committee.

Midwest's barbershoppers featured at Boyne April 6

By PAT REGHIO
Action and Reaction

For good clean harmony it's hard to beat barbershoppers. Singing, and next Saturday, April 6, in Boyne City some of the best barbershoppers in the Midwest will gather to compete in the 22nd Annual Contest. This contest is open to all quartets which have never placed in the top three in the State.

The contest begins at 2 p.m. in the Boyne Elementary School Auditorium and the admission price is only $5.00 for an afternoon of good singing. At this time the quartets are judged and the winners selected to sing at the evening show.

The popular Roadrunners from Indiana will give a special performance. Many area residents have probably enjoyed hearing this quartet perform for they have been featured singers in past years.

The Epsilon Jaws Band will perform some special numbers coincident with barbershop singing. Among these will be Coney Island Washboard, Ace in the Hole and Floating Down the Old Green River. They'll also play Come Home Hill Bally, a song written about Willard Bally a railroad man from Jackson, Michigan.

The Snowbell Chorus as hosts to the Midwest quartets will not compete in the singing contests, but they will sing four of their favorite songs.

Brownies

Brownie Troop 266 has been holding meetings every Thursday after school. They have been busy working on Easter projects and last month paid a visit to the bakery. Last month the officers were: President, Patti Fels; Treasurer, Sally Michaels; and secretary, Laurie Ottens. They plan to elect new officers every month.

WE MUST SEEK THE TRUTH

Constantly in search of the TRUTH the scientist takes nothing for granted. Each "hypothesis", each theory, is tested and tried and accepted or discarded on the condition that it proves true or false. The true scientist never jumps to conclusions, consequently you will never hear him proclaiming the self-sufficiency of man—that man needs no spiritual power.

The Church is also a center for the search and dispensation of truth in things other than the material, the things one cannot discern by the physical senses. If each of us would be free we must know the truth and if each of us is active in the work of the church that fits our needs "We Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make Us Free."

Covey takes over at Coast Guard Station

CHARLEVOIX — Chief Richard Covey, 32, a 21-year Coast Guard veteran, has taken over command of the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station.

Covey replaces Chief Bob Baker, who has been acting officer-in-charge since Chief Otto McKeithan retired March 1. Baker will soon be transferring to Sitka, Alaska.

This is Covey's first tour in Charlevoix. He came here from Chicago, Ill. wife, Doris, a native of Michigan, and four children are temporarily living in Ironton.

The Charlevoix station has 24 men, five of whom are on detached duty, under Covey's command, on Beaver Island.

The Lenten Service will be at the usual time, 7:30 p.m., Thursday evening. Choir practice will follow.

Mrs. Evelyn Vanderwall is spending several days with her daughter Carolyn in Ann Arbor.

The Ladies Fellowship will meet this Thursday afternoon at 2 p.m. in the church.

Mrs. Ethel Cook of Charlevoix was a guest Saturday at the home of Mrs. Pauline Canfield.

We now have open water south of the ferry. By next week the lake will be clear and we will be hearing the ferry chug-chugging across the lake again for another season.

Bells Bay

STATE FORESTER Jack Lockwood's figures showing Bells Bay campground is being used to capacity is a timely reminder of the debt thousands of Michigan campers and lake-shore lovers owe to Charlevoix Township Supervisor Clarence Rabach and his board.

Rabach spent five years bucking state red tape before he got the go-ahead in the early 1960s to begin development of the Bells Bay area into a rustic camping and picnic area. When the state's ok was finally given, the township board took the plunge by developing the first ten campsites.

The city, too, pitched right in by assisting in sinking the well.

ONLY AFTER this initial program had proven highly successful did the state develop more campsites. Which is not intended as criticism of the Conservation Dept. The department must set priorities in its effort to meet the demand for campsites. Top priority in Charlevoix County has been given to Walloon Lake. Beautiful Walloon has no campsites and it certainly should have them.

However, this is no excuse for delaying further improvements at Bells Bay. The lake shore area offers a unique opportunity for displays telling tourists about and how to find Petoskey stones and shipwrecks. Interest in the state-owned stone quarry north of the main campsite suffers because there is nothing to direct people to its wealth of fossils. As Lockwood has pointed out, more campsites are needed. Rabach would like to see another well and more toilets.

Lockwood will eagerly provide the technical help needed to make these improvements. Rabach and the township board have not lost their enthusiasm for the project. If other public and civic organizations will also contribute the job can be started.

Trout poachers

FOR A DECADE or more local sportsmen bemoaned the loss of Lake Charlevoix's once fabulous steelhead fishing. Most understood that the sea lamprey scourge had whipped out the rainbow trout along with the lake trout. But many were critical of the Conservation Dept. for not initiating restocking programs earlier and with more enthusiasm.

Now the fruits of the lamprey control program and restocking are paying off. Big steelies are once again challenging the skill and imagination of area anglers.

TO SAY THE LEAST, the Conservation Dept. must be applauded for its success in reestablishing this magnificent fighting fish. Our lingering feeling that the emphasis being put on salmon is unjustly detracting from trout plantings does not lessen our appreciation for the job being done with steelhead.

But how are some area "sportsmen" showing their appreciation? By poaching rainbows as they run up streams. We suspect the very people who squawk the loudest about the passing of the steelhead are the ones doing the midnight spearing of huge trout before they have a chance to spawn.

We cannot help but wonder if these people we heard for years blaming commercial fishermen and blindness on the part of the Conservation Dept. for the sea lampreys gaining control aren't the ones to blame. It was the spears which killed so many fish before they could spawn that actually doomed the trout.

For our part, we will inform law enforcement officers everywhere we hear that someone has been poaching. You can do no less than the same and continue to consider yourself a sportsman.

Boat Sewage

LAKELAND BOATING magazine brings up a point that even the non-boating public should be concerned about. The magazine chastised government for aiming its anti-pollution guns at pleasure boaters instead of industrial and municipal pollution.

The magazine's point cannot be denied. Even in Round Lake, boat toilets contribute only a small percentage of the pollution. The city sewage plant is the major offender.

The Water Resources Commission has given the city until 1977 to reduce its contamination of the lake with nutrients. The same agency, however, has ordered boaters to install new anti-pollution systems (holding tanks or incinerators) by 1970.

The magazine makes another excellent point when it states, "wastes stored in a holding tank and then emptied ashore will only add to the load now overtaxing most municipal facilities. The holding tank is not a method of controlling pollution; rather it is a method of deferring it... eventually the stuff will go right back into the lake where it would have been dumped in the first place."

Though Lakeland Boating was writing about the situation in general at Great Lakes ports, its opinion and facts are perfectly suited for the situation in Round Lake.

The Courier, however, does not agree with the magazine's conclusion that holding tanks are an unfair measure to impose on boaters.

The conclusion we draw is that the state and federal governments should demand even faster and more successful pollution — halting action from municipalities and industry.

City's foresight

THE FORESIGHT of Charlevoix's City Council in equipping the fire department with three trucks was proven March 25. Within 25 minutes, the city's two newer pumper tankers (1954 and 1968) were called far out of town to fight minor grass fires. One went to northern Hayes Township and the other to Norwood Township.

Until the new truck arrived late this winter a double-call such as the one on March 25 would have left the city without a fire truck should a fire break out in town. Though it never did happen, it certainly could have.

Last week when the two trucks were in the country there was still a pumper-tanker in reserve at the city garage. Admittedly, the 1941 truck is a vintage machine, but it might have kept things under control had the need arisen.

Local leaders view campaign

by GLEN SHEPPARD

NOTE: This column was written before President Johnson's most welcome Sunday night speech admitting he has brought the nation to the brink of moral, economic and military disaster and retreating from a public discussion of his failure. What his refusal to let voters examine his record and express themselves on it means to the 1968 campaign will remain unknown until November. This writer is hopeful that it will result in the Republicans running a "Republican" candidate.—Shep.

When the Republican party was rife with a strong-minded, radical element in 1964 its safe and sane leaders snuck into the woodwork rather than be embarrassed.

NOT THE DEMOCRATS. They're going to have "em a good ole fashioned, all-American style brawl. The issues will be the survival of America (with a few political prizes thrown in to liven things up).

Hank Hogan, a major Charlevoix property owner, a former Republican member of the State House of Representatives and co-publisher of a Birmingham, Mich., newspaper, put it this way in his column the other day:

"...He (Kennedy) could be the catalyst that finally moves Washington into facing up to several bad situations which they have created. He will voice positive stands and the administration will have to agree or reject them. Thus for the first time there will be public communication on the issues."

"Once these issues are identified the administration will have to take positive steps to solve them or the public will clamor for its replacement."

"If a Democratic candidate makes headway," Hogan continued, "then the Republicans will have to come up with a candidate that is more than a political retreat (Nixon)."

Hogan certainly didn't commit his vote to Kennedy. Far from it. He isn't the only Republican, however, who is praising Kennedy's opinions without endorsing him.

THE REPUBLICAN Congressional Committee "Newsletter," a political propaganda sheet put out for Republican members of Congress—quoted Kennedy as saying:

"IT COUNTS NAPALM and nuclear warheads, and armored cars for the police to fight riots in our cities. It counts Whitman's rifle and Speck's knife, and television programs which glorify violence to sell toys to our children."

"Of course, the GOP poop sheet is careful to point out it doesn't generally agree with Kennedy, but admits "we couldn't have summed up life under LBJ's Great Society any better ourselves."

This department can't either. For that reason I have already said my vote will go to Robert F. Kennedy if it turns out to be a contest between him and Nixon, Reagan or Rockefeller next fall.

If Charlevoix County's official party line judgment is any barometer of the nation (which it probably isn't) the November ballot will carry Nixon and Johnson's names.

County Democratic chief Pete Johnson will stand behind LBJ. More importantly, the county's leading Democrat, Charlevoix's George LaBlance, a staunch Johnson supporter, LaBlance has plans on again being a delegate to the party's national convention, this summer in Chicago.

LaBlance PREDICTS Charlevoix

County will go for Johnson in 1968, just as it did in 1964. On the big issues of the day, LaBlance sees them shaping up this way for LBJ:

"Vietnam. "We have defended those people over there, if we just pull out of there thousands and thousands will be slaughtered. I'm thoroughly convinced the only way to do it is the way we are."

"Civil disorder in the cities. "I think Johnson is going to get a get tough attitude and put a stop to it and that's what has to be done."

Kennedy, LaBlance says, is "too wishy washy to be a good president. He was all for this Vietnam war when his brother was president."

Who does Oscar think will be the Republican nominee? Nixon, he hopes, but sees the possibility of a dark horse.

"Personally, I like Nixon," he says. "And he absolutely can beat Johnson."

OSCAR CONCEDES that Nixon lagging to have to do a good job of explaining the issues and "selling them to the American people" to get the nomination. If Nixon doesn't get the party's bid, he doesn't see Rockefeller, Reagan or one of the better known hopefuls getting it. He is more inclined to see somebody like Percy, Laflin or Lindsay come out of nowhere to receive the convention's endorsement.

The only person we heard mention Goldwater all week was Steve LaBlance, who, despite his dad's dogmatic party loyalty, figures the country and world wouldn't be in such a mess if Goldwater had been elected in 1964. (Three cheers to a thinking man.—Steve LaBlance.)

THIS BARE HANDFUL of citizens were all who turned out last Monday for the only public meeting on a proposal to bond the school district for 29 years to pay off $2,090,000 in building debt.

School officials were prepared to answer all questions from several hundred persons. The editorial below, from the Munising, Mich., newspaper seems appropriate.

(MUNISING NEWS) Tell someone they can't have something and they'll fight to get it. Tell them it is available to them without any questions being asked and they lose interest.

This is about the situation that prevails in communities all over the nation, including those here, with regard to public meetings of various governmental agencies.

These meetings are open to the public and yet it is only on rare occasions that you will ever find more than a handful of citizens in attendance at regular governmental meetings, and usually the only people present are members of the news media.

Yet, we are confident that if we were to announce next week that all the governmental meetings to be held in our communities in the future were to be held behind closed doors there would be an immediate and strong clamor for justice and a demand made by citizens for the right to be in attendance.

Naturally, no one expects hundreds of citizens to show up for all of the governmental meetings that are held in a community. But we do feel that citizens in our community would be much better informed and have a far greater appreciation of the community's operations and problems if they would make it a point to attend a school board, city council, county board of supervisors or a township board meeting once in awhile.

We of the working press who do attend these meetings regularly attempt to report what takes place and analyze that which is significant, but it is just never possible to tell the whole story.

Why don't you make it a point to attend a few meetings of the various governing bodies in the near future and become more enlightened on just what is going on in your school district, your city and your county?

U.S. Senators, most of them fellow Democrats, are questioning LBJ's winning credibility gap. Other well informed men share these doubts.

The U.S. is killing women and children in bombing raids. This bloody action was sparked by an enemy attack on our ships in the Bay of Tonkin. Now there appears to be a real question as to whether we were really attacked. We are using a foggy incident to justify the slaughter of civilians and the destruction of cities. What kind of tragic nonsense is that?

Countless Washington officials said the Pueblo was not in Korean waters when it was captured. But Defense Secretary McNamara told the nation, via TV, that we really couldn't be sure. Maybe the Pueblo was violating Korean waters. Only the captain could say for sure and he's not available for comment.

And so it goes. Who do you believe?

I am as good a flag-waver as the next guy. I cheer for our young men in Vietnam. I appreciate what they are doing. Nothing grieves me more than to be told I am "letting down our boys" because I think the U.S. should get out of Vietnam. But no, from LBJ on down, has justified all those deaths to my satisfaction. And I cringe when all the bodies are counted, ours and theirs.

I keep listening, hard, for my government to explain clearly what it is doing. But I don't believe what I hear. I can feel shame and guilt for my government. But I can't believe it.

And I am fed up.

Old Spain once had roots here

by BERNICE WESTAFF

Only the Old-Spanish lovers would remember that Charlevoix and St. Augustine, Florida ever had a common interest. But it is true, the northern resort and the southern resort did share in a bit of Old Spain during the early days of the 20th century.

It came about through the person of A.S. Mussallem of St. Augustine and Charlevoix when he established a summer Oriental Art shop in the space on the west side of Levis street adjacent to the bridge once known as the Lewis Opera House.

MUSSALLEM, A TALL and darkly handsome man, was thought to be Egyptian, perhaps because much of his display featured Egyptian art, but it is probably that he was of Moorish descent as witnessed by later events. However, we know that rugs from Persia were also a large part of his display, appeal. The rich texture and colors were beyond anything nearer Charlevoix had seen before his coming.

Needless to say, sales were for the most part among the well-heeled summer visitors to the north country. Localites were content with a fluffed rug or two set with some semiprecious gem.

But as time went on the summer shops seemed to lose their appeal and it was then Charlevoix received its first and only introduction to the Spanish influence when Mr. Mussallem purchased the Lewis Grand Opera House and converted it into a summer hotel, studded with iron railed balconies, which he named the Alhambra.

The Zoraya Castle in St. Augustine, Florida today houses the life-time collection of rarities of the late Mr. Mussallem many of which were on display at Charlevoix during the 1920s and 30s.

Official liars disgust columnist

by Jim Fitzgerald

The truth is, I am fed up with my government.

I am disgusted, heart sick, frustrated, angry and bewildered.

And I feel guilty. After all, it is MY government and if it is guilty of any crimes, I must share in that guilt.

These somber thoughts were turned on by the front page of last week's Lapeer County Press. One article told about the death of 2 more Lapeer boys in Vietnam. Another article revealed that Genesee County will build a 700 acre park which will extend deep into Lapeer County.

The combination of the 2 stories, side by side, pushed me over the cliff.

For a long time I have been a dove. But a hesitant dove. Fluttering weakly about the sharp edges of dark distaste.

I was convinced my government was wrong in Vietnam. But I refused to join those who claimed my government was lying to me. The President of the United States wouldn't concede lies told for selfish, political, face-saving reasons. He wouldn't allow his administration to mouth baloney while 19-year-old boys died in rice paddies. Would he?

Why are Genesee County officials tied to me about their park. They did it cleverly, using cute, vague phrases. But the sick variety clipped off, nothing left except lousy lies. For months, a few citizens insisted that park plans were a certainty.

Genesee officials simply thought the park plans had to be officially confirmed by God Almighty before they became the public's business. This is the same strategy used by liars who don't telegraph their punches. No wonder the taxpayers are punchy. If it hadn't been for those few doubting citizens, and newspaper exposure, Genesee would probably still be plotting its park in the dark.

If county officials can lie like that, why not Federal officials? The Genesee action made me wonder out of time. This country is being lied by bureaucrats who think the government is their own personal bag. They think they know what's best for Joe Taxpayer. They tell Joe what they want him to know. They twist the facts so they'll look good, and Joe won't get upset. What Joe doesn't know can't hurt them.

It is disgusting enough when this official sleight of hand involves a county park or a township dump. It is heart-breaking when it involves your 12-year-old son who may not live to be 20.

Get jump on trout season
CHARLEVOIX -- Hal Forbrigg reports several youths were unknowingly fishing out-of-season Monday at the Stover Creek pond, which he owns. "They really didn't mean any harm and didn't know the season wasn't open," Forbrigg said. He pointed out the early trout season which opened Monday pertains only to Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan -- not local creeks and inland lakes. Forbrigg also pointed out the kids had "six darn nice rainbows...the smallest a nice 12-inch."

Tax board will meet

CHARLEVOIX -- The County Tax Allocation Board holds its first 1968 meeting Monday, April 15, in preparation for dividing the 15-mill tax levy between townships, schools and the county.

Probate Judge John Makiel has rescheduled last year's three board meetings: Donovan Fox of Boyne City, Ed Hansen of Charlevoix and Sherrill Thomas of East Jordan. Other members of the Tax Allocation Board are County Treasurer Ann Peltier, Intermediate School District Supt. Charles Robinson (or his representative) and Charles Babach, finance chairman of the County Board of Supervisors.

AT ITS FIRST meeting the board will organize and begin studying budgets submitted by townships, the County Board of Supervisors and school districts.

Buy float

CHARLEVOIX -- The City Council has agreed to purchase a float to represent Charlevoix in various northern Michigan community tourist festivals.

Tentative plans call for the float to cost around $700 and be purchased from a Traverse City firm.

Local man driver in economy run

CHARLEVOIX -- Richard Johnson, a native of Charlevoix who now lives in Clawson, is participating in the April 2-7 Mobil Economy Run from Los Angeles to New York. He will co-drive for Scott Harvey of Dearborn Heights in a Plymouth Belvedere entered in Class D.

Johnson was born in Charlevoix and is a graduate of East Jordan High School and Alma College. He also holds a master's in automotive engineering from Chrysler Institute of Engineering. He is a design engineer employed by Chrysler.

The drivers will test the mileage potential of new-model American cars, with all major manufacturers being represented.

They are among the 41 drivers and their co-drivers who will complete the scenic "Visit Vacationland USA" course.

School hires attorney to deal with teachers

CHARLEVOIX -- The school board, in a session that lasted almost to midnight, Monday hired an attorney to aid it in negotiating with the teachers' union and approved a liberal student dress code.

Negotiations are just getting underway for 1968-69 contracts.

THE STUDENT DRESS code was recommended to the board by Carr, who said it was drawn up by the Student Council. Carr said the code will be revised before school starts in September. He asked that it be approved by the board to "see how it works."

The code allows boys to have long hair, so long as it "does not go below the neck, ears or eyes." Blue jeans will also be allowed for boys.

Girls will be able to wear skirts as short as they want so long as "no undergarments show when sitting, standing or reaching." Girls cannot wear slacks or shorts.

Carr told the board he has sent a half-dozen girls home this year to change to longer skirts.

Kennedy promised Carr the board, "very definitely" will back the administration in whatever steps it deems necessary in enforcing the dress code.

Milligan agreed to progress in getting plans prepared and construction started on the new north-side elementary school. He said the architect is aiming for construction to begin August 20.

TEACHERS and THE architect, Milligan said, are working on new educational concepts in hopes of designing the new school around them.

The board also heard a report from curriculum coordinator Del Terrill and shop teacher Vase Smith on ideas they might consider in developing a curriculum for the fifth through eighth grades at the present elementary school, which is slated to become a "middle grade" school when the new elementary school is completed.

Tuition for summer school was set at $25, and same as last year. Older students in remedial reading, remedial math, science, art and possibly foreign languages (French, German or Spanish) will be offered if there is adequate student interest.

The board approved during Barry Anderson, principal at Mackinac City, as an elementary teacher next school year.

Transfer of general fund and payroll accounts to the Charlevoix County State Bank was also approved.

The board also approved putting the following teachers on leave: Vincent Chev, Mrs. Louise Hartnell, Helen Milligan, Betty Potter, Marsha Taylor, Donna Boland, Don Evans, Sandra Farnell, Donna Hamilton, Lucille Martin, Bruce Morgan and Vase Smith.

Doctor busy before gets bags unpacked

CHARLEVOIX -- Dr. Harry Custer was administering to patients before he could get his suitcase out of his bag unpacked Monday.

Dr. Custer, 44, started moving into his office in the professional building at the hospital Monday. He figured to have the office set up and be ready to see patients today, Wednesday.

IT DIDN'T work that way. Monday morning he assisted Dr. Gilbert Saltonstall in surgery. Monday afternoon he found patients lining up at his office door. In between trips to unpacked boxes he tended to them.

Charlevoix now has four medical doctors -- Dr. Custer, Dr. Robert Martin, Dr. Saltonstall, and Dr. John Lignell, who has been out of town and is expected back late this week.

Dr. Custer moved to Charlevoix from Manistee, where he was in practice for six months. Prior to Manistee he practiced in Kansas 12 years, where he was chief of the surgical department at St. Thomas Hospital in Colby.

He decided to move to northern Michigan last summer when vacationing here. He chose Manistee for an interim practice while seeking a permanent spot to settle in the north.

HE GRADUATED FROM the Ohio State University College of Medicine in 1948. He has postgraduate training in surgery at Battle Creek, Michigan, the University of Michigan and Ohio State University.

From 1962 to 1963 he was chief resident surgeon at the Ohio State University.

He has "written numerous articles for medical publications and is a member of several surgical societies and is a Diplomate of the American Board of Surgery, had been active in the American and Catholic medical organizations. He was decorated a Knight of St. Gregory by Pope John XXIII in 1963.

His family -- wife Dorothy and children Marc, 12; Laura, 11; and Michael, 6 -- will move to Charlevoix later this spring. They are still looking for a home. Dr. Custer is living at the Lodge until they find a home.

Dr. Custer's telephone number is LI 7-1943.

ASSISTING Dr. Custer at his office is Barbara Konicki, of Muskegon. Miss Konicki is a graduate of Muskegon Business College, who interned at Mercy Hospital in Muskegon and was a medical record librarian at Memorial Hospital at Ludington.

Dr. Custer's telephone number is LI 7-1943.

Significant numbers of Lake trout may begin reproducing in Lake Michigan this year, for the first time since the late 1940's, according to fisheries officials.

Myrl Keller, chief of the Conservation Dept.'s Great Lakes Fisheries Station in Charlevoix, says indications are the survivors from the 1.3 million lake trout planted in 1965 will begin spawning this year.

If they do they will be two years younger than lake trout have been known to reproduce. The 1965 plantings, Keller pointed out, are four years old. All previous records showed lake trout had to be six years old before they could reproduce.

KELLER'S PREDICTION is based on biologists' tests of the sexual maturity of lake trout caught in state and commercial fishermen's nets. He said the tests definitely show the fish planted in 1965 will mature this year.

The unprecedented growth of the lake trout is credited to their feeding on alewife, which were not available before the trout were wiped out by sea lampreys in the late 1940's.

How successful the spawning will be or if alewife will prey on the lake trout eggs is not known.

Since 1965 the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife has planted 4.9 million lake trout in Lake Michigan, according to Gene Mason of Charlevoix, coordinator of the federal government's effort to rehabilitate lake trout in the Great Lakes.

City expects state help for anglers

CHARLEVOIX -- City officials feel confident they will have toilet, boat launching and parking facilities at the Ferry Ave. beach before the fishermen start arriving in the late summer of 1969, Mayor Bill Fochtman told a Chamber of Commerce committee last week.

Fochtman told the Project Cobo Committee the city expects the state and federal governments to provide 90% of the funds for development of the Ferry Ave. site into a major facility for fishermen. He said there is a chance the city will get the grant this year, but he is sure it will be received by the spring of 1969.

LAKE CHARLEVOIX'S first major summer run is not expected until the late summer of 1969, which allows time for work at the site before the fishermen arrive.

The city's tentative plan, Fochtman said, calls for toilets, parking for from 150 to 200 cars and boat trailers and two additional boat launching ramps.

He said sewage from the toilet buildings would be pumped up the hill to the septic tank system at the city garage.

Committee Chairman Dave Juller suggested persons using the launching ramp be asked to make a donation. A sign informing fishermen that the launching facilities are made possible through their contributions might bring donations, Juller said.

The possibility of charging fishermen for launching was also discussed.

Open house set at fish station

CHARLEVOIX -- The Conservation Dept. will hold open house Thursday, May 2, at the fish hatchery here to give the public an official welcome to the new Charlevoix Lake Fisheries Station and the new 60-foot survey boat, the Steelhead.

Top-level Conservation Dept. officials are expected to informally dedicate the station and the boat during a brief program, starting at 2 p.m. Mayor Bill Fochtman will be master of ceremonies. The public is invited.

FOLLOWING The promised short speech-making, tours of the hatchery and Steelhead are planned. Refreshments will be served.

The hatchery, the oldest on Lake Michigan, was turned over to the state from the federal government last year. More than a million coho and rainbow are now being raised in it.

The primary mission of the station and the boat is to obtain and coordinate information and management planning for development of sport fishing on all of the Great Lakes. Station chief is Myrl Keller.

The Steelhead is expected to leave Escanaba for her maiden voyage later this month, with skipper Bill Palmer in command.

VOLUNTEER FIRE fighter Jack Mott -- who also serves as a City Councilman -- turns a hose on the Loch School Rd. trailer home that burned last Wednesday, leaving a mother and three children homeless. The mother, Mrs.

Helen Stalnbrook was treated at Little Traverse Hospital, Petoskey, for minor burns and shock. Her three children, ages three to six, were not injured. The trailer is owned by Tom Dillon.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

Bits from Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors Regular Meeting, April 2. Present were Charles Cary, Don Kowble, Lyle Miles, Dave Bultman, Don Sheets, and Al Smith. Absent were Tom Gatto, John Schroeder, and Ralph Hies.

Minutes taken by yours truly, secretary - manager. Minutes of March 5 regular meeting were approved, secretary - manager reported on office activities, also reported on progress of new enlarged lodging place brochure, so called, replacing about a four year old issue. To include in this fine piece was recommended our food shipments as they are allied with lodging. After some pro and con it was motioned by Kowble, seconded by Bultman, all in favor, therefore, the new brochure, we hope, will include our dining rooms and restaurants' ads.

The report indicated also that in addition to usual mail we are receiving and have been for about three months, again where from five or six to as much as 14 pieces of mail daily covering a wide variety of inquiries and requests of our nature or another all having to do with vacationing in Charlevoix this summer. Very encouraging isn't it?

Also reported was the writer's findings in connection with the 1968 publication of our beautiful Charlevoix Souvenir Book. The directors,

In view of the fact there is lack of ready funds for many to contact one or two local persons who have a background in advertising, to assist getting advertising for this book. If all goes well, we hope to have another book available by Venetian Festival time.

There seemed to have been much concentration on programming and planning the 1968 Venetian Festival, and ideas were compared for fund raising for this event. Thus far the affair looks very promising.

There was favorable report from Kowble having to do with the Venetian Festival Queen phase of the affair. The Queen's committee are making steps toward the event. It is expected details will be accomplished and something exact reported at our next meeting.

Don Sheets, chairman of Chamber's brochure on Charlevoix, reported and displayed a sample worked out with Don Miles. It appears not overdone and should prove a good piece of much needed material. There again cost becomes the big question and there was discussion on how to proceed. That is in the making now and also will be reported at next meeting. At this stage of affairs, it was necessary for much discussion comparing ideas pro and con after which there was no further business, the meeting was adjourned approximately 9:30 p.m.

Thursday evening, April 4, the Project Cobo Committee meeting was held at the Chamber office. Three members were absent, however, there was over a quorum and the meeting proceeded. It was interesting to note through Mayor Focchini and Jim Taylor, the city has already begun steps for their involvement of certain things which eventually will be necessary in this new fishery potential.

Clarence Babach, Charlevoix Township Supervisor, also on the Committee, had an interesting report having been to a meeting with certain authorities with Jim Taylor at Traverse City, recently and also brought up efforts he is continuing with our city for expansion of the Bells Bay Camp Site area, which he looks good and is necessary.

A wide variety of phases of involvement all the way from charter boating, boat launching ramps, parking, sanitation, and what have you, were all discussed very intelligently and it appears overall, the needs are becoming channeled and there are efforts of coordination in evidence. There is no doubt but what our area will be somewhat involved in this new fishery this year but definitely in full swing by 1970. It seems likely a long way off, however, time passes rapidly and it is hoped the needs will be met with in time so as to profit economically rather than to still and allow these extra dollars to go elsewhere. There was considerably discussion and having no further business, the meeting was adjourned at approximately 9:30 p.m.

In the Boyne Citizen paper dated March 28 and the East Jordan News, same date, there was noticed articles having to do with Chamber of Commerce in both cities. It was attracted also by columns in the East Jordan sheet headed "Chamber Chatter". Good Luck you guys and gals of both Chambers. It was good to have these communications.

Unfortunately we have no letters as yet for Charlevoix Chamber, Michigan West Program, May 19-25. Here's hoping!

It has been recently called to the writer's attention a

The Family Night dinner last Sunday evening, much fun was had by everyone later with the Cake Walk by the Sunday School, which netted them $21. We wish to thank each and everyone for their cooperation.

Mearle Scott reports that the Porch fishing is excellent and also some nice Steelhead are being caught. Our lake is free of ice but there is still plenty in Lake Michigan. But with a few days of 52 degrees like this Sunday it can't last too long.

Mrs. Elma Kern of Boyne City was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Deane Saturday.

We will have our annual Easter Service next Sunday morning. The Children Program will be at 10:30 a.m. There will be no regular Sunday School. The Easter Egg Hunt will follow the regular Service and coffee will be served to the waiting adults.

Have you invited any of your friends to church recently? You should try it. You might be surprised at the results.

Most of the docks would be floating and would extend a maximum of 166 feet into the lake.

The docks would be bordered by property owned by Greg Boswell and Ken Slough.

Any person desiring to express and opinion regarding the proposed docks must do so in writing to the Corps in Detroit, P.O. Box 1027, before May 3.

A couple of times (maybe their own cars and got their fenders scraped or dented) that it seems to them a good idea for road signs to be erected conspicuously and simple distance away from so-called North Hill and South Hill, US 31 and for Michigan Avenue and Bridge St., indicating the two lane flow of traffic being reduced to one. These warning signs are a courtesy and might well be, what do you think?

The writer is pleased to report that since making in-voice to the membership, registered as such, we have received quite a number of checks for 1968 membership dues and membership contributions. This is very gratifying and is appreciated. Thank you.

WE MUST SEEK THE TRUTH

Constantly in search of the TRUTH the scientist takes nothing for granted. Each "hearsay," each theory, is tested and tried and accepted or discarded on the condition that it proves true or false. The true scientist never jumps to conclusions, consequently you will never hear him proclaiming the self-sufficiency of man—that man needs no spiritual power.

The Church is also a center for the search and dispensation of truth in things other than the material, the things one cannot discern by the physical senses. If each of us would be free we must know the truth and if each of us is active in the work of the church that fits our needs "We Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make Us Free."

Ellsworth village has balance at end of year

ELLSWORTH--The village ended its fiscal year Feb. 29 with a $25,732 balance in various general fund accounts and a $24,387 water department balance, according to the annual financial report.

During the fiscal year--March 1, 1967 to Feb. 29, 1968--all general fund accounts received a total of $31,611. Total disbursements were $26,997.

WATER DEPARTMENT expenditures during the last fiscal year totaled $3,822. Receipts totaled $5,847.

The general fund accounts had a balance of $21,118 at the end of February last year. There was a $25,732 balance in the water fund at the end of February 1967.

The general operating fund had receipts of $15,542. Of this $8,990 came from property taxes, $2,805 was received in sales tax returns and $1,477 came from the Sinks Township as its share of fire department expenses.

Major general fund expenses included $1,391 to Levi

Donaldson, village marshal; $2,438 to Consumers Power Co. for city lights; $601 to the R.A. Campbell Agency for insurance and $736 for fire department expenses.

Chest sets budget meet

CHARLEVOIX--The Charlevoix Community Chest will hold its annual budget and admissions meeting at the County Building Tuesday, April 24, at 7 p.m., according to Mrs. Don Anders, executive secretary.

Representatives of the agencies which receive funds from the Community Chest will present their budgets and requests for the coming year to the Community Chest Board.

New agencies wishing to join the Chest should contact Mrs. Anders for an appointment.

Following the budget and admissions meeting, the board will set the budget for the 1968 drive.

Last year the Chest budget was $14,870, of which $12,027 was allocated to 12 local health and community service agencies. The balance was distributed to state and national agencies, with a small percentage set aside to cover collection expenses.

Boyne tannery told to halt pollution

BOYNE CITY--The state has ordered the Howes Leather Co. tannery here to quit polluting Lake Charlevoix. The company, however, may get as long as two years to halt its contamination of the lake, a state official said.

Frank Vining of the Water Resources division of the Conservation Dept. said Howes Leather Co. officials were called to Lansing late last month and given a timetable to meet in curbing its pollution.

THE TANNERY, Vining said, has for years flushed solid wastes (including particles of animal hides and hair) and dyes into Lake Charlevoix. Citizens have for years confirmed this and complained to the Water Resources Commission, which only recently became part of the Conservation Dept.

The company, Vining said, was ordered to have an engineer hired by July 1 of this year to begin designing a system to halt the pollution. A preliminary report from the engineer is due by Jan. 1, 1969 and a final report is due March 1, 1969.

Vining said the company was given no deadline to meet in stopping pollution. He said it could be as long as two years from now.

Water pollution study made at Morweld plant

ELLSWORTH--Acting on citizen complaints, state water pollution detectives have started inspecting the Morweld Steel Products Corp. plant here.

George Liddle of the Water Resources Division of the Conservation Dept. told the Courier he has already made one inspection of the plant's drainage outlets to Ellsworth Lake.

His first inspection, Liddle said, revealed no direct contamination of the lake.

Coho hitting for Indiana fishermen

Indiana fishermen last week were catching two to three pound coho on "almost anything," according to Lee Moffitt, biologist at the Great Lakes Fisheries Station in Charlevoix.

Moffitt was sent to Indiana to collect data on the coho fishing for the station. He spent most of his time in Michigan City, Ind.

FISHERMEN ARE catching coho from piers with worms, spoons and other artificial baits, he said. Commercial fishermen are also taking coho in nets under tight control by the Indiana Conservation

The young coho, which will gain as much as 18 pounds between now and September, have been feeding on fresh water shrimp and are just starting to feed on alewife, Moffitt said.

Charlevoix Courier, Wednesday, April 10, 1968 Page 7

Plan to curb pollution from East Jordan plant

EAST JORDAN--At least two state agencies are now reported working with the East Jordan Iron Works Co. to stop air and water pollution.

George Liddle of the Water Resources division of the Conservation Dept. last week said his agency is concerned about water pollution from the plant. Earlier, the Michigan Health Dept. said it is asking that the plant halt its air pollution. Liddle said no direct cause of water pollution from the plant has been found, but that contaminants from the plant's air pollution reach the water.

Womens Guild Plans Rummage

The Bethany Lutheran Womens Guild held its April meeting at the home of Mrs. Robert Mialson. Plans were made for the Rummage Sale planned for April 25. Mrs. Mialson and Mrs. William Ormsby were surprised with a baby shower after the refreshments were served.

ARMY Private First Class Joseph A. Kortan, Jr., son of Joseph F. Kortan of East Jordan, was assigned as an armor crewman with the 2nd Infantry Division in Korea.

Clothing co-op aids area's poor families

The War on Poverty's clothing co-operative is reported to be providing a success in helping economically handicapped families.

The cooperative is set up in a room of the old Petoskey City Hall, where the four-county anti-poverty agency has its headquarters.

According to Janet Dunnette, Charlevoix County anti-poverty director, there are large quantities of good quality used clothing on hand at the cooperative. Families who can afford to pay are asked to. Those who can't are given the clothing.

Persons wishing to donate serviceable used clothing should call Miss Dunnette at Boyce City 582-6261.

Ironton's Rich-Wick Ranch proves farming can still be profitable

by KAY MAUER
IRONTON--Why is raising beef cattle becoming a more progressive enterprise in this period when farming is becoming more a part of Charlevoix County's history than it is a present day reality?

Ralph and Beth Richardson seem to have the answer. Richardson is a college graduate who worked in Lansing as an aircraft mechanic at the Capitol City Airport before starting his Rich-Wick Ranch here in 1962.

The Rich-Wick Ranch is a beautiful rolling 350 acre ranch which supports 120 adult whiteface Hereford cattle and approximately 12 yearling heifers. There are four registered Hereford bulls which keep the herd growing.

This spring the ranch has 80 new calves with approximately eight or ten more expected during the next few weeks. During calving time the Richardsons make their rounds about every two hours to be sure the expectant mothers those animals which are taken into quarters where they can be helped if necessary even if assistance is not needed, the cow has her calf are kept inside for 24 hours to make sure that the new animal is strong enough and has been washed and had a feeding from its mother.

New calves are ear tagged within a two day period in order to make identification easier and to keep new calves with the rightful mothers. The tags allow the Richardsons to keep track of which cows have good calves, which ones have trouble at calving time and, most important, which animals must be replaced in order to keep a healthy and productive range of stock.

The new calves graze on lush green summer pasture from now until fall, at which time they will be taken to market by large cattle trucks which can handle as many as 100 head of cattle at a time. At the time of sale to feeder yards the new calves will weigh between 500 to 600 pounds.

A great deal of hay is necessary for the adult cows to maintain a good weight through the winter months. The Richardsons cut 270 acres of hay from their ranch and maintain 80 acres as good pasture. After a first cutting of hay is taken off the 270 acres then the cattle are systematically placed on this 270 acres to continue pasturing through the last of the summer months and on through the fall season.

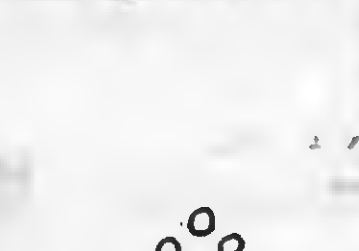

Mr. and Mrs. Richardson work hard on their ranch but yet they have time to play with some of the new calves and bottle feed any abandoned by their mother. Sometimes there are problems with a cow catching cold or having trouble with a calf so it helps to have a bit of "knew how", which according to the Richardsons' come with the experience of working closely with the herd.

According to Richardson, "the beef farm is here to stay", at least as far as he and his wife are concerned.

Tops at CMU

More than 1,200 Central Michigan University students have been named to the Scholastic Honor List for the fall semester. Achieving a straight "A" average from this area was Don J. Cuzick of Boyce City. Those receiving scholastic honors were: Roger C. Fausak and Don J. Guzik of Boyce City; James C. Curtis, Betty J. Klooster, Nancy Carol Novak, and Dherrel K. Pearsall of Charlevoix; Ward Duane Cole, Marjorie S. Blatter, Charles H. Reed, and Annette M. Schenck of East Jordan.

Discrimination in medicine

by WALT ORLOWSKI

Courier Columnist
Discrimination in the field of human rights is slowly and painfully losing ground as common sense and decency begin to awaken us to the damage prejudice has done to a nation and its people.

The field of medicine is no exception.

For years doctors of osteopathy have felt the heavy hand of discrimination laid upon them by doctors of medicine.

The MD cry of inferior training and quackery seemed too much for the DO's to overcome. However, a man's determination to fight for what he believes is right and just is a thing to be reckoned with.

The Negro is proving this. So is the DO.

The Rip Van Winkle of Canaan County, The Flint Journal, finally awakened its editorial mind and pages to MD and public official discrimination of DO's by supporting the osteopaths a couple of weeks ago.

The outburst came about because a county committee refused again, by a close vote, to allow DO's to practice at a public hospital.

The Journal is beginning to think maybe taxpayers are entitled to their right of the services of a physician of their own choosing in a hospital they built.

A bill has been introduced in the State Legislature which would compel tax-supported hospitals to allow both branches of medicine to practice in them.

The State Board of Education got brave for a brief spell, too, by appointing a committee to study and recommend plans for a state-supported college for DO's. The last report, however, is that they suddenly chickened out again by putting the whole thing on ice.

In fact the apathy of the State Board of Education is so pathetic that even when the State Legislature considers educational bills and appropriations, it doesn't seek their advice.

Citizens said in favor of Jordan merger

EAST JORDAN -- An informal poll of citizens in both school districts reportedly shows residents of Boyne City and East Jordan favor merging their schools.

The two school boards last week announced the poll showed citizens about three to one in favor of the proposed merger.

In East Jordan the poll reportedly found 636 persons favoring merger and 197 opposed. In Boyne City district 519 were found in favor to 153 opposed.

Winds halt traffic, fun at Ironton

IRONTON -- High winds early this week brought transportation and excellent trout fishing to a halt at Ironton.

The Ironton Ferry quit running Monday due to the winds, which whipped the South Arm with gusts reported at 30 mph, then 50 mph per hour. The ferry started running Friday, April 5, nine days earlier than its April 14 opener last year.

Excellent catches of rainbow trout and perch were reported being taken near the ferry before the wind forced it to a halt at Ironton.

editorials Bells Bay Road

A MEETING OF THE minds of the County Road Commission, Modusa Portland Cement Co. and Charlevoix Township Board is in order before summer so that something can be done to upgrade the road into Bells Bay state forest campground.

cepted the road as adequate for normal auto use.

However, Modusa later decided to open its shale mine near Ellsworth and truck heavy loads of stone into the South Point plant over its new road.

Phillips does not feel the county should spend taxpayers' money to upgrade the road for heavy truck traffic. Since it was Modusa's original responsibility and agreement to build a satisfactory road, Phillips feels it should not put up a major share of the money to improve the road so it can stand up under the use for which it was not intended.

BEFORE MEDUSA, Bells Bay could be reached by the lake shore road, which was usually in good shape, or by the old dump road, which was seldom in good shape. Modusa cut off the shoreline access. It agreed to replace the dump road with the new road.

Road Commission Chairman Ivan Phillips reports Medusa did not build the road for heavy truck traffic. Though Phillips wasn't on the commission at the time, he understands that Medusa told road commissioners there would be no truck traffic on the new road. On this assumption, the county ac-

THE ROAD COMMISSION, however, is not denying any responsibility for the project, Phillips points out. If Medusa and Charlevoix Township will come across with what the commission feels is a fair share, an attempt will be made to obtain state or federal matching funds.

The public is not as concerned with the specifics of any agreement or compromise with Medusa. But the closing of the South Point road was a major loss for which it deserves consideration at least in the form of a decent road to Bells Bay.

Equal vote

DEHARDS in local government have lost their final round over equality of representation. The Courier said to the U.S. Supreme Court's decision last week bringing about their downfall as long overdue.

The original misconception that allowed county boards of supervisors to be made up of one representative from each township, no matter how much population the township has, should never have been tolerated. It violates every concept of our country's constitution.

Likewise, there is no justification, except lack of motivation, for the city of Charlevoix's wards to be grossly mal-apportioned.

BUT THE CHARLEVOIX County Board is one of the nation's greatest examples of this inequality of citizenship. This is best seen in the contrast between Poaline Township (on Beaver Island) having one supervisor for its 34 persons and the Second Ward of Charlevoix having one supervisor for its more than 1,000 persons (figures based on 1960 census). The Courier cannot believe any fair-minded citizen can rationalize such inequality of representation.

Persons who continue to express the argument that because the U.S. Senate has two members from every state, regardless of population, the framers of the constitution recognized the need to represent area as well as people are--and always have been--negligent in studying the constitution.

The two-senators-per-state compromise was reached because each of the original 13 states came into the "United" States as what amounted to independent nations. Much as if Canada and the U.S. were to merge into one country today.

No other body of government in this country has ever had such independent status. For instance, counties, townships and cities have always been a sub-unit of the state, or the state's parent territory.

THUS THERE HAS never been any constitutional argument for area being considered in drawing representative districts for the U.S. or Michigan House of Representatives, Michigan Senate, county boards or city wards.

It took the U.S. Supreme Court a long time to get around to its landmark decisions demanding one-man-one-vote representation on all levels. A simple study of the minutes and notes of the constitutional convention held by the colonies should have made this the law of the land since 1787.

If local governing bodies should persist in their failure to comply with this nearly 200-year-old document we can only suggest local citizens take the matter to court.

Ellsworth gets break

MORWELD STEEL Products of Ellsworth is going to earn the thanks of all local people and hundreds of vacationers for its decision (announced elsewhere in this week's Courier) to beautify its water front area. According to George Liddle, state water pollution enforcement officer, Morweld executives told him they were planning on the beautification plan before it was proposed by the state.

The Morweld waterfront has for years been an eyesore. In the pressure of industrial growth and competition it is understandable that company executives found other matters which required higher priority. However late the hour may be, it is not too late.

ELLSWORTH CAN EARN its place as one of Michigan's most charming rural villages with only a small injection of community pride. The business district, indeed, needs dressing up. But we feel sure that business and civic leaders will deal with this chore when they see that the community's major blot is being removed.

The village's scenic setting amidst wooded hills and along the shore of two lakes gives it all the natural assets any community could seek. All that's required to make it a first-rate beauty spot is for its citizens to show their respect for what Nature has bestowed them. Morweld is showing the way.

North becoming oasis of peace

Few of us realize how directly Charlevoix County's future is being changed by the hatred and violence of the senses of people in the big cities. Thousands of people in Detroit, Grand Rapids, Chicago and elsewhere are looking for a way to escape north. Hundreds, and maybe thousands, are finding a way.

As near as I can put the pieces together from scattered bits of information many of the new homes which will be built in the county this summer will be for people retreating from the anxiety that is taking over the cities.

If MY DITS AND pieces make any sense, observations valid, couples fleeing the cities fall in two major categories: 1) Young family people who are willing to sacrifice some income to save their children from the violence of the cities and 2) Couples in the middle-age who have raised their families and are willing to retire early. Again admitting my facts are mighty sketchy, it looks as though couples in their 30s and 40s are the least likely to leave the cities, maybe because they are at critical points in their careers and are deeply mortgaged.

This is not a prediction that the north will be overrun by a mass exodus from the cities.

These are people, I emphasize, who only a year ago would not under any conditions move north. Now they are desperate to bring their families to our oasis of peace; even if it means some loss of income. Nature's wonders and the chance to fish, hunt and boat mean nothing to these people. They are creatures of what they consider a sophisticated urban society; but the sophistication has now been stripped away, leaving a savage insanity.

TIME AND AGAIN in recent weeks I have been stunned to hear friends and relatives from the Detroit area reveal experiences and fears. They are not people who jump at shadows. But they tell of direct and indirect threats from Negroes to go on an armed rampage, killing white citizens. They tell of the future holds.

The nightmare which has become a living reality for these people is impossible for those of us who live in Charlevoix and never lock our homes or cars to grasp. How can we believe that within the borders of our own state parents are afraid to send their children to school, basketball games, playgrounds or to the corner drugstore in the middle of the day?

If our politicians do not quell this horror it will someday sweep up US-31 and be in our streets. That someday may be a long way away. But it is a definite someday. We must be concerned. -- SIEP.

Politicians cause of insanity

by GLEN SHEPPARD
The murder of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. failed to excite the same emotions that it did the commentators and politicians.

I felt no personal sorrow due to Dr. King's family loss. If I were to take such things too much to heart I would long ago have thrown myself off the breaker after reading the casualty figures telling me how many truly gallant and heroic American patriots are being sacrificed to political and economic greed in Vietnam.

THE AMERICAN working people have been more than generous in their contributions to end slums and poverty and create equal opportunity. Most of us contribute several months wages every year to give those who work less a chance to better themselves.

THE FAILURE of some of our citizens to rise above their environment is not due to lack of concern or sacrifice by the majority of Americans. We have demonstrated this by paying billions of dollars in taxes to aid the poor (black, white, red, brown). (The devil take do-gooders and self-seeking reformers who thrive on spouting hatred to the contrary.)

So the fault only can be that of the politicians and bureaucrats who suck the top out of our only checks,

TO SUGGEST we should pour more money (higher taxes) down this rat hole is a grotesque insult. It is the only thing the billions we have spent had bought us is the plugging of our cities and murder of innocent children who should believe more money will do anything but add to the tenure and power of those who have bilked us for decades?

Of course, the answer is to elect sincere and capable politicians. But even this has become impossible.

Working class men and women who do comprehend the country's sickness and are competent to unseatify deal

My frustration and that of most other American Americans is like that of a doctor who has diagnosed a fatal disease but has no cure for it. The tragedy is that in this case the patient is very dear--to our country.

CAMPERS and vacationers enjoying Ellsworth's village park now have their view of what could be a scenic northwoods village marred by this scene at Morweld Steel Products directly across Ellsworth Lake from the park. The view will improve in the near future. Morweld has told state officials it will soon remove the piles of rusting iron and other debris and landscape the waterfront area.

Army pal's woes revive memories

by Jim Fitzgerald

Courier Columnist

A phone rang from out of the past, reminding me I haven't always been married. It just seems that way.

The same call reminded my wife she didn't actually marry me so much as she saved me. She didn't wear a wedding veil, she wore a Salvation Army cap. Her dream, from the day we met, was to move with me into a vine-covered Rescue Mission we could call our own.

The phone call was from Jerry Smith (name changed to protect the guilty and avoid a lawsuit). He was 2 classes behind me at St. Stephen High in Port Huron many years ago. After World War II, he was 2 classes ahead of me at the AHSB Bar.

Tom was the first of us to marry. He was also the first to go to jail for more than overnight--on payment of alimony--and he was the first to die. In an auto wreck. If he were still alive today, Tom would probably still be somewhat of a bum. And I would still like him.

Which, I guess, is what this column is all about.

Old buddy Jerry phoned because he'd hit trouble driving through my town. He'd been in 10 on heavy Sunday mornings (I've got the bluish) to 25 on jumping Saturday nights when nobody could get a date.

Many of us attended high school, if classes could be arranged so as not to interfere with the cocktail hour (3 p.m. to last call). Some of us looked for jobs. (I've been sitting on this stool all day and not one job has walked by). All of us lived on public funds--unemployment pay, GI Bill, insurance rebate or muckering out pay. There were even a couple of amateurs who bought more drinks than the other heroes, because they got bigger checks every month.

Which reminds me of my special buddy, Tom. He left most of his right finger on two Jims. Tom used to stick his finger stump up his nose, or in his ear, and stifle the devil out of innocent passersby.

So anyway, folks, I saw the sheriff and I saw the justice of the peace. I lost Jerry's car and money and offered him the use of my razor. It turned out I was right. He is a steady worker with a fine family and this was his first brush with the law, ever. I shall leave it to a higher court to decide if he was a drunk driver that one night. Certainly he was a conchie, grateful man the next morning and I was glad to help him a little. If I ever stub my toe in Port Huron I'll know who to phone after my mother hangs up on me.

I bid Jerry farewell (Just show me those lousy city limits) on a Saturday morning. That afternoon my wife and I attended an international Girl Scout fiesta at a huge field house in Flint. Our middle daughter, klempling in wooden shoes, was somewhere among those thousands of squealing girls and leading leaders. As a sudden inspiration, I made a naive toast.

"You know," I told my wife, "I'm the only man in this place, I must be losing my mind."

"It's better than hanging around the AHSB bar with Jerry and the boys all Saturday afternoon like you used to do, isn't it?" she asked, and I could almost hear her tambourine rattle, ye are saved, brother.

That made me think, really, think about how marriage has enriched my life and changed my Saturdays. I could give her a different answer.

"No," I answered.

Onward and upward.

Citizens ponder readiness should rioting come north

By GLEN SHEPPARD
Could racial unrest in Michigan, Ohio and Illinois cities reach into the Charlevoix area?

Most officials "doubt rioting will attack north country towns, even during the height of the riot season. But many area policemen seem almost resigned to the fact the north will suffer from the strife in the metropolitan areas."

If it did happen, how would it happen?

Perhaps, some policemen say, several carloads of rioters would speed up major highways, making flash runs on towns. They could have burning buildings and even injured and dead citizens behind them.

Another possibility is that they would infiltrate into small towns in groups of two or three and then unite to start violence.

The flash raids, most police seem to feel, would be the easiest to deal with. State Police are sure they would be forewarned of such a threat and could organize roadblocks to stop it.

If the attackers came from several directions, however, the area would be weak in police manpower. Last week less than a half-dozen State Police were on duty at the Petoskey post, due to the riot threats to dominate cities. Only local police and Sheriff's deputies could be expected to be available if the rioters came north.

Area Sheriff's departments and city police are now studying an emergency plan to pool manpower and firepower in a threatened area. Police and prosecutors started working on this plan after the area was left with a weakened State Police force during last summer's riots.

The COOPERATIVE plan, however, would be of little value if rioters struck in several communities at once.

It's success will also depend on the leadership experience and knowledge local police and deputies have in controlling, deploying and directing men and firepower.

A State Police official last week told the Courier he cannot foresee police calling on civilians to aid them under such circumstances.

Charlevoix city police, however, have several laymen who assist them in certain police duties; these men might be used.

Though some city policemen have "not the record," mention the existence of a plan to mobilize citizens to enforce road blocks sealing off the city, no official confirmation of this has been given.

DURING LAST WEEK'S new outbreak of violence in the cities, Charlevoix area citizens were again, informally speculating on how well their communities are prepared should the rioters head north and what they, as individuals, might be called on to do if they should.

Most responsible and informed officials, however, doubt the threat will ever spread north of Muskegon and Bay City.

Boats to get sewage tanks

CHARLEVOIX -- The city yacht basin and private marinas on Round Lake will need facilities for pumping sewage from holding tanks on boats by the spring of 1970, according to Dick Granger of the Michigan Water Resources Commission.

After January 1970, Granger said, holding tanks on boats in Michigan waters will be required to have sewage holding tanks or be the incinerator type.

The commission adopted the new regulation at its February meeting and gave guidelines and marinas until Jan. 1, 1970 to comply.

The new rule "provides that all watercraft equipped with marine toilets for use in the water must be equipped with pollution control devices listed in the rule as the holding tank type or the incinerator type," Granger said.

Several incinerator type toilets, similar to those used on airplanes and trailers, are being offered for use on boats. These, reportedly, reduce all sewage to ash before it is discharged into the water.

Granger said the Michigan Waterways Commission is "preparing engineering plans and specifications to equip the state-owned marina facilities with pump-out equipment" for boats with holding tanks.

Charlevoix's city yacht basin was built partially with Waterways Commission funds, thus it is technically considered state-owned and is expected to qualify for assistance in installing the pump-out facilities.

Lake trout

This year, Mason said another 1.9 million lake trout will be planted in Lake Michigan. Of these 50,000 will be planted off the coast in the Pine River hatchery in Charlevoix. Another 100,000 will be planted in Little Traverse Bay, in 1969 and again last year, Mason said, 100,000 young lake trout were planted at Charlevoix.

The average size of the trout will be six inches when they are planted. They will all come from the Jordan River hatchery, which is also under Mason's jurisdiction. Approximately 7.4 million lake trout of various sizes are now being raised at the Jordan River hatchery, he said.

Toads unjustly accused of warts

Most of us, at one time or another, have watched with bewilderment and dismay, a wart grow into an unsightly large one or a solitary wart give rise to multiple ones.

Some try to remember the last time they touched a toad--the legendary cause of warts.

"The toad probably became the villain because his skin has a bumpy or 'wart' appearance," explains Prof. Donald J. Birmingham, acting chairman of the Dermatology Department at the Wayne State University School of Medicine.

"Now we know that a wart is caused by a virus. But we have not yet found positively what causes warts to appear."

ORDINARY WARTS are not malignant and do not become so. However, under some conditions, they appear to be contagious and to be transmitted from one person to another.

Scratching or picking at warts sometimes causes them to spread. They can also be spread by shaving over them or by brushing and combing the hair, if there are warts in the scalp.

"Statistics show," says Dr. Birmingham, "that adults are less likely to have warts than children. This fact may be due to an acquired immunity--a build-up of antibodies."

That occurs as a response to infection. The frequency of warts is greatest about the time of puberty and they can occur on any part of the skin. Dr. Birmingham points out. They most often appear, however, on the hands, fingers and one the soles of the feet. Those on the soles--plantar warts--cause the most trouble. Because of the pressure of shoes and walking, they are pushed inward instead of bulging outward, sometimes causing annoying pain.

"Common warts are not dangerous to health and about half of all types of warts eventually disappear even if untreated," continues Dr. Birmingham.

Dick Lyons, 60, Belvedere Ave., Charlevoix, the Mackinac Islander's skipper, has taken a new job as marine superintendent of a tug boat firm out of Bay City.

With Lyons at the wheel, the Mackinac Islander was carried out a place for itself in Great Lakes lore by risking dangerous seas to take virgin timber off wilderness islands and out of uncharted bays. The timber was used in the Mantoloking mill at Petoskey and Sault Ste. Marie.

Ernie Mantoloking, one of the partners in the mill, said the ship had to be laid up because the Petoskey mill burned last year and the firm has no immediate need for timber.

The Petoskey mill is expected to be back in operation by early summer, Mantoloking said. When the mill is running again, the firm will re-study its decision to lay up the boat, he said. It still has cut timber on Hog Island.

In 1957 the Mantoloking bought the ship, and with Lyons' purchase of a diesel freighter, requiring only a three-man crew. Considered the only tramp freighter left on the Great Lakes, the Mackinac Islander can carry 2,300 board feet of logs and often has a large, which more than doubles her load.

THE MACKINAC Islander ferry company retired her in 1956 in favor of new diesel-powered ferries.

CHARLEVOIX--Charlevoix is regaining its historic character as a Great Lakes commercial fishing center. Five working fish traps this spring make Charlevoix their home port.

This is the first time in nearly two decades that more than two fish traps have worked out of Charlevoix on a regular basis.

Jake and Chum White and John Cross, junior and senior, operated the only traps that fished out of Charlevoix year-in and year-out through the bleak days of the fishing season.

THE LAKE TROUT, Dufon said, are almost all fish planted in 1965 and are about 20 inches long and weigh between three and four pounds.

The lake trout are showing up in whitefish nets set in the shoal areas between Cross Village and the Beaver Islands, Dufon said. He said Cross and White have had good luck with whitefish in the area.

Produced by the Conservation Dept., the film reportedly centers on the fishing action off Mantoloking and Frankfort last fall.

The public is invited. The film starts at 8 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Great Lakes Fisheries Station chief Merv Keller of Charlevoix will be on hand to answer questions.

Mackinac Islander's Future in Question

County's roads getting sicker

The County Board of Supervisors last week received its annual "state of the roads" report from the Road Commission. The county has 172 miles of primary and 500 miles of local roads.

Hayes Township Supervisor John Sheehan Jr. said the county is losing ground by not doing sufficient maintenance work on roads.

IVAN Phillips, Supervisor of John Sheehan's Charlevoix Township, said the township had been neglected on maintenance and is resulting in these roads deteriorating. They pointed out, though, that all funds available for maintenance were used.

Answering complaints from supervisors that the Road Commission is not doing enough to improve roads, Phillips said the Commission had adopted a policy that it will build top-quality roads. (Actually, "building" a road in this case means improving an existing road to bring it up to a higher quality.)

He agreed these roads are expensive, saying the average cost for improving a mile of local road is about $10,000. This includes widening, new base and new surface.

LOCAL ROADS ARE built with township and Commission funds, usually on a 50-50 matching basis, Phillips said. The Commission will put no more matching money into local roads unless they are built to hold up under years of use.

In the past, Phillips said, many miles of substandard local road has been built, resulting in the maintenance problems the Commission now has.

Financially, the report shows the Commission is erasing the deficit that was accumulated several years ago. Phillips said he and the two other commissioners, Leo Summerville of East Jordan and William G. Northrup of Boyne City, inherited the deficit.

Last year the Commission spent $35,503 more than it took in. Fitzgerald said this is not as bad as it appears because some of this money was used to pay on the deficit and the Commission increased its equipment value by $35,000.

Commission spending for the year ended $529,588. Revenues totaled $493,385.

Major operating expenses included $146,221 for construction, $257,762 for maintenance and $37,604 for administration. Revenues came from $453,654 from the state and $39,385 from the township.

The Commission bought 14 pieces of new road maintenance and construction equipment, costing $150,789, during the year.

The Commission spent $102,299 on snow removal last year. The state paid $13,398 of this.

The report lists the Commission as having 40 employees.

Hayes Township is now second highest in valuation, with $10,079,750, most of it on the Blue Rock nuclear power plant. Until this year Hayes had the highest valuation in the county. Hayes' valuation increased $284,700 this year.

The city of Charlevoix's valuation increased $259,600 this year to $3,847,500. East Jordan's valuation increased $115,000 to $2,580,800. Boyne City's increased $547,875 to $7,269,725.

The 1968 taxable valuation of other townships, with the amount of increase in parentheses: Boyne, $2,212,375 ($35,075); Boyne Valley, $2,706,200 ($85,800); Chaudler, $221,850 ($5,940); Evansville, $1,775,380 ($62,600); Evette, $1,948,450 ($1,373,450); Hudson, $1,241,525 ($51,950); Marquette, $1,479,050 ($82,750); Midtown, $4,161,300 ($172,250); Norwood, $956,650 ($38,400); Petoskey, $656,225 ($37,450); St. James, $639,950 ($161,700); South Arm, $3,032,750 ($191,950); Wilson, $1,300,950 ($46,750).

Charlevoix Township now has the highest taxable valuation of any municipality in the county, at $13,564,600, or 18.1% of the total.

MOST OF THE district's increase comes from the nearly $6 million added to Medusa's valuation this year. The rest comes from lesser increases in the city of Charlevoix, Hayes, Norwood and Marquette townships.

Charlevoix school district's $25 million valuation per student compares to $12,000 in Boyne City, $12,000 in East Jordan and $11,000 in Boyne Falls. Walloon Lake's kindergarten through eighth grade school has $25,000 valuation per student. Beaver Island has just under $23,000.

Charlevoix Township now has the highest taxable valuation of any municipality in the county, at $13,564,600, or 18.1% of the total.

Taxable property valuation is figured on 90% of the estimated true cash value of property. To obtain the estimated true cash value, the estimated value is multiplied by 1.1.

THE report shows total cost of operating the ferry in 1967 was $26,276. Passengers paid $11,533 in tolls, leaving the $14,743 deficit.

TOLL COLLECTIONS included 25,500 tickets at 35-cents each and 652 books of tickets at $4 per book. The Commission reports the ferry carried 38,000 cars; which compared to 41,073 in 1966 and 34,383 in 1965.

Included in the $26,276 operating cost was $14,583 in salaries, $5,093 for hauling the ferry out for its every-fifth-year Coast Guard inspection; $2,141 for repairs; the loading ramp; $2,000 for re-

Even considering some of the things the state has attempted to do in reorganizing community school districts, it is doubtful it could ever make a merger of Beaver Island and a mainland school stick.

Obituary

Mrs. Seth LaValley
EAST JORDAN -- Mrs. Seth (Olive) LaValley, 77, died late Sunday, April 14, at the Grandview Hospital.

She was born Olive Guerin in Hudson township April 11, 1891 and had lived all her life in the East Jordan area.
The regional fair in East Jordan is the only one in the state with divisions for special education and vocational education projects, according to Vane Smith, Charlevoix High School shop teacher.

Survivors include: two daughters, Mrs. Lester (Mildred) Fales, East Jordan and Mrs. Mike (Irene) Dennis, of Flint; two sons, Donald Stokes, East Jordan and William Stokes, Midland; eight grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Thomas Whiteford, East Jordan and a brother, Arthur Guerin, of Vanderburg.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. from the Watson Funeral Home, Rev. Stanley Hayes will officiate and burial will be in Sunset Hill Cemetery.

She was a member of the Jasmine Rebekah Lodge.

Marriages

CHARLEVOIX -- County Clerk Pete Bulow's office reports the following marriages:

Delaney W. Glens, 18, Charlevoix to Peggy Lee Mousseau, 17, Charlevoix, and 6 months probation was issued; Ronald R. Pettit, 21, East Lake, Ohio, drinking and driving, $22.50.
Robert W. McClintock, 18, Petoskey to Barbara J. Holmes, 22, Ellsworth.
Lawrence Elsworth, 38, Charlevoix to Madonna R. Kesicki, 34, Charlevoix.
Thomas Otto Merritt, 16, Boyne City to Susan Louise Dunson, 16, East Jordan.

New at Woodshed

CHARLEVOIX -- Mrs. Lydia Nelson has taken over the management of the dining room and kitchen at the Woodshed. Lunches and dinners will be served everyday from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Boyer Has New Mayor

BOYNE CITY -- Keith Fitzpatrick is Boyne City's new mayor. He replaced Marvin Loring.
The Boyne Council elects a mayor from the group of councilmen.
The council appointed John Hawkes to replace Mel Meyer on the Board of Supervisors. Boyne's supervisors are appointed by the City Council, rather than elected.

Shop Students Display Work This Friday

EAST JORDAN -- East Jordan High School will host the regional industrial arts fair Friday, April 19, in the gym.

Thirty-five high schools, from Cadillac to the Straits, have been invited to enter their students' projects and displays in wood, metal, electricity and drafting. The winning entries will be on public display from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

First and second place winners will be entered in the state industrial arts fair at Muskegon April 25-27.

The regional fair in East Jordan is the only one in the state with divisions for special education and vocational education projects, according to Vane Smith, Charlevoix High School shop teacher.

College Rower

CHARLEVOIX -- Mark Cross, a junior at Grand Valley State College in Allendale, is a member of the Varsity crew of the Grand Valley State College Garsmen. All of the college's home races will be held on a 2,000 meter course on the Grand River in Grand Rapids.

Health Chief Moves Office To Gaylord

The Charlevoix County Building will no longer be headquarters for the district health department.

Dr. Robert S. Lipke, the health department's new director, is transferring his office to Gaylord, where he lives. The department serves Charlevoix, Antrim, Emmet and Otsego counties.

According to Leonard Nelson, Charlevoix County Board Health Committee chairman, all department offices operating out of the County Building here will continue to do so, with the exception of the director's.

Nelson told the County Board Dr. Lipke feels he is spending too much time driving between Gaylord and Charlevoix. He feels his time will be more effectively used if he maintains his office in Gaylord.

Farm women Plan Confab

Michigan Farm Bureau Women have scheduled Spring District meetings.

The District meeting for Antrim, Charlevoix, Choboy, Emmet and Otsego Counties is scheduled for April 26 at the Advance Board of Commerce Building from 10 to 3.

In the afternoon session, Miss Helen Alwood, coordinator women's activities, Michigan Farm Bureau, will speak on Associated County Women of the World Triennial Conference, which will gather about 5,000 delegates from 118 countries, states and provinces of Canada.

The club's next meeting will be held April 22 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

ENGAGED -- Mr. and Mrs. George Joachim of St. Clair, Michigan announce the engagement of their daughter, Linda Ann, to Mr. John E. Norton, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Norton of Charlevoix. The bride-elect attended the Business Institute of Detroit. Mr. Norton is a 1960 graduate of Charlevoix High School and a graduate of the Michigan State University of Agricultural and Mechanical Engineering. He is now employed by the Michigan State Highway Department. A September wedding is planned.

County Names
Mrs. Roy Raymer of Norwood and Mrs. Joseph Schwen of Boyne Falls were appointed to the County Library Board last week by the Board of Supervisors.

Mrs. Raymer was appointed to a five year term, replacing Mrs. Thomas Wieland, chairman, whose term expires.

Mrs. Schwen replaced Mrs. Erwin Lick, who resigned. Mrs. Schwen will serve out the rest of Mrs. Lick's term, which expires in April of 1972.

Other members of the Library Board are Mrs. Edward Thurston of Boyne City, Mrs. Harold Hamlin of Wailoun Lake and Mrs. William Grauel of East Jordan.

Can't Go Wrong on Route To Bellaire--All Scenic

By PAT SEGROW
Now that winter has finally left us, the roads are dry and the scenery is lovely. I think that a really lovely way to spend an evening is to drive to Bellaire.

About five o'clock on a sunny afternoon on the lakeshore and you can enjoy the drive whether you choose to travel to Lake Michigan-Torch Lake Road or drive along the shore of Intermediate Lake. The trip south toward East Jordan and then through the Jordan Valley to Bellaire is equally beautiful.

Library notes

Good reading for Anglophiles among the new fiction and biography books at the Public Library is to be found in these books, all of which take place in England. It's an Old Country, by J.B. Priestley. A novel that explores the feverish excitement, the decadence and the overwrought variety of "Swinging England". A young Australian comes to London seeking his long disappeared actor-painter father, and encounters head-on, the madness, the neurosis, the displacement that are modern Britain. Co. Sailed the Bird, by Geoffrey Cotterell. This also is a British novel, about the world of big business and upper-middle-class British society. Phil Torriani, a vain and ambitious young man thinks the way to achieve a place in the society he so admires, is to ingratiate himself with the members of the wealthy Milton family. He succeeds only in becoming their all-round handy man, indispensable, but more like part of their furniture or the floors they walk upon. The Delinquent Chacha, by Ved Mehta. This is the story of a rascally, improvident, unquenchable and ultimately enchanting middle-aged Indian who, deep in nostalgia now that India is independent, wants nothing so much as to turn himself into an English gentleman. He goes to England where he finds a "temporary" job as porter at the All-India Taj Mahal Curry, Chutney and Soup Restaurant. He has himself quietly outfitted in Regent Street, gets into trouble with the law for befriending his tailor, and defends himself in court with an eloquent mixture of Indian and British logic. With an Eye to the Future, by Osbert Lancaster. This is a continuation of an earlier autobiography "All Done From Memory". After preparatory school and Oxford, the Continent beckons to young

Osbert, with all its glamorous temptations, and London with its bright lights lures him. He finally decides in favor of studying art, in spite of the advice of a well-meaning uncle. "It's all very well drawing funny pictures, but it don't get you anywhere," Osbert Lancaster has achieved international recognition as a cartoonist and stage designer. The book is illustrated by the author. Quant by Quant, by Mary Quant. WE MUST SEEK THE TRUTH

Constantly in search of the TRUTH the scientist takes nothing for granted. Each "hearsay", each theory, is tested and tried and accepted or discarded on the condition that it proves true or false. The true scientist never jumps to conclusions, consequently you will never hear him proclaiming the self-sufficiency of man—that man needs no spiritual power.

The Church is also a center for the search and dispensation of truth in things other than the material, the things one cannot discern by the physical senses. If each of us would be free we must know the truth and if each of us is active in the work of the church that fits our needs "We Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make Us Free."

THE BEAVER ISLANDER looks like it might almost be swallowed by the gaping mouth of the bridge in Charlevoix as she leaves Round Lake for her first trip to the Island, Thursday, April 11.

PASSENGERS ARE greeted with enthusiasm as Islanders welcome the mailboat's first crossing from Charlevoix.

Easter hats arrive just in time

BEAVER ISLAND—What would you expect to find among the freight on the first boat of the year from the mainland?

Easter hats. Of course! And just in time, too.

The Beaver Islander left her berth at Charlevoix's City Dock at 12 noon, sharp, Thursday, April 11, for her 1,224th crossing between Charlevoix and St. James and her first crossing of 1968. She didn't return to the mainland until Monday.

So the Easter hat shipment could have been considered the most perishable item on board. However, the groceries, used furniture, building materials, propane gas, commercial fishing nets and other items in the cargo hold were also plenty welcome.

MOST WELCOME, though, was the blast of the Beaver Islander's whistle and the sight of the 96-foot ferry as skipper Lawrence McDonough eased her into her dock at St. James at 2:15 p.m., exactly. Swarms of kids and adults walked, trotted and ran down to greet their most tangible link with the dizzy mainland.

As the 16 passengers stepped ashore they were greeted with shouts and handshakes and with a kiss and hug here and there.

Almost as a body well-wishers and passengers moved to the Shamrock, where for an hour, or so, they kept Archie and Alvin LaFreniere busy, but the excitement was soon over. Small groups and couples broke away and headed home.

For another hour, or more, people were driving away from the dock with loads of freight.

BACK AT THE SHAMROCK, Archie and Alvin were filling the coolers with certain brands of beer they had been out of. Ten-cent bags of potato chips and other knick knacks, which had been in short supply, went on racks behind the bar.

There was a prefabricated metal martin house in Archie's load of freight that he immediately started putting together, scattering pieces across the bar room floor.

"One of those (martins) will eat 2,000 mosquitoes a day!" Archie proclaimed with almost savage delight. His birdhouse has accommodations for 12 pairs of martins. That's 48,000 mosquitoes a day.

The Beaver Islander this year made her first trip four days earlier than last April, when she made the first crossing April 15.

But despite her much-needed cargo and the warm greetings that met passengers and crew, Islanders did not meet the boat with the almost hysterical reception of former years.

The island is no longer as isolated from the mainland as it was once. Joe McPhillips flies passengers over almost daily during the winter. The island's economy, while maybe not booming, has improved greatly in the last half dozen years. People can afford the airplane trips across, and even an occasional Florida vacation.

THERE STILL ISN'T much of any way to make a truck in the winter, but winters are shorter, thanks to the comforts that can be purchased with the somewhat more plentiful dollars tourists leave in the summer.

One sign of the improving economy is a prediction by Archie LaFreniere that there will be as many as a dozen snowmobiles on the island next winter.

Other signs include start of construction of a new building for American Central Corp., land developers, next to the Post Office. Next month the sisters at Holy Cross and the school expect to see work start on their new home.

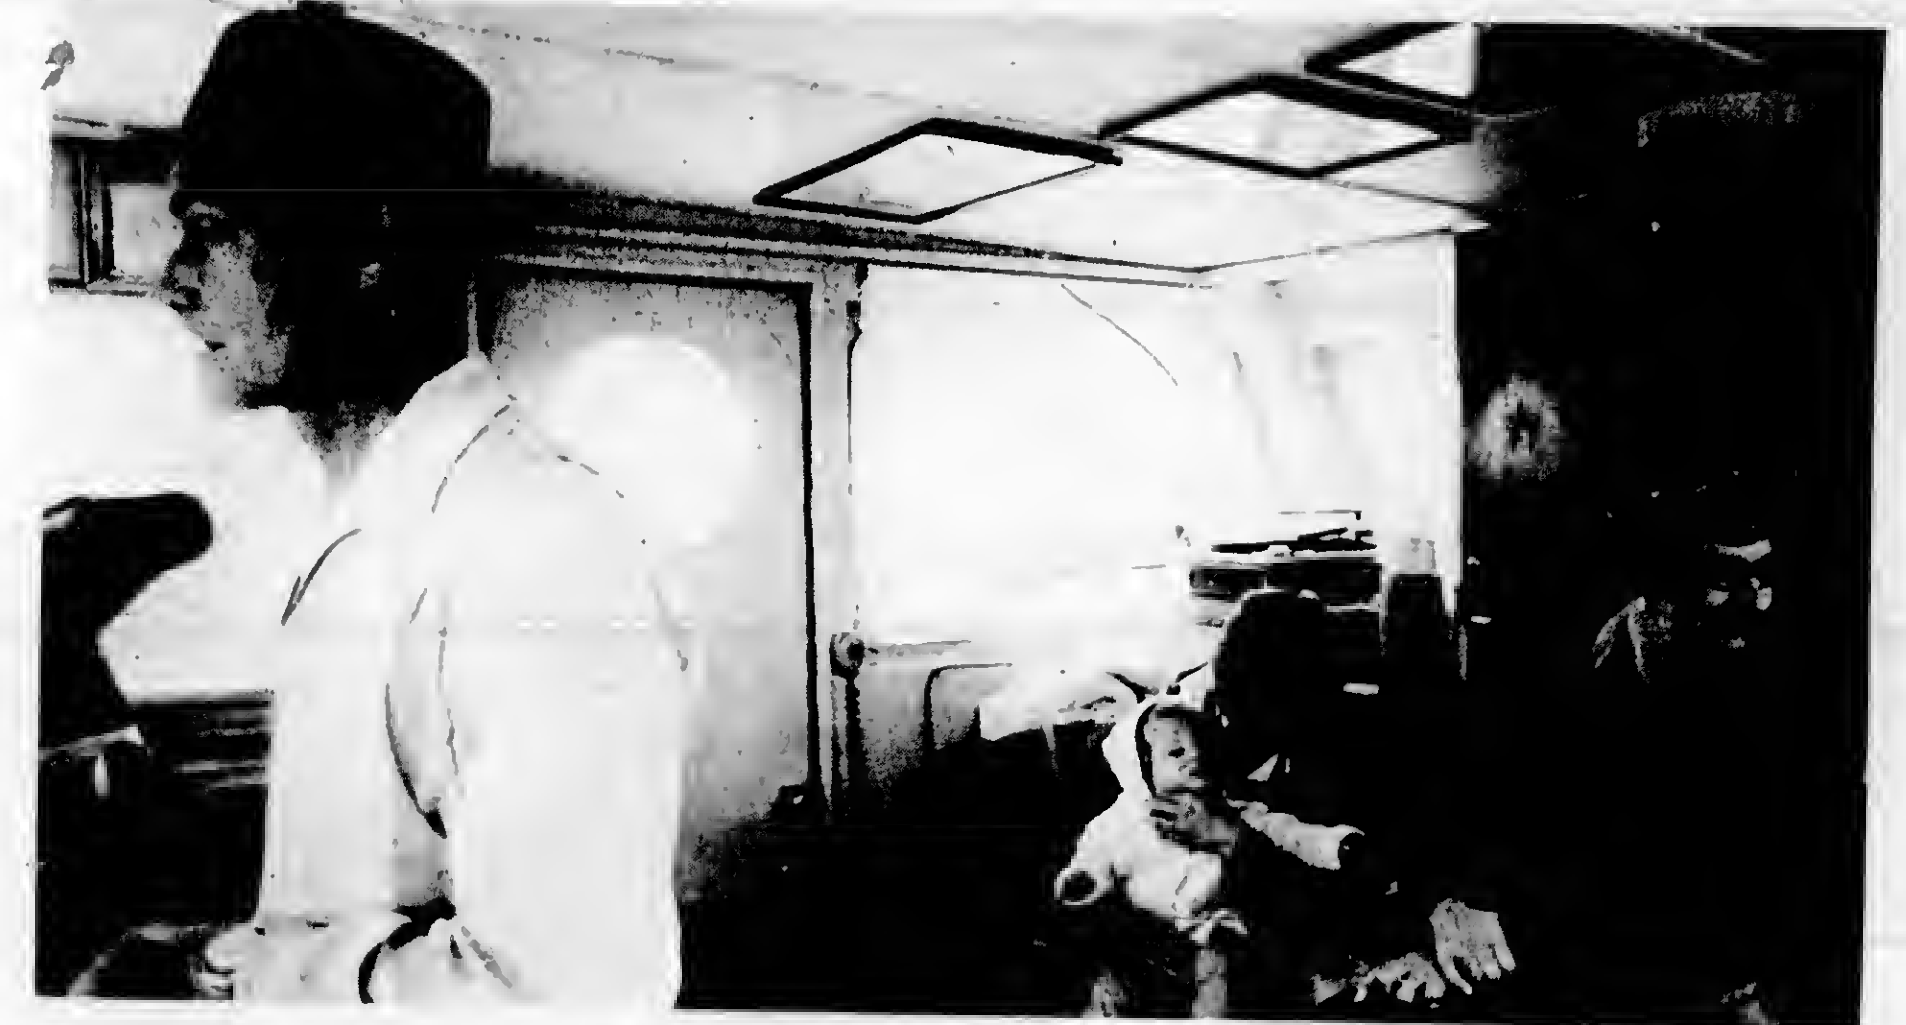

American Central has some 500 lots for sale on the island. Word is sales are mighty good. When down-laters get the urge for north country property as many as new DC's loads of prospective buyers to the island a day.

THE FIRST crossing of the year was so smooth several passengers had no trouble entertaining themselves with cards and other games.

THE 21-HOUR trip from Charlevoix to St. James is a fine time for parents and children to entertain each other.

SKIPPER LAWRENCE McDonough has made more than a thousand trips the Beaver Islander's wheel since she was put in service July 27, 1962.

Three passengers enjoy the comfort of the wheelhouse while he tends to the ship.

THERE'S ACCOMMODATIONS for 200 passengers in the twin-diesel powered, radar-equipped Beaver Islander. So the 16 who made the first crossing certainly weren't crowded, which gave them plenty of time to chat and recall other crossings. The weather held perfect

Predict Fewer Alewife Will Clutter Beaches

Lake Michigan's alewife die-off this summer is expected to be only about one-third or one-half that of last year, but for the most part, the nuisance fish could balloon again to large-scale proportions. In 1970, according to A. L. McLean, of the U.S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, the alewife die-off could be as bad as the 1967 die-off, which was the worst in the history of the fishery.

McLean pointed out that biological studies conducted by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources have shown that the alewife population is still high, but that the die-off is expected to be less severe than in previous years.

On the basis of that, he said, "I would be extremely unlikely that a die-off of last year's proportions will occur in 1968. In fact, I would predict that the die-off will be between one-third and one-half as serious as last year's."

On the darker side of this picture, the fisheries expert noted that the alewife problem may confront the Lake Michigan area with another massive clean-up chore in 1970 because last year's hatch of these fish was the third largest in history.

The Conservation Department view of the alewife problem for this summer is especially good news. In view of how the Lake Michigan clean-up program is taking shape, although the Department has made headway in dealing with the program, operations will be stepped up to deal with the clean-up in 1968 because of the fish shortage.

Among other things, the Department's plans for this summer are to develop a program in state funds to buy five boats to help with the clean-up of dead fish in sanitary hauls.

The machine was used to "ferret out" to local units of government along the Lake Michigan shoreline. The machine is used to ferret out the trash and debris that is carried out their shore of the workload by providing manpower to carry out the beach-cleaning equipment and disposal of dead fish in sanitary hauls.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Alexander
LI 7-2037

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Alexander and three daughters of White Pigeon, Michigan are guests this holiday weekend at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. Elwyn Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Ida Williams and Glen and Ada Williams returned home Friday after spending the winter in Stuart, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fiske and family of Alma are enjoying this weekend in their local home.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen DeFoe of Lansing are spending several days in their new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Meyers have returned home after spending the winter in Punta Gorda, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Vanderwall of Traverse City were guests this last Friday evening at the home of their brother and sister-in-law, William and Evelyn Vanderwall.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gilbert have returned home after spending several weeks with their children in Detroit.

The fishing still remains very good. Some lovely trout, steelhead, coho and perch are being caught every day.

Choir practice will be Thursday evening at 7 o'clock.

What a joyful Easter Service we had this Sunday morning, every seat was taken by our friends and neighbors who came to hear the Children's Program at 10:30, with the Junior Choir, several recitations, ending with the Pae Vee Choir, which was followed by the regular morning service and the Easter egg hunt for the little people and coffee and rolls for the parents. We hope to see each one return for our regular service each Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Virginia Saunders, daughter of Wayne and Sally Saunders, is spending two weeks with her Uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Milford Saunders and family of Charlevoix, in Florida, and also visiting several interesting places through the south.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lambdon and son of Detroit are spending this weekend with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Williams.

Cunningham names new committeemen

CHARLEVOIX -- Chairman of several major Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors' committees were shifted last week by the board's new chairman, Clyde Cunningham of Marion Township.

The most significant shift was a position in the Finance Committee. Mr. Cunningham named Lee Sneathen of Hayes Township to Finance Committee chairman, replacing Clarence Rabach of Charlevoix Township. Rabach will now head the Sheriff's Committee, formerly chaired by Art Spence of Boyne City.

The Finance Committee prepares the county budget.

Mr. Sneathen, Charlevoix Township Supervisor, was named chairman of the Resolutions Committee. Mr. Sneathen replaced Lloyd McLaughlin of Hayes Township, who moved to chairman of the Printing Committee.

Charlevoix's First Ward Supervisor, Ken Carson, remained chairman of the Building Committee. Mr. Carson replaced Lloyd McLaughlin of Hayes Township, who moved to chairman of the Printing Committee.

He said he is "afraid the Chamber may not be able to invite the State Amateur Golf Tournament back again" because he feels it can raise the $1,000 another year.

Chamber President Chuck Carey said the Chamber has no money with which to buy the float, Carey said the Chamber, however, that the Chamber will maintain the float and pay all costs of transporting and entering it in other festivals.

BOB MILES presented a sketch of a proposed design for the float in the shape of a pleasure cruiser. Councilmen agreed to the design.

The float, completed in the design proposed, will be purchased from a Traverse City firm.

Carey told the Council the Chamber is already committed to spend $1,000 this year on county brochures, $1,000 on the State Amateur Gold Tournament, $1,400 to $1,700 on new city brochures, and $1,000 on other festivals.

Schools for all

DEVELOPMENT OF A "community education" program in Charlevoix was proposed to the Charlevoix school board last week. Though only a brief sketch of what such a program would mean to Charlevoix was presented, it obviously is worthy of the board's immediate and serious consideration.

Broadly, "community education" is an effort to get all citizens of a community involved in school activities. These activities would range from supervised funerals for preschool toddlers to senior citizen activities.

THE HEART OF THE programs would include after-school and weekend classes in sports, fields, such as art, science, shop, and others in which students have particular interests. This attempts to give a student—from grade school through high school—a chance to use school facilities to study and develop special talents more than the hour or two a day they are available during regular classes.

We all know youngsters who are interested in, say, chemistry, who must tinker with toy store chemistry sets to satisfy their desire for knowledge. Under the community education concept this person would be urged to use the much more educational facilities at the school, which are now looked up after 3:30 p.m.

This same opportunity would be opened for students who want to explore nature, woodworking, drafting, art, typing, etc., and etc.

negotiations. Our board members have virtually no experience in this field; most of them being small businessmen who are not confronted by labor contracts in their private life.

Teachers, on the other hand, are directed by highly skilled labor leaders in their state and national union organizations; which, obviously, puts the board (representing the taxpayers) in the underdog role.

Hopefully, Smith will find it possible to represent other areas schools, making it practical for him to gain expertise in the field of public employee union relations. If this should develop, school boards may be able to present at least a semblance of the united power the teachers now wield.

Those of us who are preoccupied with keeping our homes in trim, may not often stop to admire and appreciate the changes that are taking place on Bridge St. Bridge St., we should remember is our image to outsiders. It is because of their impression of Bridge St. that they tell us what a beautiful town we live in. All of us enjoy hearing these compliments, so we should pass them on, along with our thanks, to the businessmen, including any we may have missed pointing to, who are continually making our town the beauty spot of the Great Lakes.

Ironton Gap study historic move

By GLEN SHEPPARD
Ironton -- Why 1968? Certainly, there's enough confusion about us in this historical year without stirring the pot by making a responsible study of bridging the Ironton Gap.

What would (does) the late and dear Sandy Anderson think about such common sense? It would be mighty interesting to know.

It almost escaped notice last week that the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors and Road Commission agreed a study will be made to determine cost, impact, etc., of building a bridge at Ironton. Just how the study will be made, how much it will cost, when it will be done is still unknown.

The mere fact the study is being undertaken is a historic achievement.

Jack's guestimates are based on the fact that the bridge would be a historic achievement.

There would undoubtedly be some resistance to erasing the navigation channel designation, but those raising a fuss over to another agency when it would be overwhelmingly out-voted by South Arm property owners.

It is on this theory that Fitzgerald bases his estimate. He suggests a preliminary engineering study be made to determine the feasibility and cost of building a high, arching bridge across the South Arm. He estimates the passage of most pleasure craft. He says they build bridges like this along the East Coast and in Florida.

FITZGERALD ALSO suggests it might be far cheaper to build a bridge slightly south of the present ferry crossing, because the Gap between high ground narrows.

All of these possibilities should be thoroughly explored. The answers should then be put to voters to decide if they want to invest the money (never much it is) in waiting the county board in perspective, it might be remembered the County Board in the future is going to ask voters to approve paying for a half-million-dollar job.

THE Ironton Ferry seems destined to run forever, despite a more than 70-year effort to span the Ironton Gap with a bridge.

Alewife warning from area fishermen proven

Remember back in 1964? That's the year Charlevoix commercial fishermen started warning that alewife were taking over the northern part of Lake Michigan.

Figuring the hundreds of additional hours and the hundreds of dollars of lost time, the fishermen estimated about $15,000. Much of the loss, he explained, is self-supporting.

However, commercial fish production figures released last week by Great Lakes Fisheries Station supervisor Myrd Koller, Charlevoix, confirm the four-year-old reports from commercial fishermen.

THE FIGURES SHOW that the number of alewife caught by fishermen last year had doubled over 1966. In 1967 commercial fishermen netted 13,389,933 pounds of alewife. In 1966 they netted 6,496,100 pounds.

But what about 1964? The figures show commercial fishermen took 35 Years Ago

Glen See leased the Nelson building, corner of Mason and Bridge streets, and will establish his funeral parlors there at once.

Boats of local commercial fishermen made several attempts to battle their way through ice flows off the harbor to the Lake Michigan fishing grounds but all were unsuccessful.

It has since been proven the alewife is the predator. To combat this the department has launched its battle and try of baby perch, lake trout and other sports fish, high level biologists. Soon their numbers began to climb and today there are more than 300 animals in the National Key Deer Refuge on Big Pine Key.

son has been obtained, 20 or 30 years ago.

Persons who for years have refused to seriously consider construction of a bridge, point out the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has designated the South Arm as a navigation channel for Great Lakes freighters. This means a bridge like Charlevoix's, only much longer and more expensive, would be required.

HOWEVER, THERE is no reason to believe the Corps would not be receptive to a request that the South Arm be knocked off the federal waterway charts. No one I talk to on the South Arm can even remember when the last steamship went to East Jordan.

Furthermore, none of them want the wake from freighters washing away more of their frontage and causing damage to spoil banks.

There would undoubtedly be some resistance to erasing the navigation channel designation, but those raising a fuss over to another agency when it would be overwhelmingly out-voted by South Arm property owners.

Key Deer Miniature Michigan White Tail

By BERNICE WESTSTAFF
Strange as it may seem to north country hunters of wildland deer, the Florida Key deer has a miniature copy of the northland animal.

The Florida Key deer has the same coloring and white tail but is considerably smaller, measuring about 38 inches from nose to tail and 26 to 32 inches in height at the shoulder. Bucks weigh 30 to 35 pounds, while does weigh 35 to 65, so successful Key hunters have about half the meat of northern hunters for the family deer.

LIKE SO MANY of our wild species, the Key deer almost reached the vanishing point, through over-hunting, poaching and conversion of habitat to residential development. But in 1947 the plight of the about 50 surviving animals attracted the attention of conservationists and a Federal refuge on leased lands was finally established in 1954. Soon their numbers began to climb and today there are more than 300 animals in the National Key Deer Refuge on Big Pine Key.

To a northerner the Key deer are a fascination. A buck and a doe in a fenced enclosure at Conservation Headquarters look like a fox-hound's dog house. Their ponies are secured by a fence no higher than 3 feet and it is possible to reach over the top and pet the deer who appear to enjoy human companionship.

Big Pine Key is ideally suited to continuation of these diminutive creatures due in part to its elevation which is just high enough that the ocean tides are unlikely to reach the Key deer.

While farming began when primitive man settled down in fertile valleys, major advances didn't occur until about 5000 B.C., when Egyptians with their knowledge of irrigation, developed the Nile Valley.

Ancient Egyptians kept horses, asses, cattle, sheep, goats and poultry and grew such crops as wheat, barley, legumes and grapes. The crude stick plows they used saw little improvement in the following 6,700 years.

A typical Roman farm of about 200 B.C. was small and diversified. The farmer supported himself and his family and employed personally. Later came large plantations worked by slaves, then the era of serfdom.

Most of the wildlife refuges in the Keys are accessible only by boat. The National Key Deer Refuge on Big Pine and Little Torch Keys is the only exception.

It is doubtful Northern hunters would be tempted by Key deer. "There's more venison per bullet for the hunter in the great north woods of Charlevoix county."

REGISTRATION NOTICE

In as much as the Ellsworth Community School District has become a registration district it is necessary that each person be registered on or before May 10, 1968 to be qualified to vote in the annual school election on June 10, 1968.

A duplicate list of all eligible school electors will be kept at the school and each voter will be required to sign the school form before receiving a ballot to vote. Provisions will be made at the annual school election June 10, 1968 to sign this form.

Sincerely,
John M. Jurgensen

Elinga Takes Purdue Course
CHARLEVOIX -- Charles Elinga, Farm Bureau life insurance representative, is taking a 24-week course in life insurance marketing at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind.
Elinga took two weeks of on campus courses at Purdue Feb. 19 to Mar. 1. He is now taking 20 weeks of field training before returning to the campus for two more weeks of classes Aug. 1.
His participation in the program is sponsored by Farm Bureau Life Insurance Co. County Office.

Improvements
Improved toilet facilities in the campground area of Whiting Park were ordered last week by the County Board of Supervisors.
The Board made a special $240,000 appropriation to pay for construction of new toilet facilities. Increased use of the park on the south side of Lake Charlevoix between Iron and Advance by campers, swimmers and boaters has over-taxed the toilet facilities.

Public Snowmobile Trip Across Lake Considered
BEAVER ISLAND -- Ice conditions allowing, Beaver Island may host several snowmobile safaris from Cross Village to the island next winter.

Everyone interested in the dramatic safari would be invited to a properly equipped and skilled, according to Archie LaFreniere.
A safe course across the ice would be marked for the safari and a mid-way warming station and refreshment center would be established, LaFreniere said. Total distance is estimated at 30 miles.
Snowmobilers made the much longer and more dangerous crossing from Charlevoix to St. James several times this winter.

Walleye a Mystery For Fish Biologists
CHARLEVOIX -- Why is there such an abundance of walleye during early spring spawning runs that fishermen can snag them at the mouth of the Jordan River and yet they seldom, if ever, catch them during the rest of the year?
SUCCESSIONAL walleye fishing, Drummond points out, is a specialist's sport. The best walleye fishermen troll after dark.
Most of the walleye examined during the spring runs at the Jordan were survivors from the department's plantings back in the 1950s, Drummond believes. From 1955 to 1958 the department planted 84,000 walleyes in Lake Charlevoix.
The plantings were discontinued due to lack of evidence that they are spawning and the limited spring sport they provide.

School budget to soar, again

CHARLEVOIX -- The school board has submitted a $934,475 tentative 1968-69 budget to the County Tax Allocation Bd. This is $151,958 more than this school-year's actual budget.
Teachers' salaries account for nearly $35,000 of the tentative increase. Of this, however, approximately $45,000 would go for six new teachers. The budget calls for spending $585,151 on teachers' salaries, compared to the $532,738 budgeted for salaries this year.
If adopted the budget will require levying 18.7 mills in local property taxes for operation, compared to the 15.4 mill levied last year for operation. The 16.7 mill would raise $612,911 on the district's assessed taxable property valuation of $36,699,850. The district hopes to receive $269,031 in state aid.
VOTERS WILL HAVE to approve all tax millage above the approximately 8.5 mills expected to be allocated from the 15-mill statutory limitation and half-mill now voted for operation of the library. Operating millage voted last year has expired.
Based on the tentative budget, this means voters will be asked to approve between seven and eight additional mills for operation.
The tentative budget is generally cut before the school board adopts a final budget. Last year the board submitted an $876,564 tentative budget to the Tax Allocation Board and ended up with a $772,517 budget.
The Tax Allocation Board receives the tentative budget because it divides the 15-mill statutory property tax levy among schools, the county and townships. Last year local schools were given 8.4 of the 15 mills, with the rest going to the county, townships and intermediate school district.
MILLIGAN POINTED out that due to the district's nearly 33% valuation increase it will receive approximately $22,000 less in state aid. This school-year the district is getting $291,711 in state aid. The tentative budget anticipates $290,031 in state aid.
Charlevoix will get considerably less in state aid than East Jordan or Boyne City. East Jordan expects to get $312,944 and Boyne City expects $389,200.
The tentative budget includes $302,311 for elementary teachers' salaries, compared to the $282,236 budgeted this year. High school teachers would make $282,840, compared to $284,802 this school-year.
Administrators would receive $39,402, compared to the $36,400 now budgeted.
Other major items in the tentative budget include $61,149 for transportation; $32,327 for building and grounds operation; $12,700 for maintenance and $58,319 for capital outlay.

THIS IS ARCHITECT Jack Begrow's sketch of what his apartment-type building on the Pine River channel will look like. He already has a building permit for the project and expects construction to begin next month.

Apartment building planned on channel next to Weathervane

CHARLEVOIX -- A city building permit has been issued for construction of a six-unit luxury apartment building on the Pine River channel, next to the Weathervane Inn.
The exterior will feature white aggregate masonry surfacing and cedar shingles.
Begrow purchased the property from Dr. Walter Hoffmann. He has 140 feet of channel frontage and 69 feet of depth between the channel and Pine River Lane.
THE CORPUS OF ENGINEERS, Begrow said, has been contacted and given informal approval to the proposed construction. A bulkhead will be built from the end of the present Corps revetment wall to the Weathervane Inn's property.
Begrow said that all will be incorporated into the Pine River Terrace bulkhead.
A portion of the upper level of the steep slope from the channel to the street will be used for fill along the channel, Begrow explained.
The units will be placed so that the living room, dining room, master bedroom and kitchen have a view of the lakes. Each unit will have two bedrooms, two bathrooms, a completely equipped kitchen, laundry facilities and balcony. Boat slips in the Pine River channel will be available to the area.
BEGROW WILL sell the living units for $35,000 each. They will be maintained by a management corporation. Prospective buyers, he said, are mostly families who have been considering building a cottage in the area.
Called the Pine River Terraces, the building will be constructed by John Apple of Bellville for Charlevoix architect Jack Begrow. Construction of the estimated $210,000 building is expected to start in May and be completed by fall.

Ellsworth chamber pushes 'new look'

ELLSWORTH -- The Chamber of Commerce here has been aroused from its slumber and taken on a new project it's calling "Village Pride."
The immediate objective is to get village businessmen to beautify the business district. New fronts on buildings and the tearing down of some others are needed, Bill Muba, vice president, explained.
The gas station on the main four corners has completely redressed its interior and exterior in Alpine style.
MUBA AND CHAMBER President Elmer Root, a retired president of Michigan Fruit Cannery, believe that if businessmen show they have pride in their village residents will respond to their homes and by doing more of their shopping in town. They also believe more tourists and new business will be attracted to Ellsworth.
To get the job done the Chamber hopes soon to hire a part-time manager to guide the "Village Pride" project and keep people enthusiastic about their hometown, Muba said.
Muba, who owns the Ellsworth Lumber Co., said he will remodel the exterior of his business and add to it this summer. "There are rumors in town," he added, "that three other businessmen are ready to start remodeling."

Ellsworth Safety Meet again open to public

ELLSWORTH -- The 18th annual safety meeting will be held in the Ellsworth High School gym April 23 at 8 p.m.
The program will consist of a first aid demonstration by the Boy Scouts assisted by Scout Leader Dan Basom and Highway Safety Man Frank of the Michigan State Police, Traverse City; F.M. Johnson, who will talk on National Vehicle Safety, and Captain Babcock of the 7th District, Michigan State Police in Traverse City; a short film; courtesy and safety awards presented by Mr. Al Evans, Automobile Club of Michigan; the crowning of the Safety Queen; and music and song by school students.
The program is open to everyone on no admission charge.
There will be door prizes donated by Morwell Steel Corp., Michigan Fruit Cannery, Ellsworth Lumber Company, Hookstra Truck of Grand Rapids; Melvin and Bob's Smoke Station; Ellsworth Farmers Exchange; Rural Electric Power Co. of Boyne City; Doug Way, Standard Oil Ag.; Northern Auto Parts of Traverse City and John's Health Center.

TWIN HONORS as Charlevoix High School's top 1968 graduates have been captured by these two Arvillia twins, Dana Elton and Lyla Eril. Right, Elton will graduate as valedictorian with an amazing "A++" record. Eril's scholastic record is marred by only one B throughout high school, making her salutatorian. The girls are the daughters of Mrs. Lyla Arvillia.

Corps has no plan to change channel

CHARLEVOIX -- The Army Corps of Engineers has no present plans for widening, deepening or straightening the Pine River channel, according to Col. James T. White Jr., in charge of the district office in Detroit.
The only project at Charlevoix which has been authorized, Col. White said, is rehabilitating the present channel by replacing the remaining concrete bulkheads with sheet steel piling.
A $245,483 contract was let this winter to complete replacement of the concrete bulkheads with sheet steel. The contractor is Lucke Engineering Co. of Frankfort.
ROBERT SONNET, of the Corps' Grand Haven office, said that work will begin next week in May and major construction in July or August. The firm has until November 1969 to complete the project.
Sections that will be sheet piled are those on the north and south walls of the channel into Lake Michigan which are still concrete and the section in the inner channel in front of the Belvedere Club.
No bulkhead will be built in the unprotected section of the channel in front of the Weathervane Inn and next to it, Col. White said.
Congressman Phil Ruppe of Houghton has personally requested that the Corps build a bulkhead to halt erosion in the Weathervane Inn area, Col. White said. But the Corps, he explained, can do nothing about this without special approval by Congress.
Plans were presented by the Corps at a public hearing in Charlevoix in 1964 which called for widening, deepening and straightening the channel.
COL. WHITE SAID proponents of the channel improvement plan have not provided adequate reasons to justify such a project. He does not know if the improvements will be authorized. "The decision would have to be made by Congress, which is not even considering it at this time."
Work on the channel, Col. White explained, is classified in three categories: improvement, rehabilitation and maintenance.
"Improvement," he pointed out would mean actual design changes. As such, there have been no "improvements" for decades.
The channel, however, has been upgraded through "rehabilitation," such as that now being done to replace the existing bulkheads.
"Maintenance" work is done annually to keep the channel in its authorized depth of 18 feet. The Dredge Hauler will be here August 4-10 to work on the channel.
When the new "rehabilitation" contract is completed, Sonnet said the government will have spent $1,585,963 on the channel since it was authorized in the late 1890s. This includes $82,223 for the original "improvement" or construction of the channel. Another $89,846 will have been spent on rehabilitation and $813,892 on maintenance.
The bulkheads that will be replaced by Lucke this and next summer were originally completed in 1920. The new sheet piling will include 621 feet on the north side of the outer channel, 672 feet on the south side of the outer channel and 436 feet in front of the Belvedere Club.
The amount of gill net each of the Charlevoix tugs is authorized to use was cut more than in half to limit lake trout catches south of the closed area, Drummond said. Until now Cross and White have been allowed to fish up to 115,000 feet of net from each boat. Until the two-week ban is lifted they will be limited to 48,000 feet per boat.

State cuts back on nets to save trout

CHARLEVOIX -- A two-week commercial fishing ban was clamped on the very northern section of Lake Michigan last week to protect Lake Trout.
Limitations were also placed on the amount of gill net which can be used by Charlevoix fishermen south of the closed area.
Fishermen using large-mesh gill nets in the closed area were reported taking more pounds of lake trout than whitefish in their nets, according to district fish biologist Bob Drummond.
Drummond said the fishermen working out of ports on the Upper Peninsula shore of Lake Michigan had permits to take whitefish. He added that 53.3% of their take (in pounds) was lake trout.
THE AREA CLOSED to large-mesh (4 1/2 inch or larger) is everything from the tip of the Garden Peninsula to the north end of Beavers Island to Waughoshance Pt. to the Mackinac Bridge.
Charlevoix tugs authorized to use large-mesh nets have been fishing south of the closed area and have been taking considerably fewer lake trout, Drummond said.
Charlevoix tugs with large-mesh permits are the Hazel W., operated by Jake and Chum White, and the Jackie II and Jackie, operated by John Cross Junior and senior.
There is also growing fear among biologists and fishermen that high levels of pollution in the northern end of the lake have made the trout sterile, eliminating hopes they will reproduce.
Jordan schools submit budget

EAST JORDAN -- The school board has approved a $614,943 tentative budget for 1968-69, an increase of $25,005 over the current $589,938 budget.
The tentative budget, which was submitted to the County Tax Allocation Board, calls for spending $11,824 on teachers' salaries, compared to the $971,002 currently budgeted for teachers' salaries.
The budget is based on raising $299,996 from local sources and $121,944 from state aid.
Boyne City's tentative budget calls for spending $735,538, compared to the $629,327 budgeted for the 1967-68 school-year. When the two-week period is over May

Area mothers earn state honors

The Michigan State Mother's Committee has announced that two area Michigan mothers have been selected for the Merit Award in the Michigan Mother of the Year Contest.

They are Mrs. Arthur Stool of Charlevoix and Mrs. Inghidley of East Jordan.

Mrs. Stool, (Dorothy) has been a resident of the Charlevoix area all of her life and has worked with 4-H and Girl Scouts. She has helped with Barnard area fund drives and different community projects. She is an active member of the Charlevoix Area School Board, Harford Farm Bureau, WSCS, and Methodist church where she is the church school superintendent, board member, and Sunday School teacher.

Mrs. Stool is the adult leader of the Methodist Youth Fellowship (MYF), and for several years has been a volunteer camp counselor at the Pottawatomie, Michigan Methodist Church Camp.

After her husband's death in 1954 she began teaching at the Charlevoix Retarded Center. She began taking stationery and evening classes, and for a while became a fulltime teacher at Central Michigan University enabling her to receive her degree in 1961.

In 1958 Mrs. Stool began teaching at the Elsworth Elementary School where she now teaches the second grade. She is a member of their Teachers Club, PTA, and local chapter of the Michigan Education Association (MEA), holding various offices at different times. She belongs to the National Education Association (NEA) and is a member of the Elsworth Boy Scout Support Committee. Mrs. Stool has helped with the safety program and started the school yard beautification project.

Mrs. Stool has three daughters, all of whom graduated from Central Michigan University, and are teachers like their mother. John Van Dam of Bronson, Betty Stool who is presently working on her Masters Degree at Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant, and Mrs. Paul Foster of Alden.

Mrs. Stool has many hobbies and projects that keep her busy in her spare time. She enjoys baking and gardening, and also has two grandchildren.

Mrs. Stool's children are James, a graduate of Ferris State College who is now a teacher in the Atlanta School System; Mrs. Douglas Gally, Lila of Detroit who attended Western Michigan University where she took a social course which resulted in her present position with the Detroit Edison Co. and Nina.

Besides being a homemaker and mother, Mrs. Stool is an ardent gardener and bridge player. She has her own small greenhouse where she raises orchids and African violets among other flowers. Bridge is her favorite pastime and she and a friend have taught classes "just for fun" so their friends could enjoy the game.

She has always had a desire to travel and later this summer she will join three friends on a three weeks tour of Middle Europe.

Mrs. Stool is the former Evelyn Kunkle. She was born in Detroit and came to Boyne City as a child. In 1939 she was married to Mr. Stool. They have always resided in East Jordan where he owns and operates a drug store.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

Movie, Action, Color, and Sound, State of Michigan Conservation Department film "Coho" taken in Michigan, will be shown for your interest and pleasure Wednesday, April 24 (tonight) 8 p.m., elementary school cafeteria. A question and answer limited period to follow. You are most welcome, and it is free.

I must mention having to do with voluntary contributions and voting right membership fees, they are coming in rather steadily since April 1 after invoice mailing. Thanks, it's most gratifying to note those who do not mail contributions but personally deliver them at the office, have a smile and offer favorable comments. It's true!

Potoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce flowering crab tree sale is well on the way to be a huge success. Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce will assist you if you are interested in this beautification. Our good Garden Club is also involved, you can contact them if you wish. It is becoming later than you think.

Watch out! Remember daylight savings time starts 2:00 a.m. April 28 and ends Sunday, October 28.

Teachers are in the swing also. It has been published that there are now 61 union headquarters at Washington, in addition to the two major federations, AFL-CIO and the National Federation of Independent Unions. "To be where the action is," as one national official puts it. The latest move to Washington is the American Federation of Teachers.

Also from the same news release, "Massachusetts is the first state to legalize uniform Monday holidays, a move supported by the National Chamber, starting next year the day State will observe, on Monday, Washington's Birthday in February, Patriots Day in April, and Memorial Day in May.

A group known as Michigan US 31 Corridor Association, now well organized and on the way effectively with effort to have US 31 south through very much improved and four-lane superhighway where it is all possible and feasible the plan appears to include some rerouting. For some reason this Chamber of Commerce is on their list for support and has been contacted accordingly. I attended one area meeting at Potoskey while ago to get some idea of things available as of that time. Nobody some of our area brass, so to speak, are more familiar than I am. I was told that the present plans include reroute of US 31 south of Charlevoix cutting in the east and north across the corner of Charlevoix County at about Albe and joining US 131 up in the Walloon Lake area. It appears need to be concerned. Do you agree?

Cadillac Standard of the World

Ten reasons why you should consider buying a Cadillac now.

1. This is the finest performing luxury car ever built. All 1968 Cadillac models are powered by the largest, smoothest V-8 engine ever put into a production passenger car.
2. This is the most beautiful luxury car of all time. Just look.
3. This is the most popular Cadillac ever offered. This year more people are staying with Cadillac, and more are moving to Cadillac than ever before.
4. There are more built-in luxuries this year. Power windows, as well as power steering, power brakes, and automatic transmission, are standard on all of the 1968 models.
5. This is one of the best engineered cars of all time. A test drive will prove it to you.
6. There is more comfort in the 1968 Cadillac than ever before. In the ride, in the seats, in the body, throughout the interiors.
7. The 1968 Cadillac is unexcelled in safety and convenience features.
8. Cadillac continues to offer outstanding value, returning a higher portion of its original cost than any other car built in the land.
9. Your present car will probably never be worth more than it is today.
10. Your Cadillac dealer's selection of 1968 Cadillacs is at its best right now.

See your authorized Cadillac dealer.

Boyer Mt. sued for $425,000

A Pontiac couple have filed suit in Circuit Court seeking $425,000 damages from Boyer Mountain Lodge ski resort.

Mr. and Mrs. Miran Avedian claim Boyer Mountain's negligence is the cause of injuries Mr. Avedian suffered May 5, 1966. They contend Mr. Avedian suffered permanent injuries when a snow-stall glass shattered while he was using the shower in a room at the lodge. He, allegedly, fell on the glass.

The suit was originally started in Oakland County (Pontiac). Boyer Mountain requested and won a change of venue to Charlevoix County Circuit Court. A jury trial has been requested.

WE MUST SEEK THE TRUTH

Constantly in search of the TRUTH the scientist takes nothing for granted. Each "hypothesis", each theory, is tested and tried and accepted or discarded on the condition that it proves true or false. The true scientist never jumps to conclusions, consequently you will never hear him proclaiming the self-sufficiency of man—that man needs no spiritual power.

The Church is also a center for the search and dispensation of truth in things other than the material, the things one cannot discern by the physical senses. If each of us would be free we must know the truth and if each of us is active in the work of the church that fits our needs "We Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make Us Free."

CHS 1968 class has 13 with B or better

CHARLEVOIX—High school principal Ray Carr has never been prouder of the scholastic achievement of his students than he is of the 1968 class.

Thirteen students will graduate in June with B, or better, average throughout high school.

"In any other class," Carr said, any of the top five graduates "could have been valedictorian."

HOWEVER, valedictorian and salutatorian honors went to the Arvilla twins, Dana Ellen Arvilla will graduate with an all-A record during her four years in high school. Her twin sister, Denis Erin Arvilla, will be salutatorian with a 3.996 average, which means she received one B and all the rest A's through high school.

The twins are the daughters of Mrs. Lyla Arvilla.

School census

CHARLEVOIX—The annual school census will begin next month, with each family in the school district being asked to answer questions.

The school board Monday re-appointed census takers: Mrs. Thelma Wagner, Mrs. Russell Lewis and Mrs. Alice Richardson.

Surke, Mrs. Albert Russell, Mrs. Kenneth Staley and Mrs. Ruth Metzger, alternate delegates to the district are: Mrs. Frank Novotny Jr., Mrs. Howard Griffin, Mrs. Elmer Gibson, Mrs. Harley Warner and Mrs. Robert Frost.

A new member Judith L. Metzger, was initiated into the Auxiliary, putting its membership over the 100% mark for 1968.

The Auxiliary served the Michigan Bell retirement dinner for over 100 persons at the Post home Saturday, April 20, for Wilbur St. Lawrence.

It was reported, the auxiliary has heard nothing more from the school board on proposed for over 100 persons at the Post home Saturday, April 20, for Wilbur St. Lawrence.

Ray and Alice Williams did not return home with Mr. and Mrs. Glen Williams last week; they are still in Stuart, Florida.

Mrs. Pauline Canfield is visiting friends in Bay City.

Our community extends its sincere sympathy to Mrs. Harold Miller on the death of her husband Bud Miller this past week. They have owned and operated the Funeral Home in Manelona for several years but are residents in Ironton.

Coho planted here
ADVANCE—Barring a freak disaster, Lake Charlevoix is now assured of a major run of coho salmon in the fall of 1969.
The Conservation Dept., Friday, April 19, planted 50,000 tiny coho in Porter Creek here.
The young fish will remain in the stream until they have "oriented" themselves to return to their spawning runs in 1969, at which time they will weigh 12 to 20 pounds.
Fish biologists suspect many of them will never leave Lake Charlevoix, creating a year-round salmon fishery in the lake's protected, all-weather water. If they do leave Lake Charlevoix and migrate into Lake Michigan with coho that are planted in other streams, they are expected to return to Lake Charlevoix in August of 1969.
The department plans to build a well near the mouth of Porter Creek to trap the mature fish when they return.
LATER THIS spring, the department will plant between 30,000 and 50,000 rainbows in Lake Charlevoix.
Another 10,000 steelhead (rainbows with bred-in migratory instincts) will be planted in the Boyne River.

Pollution-free plan eyed
HARBOR SPRINGS—A new concept in small town sewage control is being studied by the City Council here.
The plan, which has been approved by the City Council, is to build a sewage treatment plant to handle the town's sewage. The plant would be built on a site near the harbor, and would use a system of "pollution-free" treatment. The system would use a series of ponds to treat the sewage, and would not require the use of chemicals or electricity.
The plan would also include a system of "pollution-free" disposal of the treated sewage. The sewage would be discharged into the harbor, and would be used to grow crops. The crops would then be used as fertilizer for the harbor's crops.

It was 42 years ago this May that Ross Alexander accompanied by Bill Ripley, Capt. Bill Taylor and Sam Rose of Charlevoix towed the present ferry from Ferryburg near Grand Haven with the Bureau of Fisheries boat the "Fulmar," which was later converted into a Sub chaser. They started on Sunday morning and arrived in port Thursday, but were held up in Ludington for two days due to rough weather. Within two days they were ready to operate 24 hours a day with three operators: Sam Alexander, who received $90 dollars a month and house rent with telephone, and Ross Alexander and Lyle Wangerman as helpers, each being paid $90 a month and each trip made, was "Free service," and financed by the Board of Supervisors for Charlevoix County.

Your nation's war dead have made it possible for you to live a life of freedom. Buy a Buddy Poppy and wear it in their honor on Memorial Day.

SAC outlines plans for jet bomb tests

CHARLEVOIX --- Super-sonic training flights by SAC B-58 Hustler jet bombers will continue to be flown over the Charlevoix area, SAC headquarters at Onit AFB, Neb., announced last week.

The training flight zone is from Racine, Wis. to Nautubay, Mich., nearly the entire length of Lake Michigan.

Although scoring equipment and buildings at the Bayshore, Mich., scoring site were destroyed by fire Dec. 26, 1967, the site was repaired and is again in operation.

HEADING northwesterly from a mid-point in Lake Michigan 25 miles east of Racine, Wis., the flights continue along a route passing near Manitowish and Beaver Islands, to a termination point near Nautubay, SAC said.

The bombers will fly a maximum of two runs daily at supersonic speeds up to mach 1.65 (1,100 miles per hour). Although sometimes startling or distracting to their audience, sonic booms will not injure people or cause damage to a structurally sound building because of the low altitude (above 25,000 feet), SAC said.

Doctor and Mrs. N.P. Soronson and some friends of Greenville were at the Soronson home for a few days.

Melvin Napout returned home Monday after spending a couple of weeks in Farmington.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Neer of Detroit are at their home here for the coming season.

Mrs. Don Keller and small daughter of Grand Haven visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gallagher over the weekend.

Perry Crawford was a recent patient at Little Traverse Hospital.

Stanley Floyd returned here Monday after spending the winter in Charlevoix.

Mr. and Mrs. Johny Peterson of Chicago brought her mother, Mrs. Mary W.J. Gallagher home last Monday after the spent the winter in Chicago and elsewhere.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Welke and family spent the Easter weekend here.

Mr. and Mrs. James Carpenter of Grand Rapids came Monday to their home here, and Mrs. Arlene LaFreniere will spend the summer months.

Recent guests at the home of Mrs. Sybil Larsen were Mrs. Martha Kleinbenitz and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wojan were on the Mainland a couple of days this past week.

An ex-summer resident has received an appointment from President Johnson. He appointed Hugh L. Ray of Chicago, director of the Senate, Ronbeck and Co. merchandise development and testing laboratory, as a member of the new national commission on product safety. The seven-member commission will conduct a two year study of the scope and effectiveness of laws to protect consumers from hazardous household appliances and other home products. Hugh spent many summers on the island as his parents owned a cottage here. Now he and his wife stay at the island in their yacht to visit their island friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ritchy Wojan went to Ludington for a few days.

Edward Palmer is home for several days. He was in Manitowish for a couple of weeks.

The North Shore motor ship arrived here Thursday towing a large barge with trucks and equipment for Hodges and Downa. The company will build a road for the American Central Land Development Company.

Mr. Mary Minor went to Duluth to see her husband Arnie Minor who is in the hospital in Duluth.

CHS Band in state meet at Battle Creek Saturday

CHARLEVOIX --- The Charlevoix High School Band will leave on three school buses at 6 a.m. Saturday for Battle Creek to take part in the annual State Band and Orchestra Festival.

The band is scheduled to appear at Southeastern Junior High School, in Battle Creek at 1:55 p.m.

Also appearing will be the Class C bands from the area which qualified at the District Festival in February -- the Boyne City and Gaylord High School Bands. The East Jordan Band has been scheduled for another section.

This will mark the 21st appearance in 22 years for the "Honor the Dead by helping the living" is the slogan of the annual Veterans of Foreign Wars Buddy Poppy sale. Proceeds are used entirely for the welfare of disabled and needy veterans and the survivors of deceased veterans.

Judges for the event will be William C. Moffitt, assistant director of bands at Michigan State University; Thomas Tyra, director of bands at Eastern Michigan University; Stanley Bauman, presently principal of the elementary school at Elkton, Michigan, but a former director of the Elkton High School Band, and Dascho Dachof, head of the music department at Ferris State College.

The band will stay at the Post Motor Inn, in downtown Battle Creek Saturday night. The return to Charlevoix will be made Sunday afternoon, with arrival scheduled sometime between 8 and 8:30 p.m.

Ellsworth's pride

ALL INDICATIONS are that Ellsworth businessmen and civic leaders are facing up to the realization that their potentially charming village must immediately have a virtue injection of community pride if it is to survive.

We hope, as they do, that it is not too late. We are convinced it is not too late if businessmen feel Ellsworth is worth the investment they must make to erase the shabby brocade of decay which clings to their shopping and industrial area.

This almost ghost town appearance of neglect has discouraged new residential, cottage and resort development. We suspect it has also put the damper on potential business growth.

A portion of the families settling in Charlevoix and East

Jordan would have chosen Ellsworth if the business and industrial area did not broadcast the image of a people who have no pride in themselves or their community. Ellsworth needs this growth. The very existence of its school system is at stake.

If Ellsworth's leaders have decided their town is worth resurrecting, they will set a precedent for regional communities of similar size to follow. A few years ago Gaylord businessmen determined to prove towns its size could build a new image and from it new prosperity. Gaylord's success inspired businessmen in other towns its size throughout the North -- including Charlevoix and Boyne City--to follow suit. The results have been spectacular.

Ellsworth businessmen could become a similar model and inspiration for small villages.

Townships share?

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY'S Board of Supervisors earlier this month has passed a resolution urging that four percent of the gas and weight tax money earmarked for highway construction and maintenance be given to townships. This money is now shared by the state, counties, cities and villages.

The board's resolution would take two percent of the counties' share and two percent of the state's share and give it to townships. It's easy to see why such a resolution would easily pass the board. Fifteen of the 25 supervisors are from townships and the other ten are from cities, which have nothing to lose.

AND, CERTAINLY, it shouldn't be any mystery why township supervisors want more money. Township citizens are forever demanding better roads. Township officials are the crampfuls of our political structure, so they find it mighty uncomfortable to have Joe Doakes breathing down their neck about the mud hole on the corner.

However, continuing to have "township" or "local" roads -- roads for which the townships, not the county or state, are responsible--is no longer

For a decade or more, one responsible study after another has shown that township government is no longer a necessary or effective part of our system. We should be working toward stronger county government and elimination of township government, not giving townships more money to squander.

The County's budget

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY'S record $515,848 tentative 1969 budget was a shocker. How can the county spend so much when it doesn't even include money for our roads?

But before you decide to corner your supervisor and raise a fuss consider this: The County Board has virtually no choice over how it spends more than $170,000 of its budget. Expenditures totaling more than this amount are required by state law.

FOR INSTANCE, the state decrees the county must pay its share of Child Care costs ($15,000). Add $74,000 the county is forced to pay to support the state-controlled Dept. of Social Welfare. Add $22,730 for the Probate Court and juvenile welfare. And another $34,000 has to be added to pay the bill for county residents in state institutions. The list goes on, including, even, prisoners who are fed and cared for in the County Jail--something supervisors cannot control.

The result is state government is draining our resources to build strong local government. A solution was made available by Michigan's new constitution. Under it Charlevoix County citizens can petition to establish a Home Rule county, making it possible for them to control more of their own affairs.

ELLSWORTH'S NEW look and its old. The Sunoco service station (inset, upper left) on the main intersection of the business district has already responded to the Chamber of Commerce's "Community Pride" project with its new north country exterior. The other three buildings on the main intersection seen here, are targets of the Chamber's project to revitalize the community.

Our town's character part of its heritage

By GLEN SHEPPARD If a person had to pinpoint two major characteristics of Charlevoix's history they would have to be controversy and boating.

Jim Sellinger the other day went rambling in some old stuff and came up with a 1935 Charlevoix Homecoming booklet that traced the community's history from the first white settlers to those mid-Depression years. The account of our history had two central themes: dependence on boating and sharp conflict over local affairs.

Though many people would change it today, Charlevoix is still a community where citizens have strong feelings about what is going on about them and where the fish tugs, yachts and other boats are a big part of life.

And, mid yourself not, this is the way our town is known to outsiders. In travels about Charlevoix County, someone's always coming off with a remark like, "Boy, you people sure get excited about your schools and city council, don't cha?" Or they comment on how lucky we are to have the harbor and the yachtie, etc.

A community and its citizens are backing pretty long odds if they decide to ignore their heritage. To those who see property and growth as an opportunity to change Charlevoix's basic character a better perspective in how deep the roots are, the following excerpted history from Sellinger's

As early as 1852, and perhaps earlier, there were fishermen located about Pine River, and in the spring of 1853 quite a colony was collected there. Captain T.D. Smith had an establishment in the bay, southwest of the mouth of the river, between it and Pine River Point. There were four more west of Smith, between him and the

Florida's parkshold tourists

Easter is a very special day and an Easter Sunrise Service seems to give a very special lift to the spirit of man whether held in a church building in the North Country or God's great out-door in the Southland.

Easter is usually a warm day in Florida-like summer in Michigan, and the Sunrise Service held this year at Hidden Valley Mobile Home Park at DeLeon Springs was no exception although the morning was gray with faint lines of sunlight edging the cloudy skies.

HERE, THE FLORIDIANS welcome the transient guests within their borders and co-operate by joining with the park people in this annual sunrise service. Ministers came from some distance to participate which meant a pre-dawn motor trip of 25 miles or more, but their efforts were rewarded by a general attendance from park people and the adjoining village.

The service is held each year on the banks of a large spring-fed pond, named, like the village, for Juan Ponce De Leon who left his mark here in his search for the fountain of youth as Fr. Pere Marquette left his in the Michigan wilderness with his missionary goal of salvation for the Red Man.

Michigan was well represented at the Easter service. These from Frankfort, one from Elk Rapids, three from Gaylord as well as the Westastars from Charlevoix. Four Grand Rapids trailblazers who had spent the winter at Hidden Valley Park had already gone home.

Hidden Valley is a beautiful with its pines, live oaks and palms. Trailer campers made good use of the beautiful grass-covered plots and the trailers encompassed routes from every walk of life. Navy Admiral hob nob with Army Colonels. - Engineers argue the merits of the several divisions of their profession while Big Potlato Growers from Minnesota chew over the farm news with Butter and Egg men from Wisconsin.

THERE'S NO DOUBT but that trailer life is ultra respectable in the Florida panhandle and unfortunate that it is still looked upon with doubt by a few provincial Northerners.

Or it may be that the Southerners are more aware of the economic value of catering to the travel trade. Whatever the reason, northern Michigan is a good travel trailer park.

All three of these parks are model parks and Charlevoix couldn't go wrong by simulating both plans and management.

Tidbits . . . The most adult story yarn would find it difficult to spin a year verbally or in print in only 10 or 15 words. However, today we find millions of stories told in only 10 or 15 words and told well enough to move billions of dollars in goods from seller to consumer. These magical stories have taken on the name of Want Ads or Classified Advertising. . . and they sell the most expensive items in the universe, but also the least expensive.

Want Ads have been found in the pages of Egypt. Want Ads dealing with lead for sale and property rental were discovered on the walls of Pompeii. The great fire in London actually brought Want Ads, or "Smalls" as they are known in England, to the fore. Classified Advertising. . . and they sell the most expensive items in the universe, but also the least expensive.

In America, Want Ads began with the third issue of the Boston News-Letter in 1704.

Study the copy in this ad which ran in that paper over 200 years ago. "At Mr. Packer, in Crooked Lane next to the Dolphin, are very good lodgings to be let, where there is peace and quiet and a lovely garden." This ad says much to anyone who reads it though it is simple and straightforward. . . and that's part of the secret of advertising.

Also, the schedule says I'll be doing a lot of eating and socializing in officer clubs and dining halls. This will be the first time I've ever been in an officer's mess without having to wash the dishes. I think I get a chance to make a snide remark to the officer in charge of sticking his finger in the dishwasher and telling Pvt. Sadeck, "Oh, no sir," he said, and I don't know what he said after that. I was too stunned to hear. A Colonel had called me to his quarters.

No one seems to know why I was invited on this trip. Colonel General Church, of Selfridge Field in Mt. Clemens, is running the deal, I accused him of turning me down because the Detroit newspapers are on strike.

"Oh, no sir," he said, and I don't know what he said after that. I was too stunned to hear. A Colonel had called me to his quarters.

As to why the Army invited me on this tour, maybe my publisher is right.

"They are going to take a bunch of you down up 2,000 feet and then throw you out to see if you can fly," he said.

Oh well, onward and upward. That's class, too.

New era for Great Lakes Open house at hatchery

CHARLEVOIX--A public open house tomorrow (Thursday, May 2) at 2 p.m. will dedicate the 51-year-old Charlevoix National Fish Hatchery to its new assignment as headquarters for the Great Lakes Fishery Station.

Following a short outdoor program of speeches by local politicians and conservation officials, the public will tour the split-level station and new 55-foot fish survey boat, the Steelhead.

Charlevoix politicians and Michigan Conservation Dept.

THE STEELHEAD, the state's new 53-foot survey boat stationed at Charlevoix as part of the Great Lakes Fishery Station, built in Escanaba and completed this winter, the steel-hulled boat is equipped with complex electronic equipment to locate fish, gear for trawl and gill nets, a laboratory where fish biologists can work, quarters for five men and is powered by two 360 horsepower diesel engines. The ship has a cruising speed of 15 miles per hour.

Keller and his staff, including the Steelhead's skipper, Capt. Bill Palmer and biologist Jeff Moffit, are responsible for obtaining information from which to determine the location, growth rate, feeding habits, weaknesses and strengths of major sport fish species (trout and salmon). This information will be analyzed to develop the Great Lakes' maximum sport fishing potential, Keller explains.

Until 1965, conservation officials, by their own admission, ignored, and allowed abuse of, the Great Lakes fishery. The station here is the first state-operated facility dedicated to the Great Lakes' sports fishery.

Eventually, the state hopes to have six such stations--three on Lake Michigan, at Charlevoix, Escanaba and Sault Ste. Marie; one on Lake Superior, at Marquette; one on Lake Huron, at Alpena; and one on Lake Erie, at Sandusky.

Records recently dug up at the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife regional office in Minneapolis, disclose the massive amounts of trout and whitefish eggs processed annually at Charlevoix.

Commercial fishermen collected the eggs from fish they netted off spawning beds. This arrangement made it possible for fishermen to take fish for the market while they were most vulnerable, but, theoretically, preserved the fish population because the eggs were bailed and the young fish released.

The Fish and Wildlife Service could find no records of egg collections for the first 13 years of the hatchery's operation--1903 to 1916. But in 1917, the first year for which records are available, 30 million lake trout eggs were processed at Charlevoix. In 1923 hatchery personnel handled 58 million lake trout eggs.

For two years in a row, 1929 and 1930, the hatchery handled 95 million whitefish eggs.

The records do not reveal how many of these eggs hatched.

CHARLEVOIX -- The new Great Lakes Fishery Station here is headed by Myrl Keller, 32, (left) who is skipper of the station's new survey boat, the Steelhead. Before joining the Conservation Dept., he was a survey boat captain for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. He is also an accomplished woodcarver and artist.

Gill Palmer, 34 (center) is a fisheries biologist at the station. He received his degree from Michigan State University in 1965, going back to school after working 17 years for Oldsobile in Lansing.

Lee Moffit, 43, (right) is a fisheries biologist at the station. He received his degree from Michigan State University in 1965, going back to school after working 17 years for Oldsobile in Lansing.

up to date on new developments, Kibbe contends the hatchery's new role as a station to gather information on fish in the Great Lakes is the best use to which it has been put in its nearly 65 years of existence.

Lake Michigan's lake trout population, he contends, would have been better off if the hatchery had never been built.

They returned last week to their home at 205 E. Lincoln, just in time, before the open house tomorrow at the hatchery, for him to fill in some of the facts about the Charlevoix National Fish Hatchery's history that the statistical records in government archives do not reveal.

Dept. of Interior top brass thought so, too. They awarded Kibbe the agency's highest honor, the Distinguished Service Award, and tried to talk him out of retiring at age 65 by offering him his pick of several enticing promotions.

But Mr. and Mrs. Kibbe wanted to come home. To Charlevoix after 13 years of retirement they still get excited about coming home to Charlevoix every spring from their winter retreat in Florida.

MONDAY EVENING'S adoption of a $700,000-plus budget for 1968-69 failed to draw public interest. Only four persons in the background were in the visitor's gallery. The four visitors were, from left, an outside salesman trying to sell a new aerial ladder to the electric utility; Max Novak and Mrs. Jean Vogler, both of whom attend nearly all council meetings; and Jack Erber, who had submitted a bid on a new city truck.

School's City oks '68-69 budget up $770,000 budget $30,632

ELLSWORTH -- Though the tentative 1968-69 school budget is up $30,632, voters will not be asked to approve additional taxes this year, Sup. John Jurgensen said this week.

The tentative $193,800 budget was submitted to the County Tax Allocation Board, Jurgensen said the school board hopes to get the same 9.3-mill tax allocation from the county that it had last year.

In ADDITION TO the 9.3 mills, the district's voters approved a five-mill 12-mill school tax levy last year, Jurgensen said the 21.3 mills should be enough to operate the school district for 1968-69.

The $30,000 tentative increase for the coming school year (over last year's $183,168 budget), is to pay for 11 new teachers, a half-time secretary and new bus, Jurgensen said.

The district's taxable property valuation did not increase this year over last year's $4,145,425, he said.

The school board is now negotiating with teachers over the 1968-69 salary schedule. Teachers with bachelor degrees now start at $5,000 and can make up to $7,400.

The budget includes $11,000 under contingencies, for purchase of the Baptist Church, next to City Hall. Also included is a 7 1/2% wage hike for city employees.

THE CITY anticipates electric fund revenue of $425,850. Of this it will spend $24,935, leaving a balance, or "profit" of $390,915.

Electric fund revenue this fiscal year is expected to be $127,580 more than the $296,270 reported collected in 1963-64. The profit in 1963-64 was $40,000. In 1964-65 it was $55,000. In 1965-66 it was $105,000. In 1966-67 it was $69,000 and last year it was $89,000.

General fund revenue, other than the Major general fund expenses, with last year's in parentheses, are: Mayor and Council, $11,440 ($8,713); Police, $54,800 ($52,064); Fire, $17,000 ($44,571); including $27,531 for a new fire truck; Recreation, $44,600 ($37,008); Streets, $89,794 ($76,875); Golf Course, $19,310 ($8,898); Airport, $2,320 ($2,789); Cemetery, $12,460 ($15,153); Books and Libraries, $7,240 ($3,142); Ambulance service $8,385 ($430); Coalagent $33,035 ($21,530).

MAJOR ELECTRIC FUND expenses include $195,025 to purchase electricity from Consumers Power Co., $58,290 for administration; $82,970 for transmission and distribution; $10,450 for street lighting, and $7,110 for operation of the Ball Lake hydro plant.

The city anticipates the water fund taking in $27,750, of which $48,836 will be spent on operation.

The only deficit shown in the budget is in the sewage fund, which the city expects to take in $21,940, but spend $23,185.

A detailed breakdown of the 13-page 1968-69 budget is available at the City Superintendent's office.

Ellsworth school terms expiring

ELLSWORTH--The terms of three Ellsworth school board members expire in June. Candidates for the board are now being nominated by the voters. The candidates are: John Jurgensen, who is now the school superintendent, and Walter Chellis, board secretary.

Board members whose terms expire are Arthur Drenth, Jack McPherson and Ray Wallick. Both Drenth and McPherson's terms are for four years, Wallick's for one year.

Nominating petitions are available from Sup. John Jurgensen, Chellis or the County Clerk.

New board members will be elected at the June 10 school election.

Police nab fire slasher

CHARLEVOIX -- Joseph Jacob Thull, 24, pleaded guilty Monday to slashing 82 auto tires in Charlevoix early Friday morning, May 26, according to Police Chief Joe Smith.

Thull, a crewman on the Sundew, was sentenced by Justice John Connolly to pay $100 fine, 30 days plus 30 days in the County Jail. Thull also waived examination on a charge of breaking and entering the Weatherlane Inn and stealing liquor. Connolly bound him over to Circuit Court on the felony charge and set bond (not paid) at $1,000.

CHIEF SMITH, assisted by other police, worked nearly around the clock in tracking many valuable improvements now used generally, among them being a method of bulk transportation of green salmon eggs that saved many millions of these eggs over the years during spawning-taking activities. He also perfected studies on the use of malachite green as a prophylactic measure in treating hatchery waters and conducted a successful experiment on heating water for trout stations having too cold a water supply. The Secretary of the Interior wrote on Kibbe's retirement, "Kibbe rose through the ranks of the federal fish service, serving as superintendent of the nation's key hatcheries. The government sent him to the University of Oregon's medical school to study

According to Smith, Thull used a heavy switchblade knife, with a five-inch blade, to slash the tires.

Tires on new cars were slashed at Erber Auto Co. and Kustina Motors and cars parked in the Cleon Shopping Center lot. The tires, reportedly, had a value of more than $2,000.

Smith said Thull told him, "He had no reason" for the tire slashings and "didn't know why he did it."

Thull was arrested by police officers on the early hours of Sunday morning before Thull was arrested.

Grandvieve Report

After an absence of many months, we are again resuming our report from Grandvieve Medical Care Facility. We hope to have an article appearing weekly, and hope that it will help to keep you informed of the happenings here.

We welcomed four new people into our "family." Mrs. Irma Hanah and Mr. Charles Nowland, both of East Jordan, and Mrs. Florence Crump and Mrs. Mabel Battia, both of Charlevoix. We were also saddened by the death of one of our patients -- Mrs. Olive La Valley who passed away Easter Sunday, April 14th. Mr. Lyman Green on Wednesday, April 17th. Mrs. Edith Sanderson on Saturday, April 20th. Mrs. Pearl Melale on Sunday, April 21st. And Mrs. Mabel Battia, who passed away Monday, April 22nd, after a long illness.

Surviving are a son, Lyle of Franklin, six grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Clarence Healy

Allocation Board, a member of the Charlevoix County Welfare Commission and, for a short time, director of the Department of Social Welfare.

He operated an auto agency for many years, was an official appraiser for the State Bank of East Jordan of which he was a director for many years.

He died Thursday at Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids following a brief illness.

Mrs. Reva Carpenter

Charlevoix -- Funeral services for Mrs. Reva J. Carpenter, 54, of Grant were held April 29 in the McKinley Chapel in Grant with Rev. Max Bailey officiating. Burial was in Parkview Cemetery in Grant.

Mrs. Carpenter passed away Tuesday afternoon after a short illness.

Born in Wayne County June 12, 1913, she married Robert R. Carpenter June 5, 1933 in Comstock Park.

Surviving are her husband Robert; two daughters, Mrs. Walter (Gloria) Hartman of Traverse City and Mrs. William (Robert) Perri of Westgate; two sons both of Grant; eight grandchildren.

Surviving are two stepdaughters, Mrs. Clyde (Evelyn) Evans of Lewiston and Mrs. Robert (Gerald) Ellis of Michigan. She is survived by several great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

Women of all faiths invited

A Day of Recollection will be held at the Sacramentine Convent at Conway on Sunday, May 5 for the women of all faiths of the area.

The conference will be given by Rev. Paul McCarthy, O.M.I., from Gary, Indiana. The Day will begin with Holy Mass 10 a.m. and will close about 4 p.m. Coffee and rolls will be served after the Mass and dinner after 1:30 p.m.

Reservations may be made by calling 317-3677, or by mail to the Sacramentine Monastery, Box 66, Conway, Mich. 49723, or to Mrs. J. Schneider, Over Bay Rd., Petoskey, Mich. 49770 or in the Charlevoix area with Mrs. C.B. Golen, LI 7-6719.

UM to study Jordan-Boyne school merger

EAST JORDAN -- A University of Michigan team of education specialists has been retained to study the proposed merger of East Jordan and Boyne City school districts.

The university team is expected to provide answers to the what a merged district's long-range needs and potential would be.

In Vietnam

EAST JORDAN -- Army Specialist Four Charles F. Haney, 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Haney, 316 State St., is in Vietnam with the 6th Battalion of the 31st Infantry Regiment.

The battalion was reactivated Nov. 1, 1967 and spent four months training and organizing at Ft. Lewis, Wash., and 18-day airift operation moved the unit and most of its equipment to Vietnam where it will become the 10th Maneuver Battalion of the 2nd Infantry Division following a short period of additional training.

VFW women hold district confab

Department of Michigan, Veterans of Foreign Wars and their Auxiliaries of District 13 will hold their District Convention at Lake Leelanau on Sunday, May 5.

A Turkey dinner will be served by Hostess Auxiliary of Post 7731 at 12:30 p.m., followed by registration, election and installation of District officers.

Permits ok'd for 2 houses

CHARLEVOIX -- The City has issued two building permits for new houses so far this year. The permits were issued to:

Top film entertainment on tap in area this week

by Pat Begrow
Two good movies will be playing in the Charlevoix area this week.

The Academy award-winning motion picture "In the Heat of the Night" will be playing at the Temple Theatre in Petoskey on May 1, 2, 3, and 4. This picture won five Academy awards including best picture and best actor which went to Rod Steiger. Sidney Poitier and Rod Steiger.

Action and Reaction

er, two fine actors and off screen friends play antagonists in this film.

The movie takes place in a small town in the deep South where false pride, bigotry and violence run riot. This fine film is supported for adult audiences only. Tickets are $1.50.

HERE IN CHARLEVOIX next weekend May 3, 4 and 5, the Palace Theatre is presenting a comedy program "Who's Minding the Mint?" which is a full length feature, and Goody's Freeway Trouble, a cartoon special.

I have seen "Who's Minding the Mint?", but I'm going to make a point of seeing it. The movie sounds like a crazy slapstick film so preposterous that it's plausible. Two of my favorite comedians star in the movie, Milton Berle and Bob Denver known better

Get WMU degrees

More than 1,500 Western Michigan University students were awarded degrees during the winter semester commencement ceremonies held April 20 in Reed Field House, Kalamazoo.

Receiving degrees from this area were: Benjamin L. Brotherton, Master of Science, Carol Kathleen Maringe, Boyne City, Bachelor of Science, and Henry Keith Wagner, Charlevoix, Bachelor of Science.

On Sunday evening the Interlochen Arts Academy will present a choral concert at 7:30 at which they will sing the Brahms Requiem. Tickets for interlochen performances are $1.25 for adults and fifty cents for children under twelve. All of the money for these performances goes into the scholarship fund.

IF YOU WANT to drive down to Interlochen early the student dining room is open to the public. The meals are good and the prices nominal. For instance this coming Sunday night the student supper of either soup and a casserole, or cold cuts is $1.40. The dining hall is a pleasant airy room and it's fun to eat with the students.

For me it's always a treat to walk around the grounds of Interlochen, view the student art exhibits and finally to enjoy a delightful concert.

City plans street resurfacing

CHARLEVOIX -- An extensive street improvement program-most of it in the Valley -- was approved Monday night by City Council.

The $17,392 program calls for resurfacing and other work on Antrim, Park, Grant, Clinton, Mason, Sherman, Upright and Cherry streets and building and paving the controversial road into Ilampan Village off May St.

Streets scheduled to be covered with a coat of smooth tarmac are Park, from Grant to Antrim; Grant, from Antrim to the channery; Clinton, from State to Park; Mason, from State to Park; Sherman, from Antrim to Park; Upright, from Lake to Sherman, and Cherry from Neeb to Park Now.

NEW CURB IS planned for ing and paving the controversial road into Ilampan Village off May St.

Construction of Ilampan Village, according to the street program and new city budget, will cost $15,925. Of this the developer, James Ritchie, is expected to repay $8,200.

The city's share, $7,725, will be partially paid by property owners in the area through a contested special assessment. Mayor Bill

Fochman said the special assessment will not go on the tax roll until June of 1969.

Property owners protested the special assessment in court this winter. City Attorney John Michael argued that they could not bring a suit against the special assessment until it was levied.

The three, concert judges all gave the band a 11, and the sight-reading judge gave the band a 1, making it a final rating of 11.

Clarence Omark, band director, stated that the general criticism of all the concert judges was that the band lacked precision and clarity, due largely to the size of the group (95 players).

Judges were Thomas Tyra, Eastern Michigan University; Wm. Moffett, Michigan State University, Stanley Bauman, Elkton, Michigan, and Dacho Dacho of Ferris State College.

The Band left early Saturday, stayed overnight at the Post Tavern Motor Inn in Battle Creek, and returned to Charlevoix Sunday afternoon.

Chaperones for the group were Mrs. Frances Hooper, Mrs. Betty McBride,

Mrs. Jeanne Miles, Mrs. Shirley Lusk, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bartlett and Mr. and Mrs. C.A. Omark. Drivers were Mrs. Barbara Wolgamott, Mrs. Marge Gengle, and Harold DeYoung. Gordon Wolgamott also accompanied the group.

Free glaucoma tests to be offered here

Free eye tests for all persons 40 years-old and older will be given May 16 and 17 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Charlevoix High School.

The free testing program is sponsored by the Charlevoix Lions Club, Northern County Medical Society and District Health Dept.

"The glaucoma screening program could save you from blindness, because glaucoma in its early stages is not easily detected," Dr. Robert L. Libke, District Health Dept. director said.

"THE TESTING is painless, takes only a few minutes and could save your sight," Dr. Libke added.

The testing station will be manned by a local doctor, nurse and clerk, all of whom are volunteering their services.

About two percent of the population over 40 suffers from glaucoma, Libke said. Glaucoma can be treated with good results if discovered early, he explained.

New manager at Stover Creek

CHARLEVOIX -- Norman Coolman of Elsworth has taken over as manager of Stover Creek Marina, at the foot of Ferry Ave., according to Hal Forbue, owner.

Coolman, a former automobile salesman, said the marina will handle the same lines of boats and motors as last year.

Old Enough To Know

When my work is finished for the day I like to stroll out here of a late afternoon to look over the fields and hills and to watch the sun set, forget worries, petty annoyances and self, yes, and to pray and give thanks. It seems to aid me in evaluating the deeds, words and thoughts of the day, to enable me to separate the worthwhile from the unworthy that I may avoid repeating past mistakes. In short it acts as a means of bringing me closer to our Heavenly Father.

Don't misunderstand me though. While I gain inspiration and help from these moments of solitude, spent close to nature, they do not take the place of regular attendance at church. They cannot do that for the Church is a place of fellowship and I am old enough to know that church going gives you a sense of security and contentment that nothing else can.

CAPITALIZED GOVERNMENT — The national government now supplies state and local governments with 14 per cent of their revenues in federal aid programs, making them more dependent on and subjecting them to more controls from Washington, according to Sen. Strom Thurmond (R-S.C.), when federal aid programs are estimated to reach $136 billion, up 250 per cent since 1956.

Charlevoix winter colony visited on Florida coast

By BERNICE WEXSTAFF
"I see by the paper" that the annual Charlevoix picnic has been scheduled for Florida's west coast Charlevoixians. It is fortunate that of our local winter vacationers are concentrated on the Gulf coast in the St. Petersburg - Tampa area. Such an affair would be virtually impossible on the Atlantic side, for several reasons.

Of course, there are enough Charlevoix vacationers on the East coast, but they are scattered from the Georgia border to Key West -- over 500 hundred miles -- which makes a bit too much distance for an easy get-together.

The Earl Millers (Earl and Margaret) of West Dixon avenue are in Jacksonville Beach with their nephew Franklin. Left, a former Charlevoix and Beaver Island resident who now makes his permanent home in that north Florida city.

Jan (Mrs. C.M.) Bice resides at Ormond Beach while P.R. and Phoebe Ross make Holly Hills, north of Daytona, their winter home. Dr. Win. Heister, formerly of 222 Michigan avenue is making his year round home in Daytona.

Mrs. Ralph Hees, the John Schroeder and the Karl Erbers are in the Palm Beach area where they have purchased permanent winter homes.

Mrs. Mildred Webster is making her winter-time home with her son, "Bud" and family in the northwest sector of Miami. Marva (Mrs. Frank) Poole in the northeast section. Ruth (Mrs. Wm.) Mitchell, "Babe" (Leona) Smith, now Mrs. R.M. Bears, Larry Ecklund, Frank Nowland and Jerry Simpson have lived away from Charlevoix in the Miami area for so many years that it is doubtful if they would be interested in any Charlevoix get-together at anytime.

The V.Y. Tuttle is giving up their apartment in Sanford, where they have spent winter for the past 5 years while their son, Capt. John Tuttle was stationed at the Sanford Navy installation, to make their home year-round in Charlevoix.

Of course Aulo and Helen Guld and Ted and Myrtle Gibson at Rio Martin Mobile Home Park in Stuart must not be overlooked as they are true Charlevoixians who make the trek home every summer. And there is Margery Smith whose interests are still with us even though she makes her home at Delray. Margery's mother, Mrs. Pearl Partridge and her daughter Karen, and family, the James Lewises are a potent factor in keeping that interest focused on the old home town.

Lastly, Forrest and Anne Fowler, who have been spending winters on the Florida Keys for the past six years and who have more fun than anybody as they fill their days with personal exploration of the waters surrounding Little Torch and Big Pine Key.

Here the Fowlers have learned the tricks of the "Crackers" and at times live off the land. They have learned to oust the Florida lobster from its coral ledge hideaway and scoop it into their fishing boat, an outside metal canoe powered manually, or at times, by a 3 hp outboard motor, when they have had a rough day out on the Atlantic where the waves sometimes get a bit overwhelming for even their sturdy paddles.

The Fowlers gather chunks of coral and sponges in the shallows nearby the Key and fish the depths for red snapper, grouper and king, all prized table-fish of the sub-tropical waters.

With the variety of habitat and the distances involved between Charlevoix winter fun and sun seekers it is understandable why there has been no plan for a scheduled East Coast get-together in the winter vacation cities and the parks and campgrounds of Florida's long, long coast. A summer picnic in Charlevoix would be more feasible and like the Old Times Picnic of East Jordan folks, perhaps it would be more enjoyable and best attended during Venetian weekend.

SUZANNE Modorela, secretary at the Great Lakes Fishery Station, studies a display on salmon and trout planting success in the Great Lakes. This and other displays will help explain the Station's purpose at the open house tomorrow, Thursday, May 2, at 2 p.m.

Open house

Lake Huron, at Oscoda, and one on Lake St. Clair.

Persons under Keller's direction at the station, in addition to Palmer and Moffitt, are Robert Cromwell, fish culturist; Harold Wilson Jr., fisheries aid; Wayne M. Ryerse, boat crewman; William Shaw, maintenance; and Suzanne Modorela, secretary.

IN ABANDONING the hatchery building, the federal government also gave the state the brick veneer house and garage next to it, Keller and his family live in the house.

Keller expects a slip off the Pine River channel to be cut into the old Coast Guard station site for the Steelhead and other state boats. The Coast Guard gave the building on the site will be used as a bunk room and for net storage. Some of the property will be used for parking.

Ted Kibbe

day!" he adds, with confidence.

The seal and prey problem hasn't been whiped, but the government has learned how to do the job. Commercial fishermen are still taking startling amounts of lake trout.

But Kibbe believes technology and public concern are reaching the point where victory is certain for the Great Lakes fishery.

One of those intangible factors he believes is having a telling effect on the lake trout restoration program is Gene Mason, a Charlevoix resident, who is the federal government's coordinator for the program.

Kibbe first worked with Mason on a trout hatchery problem in Colorado back in 1932.

"You've got a good man there," he says. "We're lucky to have a man like Gene. His knowledge is from practical experience, not book learning."

Kibbe, now 68, and his wife Myrtle (the former Myrtle Gault) have seen much of the world and all of the United States.

His father, William, owned and sailed a three-masted cargo schooner out of Charlevoix for years and then joined the Coast Guard here. Her father was a Charlevoix blacksmith.

So they admit their attachment to Charlevoix may have something to do with "home-town" and childhood's strings. But they insist it is more than that.

"We could have retired anywhere, but we just hadn't seen any place more desirable than home," he explains.

Mostly his recollections of Charlevoix are of the naturally, concern the good fishing for trout and bass in former years. But he also grins over being run off Beaver Island when still a high school student.

As he recalls, it was probably about 1914. He and several other school students were taken into playing as a band for a minstrel-type team of a Charlevoix doctor and a minister who went around the area advocating prohibition. The anti-booze doctor decided to make an attack on the free spirits of Beaver Island.

Kibbe recalls all went well until they started playing the music in a hall on the island. About then islanders started storming. Pretty soon the doctor, minister and youthful musicians were in full flight, with stones, pelting their backs. Once they reached their boat the islanders dropped the attack.

That, Kibbe says, was his first and only trip to the island.

RENT SUBSIDY—President Johnson's proposal for direct rent subsidies to the needy (including those with annual incomes of $10,000) is "unconscionable," according to Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.). If the proposal is ever written in law, Ellender said, "we will be pushed even deeper on the uncharted seas of deficit spending in search of the promised land, or to use the current expression, the 'Great Society'."

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

Wednesday, April 24, through the cooperation of Michigan State Conservation Department we had shown their exclusive film "Coho," which was taken and edited here in Michigan. The attendance to this little party was very gratifying and it appeared everyone enjoyed this beautiful color film with action, information, etc. We were very fortunate to get this fine piece of work shown here and our thanks go to Myri Keller, expert biologist, administrator and supervisor of the Great Lakes Fishery Station here at Charlevoix. Keller certainly enjoyed answering the variety of questions that members of the audience asked after viewing this picture.

Another needed phase in our business is becoming a reality and that is Marge and Dean Davenport's "Mardian's Hobby Craft" near the north end of Bridge Street in the Bellinger building. There will be featured yarns, candles, feather craft, stain glass, artists supplies, plaster, DeCauwage originals, cellulose, and Italian glassware. At the moment they are away to two different ventures and qualified, watch for their opening.

I should like to point out to those of you who do not get up and down Bridge Street very often that the next time you do, take note to the fact lifting outside and the interior remodeling of the former Sugar Bowl, now known as Bay Chalet. It is shaping up in fine shape and certainly will add to the strip, not only a new front but good service and food.

Over at Dick Edwards' IGA supermarket things are in quite a turmoil also but yet food stuffs are available, while there is some remodeling and rearranging shelving etc. Inside the store which, when completed, will be more convenient to those pushing the carts. Dick has a nice new paint job outside also.

Information just received from Chuck England, public relations director, out at Consumers Power Company Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant indicates that very soon they expect to have had the 500,000th visitor at their center since the center had been opened. They had over 60,000 people there last year. Now in order for your summer visitors, the center's new schedule effective May 1 they will be open every day including Sunday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., continuing through October.

In addition to natural attractiveness and God's beauty, one must also have several outstanding man-made tourist attractions which also serve another purpose.

Again be reminded that on May 2, Thursday at 2 p.m. the Michigan State Conservation Department, the City of Charlevoix and the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce will sponsor an "Open House" at the Great Lakes Fishery Station down at the lake front on Palmer Street and the public is very much welcomed. There is a brief informal program scheduled and this will include a notable or two of Charlevoix and Conservation Department authorities, regional auditors and other dignitaries of the state and possibly federal government. You will have the privilege of inspection of the expanded sports fishery including the survey motor ship "Steelhead," Myri Keller, expert biologist, administrator, and supervisor of this facility will be available with a staff to assist you all reasonably possible. There is no question but what we are fortunate to have these good people among us and this most important facility stationed at Charlevoix. This event should be an interesting and memorable one.

Columnist finds most readers not chewing gum

by NORMA GLEASON
Editor & Publisher magazine says newspaper readership is highest among the upper income and better educated people while television is watched by those with lower income and education. Believe it.

It's interesting to note, as I go about my job, which people are familiar with what's in the paper. I've had time to make some offhand observations. People who read the paper thoroughly, in my view, fall into these categories: (1) community leaders, (2) heads of businesses, (3) people in public positions, (4) educated people, (5) intelligent people, (6) most people over 25.

You are reading this column, which category or categories do you fall into? Ten to one you're listed.

The kind of people I run into who don't read a paper (they're in the minority) are apt to be young, ungrammatical and gum-chewing.

Maybe that proves Editor & Publisher is right. Or maybe it doesn't prove a thing. But I think it's interesting.

Speaking of grammar: It's correct to say "It is I" and "This is she." Neither sounds too stiff, though they're a bit stiff. But did you ever hear anyone say, "That's we?"

You can find plenty of Irish bachelors today, though, not only on the radio, but in Irish settlements here in America. I could round up a dozen for you, if assorted.

City nears agreement to buy Baptist Church

CHARLEVOIX--Mayor Bill Fochtman Monday reported the city appears to be nearing agreement on purchase of the Baptist Church next to City Hall.

Fochtman said the city has agreed to pay $11,000 for the 78 by 99 foot lot and old church building. He estimated it will cost up to $1,500 to tear the building down.

The City, he said, may use the property to expand the fire hall, expand City Hall or for parking. City Hall, he said, is "filling up."

COUNCILMAN BOB Gill said the church's last proposal totaled between $13,000 and $14,000. This included $10,000, plus the city paying the cost of extending utilities to the church's new building site on M-66.

Rather than enter this kind of arrangement, Gill and Fochtman said they felt a flat offer of $11,000 from the city would probably be approved by the church.

Fochtman said recent property sales in the area were studied to arrive at the $11,000 figure. He pointed out the church's first price was $25,000.

The church, Fochtman said, is now seeking its second bids on its new building because the first bids came in too high. If the second bids are nearer to the architect's estimates of $85,000, Fochtman expects the sale of the old property to the city will be approved by the church.

IN OTHER MATTERS, the city approved the low bid of $2,023 on new mowers for the golf course.

It was also agreed to begin a study of raising city water and sewer and cemetery rates. Water and sewer rates, City Supt. Jim Taylor said, have not been revised since 1954. The cemetery rates were set in 1961.

It was also agreed that the city will seek a federal grant for construction of an interceptor sewer line from the corner of May and Garfield to Hampton Village. Estimated cost is $85,000. The new line would be large enough to serve a wide area, eventually reaching as far as Carpenter and Grant.

The council also agreed to revised plans for the float it is buying for the Chamber of Commerce. The initial plan for the float—a large pleasure boat—would have cost $1,400. The new plan calls for a small gondola on a throne platform, at a cost of $700.

A letter was received from Fred Baumgartner, lighting sales consultant for Consumers Power Co., praising the new Bridge St. lighting. Baumgartner said a survey with highly sensitive light meters shows the average foot-candles on Bridge in the downtown section is 5.22.

"I would personally like to compliment the City of Charlevoix on their superior street lighting installation," Baumgartner wrote. "The high illumination levels and handsome poles tell a visitor Charlevoix is a progressive community."

Bids were opened and referred to committee on a new aerial ladder truck for the electric department. Bids on the truck chassis ranged from the low bid of $3,296 from Charlevoix Oil Co. to $3,572 from Erber Auto Co. Bids on the aerial ladder, all from outside firms, ranged from $19,690 to $15,295.

Ellsworth village booster

Elmer Rood prods pride

ELLSWORTH--Elmer Rood is a Norwegian who speaks with the bass rumble in an accent you get used to in Ishpeming and Iron Mountain.

But in this community of conservative, close-knit Dutch families, people call Rood "Mr. Ellsworth."

He didn't inherit this informal honor by being the descendant of a pioneer family or having lots of money to loan or give away. He earned it, starting 43 years ago when he decided to commit his energy, talent and native determination to building a food canning plant and making it pay in Ellsworth.

There was the day back in the late 1920s when it looked like the cannery was sure to fold and a large competitor offered Rood a comfortable, secure job. Instead, he gave them an alternative: buy the Ellsworth plant and hold on to it for them or he'd make the Ellsworth plant successful without them.

The Chicago-based firm bought the Ellsworth plant. When it wanted to shut it down a few years later, Rood, once again, KO'd the idea by putting its own neck on the block for Ellsworth.

Due in large part to the cannery, Ellsworth is one of the few communities where agriculture is a major economic factor.

Twenty-one years later Rood retired as a member of the village council and superintendent of the cannery. He moved to Traverse City, where his second wife preferred to live. In 1965, when he became a widower for the second time, he decided that at 75 years-old it was time to come back home.

He frankly admits he did not like what he saw. The businessmen, he says, "had done nothing." The town's downtown area was becoming an eyesore.

Due to this seeming lack of "community pride," Rood says, Ellsworth had become an island of decay bordered by business, industrial and residential growth and progress to the north (East Jordan and Charlevoix).

With the community moving in reverse, its school system was threatened with extinction.

But Elmer Rood can get away with impassioned and indignant lectures about the need to invest a little money and pride in Ellsworth. No one can doubt his only motive is his love for Ellsworth.

And, though he says he's busy all the time, Rood literally gives over the opportunity to assist himself to Ellsworth. The boat he keeps down at East Jordan and the other one he keeps on a trailer in the backyard, along with his fishing rods, haven't had a workout all spring.

"I'm going to keep after them!" he says. "I suppose because I have a little pride left."

Supervisors meet
The County Board of Supervisors is expected to meet sometime next week for its regular monthly meeting, which is usually held the first Monday of the month.

The May meeting has been delayed due to Circuit Court being in session. The supervisors meet in the Court room. Mrs. F.R. Bulow, wife of the County Clerk, said no definite date has been set for next week's supervisors' meeting.

Approximately 100 men are assigned to the Bay Shore site. Their mission is to score giant Air Force bombers on their accuracy at mock bomb drops over nearby Lake Michigan.

The base has been re-equipped since it was destroyed by fire Dec. 28, 1967.

Most of the men and their families live in Charlevoix.

Col. Davidson, who will retire in four years with 30 years service, came to the base as commander of the 1st Air Force, AFBI, Ark., where he has been stationed 11 of the last 13 years.

A bomber pilot since World War II, this is Davidson's first assignment to a non-factual unit. However, he expects to continue to fly out of Wurtsmith AFB near Oscoda.

Davidson's permanent home is in San Antonio, Tex. His wife, June, and four children, ages 13, 12, 10, and 8, live in Arkansas. He is looking for a home in Charlevoix so the family can move up in June.

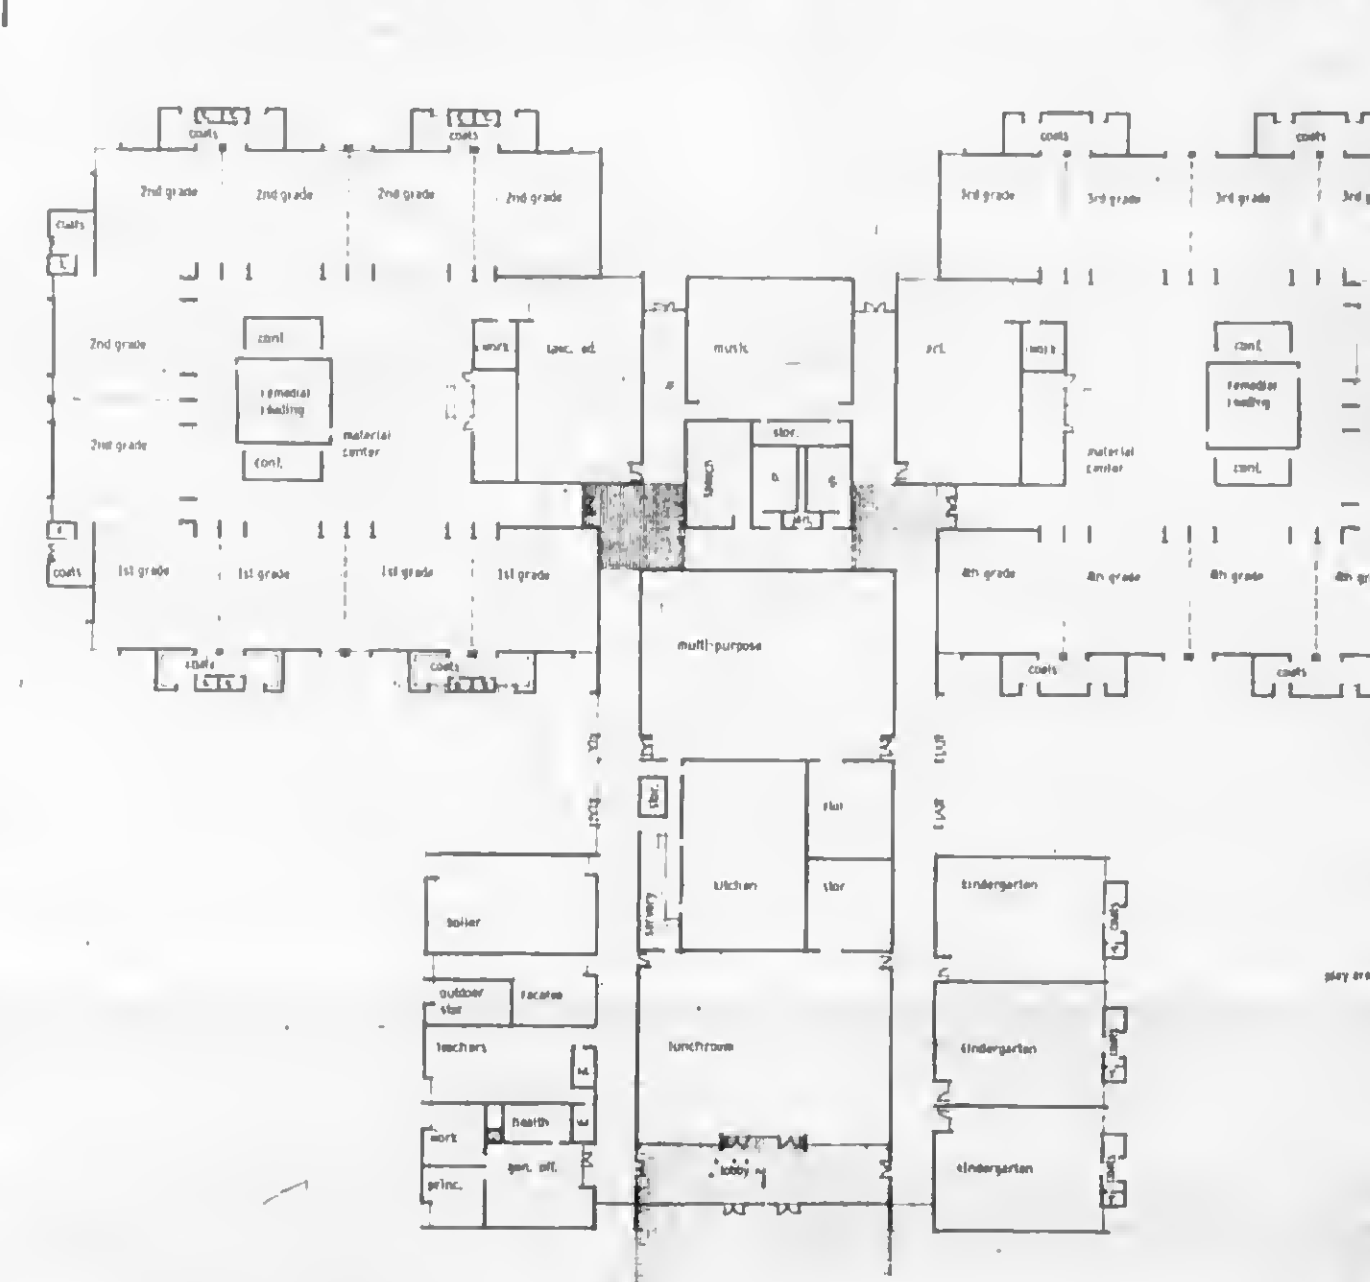

Maj. Zuidema will retire in June after 27 years service. He and his family live at 409 W. Hurley. They have been in Charlevoix two years. He is originally from Grand Rapids.

Floor plan for new grade school

THIS IS THE preliminary layout of the floor plan for Charlevoix's new north side elementary school. Regular classrooms, along the outer walls of the wings in upper left and right, are not divided by walls on the sides or front. The classroom areas are open onto an "instructional materials and study center." Each room area has its own bathroom and outside door. The rooms can be divided by folding partitions. The plan shown here will be revised so that grades one and two are in the right hand wing and three and four in the left. The multi-purpose and lunch room, center, will be combined, so that they are not separated by the kitchen.

Undivided classes ok'd

The Charlevoix school board Monday evening bolted traditional grade school design in giving preliminary approval to a floor-plan for the new north side elementary school which utilizes several new concepts.

Instead of walled cubicles for each classroom, as conventional schools are built, the new building's classrooms will not be divided by permanent walls. Though folding partitions will be available for dividing the rooms, they are expected to be left open.

The school will include three original wings, one for first and second grades, one for third and fourth grades and another for general use and kindergarten. More of these wings, or sections, can be added as needed, architect Olick Wiggins told the board.

In each of the two academic wings, open classrooms will be built around an "instructional materials and study center." The classrooms will be open on the front to the materials center, where teaching tools, books, visual aids, conference areas, etc., will be available.

With the folding partitions between classrooms open (which they are expected to be most of the time), each class will actually be using its portion of a large room. The classroom areas will be carpeted and acoustically treated to eliminate noise interference from the students and teachers working a few feet from each other.

School board members have been studying the new design and visiting other schools where it is being used for several months.

Each classroom area will have an outside entrance and bathroom. What few walls there are, plus the folding partitions, will be covered with chalk and tack board, so that all walls are "teaching surfaces."

Heat will come from the ceiling, which, Wiggins said, has proven highly successful in other schools. This, he said, avoids the clutter of pipes and fixtures on floors and walls. The difference in temperature between the floor and ceiling, he said, will not be more than two degrees.

The "open" design concept, Wiggins explained, makes team-teaching and upgraded teaching a practical possibility. Teachers, he said, can easily work with large groups, small groups or individuals.

The design, he added, also makes it possible to have little space wasted with corridors.

Mystery...

CHARLEVOIX -- A mystery has developed around who is having the industrial-type meal building constructed on U.S.-2, north, just beyond Kennedy Roadside Park on the south side of the highway.

Neither the contractor, Purvis Bros. of Traverse City, or property owner, Mrs. Emma Wells, will reveal who the building is being built for. Workmen at the site have refused to tell Mrs. Joan Blanchard, Charlevoix County tax assessor-director, who the building is for.

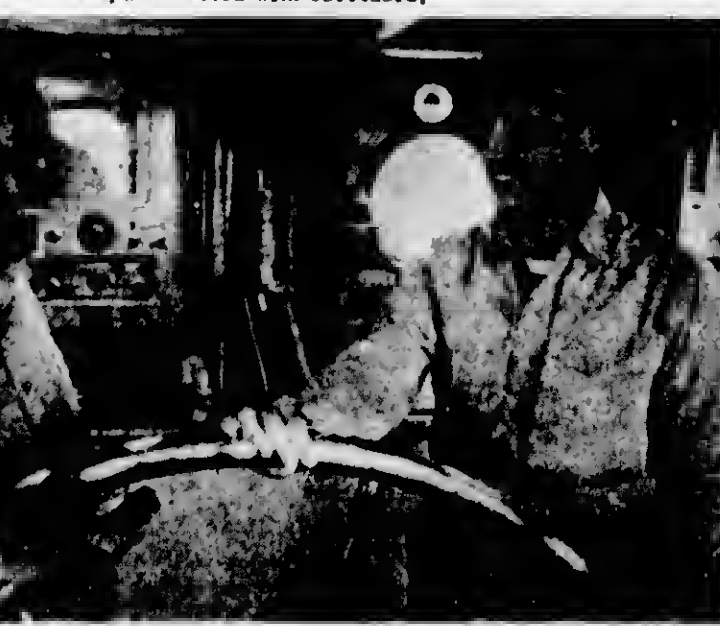

Mrs. Wells will only say she will have an announcement later. She did not say when.

HAYES TOWNSHIP Supervisor Leo Sheathen Jr. said he understands the building is for a food processing plant, which now occupies a building in the city's industrial park on Petoskey Ave. Hayes, however, does not have a zoning or building code, so Sheathen has no official record of who the building is for.

Paul Lietz denied the building is for his firm.

Ral Forberg, from whom Lietz Industries has been renting its present building, said it has been sold and will be occupied by a new industry, probably by early June.

Lietz said he has not been notified of the sale, but that his firm has property south of Charlevoix which it can use if it does have to move.

LEONARD GARRETT, right, has replaced John Uithol, left, as commander of the Sundew.

Leonard Garrett takes over

LT. Cmdr. Leonard Garrett, 33, last Thursday took over command of the Coast Guard buoy tender Sundew from LT. Cmdr. John Uithol.

A ten-year veteran of the Coast Guard, this is Garrett's first ship command, though he has served on other buoy tenders on the West Coast. It is also his first tour of duty on the Great Lakes.

A native of Seattle, Washington, Garrett and Uithol served together out of County doctor shortage worse than other areas

Charlevoix County has one doctor for every 2,214 persons, according to the Michigan Health Council.

The Council's figures are based on the county having a population of 15,000 persons for its seven doctors to serve.

Charlevoix County's one-to-2,214 ratio is in sharp contrast to the one doctor for every 363 persons in Emmet County and one doctor for every 1,225 persons in Antrim County.

The county's ratio of doctors is also far out of proportion with the entire state and northern Michigan area. On a state average there is one doctor for every 1,000 persons, in northern Michigan the ratio is about one doctor for every 900 persons.

However, the situation in the Charlevoix area is far better than the county-wide average indicates. In Charlevoix there are four doctors, who serve and estimated population of, say, 5,000 persons, making the ratio one doctor to every 1,250 persons.

The Charlevoix County and Charlevoix area ratio, however, cannot be considered an accurate reflection of medical services available due to the large number of Charlevoixians who doctor in Petoskey. Nearly all Boyne City, Boyne Falls and Walloon Lake people go to Petoskey doctors.

In addition to its seven doctors, Charlevoix County is reported by the Health Council to have eight dentists, 92 registered nurses and 39 practical nurses.

Local girl is dental hygienist

The Charlevoix Local Floride Program starts June 3 and lasts through June 10 according to Mrs. Jacqueline Klooster, chairman.

The program will take place in the basement of the New Library. The Dental Hygienist will be Miss Verena McClanahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle McClanahan. Children ages 3 and 4 and grades 2-5-6 are eligible to take part in the program.

On a state average there is one doctor for every 1,000 persons, in northern Michigan the ratio is about one doctor for every 900 persons.

With events breaking so rapidly in the news, it seems impossible to keep up with all that is going on in the world. Yesterday's news is today's history, but it is still useful, necessary even, for understanding today's headlines. There are some interesting personal history, and discuss its present significance in France and Europe.

NATO and Europe, by General Andre Beaufre. A French military authority presents a European viewpoint that may not be popular in the United States, but which deserves thoughtful consideration.

The Atlantic Community, by Drew Middleton. "A Study in Unity and Disunity." The author is a longtime foreign correspondent for the New York Times. In this book he discusses the divisive tensions that maintain a condition of continuing crisis in Europe, and emphasizes the great need for reunification of Europe and for an improved transatlantic partnership.

The Six Day War, by Randolph S. Churchill and Winston S. Churchill. The authors of this book are the son and grandson respectively of the late Sir Winston Churchill, both active journalists. The six day war, the 1967 Israeli-Arab confrontation, Young Winston was at the front. This is a brilliant, colorful, and dramatic account of the political and diplomatic aspects.

For Churchill fans, the libretto has the first volume, Part I and II of Randolph Churchill's definitive biography of his father, Sir Winston Churchill. These books deal with his youth, (1874-1900), a quarter century into which young Winston packed more action and adventure than most men encounter in a lifetime.

Plans for increased Coast Guard efforts to provide adequate assistance to the rising number of recreational boaters in the Charlevoix area and throughout the Great Lakes were announced by Rear Admiral Charles Tighe, Commander of the Ninth Coast Guard District.

The plans center around the co-ordinated use of Coast Guard small boats, aircraft and Coast Guard Auxiliary/yacht clubs for regular patrols in high boating density areas.

According to Admiral Tighe, who commands all Coast Guard forces on the lakes, "These efforts aim at finding and handling distress cases as soon and efficiently as possible--before life and property are endangered more by the passage of time and change in conditions."

Operational demands, particularly search and rescue work, he said, on Coast Guard units have been steadily increasing due to the large number of inexperienced boaters who take to the lakes in pursuit of pleasure and the coho salmon.

The patrol idea is designed to make more efficient use of available forces to meet the assistance requirements imposed by the large numbers of boaters.

Based to the plan is the delineation of areas by type of search and rescue (SAR) work and the deployment of adequate forces to each area to handle the workload.

The first SAR area is the "Close In" waters, characterized by high concentration of the boating activity, within three miles or so of Coast Guard Stations. SAR cases in this area are generally considered "non-critical" because the nearest shore and the proximity of other boaters greatly reduced the chances of loss of life or property.

The plans center around the co-ordinated use of Coast Guard small boats, aircraft and Coast Guard Auxiliary/yacht clubs for regular patrols in high boating density areas.

According to Admiral Tighe, who commands all Coast Guard forces on the lakes, "These efforts aim at finding and handling distress cases as soon and efficiently as possible--before life and property are endangered more by the passage of time and change in conditions."

Operational demands, particularly search and rescue work, he said, on Coast Guard units have been steadily increasing due to the large number of inexperienced boaters who take to the lakes in pursuit of pleasure and the coho salmon.

The patrol idea is designed to make more efficient use of available forces to meet the assistance requirements imposed by the large numbers of boaters.

Based to the plan is the delineation of areas by type of search and rescue (SAR) work and the deployment of adequate forces to each area to handle the workload.

The first SAR area is the "Close In" waters, characterized by high concentration of the boating activity, within three miles or so of Coast Guard Stations. SAR cases in this area are generally considered "non-critical" because the nearest shore and the proximity of other boaters greatly reduced the chances of loss of life or property.

For Churchill fans, the libretto has the first volume, Part I and II of Randolph Churchill's definitive biography of his father, Sir Winston Churchill. These books deal with his youth, (1874-1900), a quarter century into which young Winston packed more action and adventure than most men encounter in a lifetime.

She is survived by a son, Albert Jr., of New Orleans.

The Magic You Do

An old saying, nevertheless true, that "one gets out of anything just what they put into it." The magician taking the rabbit from an empty hat would seem to refute this statement. Yet one of two things is true. Either the rabbit was placed in the hat in a movement unseen by the audience or an illusion was created whereby the rabbit seemed to come from the hat. But regardless of how the trick is accomplished the magician had to "put in" many hours of work, study and practice before it was mastered.

The matter of getting much or little out of church membership and attendance depends considerably upon how much one "puts into it." There is comfort for the sorrowful, peace of mind for the worried, truth for the doubtful for those who will put themselves wholeheartedly into the church fellowship.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LOOER
CHAMBER MANAGER

In addition to other detailed articles recently published having to do with the open house and celebration at the Great Lakes Fishery Station at the old fish hatchery premises here, I should like to add that truly it was a memorable affair. The limited information program was impressive and the displays, the hatchery, and the survey ship Steadfast, seemed very interesting to the attendance. The co-sponsors, Michigan Conservation Department, City of Charlevoix, and our Chamber of Commerce did a fine job of arrangements.

To you lodging place operators, that is summer homes, cottages, cabins, motels, resorts, and restaurants, this is the last call for advertisements to appear in the new issue of the World Trade Week, May 19 to June 1, 1966. In addition, the Presidential "G" award will be made to two Michigan firms for their achievement in increasing the state's exports.

I am pleased to report another new member this week, Wise Window Cleaning and Floor Care, 306 W. Upright, I should like to point out "Floor Care" includes rug and carpet cleaning on your floors. Mr. Wise has been in this business now slightly over a year, I understand.

For your review at your Chamber of Commerce, The State of Michigan has many, many businesses, industries, etc., involved in world trade, a very high percentage, possibly more than the average person realizes. In Michigan there is a sizeable plan to observe World Trade Week, especially in the metropolitan area of Detroit, to include conducting special export workshop, export-foreign credit insurance, special speaking engagements for members of the Michigan Regional Export Expansion Council, television road table discussion of international trade, radio spot announcements, news releases, and arrangements with owners of spectacular electric signs to carry the message "This is World Trade Week, May 19 to June 1, 1966. In addition, the Presidential "G" award will be made to two Michigan firms for their achievement in increasing the state's exports.

Undoubtedly many of you have noticed at the south end of town where US 31 was widened and the junction of M 66, it has become quite attractive and considerably impressive to anyone driving in either direction in that area. The highway people needed the area and the grass is developing quite normally. You will notice in front of the various businesses as you travel along the highway that there are quite a number of islands - like places with curbing making it safer getting on and off this new strip of roadway. Along with the theme "Charlevoix, The Beautiful", coupled with the thinking and attitude of Mrs. Harry Ochs and the Garden Club and the writer, how about a program of planting flowers in these islands, yet this spring as there is time for summer and fall beautification at little expense of the property owners. There are two or three small islands of some bloom there already but it is the feeling of many persons there ought to be beds of flowers in all the islands and along this line probably the most colorful and with the least maintenance and expense would be the colorful old standby, petunias, I should like very much some comments from you readers.

Along this line of beautification, you probably recently read the announcement by the city of Charlevoix, they have proclaimed the week of May 19 to June 1, 1966, as "Fix Up and whatever else is necessary to bring about more beautiful Charlevoix. The program included a tour of the Rison Brothers Dairy, banquet in the Pick Port Shady Hotel and Detroit Tiger game.

An important 4-H leader's meeting will be held May 13 at 6 p.m. in the East Jordan City Hall. The purpose of the meeting will be to reorganize 4-H clubs for the summer program. Enrollment sheets will be available along with the project bulletins needed. Leaders are encouraged to come and bring a prospective leader with them. Garden and Horticulture club leaders will have an opportunity to discuss plans for spending the Sears Roebuck grant for this year.

On May 17 at 7:30 p.m. the 4-H older youth will meet at the Star School for an organization meeting, recreation, and refreshments.

The Charlevoix County Soil Conservation District sponsored Adrian's trip to Detroit with the Michigan Milk Producers Association sponsoring the tour in Detroit. The program included a tour of the Rison Brothers Dairy, banquet in the Pick Port Shady Hotel and Detroit Tiger game.

Seven girls were selected for outstanding clothing and knitting awards as follows: First "Senior Miss" award, Rebecca Rolson 14, Leader Mrs. Richard Noffke, Boyne City. Alternate "Senior Miss", Debbie Potter 17, Leader Mrs. William Potter, Charlevoix. First "Junior Miss", Sandra White 15, Leader Mrs. Robert Straw of Charlevoix. Alternate "Junior Miss", Delora White 13, Leader also Mrs. Robert Straw.

"Young Miss" award, Donna Shepard, Leaders Mrs. Leon Bartlett and Mrs. Jim Shepard. Rebecca Rolson and Sandra White will represent Charlevoix County at the State 4-H Show in East Lansing on August 20-23 as Dress Review winners.

Nancy Grutch of East Jordan was awarded a $5,000 merchandise certificate sponsored by the J.C. Penney Company of Petoskey, and Joyce Umor, East Jordan received honorable mention as second best in knitting.

The materials for the electrical projects were sponsored in part by the Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Company and Pete Johnson acted as electrical project judge. Jack Lucke of Petoskey judged arts and crafts. Miss Debbie Gruber and Mrs. Glenn Spears of Petoskey with Mrs. Byron Lightfoot of Harbor Springs judged clothing, knitting, and the Dress Review. County road mileage up since 1956

Charlevoix county's primary road mileage has increased by 6.5 percent since 1956, adding greater responsibility for the road commission, according to Jack P. Kitzgerald, county road engineer.

Charlevoix county now has 172.4 miles of primary (county) roads compared with 161.9 miles in 1956.

The trend of adding mileage to the primary system is state-wide, based on figures compiled by the County Road Association of Michigan. The state now has 25,156 miles of county primary roads compared with 23,020 in 1956, a gain of nearly ten percent.

Earl F. Rogers, engineer-director for the County Road Association, said the trend is significant because it depicts the growing importance of county arterials in moving greater traffic volumes.

Growth of the primary system also has created fresh problems in many counties because of the cost of construction and maintenance of major roads can be six to ten times greater per mile than for local roads, Rogers noted.

In the 1956-57 period major street systems maintained by Michigan municipalities increased by 1,041 miles while the state's secondary truckline system decreased from 2,896 miles in 1956 to 2,368 miles in 1967.

The shift of key roads to local administration resulted in part from the state's abandonment of previous trunkline highways which have been replaced by relocated expressways.

Rogers observed that many counties which have absorbed former state trunklines into their county primary systems have been confronted with great responsibilities in maintaining and improving the roads.

Despite relocation of trunkline traffic many of these counties primary roads now carry as many or more vehicles than they did when designating as state routes, Rogers said.

Grandvue Report

Last week at Grandvue, we welcomed Mrs. Trease Boyer of East Jordan and Mrs. Emma Whiteford, also of East Jordan. Leaving the facility to return home were Christina Loomis on April 27, and Esther Johnson on May 1. We are sorry to report the deaths of two patients, Mrs. Amy Beaudoin on April 23, and Mrs. Florence Crump on May 1. Our sympathies to the families of Mrs. Beaudoin and Mrs. Crump.

Employees enjoying recent vacations include Rose Nemes, Lillian Bennett, Lucille Joske, Aubrey Wilson, Ruby Chak, Maryann Suttler, and this week, Carol Nyland and Myrtle Nyland, who are vacationing in Missouri.

Some time during the month of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of East Jordan will give a birthday party for these patients. The birthday parties are due to the thoughtfulness and planning of Rev. Marcus Krake, pastor of the United Methodist Church of East Jordan, who is the Chaplain for Grandvue.

Rev. Krake also organizes Sunday evening Chapel services, which take place each Sunday evening and are sponsored by the churches in the area. Chapel services for the month of May will be conducted by the following churches: May 5, Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix; May 12, RLDS Church of Boyne City; May 19, United Methodist Church of East Jordan; May 26, Assembly of God Church of Charlevoix. Rev. Krake devotes much time to these programs, and also spends a great deal of time with the patients. Many thanks, Rev. Krake, for your thoughtfulness and service.

Celebrating birthdays this month are: Irma Hamish, May 10; Hylon Iliason, May 15; Charles Nowland, May 17; Anna Wulf and Lorana Alcott, May 20; Grace Bartlett and William Fleck, May 23; Effie Francisco, May 26; and George Ferris, May 31st.

THE RING TOSS became a game of real concentration and nimble fingers for some of the determined participants at Saturday's Band Boosters Fair.

IF ANY OF NEXT winter's Rayder varsity basketball hopefuls were watching, this young lady didn't make the basket, but she sure showed the kind of enthusiasm and style that is sure to please a crowd.

Finance Committee and as approved by the Common Council as a whole, be adopted retroactive to March 1, 1968.

Hot Seat wins county Michigan Week honors

The "Hotseat" produced by Paul Reed, Inc. of Charlevoix, has won the Charlevoix County Michigan Week Product of the Year award.

The award was presented last week to Paul Olsen, president, by John Hodge, event chairman, of Petoskey.

The Hotseat was initiated in 1957 by the Charlevoix firm. The Hotseat retains a person's body warmth when sat on by an ice fisherman, deer hunter, etc.

This is achieved by insulating material within the Hotseat's light vinyl cover, which appears to radiate heat of its own, but actually is only reusing the natural body heat of the person sitting on it.

Olsen reports his firm sold 120,000 Hotseats last year.

In addition to Hotseat, the firm is expanding its line of gun cases. Several new designs and materials are being used in the gun cases.

The Charlevoix plant has not been able to keep up with the orders for the new gun cases, Olsen said. To meet the demand, a plant is being set up in the old St. Ignace post office building, where 15 people will be employed to make gun cases.

Paul Olsen, left, president of Paul Reed, accepts the Michigan Week product of the year award for the firm's Hot Seat from John Hodge, area chairman.

Petoskey tops Rayders 76-42

by PAUL FIEDOREK
Charlevoix bowed to Petoskey in a dual track meet last Thursday for the second time. Petoskey picked up 76 points to Charlevoix's 42 points.

The week before Petoskey slipped Charlevoix 61-57 in a closer meet. Petoskey has shown a lot of improvement in all of their events over the earlier meeting this year and are likely to win the Huron Straits Conference meet this year.

The Northern Michigan Class C Conference track meet is scheduled for next Monday, May 13, and should prove to be another very exciting meet.

The following is the results of the meet with the first place times and distances shown:

440 run: Riley (P) Moses (C) Harbaugh (P) - 1:54.8.
100 dash: Hall (P) Chickerling (P) Washburn (P) - 1:20.4.
180 Low Hurdles: Doan (C) - 1:42.3.

880 relay: Petoskey 1:38.4, Charlevoix 1:42.3.

120 High Hurdles: Doan (C) - 1:10.5.

1 mile: Koway (P) Parson (C) - 5:04.2.

880 relay: Petoskey 1:38.4, Charlevoix 1:42.3.

120 High Hurdles: Doan (C) - 1:10.5.

Doan, Cross place in Central Mich. relays

by PAUL FIEDOREK
The Charlevoix Track Team attended the Central Michigan University Relays last Saturday which were held on the CMU campus at Mount Pleasant.

The CMU Relays are the nation's largest high school track meet with over 3,000 athletes from some 500 Michigan high schools competing.

Charlevoix made a decent showing this year, competing with 50 class C schools.

Charlevoix will travel to Oscoda this week Saturday for the Oscoda Invitational.

Ralph Doan placed third in the high hurdles with a time of 1:54.8 and Lee Cross placed fifth in the low hurdles with a time of 1:21.5. Both boys received medals for their performance.

The planting of 15 to 20 foot sugar maple on Dixon, Mark Hew, Cherry and Meech streets was not undertaken unilaterally by City Supt. Jim Taylor. Taylor attended meetings with forestry experts, read pamphlets and carefully studied the city's needs before launching the program.

The maple he planted were wild trees from the city's old golf club property. They are the right age and type to survive under conditions they were planted in. And they were transplanted "properly" according to the advice Taylor received from the experts.

Dozens more of these trees are available. So is the expert advice on how to transplant and care for them (Taylor's had it printed up in an instruction sheet). Both the trees and the instructions are free.

Enforce curfew Harbor building

RESEARCHING YESTER-YEAR'S Couriers for this week's column from our files we came across the item about the City Council adopting the 9:30 p.m. curfew for children 16 and under. This was done 26 years ago.

It got us to wondering. We recalled Mrs. Lillian Bergmann saying a few weeks ago that Charlevoix's juvenile delinquency problems are mushrooming and Boyne City's are declining. The only thing she could say Boyne City's improvement was the fact that police there are stringently enforcing their 9:30 p.m. curfew.

WE CHECKED WITH Charlevoix Justice John Connolly. How many parents or teenagers have Connolly had before him for violation of the curfew during his 18 years as Charlevoix's magistrate? Not a one, he told us!

So we did a little more informal checking. The people we asked, after a little casual thought, realized seeing teenagers on our streets after the curfew is a common thing.

Of course, burgeoning juvenile delinquency is also common throughout America. But it doesn't have to be. Charlevoix doesn't want it to be in their town.

Tree planting

THE CITY, BY planting 16 small maple trees has kicked off what must be a continuing program of citizen participation if our community is to preserve the pride and comfort we gain from our well-shaded avenues.

The planting of 15 to 20 foot sugar maple on Dixon, Mark Hew, Cherry and Meech streets was not undertaken unilaterally by City Supt. Jim Taylor. Taylor attended meetings with forestry experts, read pamphlets and carefully studied the city's needs before launching the program.

First town election...1857

No sooner were Mr. Dixon's party and effects landed on the beach, than the captain of the "Emeline," who was in bad odor with the Mormons, fearing an attack, set sail, and the schooner soon disappeared in the distance. Mr. Dixon had brought with him a considerable amount of supplies including a small boat and a quantity of lumber. Of the latter, a temporary residence was built on the beach, in which the family remained for the next three days. The current of the river was so rapid that the boat, when landed, could not be propelled against it, and the banks were so obstructed by overhanging trees, brush-wood, and fallen timber as to make towing impossible. The three days were spent in clearing a path along the south bank of the stream, then, by towing, the family and goods were transported up the river, and landed on the north shore, just where the stream leaves Round Lake.

On Dixon's arrival at this point he found a small Mormon settlement, it is not surprising that these people, who had to a common religious faith and constituted a settlement by themselves, should distrust the new comers. Mr. Dixon, in view of the troubles which had befallen him, and the frequent occurrence between the Mormons and Gentiles, had no reason to suspect, and plainly indicated that he was not welcome. There had been several times when the Mormons had been in good state of preservation when he had been in the settlement, and he had hoped to occupy it, but before he succeeded in getting up the river with his goods it was torn down. However, he soon had it so far rebuilt as to be able to occupy it as a temporary dwelling. Mr. Dixon had taught school in Ohio and Michigan and while teaching in Lansing had purchased 212 acres of land in Section 28 in what is now Charlevoix township. Upon a portion of this land the village of Charlevoix was originally planned and built.

At the time of the arrival of the Dixon family, there were only four or five families living in the vicinity. Mr. Dixon had an ox team and did some work on his land during that season. The following fall, on account of troubles between the Mormons and Gentiles, he thought it best to temporarily leave the neighborhood, and accordingly removed his family to Northport, where they remained a year. He bought a lot of land upon which he built a house, and during the year taught Indian school. In the fall of 1858 he returned to Pine River and lived in a house on the bank of the lake, and engaged in conflict with poverty that was so common to the early settlers. Being in poor health he was not equipped for the struggle as were those whose robust frames and toughened muscles enabled them to successfully defy the severest toil and hardships. He worked some on his land made hoops and taught Indian school. He was called upon to discharge public duties, and held the office of Justice of the peace, county clerk, superintendent of Schools, and in 1863-'64 represented the 14th Traverse district in the legislature. In 1868 Mr. Dixon planted the village of Charlevoix. His residence, however, has always been on the banks of Round Lake where in 1872 he built a commodious dwelling.

The first town election in the town of Charlevoix occurred last Tuesday in May 1857. There were ten voters cast by the following named persons, Galen B. Cole, Geo. F. Preston, James Young, Calvin Thompson, F.W. May, John S. Dixon, S. Chambers and Misses Kidder. Galen B. Cole was elected supervisor, and the town board was composed entirely of Mormons.

Mr. Welcott, feeling there was likely to be continual trouble with the Mormons, threw up the project of a business partnership with Mr. Dixon and left the place.

For a few weeks, the current of events seemed to run smoothly, no ripple on the surface being caused by anything of greater importance than the loss by Mr. Dixon, of a new lumber wagon and three sugar kettles, said to have been stolen by the Mormons. The wagon had come on board a vessel by way of Mackinac, it was not immediately put together for use, but, with the kettles, was stowed away in an old shanty used for an out-house. Two weeks after, having occasion to use it, the theft was discovered. On mentioning the loss to some of the Mormons, they denied, with a calmness and self-control that was almost convincing, having any knowledge of it. Two of the women, however, when the subject was spoken of in their presence, by their visible agitation convinced Mr. Dixon that they were in the secret. Careful inquiries and the course of subsequent events seemed to make it certain that nearly all the men in the vicinity were privy to the theft. Some of the women particularly the two alluded to above, had strenuously opposed and denounced the proceeding. Mr. Dixon eventually recovered the wagon and two of the kettles, which were found on Beaver Island, after the breaking up of the Mormon settlement.

HOLY ISLAND

A few weeks after the incident already mentioned, the Mormons held their first celebration on Holy Island, it being what they termed a "feast of first fruits." The party from Beaver Island, consisting of about fifty men and women with King Strong among them, made the journey in boats, and spent the night on the island which has since been known by the name of Holy Island.

When they returned, the next day, Mr. Dixon noticed that some of the boats were towing long timbers. Mr. Dixon was absent. As the boats, with the timbers in tow, passed down the river in front of the house, in charge of a few men, the other members of the party filed along the path, back of the house toward the mouth of the river, having landed from the boats at the residence of one of the Mormon families, on the shore of Pine Lake. Suspecting mischief, and being somewhat alarmed, Mrs. Dixon resolved to ascertain what was going forward. A Mormon neighbor to whom she applied declined to give her any information, but said she wished to go and ascertain for herself she would not be harmed. Following the party downward toward the mouth of the river, she found that they had crossed to the South Side, and were standing in a group, on an elevation, with Strong in their midst. Some of the men were busy themselves with drawing the timbers out of the water, and some were bringing a grade. Asking what they were going to do, she received for reply that they were about to erect a gallows, on which should be hanged all who violated their laws. Frightened at what seemed impending danger, Mrs. Dixon returned to the house.

After the Mormons had gone the gallows was found standing, with four roughly carved images of men hanging by the neck, and another standing erect on the frame. On one of them was the figure of a coffin, drawn with red chalk, and three men walking away from it, with the inscription: "Dixon, successor to the Pine River Murders, in his dying hour abandoned by his friends. On and was the inscription: "May his day be few, and his name be lost and blasted among men. God send that the prayers and those of our wives and children, for vengeance."

In August the Mormons were invited to the arrival of Richardson, Gekke, Page and Nickels from Beaver Island.

At the close of the summer, Mr. William Sterling, his wife and infant child, arrived from Elk Rapids, and were received into the house occupied by the Dixons.

Hearts full of fear and hatred

A national journal quoted a young Detroit suburbite as saying the other day that several years ago "it didn't matter beans" to him who moved in next door.

Now, as riot followed, he's dead set against the integration of his neighborhood.

"If they want to burn, let them burn themselves, not me."

The suburbite was called typical. Out! It's all too bad, as any Negro leader would tell you.

All he's doing, they would say, is soothing a guilty conscience for living in a prejudiced, all-white world. In spite of self-avowed liberal views, he is becoming an advocate of prejudice while blaming "them" for the change of heart.

It's a familiar route to a psychologist. WHAT WAS IT like in Detroit during the assassination crisis?

It began like any other day, only you had the realization that something disastrous had happened.

"It might change this country forever," as one reporter put it.

On TV the night before, a Negro newsman had warned anxiously, "the best friend the white man had is dead."

Down town was as busy as ever. Dr. King's death was on everyone's lips; secretaries at lunch counters talked about it. Bay patrons pursued it, as did construction workers on a smoke break, pickets on a picket line, and friends meeting by chance on a street corner.

There seemed to be a tension in the air. No panic. Just tense.

It seemed that black and white people passing along the sidewalks looked nervously at each other, as if each knew that another July would be tomorrow.

Or maybe it was a questioning look that said, "do you really feel about me?" Or about Dr. King. Who should be afraid of whom?

THEN at 3 p.m. the alarm sounded. It was curfew time again. Everyone

Judge Brown orders two men to prison

Circuit Judge Charles Brown issued the following divorces last week, according to County Clerk Pete Bu-low's records:

James A. Nelson and Jane A. Nelson, Kalamazoo, Michigan, and Jack D. Wingo, Louis E. Wingo and Irene L. Wingo, Petoskey, Michigan, were divorced last week. The divorce was granted by Judge Brown in the Circuit Court of Charlevoix County.

Two Charlevoix county men were sentenced to Southern Michigan prison, two others were placed on probation and four other persons arranged before Judge Charles Brown during the opening day of circuit court here Monday.

Joseph H. Washburne, 36, of Boyne City was sentenced to two and a half to 10 years in Southern Michigan prison. Judge Brown ruled he was to receive credit for 72 days served in the county jail. He pled guilty earlier to breaking and entering.

Kenneth B. Chanda, 22, of East Jordan, was sentenced to two years in prison for breaking and entering. He was referred to the probation officer for investigation. She was remanded to the county jail to await sentence.

Jerry C. Harrington, 27, of Petoskey and San Antonio, Tex., pled guilty to a charge of breaking and entering. He was sentenced to two years in prison. He was referred to the probation officer for investigation. She was remanded to the county jail to await sentence.

Keith West of Petoskey pled guilty to a reduced charge of simple larceny (originally breaking and entering) and was referred to the probation officer for sentence recommendation.

Manion Blakelock, 60, of Elmira, charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, was sentenced to 18 months probation and order to pay $45 fine and costs.

Justice John Connolly reports the following cases:

Leander Sams, 36, Holland, reckless driving, $55.50 plus fine, no registration plates on motor vehicle, $21.10 or 10 days in jail and no proof of insurance, $15.10 or five days in jail. He was committed but later paid and was released.

Glen Sheppard, Charlevoix, driving with an expired driver's license, $10; Chester Smith, driving with an expired driver's license, $10.

Michael D. Harrington, Riverside, Illinois, basic speed law, $15.75; Charles James Elsworth, basic speed law, $15; Stanley F. Dombrowski, Hamtramck, basic speed law, $15; Paul W. Loucks, Detroit, basic speed law, $15.

Steven A. Miller, 22, Detroit, speeding, $20; James L. Greiner, 24, Petoskey, stop sign violation, $10; Roger W. Mays, 18, Boyne Falls, speeding, $20; Thomas Grose, 19, Charlevoix, speeding, $30; Owen D. Brotherton, 30, Petoskey, speeding, $10; Richard Del Baker, 19, Charlevoix, speeding, $30; Michael T. Farley, 20, Charlevoix, speeding, $10; Stanley F. Smith, 27, Charlevoix, speeding, $30.

Michael R. Crawford, 17, St. James, no registration plates on a motor vehicle, $15.75; Charles James Elsworth, basic speed law, $15; Stanley F. Dombrowski, Hamtramck, basic speed law, $15; Paul W. Loucks, Detroit, basic speed law, $15.

Police car hit in rear

The city police car, a blue Oldsmobile, was struck in the rear, causing minor damage, while police officer KanSweet was patrolling an accident last week.

The cruiser was struck at 2:45 a.m. Friday while parked on Michigan Ave., where Sweet was taking information from the drivers involved in a minor property damage accident.

Doug McDougal, driver of the car which hit the cruiser, was charged with driving under the influence of liquor. He pled not guilty in Justice John Connolly's court. Trial will be held later.

Annually almost all the country's navy beans are grown in Michigan. 7,385,000 hundred-pound bags of 'em to be almost exact.

Why Hesitate?

Last week our pastor said something in his sermon that keeps coming into my mind: "It is a common practice for us to invite a friend, neighbor or newcomer to have lunch or dinner with us, to accompany us to the ball game or other sporting events, but how often does it ever occur to us to say 'come to church with me?'"

There's Al, who moved here over six months ago. I've invited him to do just about everything except go to church with me. For some reason I've been hesitant and reluctant, a trace of embarrassment, as though he might think I was trying to pry into his personal affairs. No good reason to feel this way though. Al doesn't attend any church, so when I meet him for lunch today I'm giving him the best invitation one fellow can extend to another — "COME TO CHURCH WITH ME."

What a night!

Skillie stood out like bleach bottle on lake

by GLEN SHEPPARD

There aren't many nights in a lifetime like last Friday.

Making such an evening even more precious is the fact so few people are aware of them or know how to savor them.

"Think of all the people back there," Jim Alapouch sort of mumbled as he gestured toward Charlevoix, "who don't even know this is out here." You couldn't have bought Jim's thought and pleasure with the biggest house and finest car in Charlevoix.

We were about a third of the way between Charlevoix and Beaver Island on an impromptu trip that started about 7 p.m. as a bass fishing junket into Lake Charlevoix.

As we turned my boat out of the slip in Round Lake I suggested, "Let's go to the Beaver for a beer."

Most people would have asked to be dropped at the dock. Jim just sorta grinned and purred something I interpreted to mean, "Yeah." Jim Bellinger topped the tanks off and seconded our decision.

Clearing the Pine River piersheads we could see the north end of Beaver—a rare view at 30 miles from the seat of a 20-foot boat.

A few minutes out and we could see the lighthouses at Skille, Gray's Reef and White Shoal. They looked like giant beach bottles floating a few yards away. Only a few minutes more and we could see the Mackinac Bridge. It seemed so close I strained to see if I could pick up the ears crossing.

Jim sat back smirking and muttering about how rich we were. Stuff like, "I never saw it like this." "Whatta lake!" "I was rich I wonder what I'd be worried about now."

An hour and 15 minutes and six gallons of gas after leaving Bellinger's dock, all of it at slow cruising throttle, and we were tied up in St. James. (The harbor buoys were not then set, causing some minor confusion. A newcomer to the harbor could have missed his course and hit bottom. They should have been set.)

We decided to have one beer at the Shamrock and one at the Beachcomber (recently

Construction of a $34,000 sewer interceptor line, which would eventually serve nearly all unserved residential areas in the southeast and southwest sections of town, is being considered by City Council.

The interceptor would be a 12-inch line up May St. from Belvedere to Gerfield (the high school corner). No homes would tap into the line. It would serve as a collection line into which other new lines would later feed sewage.

An And Arbor engineering firm has estimated it will cost another $93,000 to add service lines to the interceptor to serve the area from the high school to Hampton Village. This cost, Mayor Bill Fochtman said Monday, could be covered by special assessment and, possibly, revenue bonds.

As property owners request, he said, more service lines could be added until virtually all unserved residential areas of the city have sewer.

He said the interceptor can be financed with electric or water fund reserves.

Births

A son was born May 5 to Mr. and Mrs. Clifford D. Kenney of East Jordan.

A son was born May 7 to Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Kovach of Charlevoix.

A daughter was born May 11 to Mr. and Mrs. Larry L. Essenberg of Ellsworth.

New physical fitness kick stirring up lots of action

by PAT BROWN
Well all of this bicycling, running and jogging around town, finally got to me last week so I thought I'd just find out about it for myself.

I live on the edge of town which is where the action usually isn't, that is, until just lately.

All sorts of gals who look like they're in good condition to me go jogging by, either alone or in company.

Where are they going? What are they doing? Simple. They're taking up aerobics, the new physical fitness program developed by the United States Air Force.

As far as I can see there are two features of this program that make it more palatable than any other physical fitness program.

The first good feature is that the program strives to improve the whole body, heart, lungs, muscles, not just to perfect a special area like the shoulders or the thighs.

The second good feature is that there is an accurate measurement for determining each individual's physical fitness, and there is a measured plan to raise that level.

The criteria for physical fitness is simple—how far can you run, walk or jog in twelve minutes? If it's less than one mile, you're in Category 1. Very Poor. If you can't run 1.75 miles or more in twelve minutes you are in Category 2, Excellent.

Hopefully none of my reading public is in Category 1, but just in case that you're not in Category 2 either, you might want to do something about it.

This something is aerobic exercises. They are a program of exercises that you can choose for yourself. Swimming, golfing, and handball all qualify. Running is popular because it is the least time consuming way to achieve good health. This is because with the aerobic system each exercise is given a point rating. If you run 30 minutes a week no matter in which sports you can gain and maintain good health.

The route to success is clearly and convincingly mapped out by Kenneth H. Cooper, M.D., M.P.H., Major, U.S. Medical Corps in his new book Aerobics published this year.

Many of you may have seen Major Cooper when he appeared on the Today Show with Hugh Downs. He had Hugh and Barbara Walters both exclaiming with his aerobic program.

Major Cooper's book is in a $1 size pocket edition by Bantam and portions of it were published in This Week Magazine and in Reader's Digest. This summer it will be a book-of-the-month club selection.

If you're not in Category 2, and want to get there, get busy and exercise.

I hope that you remembered that in Petoskey tonight, May 15, "The Magic of the Stage" program will be given by the professional theatre group of the University of Michigan. The presentation begins at 8 in the high school auditorium. Admission is $1.

On Sunday May 19, there will be a reunion of Father Marquette's landing at the Soo. This program will be in conjunction with the Centennial which is being celebrated this year.

If you feel like a real workout away from it all this is tulip time at Holland, Michigan. The festivities start today and last until Sunday. I've heard that this is a spectacular sight. Whether it's worth fighting the crowds I just don't know. I suppose it just depends on how much you like tulips.

Since the Waterfront Fair is the result of so much artistic enthusiasm on the part of Charlevoix residents, I expect that many of them are members of the "TOP O' MIT Artists and Craftsmen" and will be attending the May 16, meeting at the Holiday House in Petoskey.

Member or not, everyone is invited to attend the short meeting which begins at 8:30, a painting demonstration film shown by Harry Gruber, the twelve o'clock lunch and an afternoon program beginning at one o'clock.

At that time Carol Wald, artist, teacher and jury member will present a program demonstrating with colored slides the development of an artist.

Miss Wald is an artist of exceptional merit herself who has presented several one-man shows and who has exhibited nationally. She attended the Detroit Society of Artists and Crafts, The Skowhegan School of Painting in Maine, and the Cranbrook Art Academy. Her program should be a good one.

Frost damage feared to area fruit trees

The heavy frost during the latter part of last week has reportedly caused considerable damage to area cherry orchards.

According to cherry growers, a complete appraisal of the damage has not yet been possible.

David Rosenthal on the Barnard Rd. said he fears as many as 50% of the buds on his trees may have been damaged. Around 25% were hit before last week's frosts, Rosenthal said.

Mrs. Howard Stephens on the Boyne City Rd. said her husband reports "considerable" damage to both his sour and sweet cherries.

Ed Rehman, county agricultural agent, said the frost may have done minor damage to alfalfa crops, but other field crops were not far enough along to be hurt.

Pasture, Rehman said, has been slow coming this spring due to the dry, cold weather.

Elliot and Mable Bird returned to their home in Flint Sunday after spending the weekend in their local home.

The fishing is getting more interesting each day. Ross Alexander caught a three and a half pound Mackinac trout south of the ferry this Sunday morning. It has been quite some time since a Mackinac has been caught here so we know they are still with us.

Sharon Nelson was taken to the Charlevoix Hospital Saturday evening for emergency appendicitis surgery. We extend our best wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Friend and three children of Petoskey and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Alexander and daughter were guests this Mothers Day Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Alexander.

Virginia and Susan Saunders, Connie and Kelly Smith and Diane Alexander from the church youth group cleaned the church yard this Saturday afternoon and later enjoyed refreshments of ice cream and cookies on the picnic table in the Ross Alexander yard. We wish to thank them for their efforts.

Home for Airmen

THE AIR FORCE'S decision to make its Bay Shore radar bombing unit a permanent installation came as a relief to many area business and civic leaders. For years some of us have been silently concerned about the inevitable jolt our local economy would experience if the Air Force decided to suddenly move its "temporary" unit.

Most of the more than 100 persons assigned to the Bay Shore site have chosen Charlevoix as their home. Our schools, housing, retail business and other factors have been geared to serve them. The airmen and their families have expressed their appreciation of Charlevoix's readiness to treat them as one of the community family and sincere desire to help make them as "at home" as possible. Which, of course, is why the site's personnel and commander have consistently decided to live here.

During its five years of temporary status, the site's families have continually found the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce eager to help them find homes and acquaint them with the community. Though the truth may be that the Air Force placed the Bay Shore unit on permanent status due only to military considerations, it is nice, and probably not completely unrealistic, to think the decision was based in a big part on their satisfaction with community relations.

Let's celebrate

As we have watched in almost stunned disbelief at the instantaneous reaction of Ellsworth business and civic leaders to Elmer Rood's challenge to re-find their community pride, an idea struck us.

We hope our Ellsworth friends won't mind our putting forth this suggestion: How about a Charlevoix-Ellsworth carnival-type celebration sometime in, say, September or October to show off Ellsworth's new face? The downtown portions of Center and Main streets could be closed off for the event some Saturday afternoon.

By early fall Ellsworth's downtown restoration should be nearly completed. So maybe the two Chambers of Commerce could start planning now on a two-community celebration.

Ordinary citizens

IN THE VERY best spirit of Lettizen participation, Steve LaBlance has helped organize a volunteer group which is working nights to dig up the facts on what merging Charlevoix Township and the city will mean. A myriad of relatively simple, but crucial questions are being studied so that answers will be ready in a week or so.

This move is long overdue. Growth is giving both the city and township problems. Together they can be sanely solved. Separately each solution is only a necessary compromise.

With LaBlance and the others on the new committee attacking the problem with common sense and common humility, we suspect the long-awaited answers will be available, in understandable language, before the summer season begins.

Three cheers for what ordinary citizens can do when they decide to take an interest in public affairs.

Call it a 'reunion'

Old-timers picnic needs boost

by BERNICE WEXSTAFF
Progress is slow on the "volunteer" department to promote an old-timers picnic in Charlevoix, but all is not lost: There are a few enthusiasts. . . Ted Ribbee, Forrest Fowler, Mrs. Verne Seymour, Mrs. Bud Gill and Mrs. Robert Lieberman to name a few.

Perhaps "old timers" is a misleading expression. Boyne City uses "reunion" to denote their annual get-together on July 4th when localities and visiting Independence Day celebrants meet and talk over their own early days in Boyne City whether they be 20 or 80 years of age.

The Boyne City "Reunion" is a weekend affair. There is a registration book kept in the lobby of the hotel where everyone may "register" and look up old friends. The reunion has been climaxed by a banquet in the past years.

At both the Boyne City and East Jordan celebrations, nearly every state in the Union has been represented as north Michiganders are ever eager to return to the scenes of their forefathers. The Paytons Land "Reunion" from San Diego, California until death changed the pattern. Helen Harris Speitt (Mrs. Matthew Speitt) of Memphis, Tennessee still returns for Boyne City's annual event.

Boyne City and East Jordan old-timers' clan bakes have proven beyond doubt that these gatherings of the clan and friends are a popular and inexpensive arrangement for the good of old-timers as well as the cities involved. . . All visitors do spend money in the town, and the butcher, the baker and the candle-stick maker to quote an ancient nursery rhyme benefit.

But, no Chamber of Commerce can successfully plan such an event without the assistance of the populace. . . Soooo if old-timers of senior citizen vintage and old-timers of teenies these below the half-century age get on the "bandwagon" and give a boost we'll have an additional attraction that will rival anything Barium and Bailey has to offer in the way of sheer fun for young and old. An old-timers get-together, no less!

I have volunteered to take charge of registration of old-timers, young and old. . . What will YOU do?

Letter Bd. member lauds Dinwiddie

Dear Editor:
I would like to take this opportunity, as a member of the Board of Education, to bring a few facts to the attention of the public.

On June 10, the voters will elect two members to represent them on the Board of Education. One member, Darrell Dinwiddie, who has served for the past eight years, will not be seeking re-election. He has been a very excellent board member, with his knowledge of accounting and finance, having worked with him for six years, I have the highest respect for the hard work outside of board meetings, which Darrell has spent, and the accomplishments in the school system that have been made through his knowledge of finance.

Last Tuesday, I was going over in my mind, many of the problems which we will be facing in the next 12 months, I feel we need a man on the board who has ability in finances, as we will be responsible for expending nearly $3 million dollars in the next school year (including bond issue).

With this in mind, I contacted Jerry Redeker, our new banker in town, and asked him if he would consider running for this office. If I would circulate his petition for him, he consented, and I feel that he would be a well qualified, and in a few words, he is comparatively new in town, he is well qualified, and is a very dedicated individual.

He and his wife, Elsie, and three children live at 112 East Dixon. Jerry has been active in the school system. Grand Rapids, was an active member of the Chamber of Commerce in Redford township (Detroit), is a member of the Charlevoix Lions Club, is an active Sunday school teacher, and is also active in youth in this area. He has a graduate certificate from the American Institute of Banking. Many times, board members are needed during the working day, by the Superintendent, to meet on important matters that come up, and he would be readily available for such matters on short notice.

With the increased financial duties facing us, borrowings, investments, bondings, etc., I am sure Jerry is well qualified to help us in the problems ahead. I personally would urge you to consider the information above and support him as one of your candidates.

Council hears need for more accurate records

The need for more accurate and complete records of City Council meetings was pointed out by a former councilman Monday evening.

Black Donaldson, referring to notes he kept of council meetings in 1959 and 1960, said, "There is a lot of background on council proceedings that are hard to keep track of because the official minutes do not reflect much that goes on. There is much more than that there is no way to research," he added.

Donaldson pointed out that while he was on the council the need to have a stenographer or tape recorder had been discussed.

notes of council meetings was discussed.

He specifically referred to his personal records of December 1959 and January 1960 meetings which showed the council agreed to accept ownership and maintenance obligations of a water line into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Olson on Thistle Downs Street, on Round Lake.

His notes, Donaldson said, show that the council had agreed to share in the $1,300 cost of installing the line, which was requested by Earl Young, but did agree to take it over as a city line after it was installed.

No formal motion was needed to do this, Donaldson said, as all of the present councilmen and mayor are unaware that such an agreement was ever made by the council. The official records (minutes) of council proceedings reflect only formal resolutions.

Donald said he recalls accompanying City Supt. Jim Taylor on an inspection trip to the water construction project in 1960 to be sure it was being installed so that it met city specifications.

The question came up when Mrs. Olson presented the city with a $384 bill from an East Jordan construction firm for having the water line thawed last winter. She asked that the council pay the bill because it had agreed to maintain the water line.

This request was turned down earlier, in rejecting the request, councilmen said they did not authorize the work and had no record to show that the line belonged to the city.

Mrs. Olson said she asked the city to thaw the line and was told the job could not be done for two months, leaving her the alternative of moving into a motel for 90 days or calling in workmen who could do the job.

This was not denied by council.

She also pointed out she and Mr. Olson assumed the city would live up to its 1960 agreement to maintain the sewer line right up to the minute it broke down. The fact that the city did not obtain the proper easements, she said, was completely unknown to her.

City Supt. Taylor said the water line froze because grading on Thistle Downs Street had left it with too little ground cover.

Taylor knew the grading was being done on the private street, Mrs. Olson said, and should have warned that it would result in the water line being too near the surface.

She produced Mills showing the city has recently charged for taps to the water line to serve the Donaldson home (the water line).

A-frame) and the new red stone round house on the Round Lake property. She said she assumed this indicated the city felt the water line belonged to it.

Donaldson explained the bill for thawing the line did not personally affect him because the line to his home did not freeze. He pointed out, however, that the council's intent at its Jan. 4, 1960 meeting was to maintain the line and he would like the situation formally clarified for the future.

Mayor Bill Fohtman directed City Attorney John Michael and Taylor to take whatever action is necessary to obtain easements along the water line and make sure that it is properly buried so that the city can take it over.

The matter of the $384 bill was referred back to committee.

School loses revenue as county grabs more

The Charlevoix school board Monday evening found its income for school operations has been cut to give the county more funds.

The slash of $7,400 from the school district's expected revenue, prompted school board member Dale Ross to warn against deficit spending and propose that voters be asked to approve a seven-mill operational levy, instead of the 6.5-mill levy proposed last week.

Milligan told the board he had been questioned on the district's proposed $600,887 budget by County Board of Supervisors finance committee chairman Lee Sneathen of Hayes Township, Sneathen is a member of the Tax Allocation Board.

The Tax Allocation Board is responsible for dividing the 15 mills the county, schools and townships are authorized by state law to levy without a vote of the people.

Last year the schools received 8.4 of the statutory 15 mills, the county received 5.4, the township one mill and the Intermediate School district two-tenths of a mill.

Monday the Allocation Board tentatively changed the sharing of the 15 mills by giving the county 5.6 mills and cutting local school districts to 8.2.

This means, if voters approve the school district's 6.5-mill renewal request at the June 10 election, the board will levy 14.7 mills for operation this year. In addition, the half-mill for public library operation will again be levied.

In other matters Monday, the board approved having a six-week head start program this summer for pre-school youngsters.

Architect Dick Wiggins of Davenport Associates, presented plans for the north side elementary school which included the minor revisions requested by the board and teachers two weeks ago.

Wiggins said each of the regular classrooms in the kindergarten through fourth grade school will have its own toilet room. Movable walls, he said, have been planned between the three kindergarten rooms.

Milligan said the school is hoping to move into closed circuit educational television in the near future. Wiggins said the new building will have the conduit built-in for the installation of wiring necessary.

Blanchard, who is up for re-election in June, said the board should remember it is going to have to have a tax hike next year when it opens the new north side elementary school, which is going to cost more to operate.

Summer school programs have been planned for Charlevoix elementary and high school students, according to elementary principal Glenn Snider.

Parents, Snider said, must sign their children up for the classes no later than June 1. Registration slips are available at the office of the school.

Classes will be offered in remedial reading and math, nature study, art and personal typing. One-half of a high school credit will be given for the typing class. Classes start July 1 and will continue through the summer.

Bill Ploch has moved his mens clothing store from 205 Bridge St. to the former Cashmere Shop on the opposite side of Bridge St. next to the theater.

The stone Cashmere Shop building is owned by Earl Young, from whom Ploch is leasing it. Young built the building for his real estate office about 50 years ago. For the past 17 years it has been rented to the Cashmere Shop.

Proceeds from the Poppy sales go to help needy and disabled veterans. The tradition stems from the poppies that grow in veterans' cemeteries.

White also said there are hints that the coho and chinook salmon planting programs are starting to backfire. The salmon were planted to grow on the native species if they cannot get alewife.

White fears the coho will turn to eating lake trout, rainbow trout and other native species if they cannot get alewife.

The cafeteria, Wiggins said, will have two serving lines and seating capacity for up to 500 persons.

Curriculum coordinator Del Terrill recommended that shower and locker rooms be installed for use with the multi-purpose room (which will serve as a gym, cafeteria and general meeting area).

He said "showers training" is desirable for third and fourth graders and will definitely be needed when an addition is added on the school for fifth and sixth graders. If there are no showers, Terrill said, children return away from physical education classes to their classrooms.

Elementary Principal Glenn Snider pointed out children generally work up much more of a sweat on the playground at recess than they do in the physical education classes.

Board members estimated fifth and sixth graders will have to be moved to the new school — from the present elementary school — in about five years. Until the old school becomes overcrowded with fifth through eighth graders, they will remain there.

Wiggins suggested it would be more practical to build another gym (multi-purpose room) at the new school, with showers and lockers, when the fifth and sixth grade addition is built.

The board went along with Wiggins' recommendation and asked him to begin work on detailed drawings in preparation for seeking construction bids.

A bond consultant was hired, for an estimated $4,000, in hopes he can obtain a better interest rate on the $1.6 million bond issue the district will sell to build the new school.

The board approved buying a 66-passenger school bus from Erber Auto Co., the low bidder at $6,183. The bus, a Ford, will have a bluebird body.

Action was put off on buying a Greyhound-type bus for about $20,000. The bid can be studied further. The more comfortable 41-passenger bus will be used to transport athletic teams to away games in the new Huron State league.

The annual Spring Music Festival, presented by the instrumental department of Charlevoix High School will be given tonight, (Wednesday) May 22, at 8 p.m. in the high school gymnasium. Admission is complimentary, and everyone is invited to attend.

Three bands will be presented, opening with the 7th grade beginning band. Making its first formal concert appearance. Following a group of selections by this band, the Reserve Band, made up of eighth and nine graders will perform. The concert will conclude with several selections by the Senior Band.

A varied program will be presented, including several favorites with Charlevoix audiences, as well as several compositions being played for the first time here in Charlevoix.

A feature of the program will be the presentation of a new American Flag to the band by the Leslie R. Shapiro American Legion Post.

More than 225 student musicians will perform, they hope for a large turnout.

THIS LAKE TROUT's body was literally torn open by lamprey before it was caught. Still barely alive, in one of Jake White's nets. The fish's internal organs were, as seen here, actually falling from its body cavity.

The seriousness of the lamprey problem is proven, he contended, by the fact the eels are again attacking whitefish, something "we haven't had for years."

Fishermen, he said, are also picking up "little eels" — lamprey — all over the lake that are floating under water. When this happened in the late 1940s it signalled the end of the lake trout.

The government, he charged, should have known the lamprey wasn't under control. There was little evidence of them, he said, because there were few fish for them to feed on. Now that the fish are back the lamprey are again thriving.

As long as ships come in through the St. Lawrence Seaway with hundreds of lamprey attached to their bottoms, the problem can never be eliminated, White said. Fishermen, he added, have to kill the lamprey as ships pass through locks in the Seaway.

Plane crash stuns Charlevoix as two local men killed at Pellston

Charlevoix was stunned last week when a light airplane crash left local citizens fatherless.

Killed in the crash of a twin-engine Apache airplane at Pellston late Tuesday night, May 14, were Millard Saunders, 32, Clinton St., Charlevoix, and Robert G. Lee, 41, Mason St., Charlevoix. Both men left four children and widows.

Lee and Saunders were on a routine business flight for the East Jordan Iron Works, where both were executives, when the plane crashed in heavy fog in forested area just north of the runway. Also killed were Alvin Phillips of Conway, pilot and owner of the plane, and Robert Kolesky, Boyne City, an Iron Works employee. Phillips left four children and Kolesky three.

The three Iron Works executives were returning from a business trip to Cleveland on the chartered Phillips Flying Service flight. The plane, reportedly, ran out of gas as Phillips approached for a landing. Searchers did not find the plane until Wednesday morning. The three passengers and pilot were reported killed instantly.

Saunders had filed his nominating petition as a candidate for the Charlevoix school board the week before the crash. He moved to Charlevoix 18 months ago.

Lee moved to Charlevoix last summer.

Bruce Malpass, a co-owner of the Iron Works in East Jordan, said both victims' families will be provided for by company programs.

Funeral services for Leo, cost accountant with the East Jordan Iron Works, were held at the Winchester Funeral Home where the Rosary was recited Thursday.

Born in Charlevoix Sept. 13, 1935, Mr. Saunders was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Saunders. He graduated from the Charlevoix high school and Michigan State University with a major in business administration.

He was a member of St. Mary's Church, the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club, Michigan Association and the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, general manager, vice president and member of the Board of Directors of the East Jordan Iron Works and a member of the Board of Directors of the Charlevoix Hospital.

He had been associated with Circuit Control while in Polokovsky and with Seidman & Seidman, accountants, in Traverse City before coming to Charlevoix 18 months when he became associated with the East Jordan firm.

Surviving are his wife, the former Margaret Guller whom he married in Lansing Sept. 8, 1956; three daughters, Sharon, Lori and Carolyn and a son, Matthew, all at home and one brother, Wayne of Ironston.

The Conservation Dept. is attempting to hide its bungling of the lake trout restoration program by making commercial fishermen the scapegoats, according to Charlevoix fisherman Jake White.

One of the handful of northern Lake Michigan fishermen who never laid up his nets during the more than two-decade blight that nearly exterminated the Great Lakes fishing industry, White charged that the 4.9 million lake trout planted in Lake Michigan since 1965 have been an almost complete loss.

The young trout, White claimed, were planted in the wrong place — making them extremely vulnerable to prey by other species when they do start to spawn (May to this year), and making it impossible for fishermen seeking whitefish to avoid taking lake trout.

Commercial fishermen with decades of experience in Lake Michigan — including himself and John Cross of Charlevoix — "begged" the state to listen to them in selecting planting areas for the trout, White said.

"We showed them, on charts, where the old 'trout grounds' were that never had whitefish," he said. Instead of following this advice, the trout were planted in areas the fishermen told the state were always whitefish grounds. White said.

White also attacked the government for its failure to control the lake lamprey. In the 1940s, when they exterminated the fishery, up to 80% of the lake trout caught by commercial fishermen have been scarred or killed by lamprey, he said.

Sea lamprey attacks on trout, he said, are as serious now as they were back in the 1940s, when they exterminated the fishery. Up to 80% of the lake trout caught by commercial fishermen have been scarred or killed by lamprey, he said.

I have been interested in the new front and other remodeling of the Sugar Bowl Restaurant in Charlevoix having been there many times in the past years when Mr. and Mrs. George Glados were the owners. The picture above was taken in 1914. Mr. and Mrs. Glados are standing behind the candy counter, Mr. Glados and brother John made most of the candy sold. I watched them dip chocolates and make peanut brittle several times. John Glados is behind the fountain with Warren Kibbee and Stewart Stevenson in on the stool. He was a brother of Mrs. Wilma Miller, John Glados returned to his home in Greece and is still living.

In 1932 they added a restaurant to their business. Mrs. Bessie Dean was the cook with Mrs. Glados and they served a whole meal for 40 cents.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Saunders and family have the sincere sympathy of our community in the sad accident and loss of their dear brother and uncle, Milford Saunders this past week. These are things that happen that are hard to accept and understand in our hearts and so little one's friends can do to help. We also extend our sympathy to the families of Robert Lee of Charlevoix, Robert Kowalsky of Boyne City and Alfred Phillips of Conway and Mrs. Milford Saunders and children of Charlevoix.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Nielsen entertained their grandchildren this weekend and it was nice having them as guests at our morning Church Service.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vandervall of Grand Rapids are guests this weekend at the home of their brother and sister-in-law, William and Evelyn Vandervall.

Louis Drost is our most successful Mackinaw Trout fisherman. He seems to get several each time he goes out to try his luck. These trout were planted by the Conservation Department in the Charlevoix channel three years ago and were six inches long, they were marked by having one of their fins clipped.

The Mothers Day Program at the Church Service last Sunday was enjoyed by the 75 adults and children who attended. A beautiful plant was given Mrs. Jennie Duffy on being the oldest Mother, also Mrs. Barbara Nielson Chak on being the youngest mother and also to the mother with the most children in church who was Mrs. Ethel Kroll. In addition a plant was given Mrs. Jean Vogler by the Youth Group.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Perry of Lansing are spending several days in their cottage.

Mrs. Effie Arthur has sold her home in Detroit and will make her permanent home in our community. She purchased the former Heilig Cottage last fall where the William Cooper family are living. Her present residence is the Clyde Ogden home.

Coffee will be served at the noon-time break and those attending are urged to bring their lunch if they would care to do so.

Mrs. Westfall, who has worked in the field of safety in the Lansing area for 20 years is the present chairman of the Michigan Rural Safety Council. She helped organize more than 40 Michigan Women's organizations into a Safety group with headquarters at a million members. She annually coordinates both state and national safety conferences at Kelllogg Center on the University Campus.

Having sold her home in Detroit, Mrs. Ruth Roberts has moved in her farm home where she will make her residence. Her son John will be with her weekends, but will continue his work in Detroit.

Traffic safety meet Tuesday at Boyne City

A one-day traffic safety workshop for all residents of Charlevoix and other neighboring counties, will be held on Tuesday, May 28 in Boyne City. The meeting, sponsored by the County Farm Bureau, will be at the Top-O-Michigan Rural Electric Building on North Lake Street and will last from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

The Tuesday session falls just prior to the annual Memorial Day weekend of highway "slaughter". Both men and women are urged to take advantage of the opportunity to improve their driving habits, an act that might well save their life.

Mrs. Leola Westfall from the Traffic Safety Organization, of the Highway Traffic Safety Center at Michigan State University, will be in charge of the day's program. She will be assisted by William Barber, a specialist in traffic enforcement who is also a staff member of the Safety Center.

Citizenship Teacher - Leader Program Materials, Mrs. Westfall was a 1977 recipient of the Michigan Citizens Award and comes to our Northern Michigan area well qualified to bring much information to those attending.

Art class to display work

The final meeting of the Adult Art Education class will be an open house. The public is invited to come to the high school study hall Thursday evening May 23 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. to view the work of the class.

Works of art to be displayed will consist of oil, acrylic, and water color paintings, textile work, linoleum prints, enamel items, and others. These works are originals by the class and show various levels of artistic development. Some items on display may be purchased by talking with the artist.

Members of the class will be present to demonstrate various techniques. Coffee furnished by the class will be served to guests.

All buoys set

The Coast Guard tender Sunfish last weekend completed setting all navigational buoys in northern Lake Michigan, according to Lt. Cmdr. Leonard Garrett, skipper.

Barnes honored

EASTPORT - Bryce Barnes of Barnes Lumber Co. has been selected to appear in the 1967 edition of Outstanding Civic Leaders of America.

The editors of the "who's who" of civic leaders selected Barnes for his "outstanding ability, accomplishments and service to his community, country and profession."

The bride is a 1962 graduate of Central Lake high school and a graduate of DePaul Academy. The bridegroom, employed at Bellingham Marine Service, is a 1960 graduate of the Charlevoix high school and a veteran of two years in the U.S. Army.

A reception, attended by 250 guests, was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. John Helden at the Tower Lodge.

PLEASE DON'T CALL IT A TRUCK...

IT'S AN INTERNATIONAL PICKUP
COME IN AND DRIVE IT

After work you will take it fishing or hunting. Your wife will drive it to pick you up at the airport. Your teenagers will scoot their gang around town in it. You will probably equip it with power steering, power brakes, automatic transmission, bucket seats, maybe even a stereo tape deck. Fun to drive? You bet! Call it a truck? It'll work like one during the day but at other times it will be the handiest second car you will ever own!

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LOOER
CHAMBER MANAGER

I need to refer to last week's column, the last paragraph having to do with Charlevoix history, sorry I have not heard from any of the historians though I would like to.

Another reference to last week's column having to do with some temporary employment, a gentleman here in town is urgently needing some one. He had only one response and unfortunately, the applicant did not qualify. I will repeat there is need for one female who can take dictation and type it. The work can be done at home or at the potential employer's office, more or less at the applicant's convenience and he will supply typewriter is necessary.

Also I think it again a good idea to bring up one phase of needed beautification and that is flower planting and possibly the old long life beautiful pots, especially in the safety islands out in the improved US 31 area, noted by motels at the South end of the city.

Your Chamber was involved in bringing about a sizeable column in the Grand Rapids Press, a feature article and pictures, Sunday, May 12, having to do with Greensky Hill Indian Church and one of the ardent supporters, Mr. Jay Oliver who is of Ottawa Indian descent and a good citizen of Charlevoix. The column is posted in the office window and has attracted much attention and commendation.

From the office of Frank J. Kelly, an Attorney General, came a Consumer Fraud news letter calling home owners attention to the door-to-door salesman's approach and sales pitch and to be very cautious. It implies if there is any wonder or doubt in your mind, get in touch with the Attorney General's office or local law enforcement or contact this office.

It might interest you to know that in connection with your Chamber of Commerce participation in the Open House of the Great Lakes Fishery Station here May 2, we have a letter from Myri Keller, administrator and supervisor of this division, expressing thanks and gratitude for our efforts.

If any of you merchants and otherwise are interested in purchasing the American Flag in quantities or lesser numbers for your convenience, we have a brand new catalogue on file and the shipping point for the flags is Jackson, Michigan. The particular supplier's business mainly involves flags for homes, schools, churches, shopping centers, service stations, city parks and stores, streets, offices, factories, etc.

Worthy of reminding is the re-nacting of the massacre

Grandvue Report

Entering Grandvue since our last writing were Mr. Edward Lorch of Boyne City, who came May 13th, and Mrs. Ida Bouchard of East Jordan, who was admitted on May 17th. Both were admitted from Charlevoix Hospital. Leaving the facility to return to his home in Charlevoix was Mr.

Glenn Maxson, who was discharged May 6th.

On May 9th, Mrs. Hilda Watkins, Administrator, Mrs. Irene Behling, and Mrs. Helen Deming attended a Blue Cross Automotive Seminar at This One House in Conway. This was a very informative program and was enjoyed by those who attended.

On May 14th, the monthly Utilization meeting was held, with Dr. Savory and Dr. Vandellen attending.

This monthly meeting of the Charlevoix County Welfare Commission was held at the facility on May 15th. Attendance were Mr. Vero Whiteford, East Jordan; Rev. George Majors, Charlevoix; Mr. Richard Tilden, Charlevoix; and Mrs. Hilda Watkins, Administrator. Mrs. Jewell Bryan of Boyne City was unable to attend due to illness.

During the recent arrival of the new residents on May 15th were Mr. Moharin of Grand Rapids, who is associated with Travelers Insurance Company, and our CPA, Mr. Mel Smith of Petoskey, who is with Dimeville and Kandt Accountants.

Making a visit to Grandvue on May 16th were Mrs. Mary Mark, Food Supervisor at Meadowbrook Hospital in Gaylord and Mrs. Mary Muller, our Diet Consultant, who resides in Manistee.

Mrs. Irma Hannah who makes her home here, wishes to thank all her many friends in and around Charlevoix for remembering her on her birthday May 10th. She surely appreciated all the lovely cards.

Bouquet to the Altar Society of St. Joseph's Church in East Jordan, who made several bibs and lap robes for the patients. These were brought to Grandvue by Mrs. Walden and Mrs. Augusta Trojanek on May 17th. Many thanks for your thoughtfulness in remembering the patients.

The Detroit River carries more tonnage annually than the Rhine, Seine, Thames and Volga rivers combined. More tonnage passes through the Soo Locks in an eight month Great Lakes navigation season than through the Panama or Suez Canal in a normal year.

elastare, in as much as we have a number of baristas in our area, was one reason why directed this to the Chamber. If anyone has any information, please be in touch with me.

Possibly you good people do not know or realize that your Chamber of Commerce is a member of the State of Michigan Chamber of Commerce at Lansing, and Chamber of Commerce of the U.S. at Washington, D.C. This combination provides our community through this office with a sound and wide scope of information and/or facilities and splendid cooperation, all designed for human welfare, community progress, improved economy, etc. Also the Chamber of Commerce is a member of Michigan Tourist Association, West Michigan division, another wide awake and up to the minute force.

Natural-born cohos face rough time in area water

Recent field reports of the Conservation Department indicate there is a widespread hatch of coho salmon this spring in northern Michigan streams, including the Boyne River, where these fish returned to spawn last year and in new waters where they were transferred to test their natural reproduction.

Word from Department fisheries men reveals that baby coho are coming out of gravel spawning beds and beginning to feed in the Boyne, Oshtemo, Big Huron, Pine, Manistee, Platte, Boardman and other rivers. Some of Lake Charlevoix's smaller streams, such as Horton and Porter Creek, may be included.

Among those "encouraged" by these developments is Department trout and salmon specialist Dave Borgeson who notes:

"This is one more good indication that coho are adapting well to Michigan waters, but it isn't the whole story by any means."

The Department's salmon specialist expects more than 90 percent of the young coho to be lost before next spring.

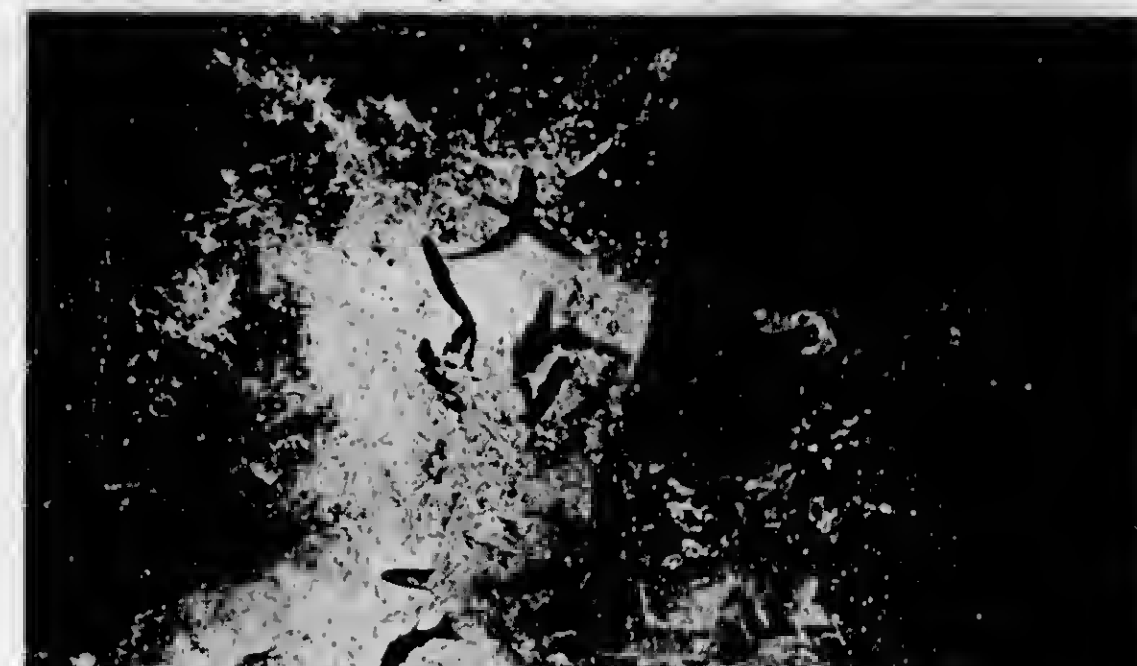

He explains that stream habitat is the make - it or break - it factor in the survival of young salmon to the smolt stage. High fish losses occur under natural conditions because streams cannot support anywhere near the large number of young salmon that are hatched.

Borgeson doesn't expect this spring's hatch of baby coho to put any excessive stress on native trout populations, and he reports that Department fisheries men will closely monitor the young salmon to get a reading on their survival to the smolt stage next spring.

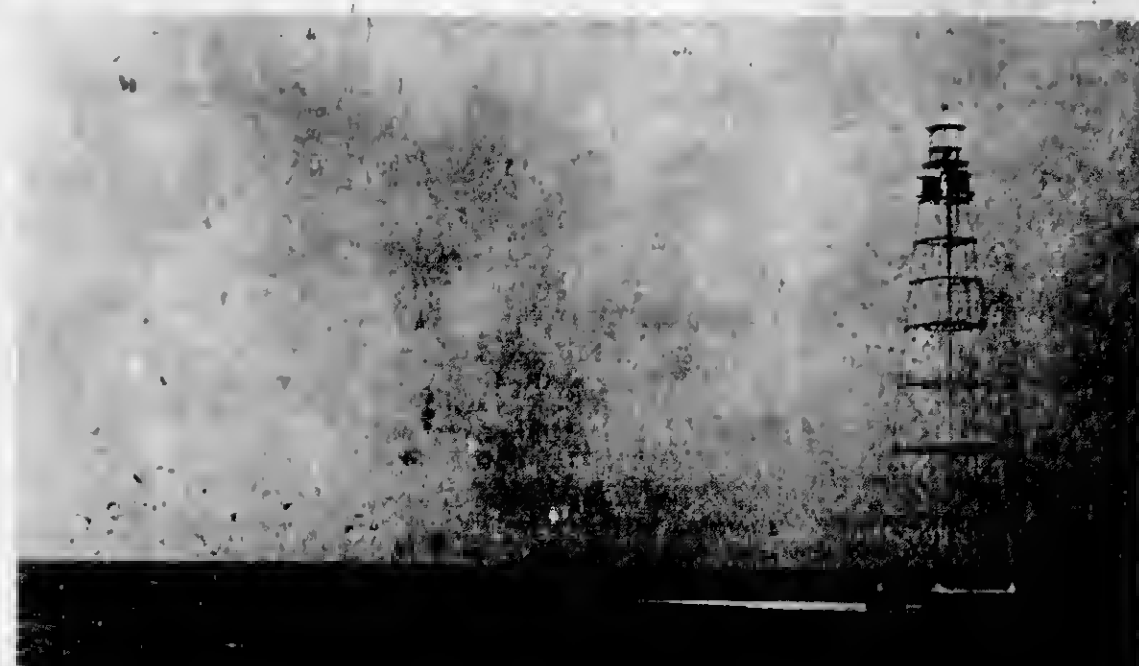

50,000 lake trout planted, gulls have a feast

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT pumped 50,000 four to six inch lake trout from a truck through this tube into the Pine River channel next to the Great Lakes Fishery Station (former National Fish Hatchery). The trout were raised at the new Jordan River hatchery. This brings the number of lake trout planted at Charlevoix since 1965 to 250,000.

THE YOUNG LAKE TROUT appeared plenty health and energetic as they reached freedom in the Pine River channel. Fisheries experts have found survival of fish this size is good.

LITERALLY HUNDREDS of sea gulls swarmed onto the Pine River channel minutes after the young trout were planted. The hatchery fish, not being used to the water pressure, stayed on the surface during their first hours of freedom. That is, those who survived. The gulls appeared to be glutting themselves on the little lakies.

A BIRD AND A DREAM

Birds, especially the smaller birds of fine plumage or beautiful song, have long been associated with soaring spirits, love, purity, mildness and good, while the dove, holding the olive branch is an emblem of peace. These qualities, most of us admire and would like to see them come a-wing, to be the ruling influence in the world, everywhere.

What can we do to make such a dream world a reality? First, we can cultivate these qualities for ourselves and secondly can help promote them around the world. The Church is a world-wide institution through which, by earnest participation in the work and activities of the branch of our choice and by zealous support, we can do our share in helping bring about peace and good will everywhere.

Whether you went to church last week, or too long ago, let us see you there this week-end.

Mt. McSaub's new slope nears finish

The $4,000 project to improve and extend ski slopes at Mt. McSaub is nearing completion.

Phil Myner, Ironton bulldozer contractor, has re-graded the main slope and completely re-built the small slope next to it. The former small slope is now much steeper and 2,500 feet long.

In addition to the re-grading, Myner has spread top soil on the slopes so that they can be seeded, hopefully ending the wind and rain erosion which has been carrying about two inches of soil off the slopes annually.

Motorbike owners and others have been asked not to drive on any of the slopes, so that grass will have a chance to grow and ruts will not be created in the new grading.

The combination of erosion and vehicles driving on the hill has for several years resulted in tearing down efforts to improve the community ski facility, Maurloe Foster, Mt. McSaub Corp. treasurer, said.

Library Notes

Some new juvenile fiction has arrived at the public library, bright with color covers and clever illustrations. It's always fun to watch a small library patron reach for a bright new book, confident that he can tell from the pictures whether this is one he will like, even though he can't read a word of it. Beginning with some easy books for the pre-school crowd, here are some of the new titles:

Anatole and the Piano, by Eve Titus. Anatole is a mouse who loves music even more than he loves cheese. Conductor of the Mouse Symphony Orchestra, and a gifted concert pianist, he longs for a fine piano of his own. He finds a tiny treasure of a piano, once owned by a French king, but it belongs to a museum. What happens will thrill and delight all Anatole fans and all true music-lovers.

Timothy's Flower, by Jean Van Leeuwen. Timothy lives in a neighborhood that has no flowers and not even any earth in which to plant flowers. He found his flower, a tall yellow one, one day when his grandmother took him to the park. The park man gave it to him. His search for a place to plant it where it could grow and stay beautiful, resulted in a freshly painted window box, full of gay geraniums and petunias and one tall yellow flower, the gayest spot in the whole dreary block.

The Day Tuk Became a Hunter & Other Eskimo Stories, retold by Ronald Melsack. Professor Melsack, an eminent Canadian psychologist, has been writing children's stories for his own amusement for more than 15 years. On a trip to Mexico he discovered in the records of anthropologists and explorers a wealth of folklore, and since then he has been turning legends and folktales into stories for children.

The Bus Girls, by Mary K. Harris. Betty and her mother had just moved. It was hard enough to be the new girl in school, but to make matters worse, the vicar's wife had announced that her daughter Davina would "look after" Betty during her first few days at school and Betty knew that she wasn't going to like Davina. This is the story of how the two girls got to know one another on the long bus ride from school and how, in spite of themselves, they became good friends.

Missing Melinda, by Jacqueline Jackson. On the day the Gibbs family moved into Uncle Scoville's house, the twins, Corolla and Ophelia discovered Melinda, a valuable antique doll, in a trunk in the attic. They promptly adopted her and took her to the park, where, while they were climbing a tree, Melinda disappeared. How could they possibly find her in a strange town among people they had never met? Corolla and Ophelia decide to become detectives and the result is an hilarious and sometimes preposterous mystery-adventure.

The Little Flashes, by Erik Christian Haugard. Guido is a twelve-year-old beggar in war-torn Naples. He is intelligent, kind, and full of life. In order to survive, he must steal and plot with great cunning, but stand apart of Guido is able to stand apart and analyze. In time, in spite of all the hardships, he gains some measure of human understanding and compassion. He tells his friend Anna, "We must not waste oneself with hate." Of all the little flashes who dwell in the underbelly of man's senseless inhumanity, a few, like Guido, will escape to a better life.

Michigan Week interest sags in Charlevoix area

Though you would never guess it in Charlevoix, this is Michigan Week.

Interest in Michigan Week has waned considerably in recent years, until this year virtually no local public programs have been announced.

Michigan Week, May 19-25, dates back to 1953, when a group of business, government, labor and education leaders agreed to sponsor an all-encompassing activity which would help sell Michigan to its own people as well as to the world at large and bring great numbers of citizens together as volunteers to work for their state's progress.

The first Michigan Week was held in May of 1954. It was sponsored jointly by the State Economic Development Department and a citizen organization formed for this purpose, Greater Michigan Inc., which was virtually an arm of the state agency.

The program grew steadily and Michigan Week became more and more the production of an extensive volunteer committee organization. By 1961 it was determined that it should be entirely sponsored by the Greater Michigan citizen group. It has been contemplated from the first that eventually the citizen group would be separated completely from the state government.

Greater Michigan Inc. was changed in 1961 to the Greater Michigan Foundation, a charitable, educational foundation. The Foundation's office is at 809 Center St., Lansing.

No longer a state government operation, but still receiving wholehearted support of state agencies and the Legislature, Michigan Week assumed even greater proportions.

Each year, Michigan Week has had a special theme. For the past three years the theme has been "Michigan - Land of World Progress."

This year the theme is "Michigan - Land of Hospitality."

The state chairman of Michigan Week - officially called the general chairman - is elected by the foundation's Board of Governors, which is the board of directors of Michigan Week. This year the general chairman is Win Schuler, are willing to work to carry them forward.

Objectives of Michigan Week, as adopted by the board of governors of the Greater Michigan Foundation, are:

1. To give Michigan citizens greater knowledge and appreciation of their state.

2. To expand the state's assets and resources for industry, business, education and recreation, and to afford the nation and the world an inspired view of Michigan's advantages.

3. To foster a spirit of cooperation among all communities and people to the end that all of Michigan will work together to make the state even more livable and attractive.

Jim Gallagher returns to sailing, at Ironton

Jim Gallagher stuck it out for two years on land. That's all the landlubberin' he could take.

Now he's back on the water. It isn't really like the old days before 1966 when he retired as a Coast Guard Master Chief—the service's highest enlisted grade.

But being one of the two operators on the Ironton ferry at least puts him back on the water. Jim took the job as assistant ferry operator, under skipper Walter (Turk) Jarvis, this spring. He replaces ferry veteran Peto Bennett, who's retired.

Jim, 53, says he already likes the ferry job. He's on the water and meet lots of people. 'Best of all, the view, which doesn't change, suits him fine.

Born on Beaver Island, where he went to school, Jim first joined the Coast Guard in 1934. He got out in 1937 and spent the next 19 years on commercial boats. In 1946 he re-joined the Coast Guard, spending his last six years before retirement on the Sun-dew.

4-H Club Notes

by Keith Lamkin

4-H Saddle Horse Clinic will be held Saturday, May 25, 1968 at the Emmet County Fair Grounds in Petoskey from 10 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. Bring a sack lunch for dinner.

Richard Dum, Michigan State University Horse Specialist will conduct the Clinic with Mrs. William Banks of Harbor Springs taking care of the arrangements. Be sure to bring pencil and paper. The tentative program consists of Fitting and Showing, Horsemanship, Review of the Pleasure class and Reining class. Also for the leaders and any interested persons, Dum will cover pointers on conducting horse shows for the area.

Everyone is welcome to attend the 4-H Saddle Horse Clinic whether in 4-H Club or not.

Due to the help of a Sears, Roebuck grant to the area, anyone interested in being a 4-H member and planting a garden off to work, shrubs, raspberries and strawberries to name a few, may expect some financial help to get started.

The 4-H members should make application through their leaders. Anyone new to 4-H may contact the Extension Office for more information.

Leaders to work in 4-H are very greatly needed and may start their summer clubs immediately or fill out the enrollment material and start the clubs later. There is great satisfaction in working with young people and feeling that you have helped them in some way.

The following are names of 4-H Club Members who received Honor Roll rating for their winter project work in Charlevoix County:

Eight CHS students to spend summer overseas

By JEANNE MUTZ
Have you ever dreamt of going to a foreign country, but never had your dream come true? Well, for eight students at CHS it has, and their excitement is building as the moment when they will board a jet for "their" foreign country nears.

The dream of Tom Anderson, Dana

Dinwiddie, Gail Forbrig, Cheryl Kenney, Georgia Lusk, Jill Szudzik and Wendy Villerman came true through a nationwide teenage exchange program called Youth For Understanding. This agency is one of several in the United States that provide, in cooperation with the Department of State, the exchange of students between homes in the United States and foreign countries.

To qualify for Y.F.U., students have to have a good scholastic record, be an all around student, active in school affairs; interested in school; have a willingness to give time for preparation preceding the trip; and finally, they must be able to accept responsibility for their own conduct.

While they are away from home they will be living with families or friends of former exchange students.

At the present time Charlevoix has two exchange students from Europe: Claudia Helbing from Germany and Marja Tervahauta from Finland. Both are here through Youth For Understanding.

The Charlevoix High School foreign travelers leave the United States in mid-June and will return to Charlevoix in August. A brief sketch on each student, their destination and other information is presented below.

These are the students who are going...

Jill Szudzik

Jill Szudzik, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rosendahl has been accepted to go to Sweden. Although Sweden was not one of her choices, Jill says, "It didn't really matter to me what country I got sent to." While living with the Swedish people she hopes to gain a better understanding of the people of foreign lands.

Dana Dinwiddie

Dana Dinwiddie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Derrell Dinwiddie, has been selected to go to South America, to the country of Uruguay. Dana, who also is not being one of her choices, is very pleased about going to Uruguay and believes "there is as much, if not more, to be gained by an exchange to a South American country as with one in Europe." Dana hopes to bring back better understanding of the relationship between our countries when she returns to Charlevoix and hopes to leave with the people of Uruguay, a more favorable opinion of us.

Wendy Villerman

Wendy Villerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Villerman, will spend her summer months in the Netherlands, in the country of Holland. Wendy says that ever since she was little she has always wanted to go to Europe and when she heard of the YFU program she immediately applied. In going to Holland, Wendy hopes to learn what kind of customs and ways people in Europe have and how their life differs from life here. Wendy claims the worst part in leaving for the summer is that she will miss her family, but that the best part is that she will meet new people and be subject to different customs and environment.

Cheryl Kenney

Cheryl Kenney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Kenney, will be going to Finland, one of her three choices. Cheryl wanted to go to Europe because she thinks "it will be a very educational." Cheryl thinks the best part of going is meeting people, having fun, and knowing her education will profit from her experience. As for the worst part of going, she says it will be worrying about the arrival and getting along in a strange country.

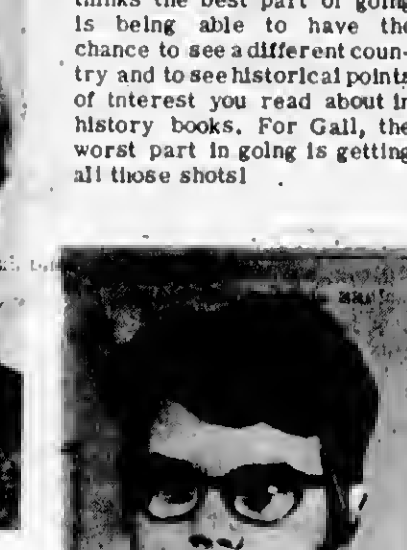

Gail Forbrig

Gail Forbrig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Forbrig, has been accepted to go to Germany, her first choice. Gail chose Germany because her ancestors are from there and through going there she hopes to get a better understanding of the German people. While she is there she hopes to give the German people a greater understanding of the American teenager. Gail originally became interested in going to Europe by talking with exchange students who came to CHS from European countries and from students in CHS who went to a foreign country. Gail thinks the best part of going is being able to have the chance to see a different country and to see historical points of interest you read about in history books. For Gail, the worst part in going is getting all these shots!

Barb Smith

Barb Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Smith, also is going to Germany. Barb attributes her choice of country to her great grandfather, who was born there. She thinks it will be fun to live and explore in a part of the country where her ancestors were born and raised. In going to Europe, Barb hopes to "learn of other customs and ways of life." She hopes to be able to understand people in the outside world and think her trip will help her adjust to different environments. In general, Barb hopes her experiences in Germany will help her become a better citizen of the United States. Barb thinks the best part in going is the experience she will gain during her stay. She thinks the worst part is leaving her family, friends and her baseball team and knowing that during her stay she will be looked upon as an example of a typical American.

Georgia Lusk

Georgia Lusk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lusk, will be going to Denmark, her third choice. Georgia chose Denmark because it has about the same terrain and climate as our Northern Michigan. While in Denmark, Georgia hopes to learn about the people, culture, and the social environment which she hopes will help her to understand other nations as well as her own. Georgia claims the best part in going is the knowledge she will gain from the whole experience and the fact that she will be making her first jet plane ride, which should be quite an experience. The worst part is, of course, leaving Charlevoix and its people.

Theatre Guild presentation a real bonus for viewers

by PAT BIGHAM

Lucky! The Little Theatre Guild is presenting another popular comedy.

This time it is "Never Too Late" by Arthur Long. It is the story of a couple who find that they are going to be parents at just the time that they are going to be grandparents.

Comedian Tanner, who has never been a mother herself, and Ross Stokes who is a bachelor, star as the surprised parents. Stokes is the director of Guys and Dolls.

Fred Allen, a newcomer to the Petoskey area is directing this play. Allen has a series of stage successes behind him.

If you saw Guys and Dolls you may recognize Ted Todd, Bill Zoroff and Bill Todd. The latter played the lead in "Myra" a 1956 production of the Little Theatre Group.

ADRAIN GREENMAN, right, of Charlevoix found that the computer has its place in the dairy business during his overnight meeting on milk marketing in Detroit. The computer is explained by Arthur Thornton of the Michigan Milk Producers Association, which sponsored the trip for 40 4-H boys, Greenman and the other boys attended a Detroit Tiger game.

Action and Reaction

The Memorial Day Weekend coming up will probably give many Charlevoix people a good excuse to get away for a few days vacation or at least for a day long picnic trip. They vary from Muzzle-Loader Rifle demonstrations to Tribal Indian dances, but the highlight of the weekend is the Re-enactment of the Massacre at Fort Michilichichine.

Over the four days of Memorial Weekend there are activities scheduled for all day, every day. They vary from Muzzle-Loader Rifle demonstrations to Tribal Indian dances, but the highlight of the weekend is the Re-enactment of the Massacre at Fort Michilichichine.

On each of the four days at 2:30 in the afternoon.

Art gallery opens here

A year-round art gallery has moved to Charlevoix. Hugh Riker has opened his Heritage House in the basement of the Washburne Inn building.

Riker's black and white graphic work is well known. In 1962 he sketched the Kennedy family's personal Christmas cards. His work has been featured in national advertisements and he was recently commissioned by the Ford Foundation to do Greenfield Village.

His Heritage House will feature original framed prints of Charlevoix area scenes.

A native of Long Mich, Riker attended art schools in Flint, Milwaukee and elsewhere.

Ruppe visits Beaver Island

BEAVER ISLAND - Congressman Phil Ruppe, House Republican, visited Beaver Island on a short political sabbath Friday.

Accompanied by Charlevoix County GOP Chairman Oscar Stroud, Ruppe visited with leaders at various business places and made an informal inspection of the Coast Guard station. He is a member of the House Coast Guard Committee.

Ruppe and Stroud returned to Charlevoix early Friday evening. Ruppe ate Friday night at the Argonne and spent the night at Stroud's home.

The congressman had more trouble getting to Charlevoix than he did getting to Beaver Island, Stroud reports. Scheduled to fly into Pellston aboard a commercial plane, Ruppe found he could fly no further north than Midland. He rented a car and drove to Charlevoix.

Once in Charlevoix the trip to the island and back aboard Joe McPhillips airplane went without a hitch, Stroud said.

Council records

REGARDLESS of a person's opinion on the specific issue that brought it up, former Charlevoix Councilman Dick Donaldson gets our unqualified support in his claim that more thorough records are needed of City Council discussion and informal decisions.

Having watched the council operate for years, the Courier almost monthly sees it spend its time re-hashing matters that were, supposedly, ironed out a year, or more, before.

And, as in the case with the council informally agreeing to accept responsibility for maintenance of the privately paid for water line into the Paul Olsen home, (as proven by the personal notes kept by then Councilman Donaldson we have on several occasions seen the council completely forget previous gentlemen's agreements. This, in our opinion, is an unpardonable breach of trust. Citizens in a small town must be able to have confidence in their government's integrity and concern.

Not that we suspect the present council deliberately violated the agreement the 1960 council made with Earl Young to maintain the water line. It was simply a case of honest lack of knowledge. This, however, cannot be excused simply because the council members have changed. Government must be consistently reliable if it is to have the confidence of the people it serves.

Admittedly, use of a tape recorder system, or steno-grapher, would not be fool-proof. There would be no value in recording all of the council's discussion as much involves personal and family affairs, as well as other irrelevant matters. But the person who transcribes the taped or shorthand minutes interpermanents records would simply have to edit out the trivia.

This collection of council proceedings could be put on microfilm at minimal cost and preserved forever.

An indexing system would need to be worked out. Indexing is also needed of the brief formal council minutes which are now kept, if they are to be useful.

Some cost would be involved in establishing such a system. However, we suspect it would be more than saved by cutting the time now spent by city officials researching matters which have formerly been settled.

So now we know the Buses and their menagerie came by steam vessel, but

It remains to be seen if there is anybody still living who knows how they transported all that gear from St. Louis (their home) to Chicago.

Dick (H. Dixon) Jarvis writes from his Detroit home. He gives a glowing account of early days on the Charlevoix. Jarvis' first newspaper, "The News Office and the West-Union telegraph office were housed in the same building and owned by the editor, William A. Smith.

In county-township government

Need for reform is evident

by GLEN SHEPPARD

South Arm Township's young supervisor, Don Graham, got mighty belligerent last week about a recent editorial which pointed out township officials are the crampworks of our political structure and that money given townships is squandered.

Of course, we can understand Graham's personal discomfort and characteristically reaction. He is a young man who is generally on the defensive about something they value. And due to his limited exposure to township and local government, Graham cannot be faulted for viewing all criticism within the narrow confines of personal experience.

Charlevoix County townships do operate on a shoestring. Our Meridian Webster does not, however, suggest that large amounts of money must be available before it can be squandered. The word, according to the dictionary, means "to spend wastefully."

Graham may have interpreted the word, as used in the Courier editorial, to mean township money is spent irresponsibly or negligently. This may be the case, though there is little to suggest it. That much of it is spent,

As the National Association of Counties has for years pointed out, township government on the county level would have prevented the take over of so much local responsibility by state and federal government. The National Association of Counties has for many years urged adoption of home rule.

The case for streamlining county government to give it a workable legislative body and executive management is well established by Herbert

Important to get them on record for the enlightenment of posterity—a posterity that otherwise would never know of the hearty humor despite the unrelenting austerity of life sans the convenience of automobile, airplane and electric dishwasher as well as the entertainment of radio and television and extra assets taken for granted in mid-century.

Perhaps this column will take the place of an old-timer's get together this summer. We hope not, but it may work out that way unless more of our citizenry volunteer to assist.

For the pleasure of their company and the anecdotes that lurk in memory let us continue to encourage production of an old-timers reunion in our town each summer.

RESOLUTION

The following resolution proclaiming Poppy Days in Charlevoix May 23, 24 and 25 was received:

WHEREAS: The annual sale of Bucky Poppies by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States has been officially recognized and endorsed by governmental leaders since 1922; and

WHEREAS: V.F.W. Bucky Poppies are assembled by disabled veterans, and the proceeds of this worthy fundraising campaign are used exclusively for the benefit of disabled and needy veterans, and the widow and orphans of deceased veterans; and

WHEREAS: The basic purpose of the annual sale of Bucky Poppies by the Veterans of Foreign Wars is eloquently reflected in the desire to "Honor the Dead by Helping the Living"; therefore

I, William E. Fochtman, Mayor of the City of Charlevoix do hereby urge the citizens of this community to recognize the merits of this cause by contributing generously to its support through the purchase of Bucky Poppies on the day set aside for the distribution of these symbols of appreciation for the sacrifices of our honored dead.

I urge all patriotic citizens to wear a Bucky Poppy as mute evidence of our gratitude to the men of this country who have placed their lives in defense of the freedoms which we continue to enjoy as American citizens.

off," Eddie said, "We each order another meal and guess again."

"Not until we have an instant play-back, I slow motion, slow motion, Bill!" Contestants must not study the menu prices. You can cheat, but it doesn't help much. No one reveals his order until the menus have been safely returned to the waitress. This way you might peek at the price of your own meal but you'd have to memorize the entire menu to know the cost of each item ordered. I've seen my kids eat spaghetti for breakfast, and corn flakes for dinner, so it's impossible to plan ahead. The kids never know if I'll have steak or a strawberry sauce for lunch.

The object of the game is to look at every player's food and then guess the total cost of all the meals, including tax. No fair changing your guess when you discover that's not lemon-meringue. And I thought about the goodies my kids ordered to confuse the game, and then nibbled and left their plates.

"From now on we'll say grace in restaurants," I said.

And that's no laugh. That's O'ward and Upward.

Once, in South Carolina, Eddie and I had a sudden death play.

And that's no laugh. That's O'ward and Upward.

And that's no laugh. That's O'ward and Upward.

To date, the best dividend to come from the charter about an Old-Timers' reunion is an occasional letter from some former Charlevoixian.

My wife did a lot of reading. She read speed limit signs and our speedometer. Pat moves her lips when she reads and can be heard clearly by the driver. She rattles off the common 60-miles-per-hour signs in no time. I was excited that the most was in Georgia. It said "Patrolled by Unmarked Cars." Pat gave that one such a dramatic reading that 9-year-old Eddie had to comment: "Boy, Momma really liked that sign, didn't she?"

Charlevoix Court

Circuit Judge Charles Brown last week sentenced two men to state prison and five others to probation.

Bradley Glazier, 20, of Boyne Falls, was placed on one year probation and ordered to pay $85 fine and costs at the rate of $7.50 per month beginning July 1. He was charged with breaking and entering.

Harrington, who was returned here earlier from San Antonio, was sentenced to 7 to 14 years on a charge of larceny and publishing an account check. He was given credit for the 48 days he had spent in the county jail.

Brink was sentenced to 2 to 10 years on a charge of breaking and entering several cottages on Lake Louise earlier this year. He was given credit for 35 days spent in the county jail. Judge Brown also recommended that he complete high school and attend the Michigan Training unit in order to learn a trade while in prison.

David B. Lamb, 19, of Boyne City, was placed on three years probation and ordered to pay $160 fine and costs on a charge of larceny from a building. He is to pay the fine and costs at the rate of $10 per month beginning July 1 and to spend the next five weekends beginning this week in the county jail from 7 p.m. Saturday until 7 a.m. Monday.

Arthur A. Higley, 18, was ordered to pay $85 fine and costs at the rate of $5 per month beginning July 1; to stay away from people with criminal records and refrain from drinking. He was charged with breaking and entering.

Thomas Harry Dixon, 30, charged with violation of probation and contempt of court, was ordered to pay a total of $100 fine and costs, $50 of which he did not pay as ordered two years ago and the

Memorial Day parade to honor area's veterans

Charlevoix area veterans, past and present, will be honored Thursday in the traditional Memorial Day parade and ceremony.

As in past years, the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars are cooperating to put on the annual tribute to local servicemen in Vietnam and veterans of past wars.

The parade will start at 10 a.m. at the corner of Bridge and Park, with Don Meggison acting as parade marshal. Groups and persons in the parade will form at 10:15 on Park Ave.

Bob Nowakowski, Legion commander and parade chairman, welcomed all veterans, in or out of uniform, to march in the parade.

Participating in the parade, in addition to VFW and Legion members and women of their auxiliaries, will be Scout groups, the Charlevoix High School marching band, Coast Guard and perhaps others.

The parade will move first to Memorial Park at the foot of Antlim St., where a floral tribute and gun salute will honor Navy veterans. A Coast Guard firing squad will handle the gun salute.

The parade will end at the cemetery, where Rev. Lawrence Tenhopen of the Congregational Church will be master of ceremonies. Lt. Col. Fred Davison, commander of the Bay Shore Air Force unit, will be the speaker. Diane Potter will recite the Gettysburg address.

The high school band, Coast Guard firing squad and Rev. Albert Manson will also participate in the traditional ceremony at the cemetery.

Following the ceremony, the VFW will serve refreshments to all parade participants at the post home.

State purchase studied Island eyed for park

State Forester Jack Lockwood is asking the Conservation Dept. to consider purchasing all of the remaining Lake Michigan shoreline between Sella's Bay Campground and, including, Fisherman's Island.

The approximately two-mile stretch of shoreline and small island, Lockwood said, is the most desirable he knows of for public ownership. The scenic and recreational opportunities offered by the area, Lockwood said, surpass anything else he is familiar with.

A $652 BOOST is given to the Charlevoix High School band uniform drive by Kiwanis Club Coke sale chairman Larry LaGrow, who presents the check to band director Clarence Odmark at Monday's Kiwanis meeting. The band is only $3,000 shy of being able to pay for the nearly $11,000 in new uniforms.

then go to Lansing for approval at the top level.

If the Conservation Dept.'s top brass decided it agrees with Lockwood, the Legislature will have to appropriate the money.

Lockwood said a decision may be expected from Conservation officials as early as this summer or fall. However, he said he has no idea how long it would be before the money would be available.

All but one cottage site of the property Lockwood recommended be purchased for public use is undeveloped. The property, including the island, is carried on the tax rolls in the name of John P. O'Neill, a Detroit attorney.

Lockwood cited the natural beach near the island, the scenery, nearby lakes and

Island and mainland property immediately adjacent at the mouth of Wood Creek to O'Neill about ten years ago, said he understands O'Neill represents a large real estate syndicate.

O'Neill, or the syndicate, has purchased the remainder of the property between the end of the Sella's Bay State Forest campground and Fisherman's Island, within the last six months from Branch Corp.

Contacted at Harper Hospital in Detroit, where he is recovering from surgery, O'Neill said he has no firm plans for development of the property, but that it was purchased as an investment.

Lockwood cited the natural beach near the island, the scenery, nearby lakes and bass fishing opportunities, potential rustic camp sites and picnic areas as reasons he feels the property should be given prime consideration for public ownership.

By adding the property to its present Sella's Bay campground, the state would own about five miles of frontage south of Charlevoix.

Fisherman's Island could be the focal point of interest if the shoreline area were bought by the state. The island has a colorful historic background and has long been enjoyed by local hikers, swimmers, hunters and fishermen.

Clark Coulter recalls early stories about the island, including a never-solved murder.

As he recalls the murder

Island was also reputed to have served as an outpost for Mormons during the turbulent early days of Charlevoix history. And, at one time, it served as a marine post office, where passing schooners sent a dingy ashore to drop off mail.

Coulter built a small, but substantial cabin on the island as a retreat. It has been described by CLARENCE RABACH files his petition to become a candidate for Charlevoix County Clerk, replacing retiring clerk Pete Bulow. Accepting Rabach's petitions is deputy clerk Mrs. Joan Way. Rabach was the first candidate to file for county office.

Township merger may be on ballot

A motion to merge Charlevoix township and city will be made at the June 10 meeting of the Charlevoix Township Board, Oscar Stroud, board trustee, said Monday.

Stroud said he will make the motion, due to information gathered in recent weeks by a citizens committee studying the proposed merger. He said he believes the township board will approve the motion.

All board members except one have indicated to him they feel the merger is the only wise long-range move for the city and township, Stroud said. The other board member (there are five members on the township board) is still hesitant "but I believe we can answer her questions now," Stroud said.

Stroud hopes the merger question can be placed on the November general election ballot.

Charlevoix Township Supervisor Clarence Rabach appeared at a meeting of the citizens committee, headed by Steve LaBlance.

Rabach told the group, merger of the two units of government will make for more efficient operation, planning, services and utilities. He pointed out the need for merger is not immediately pressing, but in other areas where a township has grown rapidly around a city and too long to merge the cost of utilities and services has been greatly increased and has resulted in undesirable lack of coordination in development.

LaBlance estimated the township will grow to a population of 1,000 to 1,500 people in a few years.

LaBlance pointed out the additional five miles township residents will pay in property taxes if they merge with the city board member (there are five members on the township board) is still hesitant "but I believe we can answer her questions now," Stroud said.

Property valuations on the tax rolls will not be changed by merger, Rabach has pointed out. Property in Charlevoix County is assessed for taxes on a standard set by the state (based on 50% of estimated true cash value). This standard is controlled throughout the county by the county equalization department.

Rabach candidate for County Clerk

Charlevoix County will have a new County Clerk next year for the first time in 40 years.

Clarence Rabach, 50, veteran Charlevoix Township supervisor and progressive advocate of stronger local government on the County Board of Supervisors, is filing for election as County Clerk as a Republican.

Fenton R. (Pete) Bulow, 70, County Clerk since 1929, is retiring. So far as is known now, Rabach will be the only candidate for the clerk's post.

County Democratic Chairman Pete Johnson of Boyne City has said he expects to find a complete slate of candidates for county posts, but none have yet been revealed.

County Republican Chairman Oscar Stroud of Charlevoix has said there may be a primary contest for the Republican nomination as clerk candidate. He disclosed no names.

Except for Bulow, all incumbent county officers are expected to seek re-election. They are: Sheriff Philo Sumner, Prosecutor Harvey Varum, Treasurer Ann Potter and Registrar Grover Genett. All are Republicans.

Andy Carey, of Andy's Leonard Service, has made a unique offer to help the Sand Boaters raise money to pay for the new uniforms.

This week Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Carey will donate two-cents to the band for every gallon of gas he sells on south US 31 pumps. Clarence Odmark, band director said, Odmark termed the offer "pretty wonderful."

Teens organize to halt pollution

The city will quit polluting the lake with sewage if a teenage group called TOPIC has its way.

TOPIC stands for Teens Opposing Pollution in Charlevoix. The youth group, which comes from high school science teacher Bruce Morgan's class on earth and space science.

Beth Lyons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Lyons, said the student-initiated form TOPIC after studying pollution and Softball leagues get ready

Organizations and sign-up for the summer softball program will begin next week, according to Brian Daveport, city recreation director.

The Kiwanis Youth League tryouts, for boys 8, 9 and 10 who weren't on teams last year will be held 7 p.m. Wednesday, June 5. Daveport said parents should bring their children to the softball diamond on Carpenter for the tryouts. Boys who were on teams last year will play on the same team this year.

Also Wednesday evening, at 8 p.m., the men's fast ball organizational meeting will be held at City Hall.

Andy's Leonard gives band boost

This week Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Carey will donate two-cents to the band for every gallon of gas he sells on south US 31 pumps. Clarence Odmark, band director said, Odmark termed the offer "pretty wonderful."

Adults are still needed as managers in the three boys leagues. Daveport said, interested persons should call the City Manager's office.

Umpires are also needed before the tentative opening game June 14.

THESE BABY SWANS (cygnets) were the subject of considerable public attention last weekend when they made their debut around the yacht docks. The two proud parents have seven young ones (one was out of sight in this picture). Hopefully, curiosity seekers will not harm them.

Bass Festival promises busy time at Mancelona

By PAT BEGROW

Fish fans, if you fish Mancelona should have plenty of this commodity next week-end when the bass fishermen, family and friends get together in Mancelona for the annual Bass Festival.

This is a four day festival which starts on May 30, with the opening of Sells' Carnival, a carnival-type entertainment, which will be operating during all four days of the Bass Festival.

On May 31, at 7:30 in the evening the Mancelona Lions Club is sponsoring a Kidder's Put Parade similar to what we see in Charlevoix on Venetian Weekend.

But the time for the bass fishermen, the reason for the festival being, is the bass fishing contest on June 1, 1968. On that day the official Bass Weigh-in will take place. From 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. fishermen may bring their catches in for weighing to the Mancelona Sports Equipment. Prizes will be awarded that evening.

The fishermen with the heaviest bass will win $20. The fishermen with the heaviest limit catch will win another $20. The oldest fisherman registering a catch will win $5, as will the youngest fisherman registering.

The Chamber of Commerce makes one last request. Please claim your fish by nine o'clock on Saturday evening. Otherwise the air might get fishy.

Flash, horses, kiddie rides and queens - you can enjoy them all at Mancelona, Michigan during the coming Bass Festival.

If you didn't happen to see "Never Too Late," the play presented by the Little Traverse Civic Theatre last week-end, you missed a good show. Ross Stokes as the father was excellent. He played the part in very much the same way as Paul Ford did in the original production. Stokes has directed 16 shows for this group, so it was fun to see him as an actor again.

This area has gained a real theatrical talent in the person of Todd Pierce who played the role of Charlie, the son-in-law. His drunken pantomime was performed with professional skill. I hope to see Pierce in many future productions. "Never Too Late" should be just the beginning for this fine actor.

If by Sunday night you're exhausted from a four day weekend of gaily and fun you might suggest that the kiddies watch Channel 12 at five o'clock. The 1962 movie, "Lad, a Dog" will be shown at that time.

Such a break may give you time to relax before the next week. Since I have a few energetic children of my own I've circled the time in red crayon on my kitchen calendar. Otherwise, by Sunday night my senses might just be dulled to remember that old wife savior TV.

Indestructible

Pictures and other mementos are treasured, for they serve to remind us of someone we love, some occasion or rich experience. If these mementos be lost or destroyed we do not lose our love nor does the loss erase from our minds the memories.

Discovery of additional religious manuscripts from time to time is of value, both to Hebrew and Christian scholars, for it enables them to make corrections in the Bible, make additions and alterations and correct omissions. While some may become alarmed lest these discoveries disclose something that might weaken or destroy their faith, the scholar knows that the value of the Bible does not depend upon newly found manuscripts.

No manuscript, old or new, can throw discredit upon the authority of religion, of doing justly, loving mercy and walking humbly with God. No translation in any language can black out the Sermon On The Mount or destroy the authority of the two great Commandments, love God with all your heart and your neighbor as yourself. You can help perpetuate this authority in your own mind by regular attendance at the church of your faith.

With the hope that it will, in some measure, foster and help sustain that which is good in family and community life, this feature is sponsored by the business firms and organizations whose names appear in the adjoining columns.

THESE NOT-SO-SURE youngsters have just registered with their parents to enter kindergarten at the elementary school next September. The kindergarten room's fish pond was the focal point of attention, as it has been with decades of Charlevoix toddlers.

CENTER OF ATTENTION during recess at the elementary school recently has been this two-rope jumping test.

THE CHS J-Hop was the top social event of their high school life for many Charlevoix students.

AROUND THE CHAPERONE table at the J-Hop are, starting on left, Mrs. Don Carey, Ray Carr, Mrs. Carr, Mrs. and Mr. Val Avery, Mrs. and Mr. Bruce Morgan and Don Carey.

THE BOARDWALK ALONG the Pine River Building is becoming a popular spot from which to watch the sun set behind the pierheads into Lake Michigan.

THESE CHARLEVOIX lassies must theorize that the sun's rays will do them more good the nearer they are to them. If so, rooftop sunbathing may become more popular. Pioneering the pastime here are, from left, Cindy Alspaugh, Debbie McDowell and Moira Wilson.

IF YOU KEEP PLENTY active it's not too cold to have fun on the Lake Michigan beach.

LEGAL

ORDER OF PUBLICATION General
- File No. 6655
STATE OF MICHIGAN
Probate Court for the County of CHARLEVOIX.
Estate of JOHN LORD KING, Deceased.
It is Ordered that on July 23, 1968, at 10:00 A.M., in the Probate Courtroom in Charlevoix, Michigan a hearing be held at which all creditors of said deceased are required to prove their claims. Creditors failing to appear shall be deemed to have waived their claims with the Court and serve a copy on the National Bank of Detroit, Administrator W.W.A. of the estate of John Lord King in Michigan, c/o Mr. Norman D. Weston, Sr. Vice President and Trust Officer, prior to said hearing.
Publication and service shall be made as provided by Statute and Court Rule.
Dated: May 20, 1968
s/ John Makel
Judge of Probate.

LEGAL

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE
Default having been made in the terms and conditions of a certain mortgage made October 11, 1968, by PAUL L. LAMBERT and EVELYN LAMBERT as mortgagors, to KENNETH A. McLAUGHLIN and MYRLE OLCARY as mortgagees, and recorded October 13, 1968, in the Office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix County, Michigan in Liber 121, pages 781-782, to which mortgage there is unpaid at the date of this notice TEN THOUSAND ($10,000.00) DOLLARS principal and ONE THOUSAND NINETY FOUR ($1,944.00) DOLLARS interest, and no suit or proceeding at law having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, and the power of sale contained in said mortgage having become operative by reason of such default.

Ellsworth track season rewarding

ELLSWORTH--Football coach Dave Patchkowski reports the Lancers success during the track season should pay off when they enter the new 11-man Ski Valley football league this September.

Eighteen Ellsworth High School boys participated in track events. Considerably more than in other recent years, Patch pointed out.

He hopes this revived interest and the experience gained during the track season will carry over into the football season.

At last Saturday's regional meet in Petoskey, the Lancers captured a second and two thirds.

Hud Drenth, a freshman, placed second in the mile with a run of five minutes and seven seconds. Ken Harthorn was third in the two mile and Terry Elzinga finished third in the 880.

In the league meet, John Jurgensen captured a first in the broad jump with a leap of 19 feet 11 inches. Joe Nachazel took fourth and Ron Boss fifth in the long jump.

Lancer pole vaulter Jack Kooyer went 10-feet 6-inches to take second. Hud Drenth was fourth in the league pole vault.

Ellsworth took second in the league 880 relay, with Ron Boss, St Doctor, Jurgensen and Nachazel running the event. Harthorn was again second in the two mile.

Jim Jansen was third and Elzinga was fifth in the 880 at the league meet. Ron Boss finished third in the 100-yard dash, Nachazel placed fourth and Boss fifth in the 220.

Ellsworth's relay team -- Doctor, Elzinga, Drenth and Kooyer--finished fifth in the mile relay and Hud Drenth fourth in the mile run.

City seeks aid for docks

Charlevoix's City Council Monday decided to seek a federal grant which would reduce the local share of harbor improvement costs to ten percent.

Mayor Bill Fochtman pointed out other area communities, including Petoskey and Frankfort, have recently received such grants from the Federal government's Economic Development Administration (EDA).

The requested grant is to help pay for the construction of 10 new slips and breakwater in Round Lake, at an estimated cost of $150,000 and construction of two more boat launching ramps, toilets and parking at Ferry Ave. There was no estimate of the Ferry Ave. improvement costs.

If the federal government approves the grant, it will pay 40% of the cost, the state will pay 50% and the city 10%, Fochtman said.

The mayor said he would not expect approval of the grant early enough for work to begin before the spring of 1969.

The 13 additional yacht slips in Round Lake, from Clinton St. north to the Sun-dew's dock, have been planned since 1964.

The improvements at Ferry Ave. were recommended by the Chamber of Commerce's Project Caho Committee, the Michigan Waterways Commission and Conservation Dept. to handle the expected influx of fishermen with small boats.

The council tentatively approved paying half of the estimated $1,200 cost of planning the Ferry Ave. project. The Waterways Commission would pay the other half.

In other action, the council renewed the Sundew's lease to a major portion of the city's commercial dock plus right to ten car parking places behind the Polly Kay Shop. The Coast Guard will pay $1 for the one-year lease.

A letter was read from Charles Taylor of Little Rock, Ark., and a Bellevue summer resident, proposing minor changes in the city's system of operating the yacht basin.

Taylor said incoming yachtsmen, often find it difficult to determine where they should dock and where certain marine services are available. He also suggested permanent mooring anchorages should be made available by the city for yachts on the north shore of Round Lake, for use when all docks are filled.

Fochtman said he believes the new harbor building will aid the dockmaster in doing a better job of helping yachtsmen.

ELLSWORTH'S JOE Nachazel's shadow can't even keep up with him on the long jump.

Ungraded Studied by Ellsworth

ELLSWORTH -- Ellsworth is considering ungraded classes in the elementary grades next fall.

Two grade school teachers, Mrs. Henry Ruis and Mrs. Ray Wallick, have studied the ungraded system at Essexville-Hampton, where it has been used since 1964.

If the system is adopted at Ellsworth, administrators expect it will even out the classroom load and allow each student to learn at their individual capability.

Rayders third
Five new records were posted last week under ideal conditions in the 18th annual running of the Petoskey Relay, the oldest relay in the state.
With over 400 athletes competing before a record crowd of 1,200 spectators, Petoskey defended its title with 50 points in class B. Alpena Catholic Central became the new class C champ with 51 points, and Pickford dominated the Class D winning every first to total 60 points.
Out of nine schools that completed Charlevoix finished 3rd with 27 points. Charlevoix placed in every event but the 880 relay. The Rayders collected a 2nd, a 3rd, a 4th, and a 5th.

BELLINGER'S JEWELRY

Horde of black bugs will disappear soon

The infestation of mosquito-like black insects which have been pestering Charlevoixians for more than a week are a variety of "midges," according to Myrl Keller, chief of the Great Lakes Fishery Station.

The about half-inch long midges hatch from larva in the bottom of Lake Michigan, much like mayflies, Keller explained. They will die when they lay their eggs in Lake Michigan in the next few days to two weeks, Keller speculated.

The midges, he said, are always around at this time of year, but this spring conditions were just right so that Charlevoix had a larger than normal hatch.

The brick wall, beach equipment and rocks near the Lake Michigan beach have virtually been covered with the midges at times.

CHS Seniors honor Odmark at concert

The 27 seniors in the Charlevoix High School band were honored by director Clarence Odmark at their final public concert last week.

During the concert, which also featured the seventh grade and eighth and ninth grade bands, CHS Senior Class President Janet Pease presented Odmark with a gift of camera accessories to show the seniors' appreciation.

Odmark made a special presentation to Mrs. Robert Lieberman and her daughter Edie. Mrs. Lieberman, the former Dorothy Kohler, is the first of Odmark's former students to have a second generation daughter graduate from the band.

The American Legion presented the band with a new marching flag. Participating in the presentation for the Legion were Bob Nowakowski, commander, and Harry Parrsall and Louis McKenzie.

Odmark announced that Laura Hutchinson and Paul Kroll have been awarded $100 scholarships to Interlochen from the Sand Boosters.

Odmark also presented flowers to his daughter Julie, the last of he and Mrs. Odmark's children to study under him at CHS.

No charges in stabbing

C.B. Foster, 46, was stabbed in the stomach Saturday or Sunday at his rented Hayes Township farm home on Burgess Rd., according to local police. He is reported recovering at Charlevoix Hospital.

Prosecuting Attorney Harvey Varum said no charges have been filed against anyone in the stabbing because it appears to be a family affair and Foster was not interested in filing charges Monday.

The Charlevoix ambulance answered the emergency call Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster are said to have moved to Hayes Township two weeks ago from East Jordan.

Pollution kills swans

The Conservation Dept. has launched a probe of Round Lake pollution which is suspected to have caused the death of seven baby swans.

Samples of Round Lake water and the remains of five of the seven dead two-week old cygnets were taken by the department for laboratory studies.

Members of the Dick Donaldson family and the Paul Olsen family found the dead swans in the lake near their homes. They were reportedly so heavily covered with oil they were slippery to handle, which would weigh them down and force them to drown.

One witness who saw the cygnets foundering shortly before they were found dead said they were so heavy they failed in attempts to seek safety by scrambling up their mother's back.

The seven cygnets showed up in Round Lake with their parents late the week before last. Swan watchers figured the adults brought their young into the harbor from their nest on Lake Charlevoix to seek refuge to Old River from strong east winds.

Police Chief Joe Smith initiated the oil pollution investigation when told the cygnets were dead. He found a large, but by then seemingly thin, oil slick in portions of the harbor.

Smith asked Myrl Keller, chief of the Conservation Dept.'s Great Lakes Fishery Station in the old National Fish Hatchery, to intensify the probe.

Keller obtained water samples, and with the cooperation of the Donaldson family, recovered the bodies of five of the cygnets, which the Donaldsons had buried near the lake shore.

The water and bodies are being analyzed at Conservation Dept. laboratories, Keller said.

County supervisors must file nominating petitions June 18

Unless the legislature or attorney general change the rules again, candidates for the reappointed County Board of Supervisors have until June 18 to file nominating petitions.

Fifteen supervisors from newly created districts will be elected in November. The primary election will be held August 6.

The 18 county board seats are entirely new to county government. The persons elected to them cannot be township supervisors or city supervisors. No member of the county board, according to County Clerk Pete Bulow, will be able to be a township or city supervisor.

This means persons who are now city or township supervisors must resign if they want to serve on the new county board, Bulow said.

The only township board members up for election are the trustees elected to four year terms in 1964, Bulow said. These are Charles Blaha in Charlevoix Township, William Himebaugh in Marion, Henry Moosler in Norwood and Mrs. Robert (Shirley) Tripp in Hayes.

Candidates for township trustee must file their petitions by June 16.

All county elected officers (sheriff, clerk, treasurer, register of deeds, prosecuting attorney) are also on the ballot and must file petitions by June 18. So far, the only candidates to file are Clarence Rabach for clerk and Phil Sumner for re-election as sheriff.

Following are the new county supervisor districts for persons interested in running from them. One supervisor will be elected from each district.

District 1 South Arm Township, District 2 Marion-Norwood-St. James-Peeline townships, District 3 Hayes-Charlevoix, District 4 Bay-Evangeline, District 5 Everette.

Under Chamber leadership, Ellsworth's village businessmen have undertaken an ambitious renewal program. Morford Steel has promised to join in the effort to beautify the downtown area.

School ends June 12 for Charlevoix children.

Students in both the grade school and high school will report for classes half a day on Monday and Tuesday, June 10 and 11.

June 12 high school students report for their report cards and return home. Grade school children will be dismissed June 12 after their traditional picnics.

Charlevoix voters decide on renewal of school tax levy

Charlevoix School District voters decide Monday if they will extend the 6.5-mill voted operating tax levy for three more years. The 6.5-mill levy expired last year.

If the millage is not renewed, the school board will have to trim $234,000 from its tentative 1968-69 budget. The 6.5 mill levy on the district's $26 million taxable property valuation will produce $234,000 in local tax revenue for the school.

Though the 6.5 mills is the same amount voters approved last year, it will raise $17,000 more in local revenue than the same amount did last year. This is due to the district's increased valuation, from $27 million to $28 million.

In addition to the 6.5 mills, the board will levy another 8.2 mills (allocated to it from the statutory 15 mills) for operation, a half mill for library operation and 4.2 mills to pay on the old and new building bonds; for a total of 19.41 mills.

The 19.41 levy is .24 of a mill less than the 19.65 levied last year, when the 1.75-mill building site tax was collected. Last year the board levied 8.5 mills in voted operating tax, 6.5 in allocated, 2.5 for bonds, a half-mill for the library and the 1-mill site levy.

If the 6.5 mill levy is approved Monday, it and the 6.2 mill allocated (12.7 mills) will raise $530,000 for school operations, compared to the $403,000 raised with 14.5 mills in last year's $27 million valuation.

The remaining $23,000 of the $56,000 will go for much needed $7,000 book-keeping machine for office and classroom use, $3,000 for re-roofing the elementary school, $2,000 for increased building operation costs, $3,000 for higher transportation costs, and numerous items of new instructional equipment in the high school.

Milligan also fears the school may lose the approximately $5,000 it has been receiving in federal funds in lieu of taxes for education Air Force children.

This means that by holding the operating millage the same as last year, the district will gain about $50,000 in added operating revenue.

Of this, Milligan said, about $20,000 will be used to hire two additional elementary teachers, an additional junior high teacher, and a women guidance counselor. Another $45,000 will go for teacher salary increases, for an increase of $73,000 for teachers.

The remaining $25,000 of the $56,000 will go for much needed $7,000 book-keeping machine for office and classroom use, $3,000 for re-roofing the elementary school, $2,000 for increased building operation costs, $3,000 for higher transportation costs, and numerous items of new instructional equipment in the high school.

135 to get degrees at CHS, EHS

One-hundred and thirty-five high school seniors will receive degrees at Charlevoix and Ellsworth tonight and tomorrow night.

Charlevoix's 105 graduates get their degrees tonight, Wednesday. Ellsworth awards its degrees to 30 graduates Thursday.

Charlevoix's commencement program will be highlighted by the award of valedictorian and salutatorian honors to two seniors, Dana Ellen Arvill and Denis Erin Arvill, daughters of Mrs. Lyla Arvill. Ellen achieved a perfect all-A scholastic record in high school. Erin missed the perfect mark by one B.

Eleven other CHS graduates will be honored for B or better averages. They are: Kimberly Patton, Thomas J. Wier, Joy Ann Pierce, Janet L. Pease, Constance Curtis, Ellen M. Wimmer, Virginia G. Ochs, Nancy Hoffman, John A. Loucks, Susan L. Dhaeseleer and Thomas J. Mansen.

Receiving top honors at Ellsworth will be Marcia Drenth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter John Drenth, who earned a 3.81 point average during high school.

John Jorgensen, son of Ellsworth school Supt. and Mrs. John Jorgensen, will graduate with valedictorian honors tomorrow evening. He earned a 3.95 point average.

Commencement speaker at Charlevoix will be Austin J. Buchanan, director of admissions at Central Michigan University. School board trustee Burr Blanchard will award diplomas to the graduates.

Others on the commencement program at Charlevoix's high school gym will include Rev. Duane Ing, Rev. William Harmon and Supt. Rex Milligan. The senior band will present the music.

Dr. Mariette L. Cushman, a former Ellsworth principal, who is now dean of the college of education at the University of North Dakota, will deliver the address at the Ellsworth commencement.

Band gets $60 from gas sale

Another $60 was added to the Charlevoix High School band uniform fund last week.

Andy's Leonard Service pumped 3,000 gallons of gas during its special three-day effort to raise money for the band. Andy Carey donated two cents for every gallon to the band.

This means that within less than two weeks the band has received more than $700 in donations. Monday of last week the Charlevoix Lions Club gave the band a check for $852, from money it raised through its Coke Sale.

There is now reported to be less than $3,000 to raise toward the nearly $11,000 uniform.

Marine forecast

Mark this, especially you mariners. Prevailing winds for the next 60 days (through July 25) will be easterly and northeasterly. There will be few, if any, real rain storms. Instead we will have showers.

How come? Who says so?

James Gallagher, manager of the Beaver Island Boat Co., is the prophet. He bases his forecast on decades of weather observation by islanders.

Gallagher says, with absolute confidence, that the winds and conditions that prevail during "Regatta Days" will prevail for the next 60.

Regatta Days (the three days preceding Ascension Day, May 23, on the Catholic Church's calendar) this year were dominated by east and northeast winds and showers, Gallagher points out.

Opposing them are Ray Wallick, Dr.

Ellsworth CC seeks members

ELLSWORTH -- The rejuvenated Ellsworth Chamber of Commerce is launching its 1968 membership drive.

Chamber leaders will be calling on all businesses and homes asking for a membership contribution. Elmer Root, president, said. Business memberships cost $20 and family memberships cost $5.

Under Chamber leadership, Ellsworth's village businessmen have undertaken an ambitious renewal program. Morford Steel has promised to join in the effort to beautify the downtown area.

School's out!

School ends June 12 for Charlevoix children.

Students in both the grade school and high school will report for classes half a day on Monday and Tuesday, June 10 and 11.

June 12 high school students report for their report cards and return home. Grade school children will be dismissed June 12 after their traditional picnics.

County supervisors must file nominating petitions June 18

Unless the legislature or attorney general change the rules again, candidates for the reappointed County Board of Supervisors have until June 18 to file nominating petitions.

Fifteen supervisors from newly created districts will be elected in November. The primary election will be held August 6.

The 18 county board seats are entirely new to county government. The persons elected to them cannot be township supervisors or city supervisors. No member of the county board, according to County Clerk Pete Bulow, will be able to be a township or city supervisor.

This means persons who are now city or township supervisors must resign if they want to serve on the new county board, Bulow said.

The only township board members up for election are the trustees elected to four year terms in 1964, Bulow said. These are Charles Blaha in Charlevoix Township, William Himebaugh in Marion, Henry Moosler in Norwood and Mrs. Robert (Shirley) Tripp in Hayes.

Candidates for township trustee must file their petitions by June 16.

All county elected officers (sheriff, clerk, treasurer, register of deeds, prosecuting attorney) are also on the ballot and must file petitions by June 18. So far, the only candidates to file are Clarence Rabach for clerk and Phil Sumner for re-election as sheriff.

Following are the new county supervisor districts for persons interested in running from them. One supervisor will be elected from each district.

District 1 South Arm Township, District 2 Marion-Norwood-St. James-Peeline townships, District 3 Hayes-Charlevoix, District 4 Bay-Evangeline, District 5 Everette.

Float plane finds refuge in harbor

From Paw Paw to Wawavla Charlevoix.

That's the route three fishermen took in their Stinson amphibious plane last week. Ray Swanson, the pilot and Don Rosa both of Paw Paw, Michigan, and their companion Stan Wrona of Lawton, Michigan landed on Round Lake at about 8:30 last Wednesday night, May 29, when bad weather forced them down.

The men had visited Charlevoix in the past and made the most of their unexpected overnight stay here. Being able to

During the service Mary Carol Nielsen sang her first solo "Climb the Highest Mountain," accompanied on the piano by her sister Sharon. Each graduate was presented with a beautiful white illustrated Bible by Rev. Harmon and with the best wishes for the future from the church.

Memorial Day for 1968 came with the usual rain which made it unpleasant and a disappointment for the guests and tourists, but however the weather the day is still known of the many heroes whose life was sacrificed to fight for our country, so perhaps a rainy day is the way it should be for the occasion.

Many of you readers may have watched a TV show last fall which originated in Flint. "Black Man, White Man" was a documentary on the aftermath of the race riots and during the program interviewers sought to uncover the factors which motivated people to participate in the riots, and then sought to discover if these factors had since been alleviated.

It was as fine a program as any of the national ones which originated at the same time.

I'm hoping that a new series of programs from WRTV (Channel 12 on Cable) to Flint will live up to my expectations. The weekly series starts next Wednesday, June 5, on Channel 12 at 8:30 and the title is "Tell It Like It Is." The program is live, direct and unprejudiced and will cover pressing social and economic problems. "Tell It Like It Is" promises to be a good show.

So far the most popular place to eat shrimp anywhere in northern Michigan is right here in Charlevoix. Unless you're simply passing through this county you'll know the popular place I'm talking about is the Argonne Supper Club located just East of Charlevoix. On Tuesday and Friday nights twelve months of the year the Argonne is crowded with congenial friends of good food.

Whether you like your shrimp fried or steamed you can't beat these for flavor. The Argonne serves them in big heaping platters, as much as you can eat. Along with the shrimp they serve french fries and the most delicious cole slaw.

Don't make the mistake though of thinking that the Argonne's culinary skill is reserved for shrimp. Their steaks and chicken are truly delectable and their little purty rolls a gourmet treat.

After dinner there is live music and dancing to the Wayne Belding Trio.

Grandvue Report

New patients at Grandvue are Mrs. Blanche Taylor transferred from Charlevoix Hospital and Mr. George Bergman, Lockwood, Mich. Donald, on May 24th. We are sorry to report the death of Mr. Leo Barnard, formerly a resident of East Jordan and a patient at the facility since June 30, 1960. Our sympathies go to Mrs. Norma Thorsen of East Jordan, Mr. Barnard's daughter, who survives him. Mr. Smith Baker of Boyne City expired June 2, 1968.

Mrs. Virginia Des Jardins was the honoree at a retirement party, held at the Tavern on May 28th. Twenty-five co-workers and friends were present to wish her well and Virginia was presented with several gifts. A good time was had by all and we are sorry to see Virginia leave.

Also on Tuesday, May 28th, we were pleasantly entertained by several members of the East Jordan Band, who came in the afternoon and played several pieces for the patients. They surely enjoyed the band music and we appreciate the time Mr. Unliger took to bring this music to us.

On May 20th the Evangelical Lutheran Church of East Jordan gave a birthday party for these patients celebrating birthdays in May. Each patient received a nice gift and all of them enjoyed the party.

Recent vacations were enjoyed by Maryanna Doremy and Elva Kern. Elva is taking a five day trip to the wjy city of Chicago—her first visit there.

On Memorial Day, Betty Taylor of Charlevoix spent the day visiting her mother, Mrs. Blanche Taylor, who is a patient here. Visiting Peter Johnston on May 24th was his nephew, Mr. Delbert Belfy of Detroit.

After a week of rainy weather, we were all glad to see the sun again on the 31st. It was such a beautiful morning. The weather was just what we needed for a long ride. Those enjoying their outing were George Ferris, Lucille Frost, Loren Alcott, Elizabeth Sells, Ida Bouchard, Clarissa Knapp, Peter Johnston, William Flick and Edward Robinson. Several others spent a good part of the day outside enjoying the sun and warm weather.

We would like to congratulate

THIS LUEDTKE ENGINEERING Co. barge started working in the Pine River channel last week. The firm has $545,463 contract to replace the concrete abutments with sheet piling this summer.

Lake trout outdo bass

Lake Charlevoix's bass fishing was slow to poor during the first weekend, according to Conservation Officer Frank Dufon.

Lake trout catches were reported good in portions of the South Arm, in Horton Bay and near the mouth of the Boyne River.

Dufon said fishermen appeared to be catching more lake trout than smallmouth bass. Lake trout catches were reported good in portions of the South Arm, in Horton Bay and near the mouth of the Boyne River.

Several of the staff have enjoyed the white mussels which have been plentiful lately. Several giant ones have been brought in to the facility, which makes those not so lucky in finding them envious. Albert Omland found a good crop one evening and took pity on the "less fortunate", bringing them at least a sample.

Don't forget to visit your friends and relatives who make their home at Grandvue. They enjoy visits so much and with nice weather approaching, those who are able would also enjoy getting out for an hour or two.

Barnard Rd. surface to cost $60,000

Barnard Rd. from US31 to Paddock Rd. will be resurfaced this summer and fall, according to County Road Commission Supl. Jack Fitzgerald.

Portions of the 2.7-mile stretch to be resurfaced have been pocked with chuckholes annually for several years. Fitzgerald said the resurfacing should eliminate the problem.

Work is to be completed by Nov. 15.

Also to be resurfaced this summer is the loop of Old 31 near the Bull's Bay Rd. Charlevoix Township will pay half of the estimated $7,000 cost of the job, with the county paying the other half.

Road Commission resists mounting complaints

There appears to be an abnormal amount of discontent this spring over the condition of Charlevoix County's roads.

At least one township, Melrose (Walloon Lake) has lodged a formal protest. County Road Commission Chairman Ivan Phillips got into a lengthy and sometimes heated exchange with supervisors at the April session of the County Board of Supervisors.

Beaver Island contractor and businessman Walt Wojan contends maintenance of island roads is so poor he hates to drive his machinery over them.

Unlike last spring, when the sudden thaw literally destroyed sections of some rural roads, this has been an extremely easy spring for roads.

The Road Commission, however, does not deny it is losing ground on maintenance (upkeep).

Commission Supt. Jack Fitzgerald puts it this way: Pouring tax money into road maintenance is a bottomless bucket because even with the best maintenance a road gradually deteriorates.

Rather than make the county's road system "maintenance poor," Fitzgerald said the Commission has decided to skimp on upkeep so there will be money enough for road improvements. This means spending money to widen, ditch and resurface roads (usually with blacktop).

Though it knows it is going to hear complaints about poor road upkeep, the Commission, Fitzgerald explained, reasons that in the long haul it will create a better road system which will require less maintenance.

He also points out, as Phillips consistently has, that when the Commission does improve a road it is doing a better job than was done in the past. This means fewer miles of road improvement, but roads that are expected to stand up longer.

Until a few years ago, Phillips has charged, the Commission spent nearly all of its money on maintenance and what he considers second-rate improvement work. This, he contends, resulted in county roads that require constant maintenance.

A look at Road Commission figures shows as much, or more, is being spent on maintenance now as in the past. In 1962 the Commission spent $127,000 on maintenance. This year it has $140,000 budgeted. The maintenance spending figures for other years, from 1963 to 1967, are $151,000, $139,000, $121,000, $145,000 and $153,000.

However, even though the amount of money being spent on maintenance is at least holding its own, it is being considerably less Fitzgerald points out.

The Road Commission has been unimpressed, Fitzgerald reports the hourly rate for workmen has increased 60-cents an hour and the men are now working a 40-hour week, instead of the former 45-hour week, resulting in considerably more overtime pay.

In addition to the cost of labor, materials and equipment also cost considerably more now.

The Commission's overall budget is up $147,000 since 1963—$260,000 this year compared to $113,000 in 1963. This has helped offset rising costs, but most of the increase is going into improvement work instead of maintenance.

The Commission figures it is making headway in its effort to build a better road system. For instance, more than 60 miles of local (township) roads have been hard-surfaced along with primary (county) roads.

Much of the local road work, however, has been made possible because townships, such as Hayes, have been paying the full cost, instead of the traditional 50% county and 50% township split.

Some supervisors have complained that the Commission is using what they label "tarpaper blacktop" to hard surface township roads.

Fitzgerald admits the blacktop being used is thin, but defends it on the grounds that a thicker layer would be prohibitively expensive.

The big question is whether the Commission can resist the political pressure to pour more money into maintenance long enough to prove its contention that the money will be better spent on building a quality road system.

A WORKER IN MORE WAYS THAN ONE

"I can do all things through Him who strengthens me." Philipians 4:13.

Men are beginning to discover that positive statements from the Bible such as the above quotation are a source of undreamed-of power when contemplated upon in their work-a-day life. Repeated daily to themselves these statements bring a positive outlook to life and a faith that cannot be shaken, proving to have a wealth of hidden power that enables man to attain worthwhile goals.

The Church as an institution established for the glorification of the individual can aid everyone to tap this source of faith and strength. Regular attendance at church with its guidance in Bible study can gain for each this new outlook on life, this faith that is yours for the cultivating and can change your life until you "can do all things."

Classes will be offered in remedial reading, math, nature study, art and personal typing. Classes start July 1 and continue four weeks, from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. daily.

U.P. ski resort manager opens bid for congress

The first round of what promises to be a wide open contest for northern Michigan's congressional seat was opened this week with Jack B. English's announcement that he will be a Democratic candidate.

English, president and manager of Indianhead Mt. ski resort at Wakefield in the western U.P., is expected to have competition in the Aug. 18 primary.

The winner of the Democratic primary will face Phil Ruppe, a freshman Republican from Toughton, who upset incumbent Democrat Ray Clevenger in Ruppe's smashing 1966 victory.

He was born in Valparaiso, Ind., in 1921, and received his elementary education there and in Evanston, Ill. He attended high school at River-side Military Academy, Gainesville, Ga., where he lettered in football, basketball and golf, and was graduated with honors.

English then attended the University of Illinois and Northwestern University, as well as undertaking dramatics study at the Goodman Theater in Chicago. While at Illinois, he played basketball and golf.

In 1941, English enlisted in the Air Force and rose to the rank of first lieutenant before being discharged four years later. He was awarded the Air Medal for his service in battle in the Pacific.

Beginning as a timekeeper with a Chicago building firm in 1945, English became a construction superintendent within two years. He then started his own firm, English Construction Co., which he operated out of Toughton, Ill., for 12 years. While residing in that Chicago suburb, English was a member of the Barrington Planning Commission and was elected president of the Park Board, in that position, he undertook a million-dollar development program of the city park.

Since 1959, English has operated the Indianhead Mountain Ski Area, beginning with a few rope tows and a converted barn as a lodge. English has supervised the growth of that complex into a major industry in the Upper Peninsula. The area now skis more than 60,000 persons annually, has deluxe lodging and dining facilities for 240 and provides employment for more than 150 residents of the area.

A member of the Church of the Transfiguration in Ironwood, English is married and the father of five children. He resides on Indianhead Mountain Road, Wakefield.

School buys 'transit' bus for long trips to games in new league

The Charlevoix school board Monday night approved purchasing a $19,000 transit or "Greyhound-type" bus for use by athletic teams in traveling to away games and for general school bus use.

The new bus, Supt. Rex Milligan explained, will cost far less than it appears because the state will pay reimbursement for it for 12 years instead of the seven years it pays on less expensive school buses. He estimated it will cost $416 a year more than a regular school bus.

The board has been considering purchase of the transit bus since it joined the Huron State League, which makes it necessary for the teams to travel to Traverse City, Alpena, Charlevoix, and St. Ignace.

When the league change was made, Coach Don Caray asked the board to consider buying a bus that will be least tried for players.

Milligan also announced the school will eliminate all of the North Central accrediting association's critical observations next September.

North Central, Milligan said, found the school short of meeting its standards.

Mayor denies earlier statements on building

Mayor Bill Fochtman called the City Council out of a closed pre-session conference Monday night to deny two developments which occurred at the May 27 council meeting.

Fochtman said the council did not refuse to pay the final payment of nearly $7,000 on the harbor toilet and shower building because numerous minor items were not completed.

He said the reason the city is withholding payment is because it does not have a waiver of lien from the contractor, he then asked if this is the way other councilmen understood the discussion at the last council meeting. Several councilmen indicated agreement.

Later in the meeting City Supt. Jim Taylor reported the building is useable, but that several things, like a light fixture, drain and paint remain to be finished. He recommended that the city move into the building now and "pay them when they get it done."

Fochtman hastily added that the final payment should not be made until the waiver of lien is received and "other details" are finished.

State tests confirm oil cause of swan deaths in lake

The Conservation Dept.'s top pathologist, Dr. L.D. Fay has officially confirmed that the baby swans who died in Round Lake three weeks ago were killed by oil pollution.

Bodies of six of the seven cygnets were sent to Dr. Fay, who is pathologist in charge of the department's Rose Lake Wildlife Research Center. His official report to Myrl Keller, chief of the Great Lakes Fishery Station here, reads:

"The cygnets were near the same size, apparently only a few days old and were reared at our laboratory in good state of preservation. The young birds were evidence of infectious disease that the cygnets died from effects of oil."

"It is my conclusion from the amount of oil on the bodies, and the absence of evidence of infectious disease that the cygnets died from effects of oil."

No person will be allowed to serve as both a city supervisor and county supervisor, Bulow said.

This means that Charlevoix's three current supervisors -- Kil Carson, Ken Staley and Lee McMillan -- must resign their positions as city supervisors.

Confusion is also being caused in the city of Charlevoix because the new county supervisor districts have different boundaries than the city's three wards.

The city is divided into three county supervisor wards, but they are numbered 1, 4 and 5, instead of one, two and three.

District 13 is the city's first ward (everything north of Pine River) plus that area south of Pine River which is north of the center of Clinton St.

District 14 is the city's second ward minus the area from the north side of Clinton St. to the channel but with the addition of the east side of State St. The city's third ward is west of the center of Clinton St.

COUNTY EXTENSION agent Ed Rebmam gives a final turn to this sucking pig which he barbecued for Charlevoix fifth graders last week in the grade school playground as, from left, David Martinechek, Mary Nielson and teacher Mrs. Elizabeth Potter hope for a sample. The pig was served, with appropriate trimmings, to fifth graders in the school gym as part of their luau. The kids were studying Hawaii in class and decided to learn by doing. Joe Martinechek donated the pig.

HELPING CARVE the roast pig for the fifth grade's luau last week were school board trustee Burr Blanchard, standing left, and Supt. Rex Milligan, right.

Supervisor petition deadline set July 2

The Legislature last week changed the rules, again, for this summer's primary election of new county supervisors. To further contest the matter, all township officials were also asked to file nominating petitions.

The Legislature extended to July 2 the deadline for candidates for the newly created county board of supervisors' districts to file their nominating petitions. The deadline had been June 18.

County Clerk Pete Bulow repeated his earlier reminder that all persons who wish to be candidates for the new county board must file nominating petitions for the Aug. 6 primary election. This, he again, explained, includes persons who are now city supervisors.

Below also report a state official are not sure whether township officials will be on the ballot this year. Originally it was through they would not be.

As a precaution, Bulow is warning all persons who want to be candidates for township offices (including incumbents) to file nominating petitions with the township clerk, if they are not required to be on the ballots with their township officials.

Confusion is also being caused in the city of Charlevoix because the new county supervisor districts have different boundaries than the city's three wards.

The city is divided into three county supervisor wards, but they are numbered 1, 4 and 5, instead of one, two and three.

District 13 is the city's first ward (everything north of Pine River) plus that area south of Pine River which is north of the center of Clinton St.

District 14 is the city's second ward minus the area from the north side of Clinton St. to the channel but with the addition of the east side of State St. The city's third ward is west of the center of Clinton St.

Voters ok local 6.5 school tax, reject area tax

Charlevoix voters Monday approved renewal of 6.5 mills for school operation for the next three years and defeated a proposed 1.5-mill tax for vocational education.

Voters throughout the Intermediate School District turned down the vocational education levy, which would have paid for development and operation of tuition-free occupational training programs for all area high school students.

In Charlevoix the vote on vocational education was 300 no to 180 yes. In Ellsworth the vocational vote was 225 no to 81 yes.

Charlevoixians voted 251 to 168 in favor of renewing the 6.5 mill school operating tax levy, which school board members had called as "barely enough" to meet the 1966-69 budget.

There was no local school tax proposition on the Ellsworth ballot.

The two Charlevoix school board candidates were unopposed. Incumbent Burr Blanchard received 460 votes and Jerry Redeker received 488.

In Ellsworth's six-way race for three seats on the school board, elected were Robert Vollmer, Bernie Ross and Dr. J. VanDellian. Defeated were incumbent Ray Wallie, Leonard Strang and Doug Way.

Dr. Vandellian received 200 votes and Ross received 132 to defeat Strang with 115 and Way with 116 for the two-year terms. Vollmer got 144 votes to Wallie's 123 for the one-year term.

Renewal of the 6.5-mill Charlevoix levy will give the school district approximately $90,000 more operating revenue than it had last year. This will be used to hire additional teachers, raise teacher salaries and purchase equipment to improve the program, Supt. Rex Milligan said.

The overall Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District unofficial vote on the vocational education levy was 296 no to 990 yes. No local school district in the intermediate district approved the levy.

Had the levy been approved, local school districts would have been at least partially reimbursed for operating vocational and cooperative education programs. Students going to the Petoskey Area Vocational Center would have attended tuition-free, and their transportation would have been paid. A second area vocational center would have been developed near East Jordan.

Around the state Monday voters approved area vocational education plans such as the one here. With about a dozen counties voting on similar propositions, the only others that rejected it were Marquette and Alger, according to Zane Stein, Intermediate District vocational education director.

Township tables bid to vote on city plan

A motion that Charlevoix Township ask to merge with the city was tabled at Monday night's township board meeting.

The motion, made by township Trustee Oscar Stroud, would set the stage for putting the merger question on the November general election ballot.

Other township board members, while not speaking against the proposed merger, said they prefer to wait for more information before asking the city council's approval of the merger.

City auditor Darrell Dowd is compiling figures to show what the merger would mean. Estimates are also being prepared on how soon the city could provide water service to more congested areas of the township and how much it would cost.

At the township board meeting, Clayton Smith presented a petition signed by 25 residents of the south side of the township opposing merger.

Smith told the board the south side is still a "rural" area and would not benefit from city services and government, which, he agreed, the more congested north side appears to need. He suggested the south side become a part of Marion or Norwood townships if the merger goes through.
